THE MAN ON THE CORNER

Some of the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not

Fig forty years [illegible] Nat,
[illegible] were [illegible]
[illegible] merry boys
[illegible]
[illegible]

Two old friends met again last Saturday after a separation of forty years. Away back half a century ago, they were boys together in Montgomery county, then they were comrades in the same company of the 33d Alabama regiment, fighting side by side, shoulder to shoulder throughout the war between the States. From that time until last Saturday they had never met, although for years both have been living in Chilton county, Nat Watts at Clanton, and A. M. Hodgens at the mouth of Chestnut Creek in the eastern part of the county. A hearty greeting passed between them, a few reminiscenses indulged in, and each went to his respective home, with a promise to meet again shortly. Forty years is a long gap in a lifetime.

After a brief visit to his family at Clanton, Judge Adams returned to his new place in Florida—can hardly say to his new home, as Mrs. Adams will remain here for some time to come at least. Judge Adams has been such a conspicuous figure in Alabama for many years that, while we hope he will prosper in Florida, we regret his removal from this State. He has sold his warehouse property to J. B. Downs, but has kept possession of his residence and still retains his citizenship here; and it maybe after a time that he will return to his native heath, where a cordial welcome coming always awaits him.

Last Saturday morning ten big strapping fellows came marching into The Banner office, and as they filed through the door I couldn't help wondering:

"O come ye in peace here
Or come ye in war."

But as each wore a smiling countenance as well as a nice suit of clothes there was nothing to be alarmed at. They had come on a peaceful mission, taking in the sights of the town and the street fair, and it was a pleasure to have Jeb Williams, of Lily, and his nine handsome sons (there was a nephew along, also, making eleven in all of the finest specimens of Alabama yeomanry) paying us a visit. Bro. Williams might well sing:

"For I am the father of a family,
Two sweet girls and nine fine boys,
[illegible] John, Sam, Tom,
And all the rest that come along,
Shout hurrah for matrimonial joys."

The stockholders of the Peoples Savings Bank held their annual meeting on the 3d inst. We learn that they elected the same officers and directors and declared a dividend of 10 per cent, besides carrying a handsome amount of the year's earnings to the surplus account. This is one of the best and most prosperous banks in the State. Mr. Will Callen says that according to the statements of the State banks made to the State Treasurer at the last call under the Banking law the Peoples Savings Bank of Clanton made about the best report. This is a good bank and has strong financial connections in Birmingham, Montgomery and New York. The estimated worth of this bank's stockholders is $972,-[illegible].00, just a few dollars short of a million.

The street fair did not have a prosperous time last week, though there was a big crowd in on Saturday. The Christmas days were over, and everyone spent all their spare cash.

Jemison, Jan. 2, 1905

Editor Banner—I come again asking space in your valuable paper to say a few words about the people coming together and organizing. Every person in this country is dependent on the farmer for a living, whatever his or her profession may be. Therefore if the farmer is compelled to sell his products for less than cost of production he is farming at a loss and all parties concerned are hurt. So you see that injury to one is the concern of all. So let's everyone that can come out the 10th inst. and organize and pass resolutions to decrease the acreage of cotton one-third and increase our food crops one-third, and all that have got ten to twenty bales just keep it, it will cost less to keep it than it will to buy guano and make more. If you think this worth its space alright, if not alright. Thanking you for past favors and with success to the Banner and happy New Year to Editor.

Respectfully,
J. W. SORRELL.

Shoults.

The people of this community are still moving and will continue for some time.

We are sorry to say that one of our scholars has quit school.

Mrs Ed Smitherman and Master Joe of Clanton have been visiting the family of Mr. J. J. Hicks.

Mr. Howard Walker of Pickens county is visiting Mr. S. L Johnson.

Messrs. John Hicks and George Woolley, who have been attending the M. M. I at Marion, are visiting their parents here.

Mr. Croff. Shoults, who has been attending the medical college at Birmingham, is visiting his father, Mr. J. H. Shoults.

Miss Mattie Hicks of Birmingham is visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hicks.

Miss Una Woolley of Montevallo is visiting Mr. J. J. C. Woolley.

Two drunken bullies from Maplesville ran over Nora Wallace, one of our school girls, last Thursday at noon play time; the horse and buggy all passed over the child. Why she was not killed is a wonder to us. She sustained considerable bruises. The men were running their horse and whipping him most unmercifully. Several other children just had time to clear the way.

ALPHONZ ETHIER AS BEN HUR.

Klaw & Erlanger's massive and magnificent spectacle, "Ben Hur" is again to be staged in Birmingham, but this time only for three nights January 16–17 and 18 with a special matinee on Wednesday.

The stage settings provided by Klaw & Erlanger in this impressive dramantic classic have never been equaled in this country. The pictures of "The Star of Bethlehem," "The City of Jerusalem" from the terrace garden of the palace of Hur in Judea. "The interior of a Roman Galley," "The Grove of Daphne," "The Fountain of Castilia," "The Chariot Race," "The Vale of Hinnon" and The Mount of Olives" are remarkable exhibits of the best scenic art. To these are added some wonderful effects in lighting, as in "The star of Bethlehem," and in stage mechanics, as shown in the thrilling chariot race. The contrivances that go to make up the chariot race cost more than $15,000. Eight horses run in full view of the audience.

The great scene which closes the play is the healing of the lepers on Mount Olivet. Here hundreds of people are aranged in attractive groups, the whole forming one of the most beautiful pictures ever put upon the stage. The personality of the Nazarene is not shown in the play, but in this scene the nearness of His presence is indicated with the most intense impressiveness by a shaft of the purest white light. The dramatization is carefully constructed so as to remove it from the domain of the so called Passion plays, and while the Saviour is only referred to, yet his tremendous dominating power is felt with thrilling effect.

The advance sale of seats for the "Ben Hur" engagement will open in Birmingham on Thursday Jan. 12th, when mail orders for seats for any of the performances will be promptly filled in the order of their receipt, if accompanied with remittance and self addressed stamped envelope for reply. Address all communications to R. S. Douglass, Manager Jefferson Theatre, Birmingham, Ala.

Good Roads Committee.

President W. H. Moore, of the National Good Roads Association, has completed arrangements with the board of trade, railroads and all other business interests at Jacksonville, Fla., to hold the National Good Roads convention at that point January 19, 20 and 21 next.

"It promises to be a great industrial meeting," said President Moore, "as some of the noted statesmen of this and other countries will be invited and are expected to attend, among them President Roosevelt, President Palma, of Cuba; the governor of Panama; Governor-elect Joseph W. Folk, of Missouri; Governor Beckham, of Kentucky, and others."

Home for Embassy.

Paris.—A project is afloat among the American residents here to subscribe a considerable sum to purchase the handsome residence of the Duchess of Gramont on the Avenue Hoche and present it to the United States government for the use of the American embassy.

It is understood that the projectors broached the matter to Washington, where it was favorably considered.

The duchess is one of the Rothschilds, and her residence is among the handsomest in Paris. It was occupied by Whitelaw Reid while he was minister to France.

Farmers Burn Cotton.

Macon, Ga.—A special from Fort Gaines, Ga., says that the farmers and merchants of Clay county met in Fort Gaines and decided to burn their share of two million bales of surplus cotton.

A starter was made when a bon fire was made of cotton in the streets of Fort Gaines. It is not yet determined where it will stop. They have decided to set the pace and are moving determinedly. A large crowd paraded with much spectacular ceremony. The object is to show that the farmers are ready to sacrifice a few bales to raise prices.

Plans Sold to Japs.

St. Petersburg—The Russ, in the course of a sensational article attacking the policy of building Russian ships abroad and the marine administration generally, refers as an example to the case of the American built Russian cruiser Variag, the plans of which, the paper says, when the Japanese wanted to raise her, the Cramps Shipbuilding Company sold to Japan for $3,000.

The Russ also rakes up the old report that Vice Admiral Messer made in 1898, in which he severely condemned the battleship Petropavlovsk, the protected cruiser Pallada, the battleship Sevastopol and several other ships now either with Admiral Rojestvensky or in the Baltic, which were built under Admiral Verkhovsky, Grand Duke Alexis' chief aide, arguing therefrom the necessity for adequate Russian yards under competent and honest administration.

To Dine With President.

Montgomery, Ala.—It is reported in Montgomery, and pretty well established as a fact, that Hon. Thomas G. Jones, judge of the United States Court, will be one of a party to dine and spend the evening with President Roosevelt next week.

The truth seems to be that this little dinner party, of which Judge Jones is to be a part, will be composed of some of the leading men of the nation, close personal friends of the president, whose advice he values and often seeks.

It is not known what will be discussed, but the impression seems to be that the president desires to post himself on all the interests of the country, and has called his special friends from the corners of the nation to advise.

$75,000 Fire.

Birmingham, Ala.—Six buildings on Twentieth street between Second and Third avenues were damaged, and property valued at $75,000, including real estate and stock, were destroyed by fire that broke out in the Reliance restaurant at No. 213 Twentieth street.

Boston's Tunnel.

Boston, Mass.—The submarine tunnel connecting Boston and East Boston was opened for public travel this morning. The dedication of the tunnel to public use was carried out without formality.

The tunnel is double tracked, 1.4 miles long, 2,700 feet of which is under the harbor waters. The cost of construction was $3,000,000. The tunnel was built by the city of Boston, which has leased it for a term of twenty-five years, dating from 1897, to the Boston Elevated Railway Company, which will use the [illegible] of exclu[illegible] electric [illegible] Boston [illegible]

$364,000,000 A YEAR

Russian Military Expense is $22,500,000 Per Month—Next Year It Will be Greater.

FINANCES ARE SATISFACTORY.

Examination Shows Comparative Finances of Russia and Japan to Be in Favor of Russia.

Paris.—In connection with the approaching Russian war loan in Paris and Berlin, the following interesting statement of the Russian war financier was furnished to the Associated Press from the highest Russian sources:

"The expenses of the war up to November 20 amounted to $238,000,000, of which $161,500,000 was for the army, $41,000,000 for the navy and $35,000,500 for various military requirements, making $22,500,000 per month. The outstanding credits up to the same time were $126,000,000, of which $83,000,000 was for the army, $31,000,000 for the navy, and $12,000,000 for miscellaneous expenses. That makes the total war expenditure for the year $364,000,000."

The statement then shows that the treasury possesses $149,000,000, and is a stock of gold amounting to $620,000,000 to secure the note circulation. The statement adds:

"A special investigation of Russia's war finances by such students of finance as M. Leroy Beaulieu, a member of the institute; M. George Levy, professor at the school of political science, and others equally eminent, has shown altogether favorable results. Similar results were reached by Prof. Helfferich, of the University of Berlin, who made the best comparative study of the finances of Russia and Japan, and whose conclusions are to the advantage of Russia."

Japs Capture Mountain.

Tokio.—After months of fighting, sapping and mining the Japanese forces finally occupied Rihlung mountain last night (December 28). A report received for headquarters of the Third Japanese army before Port Arthur received here on Wednesday, December 28, at midnight, says:

"On Wednesday, December 28, at 10 o'clock in the morning, the left center column of our army, following some heavy explosions on the frontal parapet of Rihlung mountain, charged and occupied the parapet under cover of fire from heavy guns, and constructed defense works despite the enemy's fierce fire.

"At 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when our occupation was practically assured, we charged and occupied the inner lines of heavy gun positions, subsequently dislodging a remnant of the enemy's force stubbornly holding the George fort, which we occupied, and captured the entire works."

Very Solicitous.

Thomas H. Clark, superintendent of the law library of congress, who is in the city, says that there can be no doubt but President Roosevelt desires to do everything possible to se that to do everything possible to see that the south receives fair treatment at

He has been seeking the advice of southern gentlemen, and has expressed his earnest interest in every man in this section. The same thing was said a few days ago by another prominent Alabamian, who has been much in Washington lately. This gentleman said he had some business with the president, which he disposed of and was going out.

He was asked by Mr. Roosevelt to remain for a moment. As he sat down the president went over the whole southern situation. He pointed out that he had not appointed negroes to office in the same number as McKinley, and that he had only retained in office the men put in by the martyred president. He discussed the situation all through, and said he was very anxious that the south should have just and fair treatment in every particular.

Plate Glass Company Comes South.

Birmingham, Ala.—Southern headquarters of the Pittsburg Plate Glass Company, a company with a capital stock of $1,000,000, are to be established here at an early date

W. C. Weston, the local architect, is now drawing the plans and preparing the specifications for the new ware house which is to be erected by the company in Birmingham. The ware house will be located on Twenty-ninth street and Second avenue, a long lease having been secured on the site for the ware house.

The trade of the gulf states will be supplied from the ware house in Birmingham. A number of men will be employed here by the company.

Light Cotton Picking.

Jackson, Miss.—Reports received from several parts of the state are to the effect that cotton picking operations are being greatly retarded by the advent of cold weather. Since the thermometer dropped below the freezing point many negroes refuse to go to the fields, and are toasting themselves in front of warm fires in their cabins.

There has been but little cotton picking in the state for the past ten days. In many counties heavy rains have caused a suspension of work, while the Christmas holidays have formed the usual interruption. A conservative estimate places the amount of cotton remaining unpicked in this state as 300,000 bales, and it is possible that the amount may be even larger, as the crop has yielded far in excess of expectations. It is a certainty that a large amount of the staple yet in the fields will be destroyed by bad weather.

Plans Fire Improvement.

Washington—Secretary Taft has directed the chief of engineers and the chief signal officer of the army to prepare an estimate of the cost of equipping the important harbor defenses with fire control, with a view to an endeavor to have the army appropriations so adjusted that sufficient funds will be available for equipping as many of the forts as may be done in one year.

Rear Admiral Manney, chief of the naval bureau of equipment, has completed plans for the establishment of a line of wireless telegraph stations extending from Cape Elizabeth, near Portland, Me., to Galveston, Tex., many of the stations having a range of 250 miles. The new stations will include one at the mouth of Delaware bay, Diamond Shoal lightship off Cape Hatteras, Beaufort, N. C., navy yard, Charleston, S. C., Pensacola and Galveston.

The bureau of equipment will advertise for bids for the construction of these stations.

Coal Company Organized.

Jasper—Attorney Zack P. Shepherd has filed with Probate Judge James W. Shepherd articles of incorporation for the Wolf Creek Coal Company, with a capital stock of $250,000, and the R. L. Little Drug Company, with a capital stock of $25,000.

The officers of the new coal compan yare R. L. Little, president; Zack P. Shepherd, vice president, and W. C. Palmer, secretary and treasurer. The charter of the company provides for the usual mining operations, and in addition the company will buy and sell mineral lands. The new company owns large tracts of mineral lands near Corona and Carbon Hill, and a tract of ore land in Lamar county. It is intended to begin the development of these lands within a short while. The principal place of business of the company will be at Jasper.

Montgomery Mule Sale.

"Basing our estimates on sales to date other stock dealers here agree with me in estimating that there will be from 13,000 to 15,000 mules sold in Montgomery this season, which ends May 1st." This statement was made by J. W. Chastain, one of the largest dealers in mules in this section of the state. Continuing, Mr. Chastain said: "The average sales of horses and mules (95 per cent mules) by our firm since the opening of the season on October 1st has been 100 per week, equivalent to $20,000 per week. These mules brought from $135 to $175." He says that during the months of January and February his sales will increase to 200 per week.

Will Hold Crop Till Spring.

Raleigh, N. C.—A mass meeting of cotton planters and factors and merchants who furnish supplies to planters was held here at which they pledged themselves to reduce the acreage and also the amount of commercial fertilizers at least 25 per cent Merchants signed a pledge not to furnish supplies to any planter who declined to sign this pledge. It was agreed not to market the crop until the spring and the government report of the acreage of the next crop is issued. Such meetings were held in scores of other townships in the state.

Enlisting Chinese.

Mukden.—Irrefutable evidence has been obtained at headquarters that the Japanese are not only hiring Chinese bandits to operate on the Russian flanks, but that they are enlisting Chinese under Japanese officers.

The Japanese are adopting cunning expedients to defeat the surprise attacks of the Russian scouts, from which they have suffered much. They cover the steep approaches of their trenches with water, which freezes, forms ice slides and makes the scouts slip and fall in confusion. In other places the Japanese scatter millet stalks over the approaches, the crackling of which gives them warning of the presence of Russian scouts.

BONFIRE OF COTTON.

The National Association Have New Plan for Reduction of Acreage.

BURNING MAY INJURE CREDIT.

Planters and Merchants of Alabama Towns Also Burn Cotton to Destroy Portion of Crop to Advance the Price.

Ocilla, Ga.—Great excitement was caused here this afternoon by the burning of cotton by citizens. As the flames leaped up, the great crowd of farmers and town people surged around the bonfire, cheering and yelling.

One farmer shouted:

"If we can't sell it, we can burn it!" which called forth loud cheering.

Cotton Burned in Alabama.

Hatchechubbee, Ala.—Today several prominent men declared they would burn their share of 2,000,000 bales of cotton. Bonfires accordingly were built in the streets and the cotton sacrificed. Prominent men of this vicinity flocked to town and declared their willingness to join in the sacrifice.

Burning May Injure Credit.

Montgomery, Ala.—The bad effects of the foolishness of burning cotton to reduce the supply is said to have grown up in the disposition of New York bankers to cast discredit upon the south, and its business acumen. W. E. Holloway, leading banker of the state, and one who controls a great many institutions of the kind, has a little from one of his New York connections to the effect that the burning of the cotton in Georgia has created a very bad impression in the financial circles of the metropolis, and would, he feared, have a tendency to injure the credit of the south. It has been shown to this financier that the practice of thus destroying cotton will not be at all general, and that so far as he can gather the people of Alabama regard it as a ridiculous proposition.

Dallas, Tex.—At a meeting of the executive committee of the National Association of Cotton Growers and the National Farmers' Union, with representatives from the Texas farmers' Congress and the Texas cotton convention, a plan of preventing a recurrence of the recent cotton slump was adopted. All producers of cotton in the United States will be requested to pledge themselves to reduce their acreage of cotton for 1905 25 per cent. below the amount they planted in 1904. District and precinct meetings for the purpose of getting the promises of all the farmers will be held in every voting precinct in the cotton-growing counties, and an organization is to be formed for the reduction of the cotton acreage.

After agreeing upon this action those participating in the meeting adopted a resolution urging all farmers who are in a position to do so to hold their cotton until after January 24, when it is believed the price will be advanced.

The policy of further advising the farmers to hold what cotton they have on hand was a matter which the delegates seemed to handle with trepidation.

On the theory, however, that the organization provided for would be strong enough to convice the market manipulators that the cotton acreage would be materially reduced in 1905, and result in a consequent advance in the surplus of the last season, the following resolution was adopted:

"Whereas, We believed that the interstate meeting of the National Cotton Association to be held in New Orleans January 24 to 26, will show a material reduction of cotton acreage, and advance in the price of raw cotton on hand, therefore we recommend that all owners of cotton, who can do so, hold their cotton off the market until after said meeting."

Another resolution adopted calls on congress to amend the laws governing the compilation of statistics by the bureau of statistics, and the census bureau of the United States "so that they may be empowered to collect and publish at the same time they issue reports on the production, reports showing both the foreign and domestic stock of old cotton on hand, foreign and domestic consumption by the mills and foreign and domestic demand for cotton goods and that the necessary appropriation be made to carry this into effect."

Montgomery Convicts Leased.

Birmingham, Ala.—The convicts of Montgomery county have, for the ensuing year, been leased to the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company at the rate of $16 per head. This is the highest price yet paid for them. Owing to the fact that the union men are on a strike, strong efforts were made to secure the convicts.

Shanghai—The taotai continues to take strict precautions to prevent the possible escape of the Russian cruiser Askold and the destroyer Grosovoi, which vessel has been reported as contemplating making an effort to join the Russian second Pacific squadron.

Chattanooga Under Inspection.

Newport, R. I.—The new Chattanooga, with the naval trial board and engineer's trial board, went over the measured mile course in Narragansett Bay. The trial board inspected all parts of the vessel with the exception of the machinery, and also had the crew go through drill. The engineers' board had charge of the work of standardizing the propeller. The Chattanooga will start on a forty-eight hour speed trial at sea. On this run all the guns will be fired, and the ship will be thoroughly tested.

Treasury Revenue.

Washington.—The treasury department has issued a review of treasury operations for the calendar year 1904.

The treasury receipts for the calendar year 1904 were $540,000,000, and the expenditures for the calendar year (including the Panama payment) $562,000,000, a deficit of the year of $22,000,000. As compared with the previous calendar year, the net receipts show a falling off of $8,000,000, and the expenditures an increase of $50,000,000. The decrease in customs receipts was $9,000. Civil and miscellaneous expenditures increased $15,600,000, war department, $9,000,000, department, $23,000,000, pensions, $2,000,000 and interest, $1,000,000.

The increase in interest is due to the fact that a portion of the interest of 1903 was anticipated in 1902. The figures do not include the postal receipts and expenditures except that the postal deficit is included in the civil and miscellaneous expenditures.

Imports for the first eleven months of 1904 were $939,000,000, an increase over the corresponding period in 1903 of $22,000,000.

Imports free of duty for the same period increased $42,000,000, while dutiable imports decreased $20,000,000. In 1903, 43 1-2 per cent. of the imports were free of duty, while in 1904, 47 per cent. were free of duty. Practically the entire increase in free imports was in three articles, coffee, India rubber and raw silk. Although dutiable imports decreased $20,000,000, raw sugar and wool show increases aggregating $28,000,000. All other dutiable imports decreased nearly $50,000,000.

Of this decrease $20,000,000 was iron and steel.

Water Main Bursts.

New York.—Quick work by a gang of men with picks and shovels prevented a repetition of the flood in the subway which occurred two weeks ago through the bursting of a water main.

A 36-inch pipe bursted near One Hundred and Forty-fifth street and Broadway and threw a stream of water high in the air. In a moment it was pouring into the subway station and a dozen passengers made a timely escape to a train, suffering only a slight wetting. When were hurried to the scene and succeeded in diverting the flood in another direction by building a dam. Cellars all about were flooded and the water reached a depth of eighteen inches in the street.

About the break the water boiled into a foam as it came from the ground and then took course down the grade as far as One Hundred and Thirty-seventh street and toward the Hudson river. Trolley car slots were soon filled and triffic along upper Broadway came to a stop. Not a cellar from Broadway to the river was left dry.

L. & N. to "Take Over" Two Roads.

Knoxville, Tenn.—At 12 o'clock, Dec. 31, 1904, the Atlanta, Knoxville and Northern and the Knoxville, Lafollette and Jellico roads were formally "taken over" by the Louisville and Nashville. The lease on the roads' local terminals, owned by the Southern railway, expires simultaneously. The new passenger station and yards of the Louisville and Nashville will be occupied. J. H. Williams, general freight and passenger agent of the Atlanta, Knoxville and Northern, becomes traveling freight agent of the Louisville and Nashville, headquarters in Knoxville. J. E. Willoughby becomes chief engineer of the construction work on the Atlanta, Knoxville and Northern, succeeding John Howe Peyton, who is transferred to Louisville as locating engineer of the Louisville and Nashville.

New Loop the Loop.

Looping the look on skis, a feat never before attempted, will be one of the great attractions at the annual tournament of the ski riders of America to be held in Ishpeming February 22d. Heretofore wild dashes down long, snow covered inclines, ending with a thrilling leap of from 75 to 125 feet have been the main features of the annual tourney, but now a still more hazardous undertaking is to be added.

Con Thompson, a member of the Ishpeming Ski Club, is firm in the belief that a ski rider may successfully "loop the loop." After consultation with Harry Hulst, an engineer, he has decided upon the outline of the loop. His plan calls for a ring twelve feet in height.

Ocean Liner Sold to Russia.

Berlin—The Hamburg-American line, it is announced, has sold the steamer Phoenicia to Russia. The vessel will be used to transport coal for the third Pacific squadron.

Chicago.—Fire destroyed the seven-story building on West Van Buren street, occupied by the Cash Buyers' Union. The loss is about a half million dollars. The fire was discovered on the second floor of the building.

Larin, of 936 Twenty- [illegible] avenue, ticket seller in the Union Station, Denver, Col., says: "You are at liberty to repeat what I first stated through our Denver papers about Doan's Kidney Pills in the summer of 1899, for I have had no reason in the interim to change my opinion of the remedy. Follies of the Rich.

The Duchess of Manchester, formerly Miss Zimmerman, of Cincinnati, is spending large sums on her pet dogs, and now has taken up the fad of having her pet manicured several times a day.

The hair cutting mania started by the imperial edict that all officers are to remove their topnots has spread to the country. The laughable side of the affair is the earnestness with which this "measure of reform" has been taken up and weightier and far more necessary steps shelved.

Wintering Fine Horses in the South.

Eben D. Jordan has made an innovation in the care and breeding of horse shows horses by going into the winter quarters at Leesburg, Va. Mr. Jordan has shipped 150 head of American bred hackneys, from weanlings up to three-year-olds, to the farm of United States Senator Henry Fairfax who is a member of the American Hackney Society and is greatly interested in the welfare of the breed.

The idea of shipping to Virginia for the winter is to allow the youngsters of the Plymouth hackney stud to have the value of outdoor life all the year round and to escape the rigors of a New England winter. At the Forge farm the horses would have comfortable quarters, but they would have to remain indoors during three months of the year. By wintering in Virginia, Mr. Jordan hopes to be able to produce larger horses.

Opals No Longer Feared.

Superstition fades away in the strenuous life of the twentieth century. And the return to common sense has shown itself in the modern fancy for opals. Sir Walter Scott was chiefly responsible for the idea of bad luck being connected with this stone, as will be remembered by readers of "Anne of Geierstein." And others declare that, as the word opal is from the Greek ops (the eye), the gem shares evil influence with a peacock's feather. However, women have lived down all this and opals are the lucky stone for autumn and have been worn by recent brides.

But even now stories are told of the uncanny influence of the opal. Alphonso XII of Spain presented an opal ring to his young wife, Mercedes, on their wedding day and her death occurred soon afterwards. Before the funeral the king gave this ring to his sister, Maria Del Pilar, and she also died a few days afterwards. The king then presented the ring to his sister-in-law, Princess Christian, and she died in the course of three months.

Alphonso, distressed at these fatalities, resolved to wear the ring himself, but he did not wear it long, as his unhappy life shortly came to an end. The queen regent then attached the fatal ring to a gold chain, which she hung around the neck of the Virgin of Almudena in Madrid.

HABIT'S CHAIN.

Certain Habits Unconsciously Formed are Hard to Break.

An ingenious philosopher estimates that the amount of will power necessary to break a life-long habit would, if it could be transformed, lift a weight of many tons.

It sometimes requires a higher degree of heroism to break the chains of a pernicious habit than to lead a forlorn hope in a bloody battle. A lady writes from an Indiana town:

"From my earliest childhood I was a lover of coffee. Before I was out of my teens I was a miserable dyspeptic, suffering terribly at times with my stomach.

"I was convinced that it was coffee that was causing the trouble and yet I could not deny myself a cup for breakfast. At the age of 36 I was in very poor health, indeed. My Sister told me I was in danger of becoming a coffee drunkard.

"But I never could give up drinking coffee for breakfast although it kept me constantly ill, until I tried Postum. I learned to make it properly according to directions, and now we can hardly do without Postum for breakfast and care nothing at all for coffee.

"I am no longer troubled with dyspepsia, do not have spells of [illegible] with my stomach that used to trouble me so when I drank coffee." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

EDMONDS' REVIEW.

Declares Remedy for Condition Absolutely in Hands of Farmers.

SOUTH NEED NOT DESPAIR.

All Students of Situation Agree That Reduced Acreage and Holding Surplus Will Win.

Baltimore, Md.—Ricaard H. Edmonds, editor of the Manufacturers' Record, writing that paper from New York, says:

"To judge by the wild dispatches about the south's burning cotton and the equally wild reports that would create the impression that the break in cotton is going to cause a wreck of matter and a crush of worlds in the south, one would be led to imagine that the whole south is staggered by the cotton slump.

"The decline is deplorable, and, of course, means a heavy loss to many, but it should not be forgotten that about 6,000,000 bales were sold at an average of probably 9 1-2 cents, and that if 7,000,000 bales more should average only 7 cents the total value of the crop, including seed, would be over $500,000,000, which has never been exceeded but a few times in the south's history. Moreover, the great increase in the production of grain and other diversified crops last year added a gain of over $100,000,000 to the value of the south's diversified agricultural products as compared with 1902, and this year's diversified crops will be equally as great, reaching in aggregate value about $1,000,000,000, or double the value of the cotton crop.

"But there is no reason for the south to become panicky over the cotton situation. It has many a time faced far worse conditions, and out of apparent defeat won victory. Even 12,000,000 bales, should the crop prove that large—and many good authorities still doubt such a yield—are not as unduly heavy, all things considered, as were 11,250,000 bales in 1898. Then the world was carrying a great surplus stock accumulated through several successive years of large production, and the south was poor, with comparatively little surplus money in its banks and with many of its farmers burdened with debts. Now, the world has but little stock of cotton outside of this crop, the increase in demand has gone on for six years, and the south is rich, with ample capital to finance a large part of its cotton, while the farmers are less in debt than since the war.

"The present price is almost as unduly low as 16 and 17 cents were unduly high, and as the Manufacturers' Record warned the world against such speculative prices, so it would warn the south today against undue fright. On a declining market people are always more disposed to sell than on advancing prices, and in this is the danger that, frightened by the decline, farmers will crowd thei rcotton to market and cause a further break.

A Reaction Inevitable.

"Cotton is intrnsically worth more than it is selling for, and that there will be a reaction in price is just as inevitable as it was that 17-cent cotton would decline. A staple that does not deteriorate in quality; that, like pig iron, is as good twenty years hence as now, when below the cost of production, as it is today, needs only to be held long enough to make certain of higher figures. Just how soon the tide will turn no man can say, nor can any one say that it will not go lower temporarily.

"But the south's policy today should unquestionably be not to burn cotton, not to crowd it to market, but to store it and hold for the inevitable swing of the pendulum, and in the meantime to plant less acreage in cotton and more in diversified crops. The situation is in this way absolutely in control of the south itself, and it will have no one to blame but itself if it does not hold back permanently a million or more bales, and then reduce the acreage about 10 per cent compared with last year. The south holds the dominating position. If it will only use its opportunity and market its cotton on business principles, then it will secure a fair price.

"Outside of a few speculators nobody wants such low prices. The spinner is no more pleased at this terrific break than the farmer. Now, let the south pull itself together, show that it can and will protect its own interests, and it will receive the world's applause."

Birmingham, Ala.—It is announced that J. D. Collins, R. R. Collins and J. C. Scott, all business men, have purchased Trotwood Park at East Lake, the purchase price being $4,000. The purpose for which the land will be used has not yet been learned, though several plans are being considered, one being to lay out the whole ground for residences.

Washington.—The following bulletin was issued by the agricultural department:

Final returns to the chief of the bureau of statistics of the department of agriculture from regular and special correspondents, supplemented by reports of special field agents, show the average production and value of the principal farm crops of the United States in 1904 to have been as follows:

Crops—	Acreage	Production Bushels
Corn	92,231,581	2,467,480,934
Winter wheat	26,865,950	332,935,346

It has been found impracticable to make a definite estimate of wheat for milling, owing to the difficulty of drawing a hard and fast line between the millable and non-millable. Reports, however, have been made on the average weight of wheat per bushel, in the three principal spring wheat states, and such average has been found to be fifty-two pounds in Minnesota, fifty in North Dakota and fifty in South Dakota.

Panic in Theater.

Chicago.—A catastrophe was narrowly averted at McVicker's theater, all on account of an insignificant fire in a temporary shed at the back of the theater.

A cry of "fire" as a volume of smoke burst through an open exit created a panic and the audience became frantic in their efforts to escape from the theater. Coming so close on the anniversary of the Iroquois fire, the audience paid little attention to the manager of the theater, who came out on the stage and told them that there was not the slightest danger of the fire reaching the theater. His words for a time had little effect on the terrified audience, for with a rush the majority left their seats and hurried to the exits and the fire escapes. In their efforts to reach the street many were cut and bruised by falling over each other. Mrs. Ade Blake, of Waterloo, Ia., who with her young daughter occupied seats in the second balcony, was thrown forward on the staircase while trying to escape, and fell almost the entire flight, suffering severe bruises about the limbs and body. Before quiet could be restored many persons suffered slight bruises and several articles of jewelry and clothing were lost in the panic.

As soon as those who were in front of the frantic crowd reached the stand and saw that the fire did not amount to anything they notified the frightened persons behind, and the audience finally quieted down and returned to their seats, where they remained until the play was finished.

1904 Fire Losses.

New York.—Statistics show that more than $230,000,000 worth of property in the United States was destroyed by fire in 1904, making the largest annual ash heap in the history of the country.

While the Baltimore f[illegible] ruary was to be co[illegible] tude only with the [illegible] in 1871, the record of 1904, [illegible] that conflagration, would have [illegible] the most destructive of all recent years, save 1900, and would have nearly equalled that year. As fire underwriters usually include Canada in their estimate of fire waste, the total which the insurance companies will have to reach in estimating the fire was considerably larger, Toronto alone having been visited with a conflagration entailing damage of $12,000,000.

In 1930 the total fire waste was $152,000,000; in 1902, $161,000,000; in 1901 it was $169,500,000, and in 1900 the worst of recent years, it was $176,000,000. The losses in January aggregated $22,000,000, including a $1,500,000 at Shelby, Ohio. In February the great Baltimore fire figured $69,000,000, the insurance amounting to $33,000,000. The fire at Rochester, N. Y., involved a loss of $2,200,000, insurance $1,600,000. In April occurred the Toronto fire. The total fire waste for the first six months was $171,500,000, or less than $7,000,000 below the full year's record in 1900, when the fire losses had reached a high mark for recent years.

Want Duties Removed.

Washington.—Secretary Taft has received the following cablegram from the president of the Philippine chamber of commerce at Manila:

"Secretary of War, Washington.—Philippine chamber of commerce asks congress to save the Philippines from ruin by wholly abolishing the tariff on our tobacco and sugar.

"PRESIDENT."

Montgomery Has Fire.

Montgomery.—Fire destroyed the mill plant of the Montgomery Lumber Manufacturing Company Monday. The loss will reach $75,000. The fire originated in the shavings cupola and spread rapidly. It was outside the protection of the city department. The office was burned, but the papers were saved. The insurance was $30,000.

PORT ARTHUR FALLEN

Terms of Capitulation Asked by the Russian General Accepted by Japs.

DESPERATE SIEGE HAS ENDED.

Commissioners Are Arranging Details of the Surrender.—Japanese Are Wild With Joy.

Washington.—The state department today received a cablegram from Mr. Griscom, the American minister to Japan, stating that the minister for foreign affairs of Japan notified him that General Stoessel surrendered Port Arthur at 9 o'clock Sunday evening.

Berlin.—A dispatch to the Lokal Anzieger from Tokio today says:

"An official bulletin has been posted announcing that Port Arthur has capitulated under conditions honorable to the garrison."

Stoessel and Nogi Plan Terms.

Tokio.—General Nogi reports as follows:

"At 5 o'clock in the afternoon of January 1st the enemy's bearer of a flag of truce came into the first line of our officers. The same reached me at 9 o'clock at night. The letter is as follows: 'Judging by the general condition of the whole line of hostile positions held by you, I find further resistance at Port Arthur useless, and for the purpose of preventing needless sacrifice of lives, I propose to hold negotiations with reference to capitulation. Should you consent to the same you will please appoint commissioners for discussing the order and conditions regarding capitulation and also appoint a place for such commissioners to meet the same appointed by me.

"'I take this opportunity to convey to your excellency assurances of my respect.

(Signed.) "STOESSEL."

Nogi Replies.

"Shortly after dawn today I will dispatch our bearer of a flag of truce with the following reply address to Stoessel:

"'I have the honor to reply to your proposal to hold negotiations regarding the conditions and order of capitulation. For this purpose I have appointed as commissioner Major-General Ijichi, chief of staff of our army. He will be accompanied by some staff officers and civil officials. They will meet your commissoners January noon at Shushiying. The commissioners of both parties will be empowered to sign a convention for the capitulation without waiting for ratification and cause the same to take immediate effect. Authorization for such plenary powers shall be signed by the highest officer of both the negotiating parties and the same shall be exchanged by the respective commissioners.

"'I avail myself of this opportunity to convey to your excellency assurances of my respect.

(Signed.) "'NOGI.'"

Generous Terms.

The emperor of Japan himself through the chief of imperial staff, has given public his expression that "General Stoessel has rendered commendable service to his country in the midst of difficulties, and that it is his wish that military honors be shown him." A dispatch from Tokio quotes military opinion as believing that the entire garrison will be allowed to march out under arms and may be sent to Russia on parole. Late dispatches from Japan have shown that the gallant defense of Stoessel and his men has nowhere been given a finer appreciation than in the land of his foes.

Tokio Goes Wild Over the News.

Tokio.—Tokio is wildly joyous over General Nogi's telegram announcing that General Stoessel had sent a letter relating to the surrender of Port Arthur. Newsboys crying extras were the messengers who carried the news to the holiday crowds in the streets. The people grabbed the papers and repeated the cries. Thus was the news carried throughout the city, and within a few minutes the firing of several bombs and daylight fireworks began in various parts of the city. Flags appeared and a stream of small processions formed and surged the principal streets.

Japan has paid a heavy price for the Russian fortress. The prospects of its early possession cheered the people as no other event of the war has done. The emperor's New Year reception and audiences to the army and navy officers and civil officials continued this morning. The news from Port Arthur gave additional cheer to the exchange of congratulations.

Mikado Orders Honor.

Tokio.—Marshal Yamaga, chief of general staff, under orders from the emperor ,has dispatched the following cablegram to General Nogi:

"When I respectfully informed his majesty of General Stoessel's proposal for capitulation, his majesty was pleased to state that General Stoessel has rendered commendable service to his country in the midst of difficulties and it is his majesty's wish that military honors be shown to hm."

Defenders Blow Up Forts.

Chefoo.—Captain Kartow, commanding the torpedo boat destroyer Vlastni, which put into this harbor this morning from Port Arthur, says the Japanese expected to enter Port Arthur Tuesday, but General Stoessel, who was sick, will resist with the remnant of the garrison on Liato Mountain. Captain Kartow denies the report from Tokio that General Stoessel offered to surrender yesterday.

The Russians have blown up two of their own forts near the railway and completed the destruction of the cruiser Bayan. The destroyers Smirli and Boikai also left Port Arthur. Their fate is unknown.

Port Arthur is described by later arrivals as a living hell. The hospitals are said to be nearly all destroyed.

The Russians who arrived here from Port Arthur on the torpedo boats now admit that General Stoessel hoisted the white flag Sunday and suggested that negotiations be opened for the surrender of the fortress.

Meter Hill Back of Russian Defense.

Tokio.—General Nogi's telegram announcing that General Stoessel was prepared to discuss terms of capitulation reached Tokio early Monday morning, but was not made public until 10 o'clock. Its receipt sent a thrill of pleasure through the circle of officials who have long awaited such a communication. The news is just reaching the general public, and it is expected that the day will bring ample evidence of popular joy. Besides the barest announcement of the receipt of General Nogi's telegram nothing is known about the terms or conditions proposed.

The fall of Wantai, popularly known as Signal Hill, following the loss of Rihlung, Sungshe "H" fort, and new Pantung, is regarded here as clear indication that the Port Arthur garrison has lost its power of serious resistance. The facts do not reveal it, but it is probable that the back of the Russian defense was broken when 203 Metre Hill was captured. The Russians desperately sought to retake that eminence and sent infantry and marines against it in a series of counterattacks, fruitlessly losing thousands of men. Following this the extension of the Japanese right compelled the Russians to fight over an unguarded front and made concentration difficult. Beyond the knowledge of contents of General Stoessel's letter it is confidently believed that there will be no hitch and that there will be a prompt capitulation, ending one of the most remarkable sieges in history.

New Orleans Without Guns.

Honolulu—Word has been received here to the effect that the cruiser New Orleans, now on her way here from the Philippines, will leave most of her guns at Guam and Midway island for the purpose of protecting these places in some measure. The New Orleans was with her sister ship, the Albany, purchased in England, at the time of the Spanish war. She is a serviceable vessel, but her guns are not of the American type, and will, therefore, be replaced when she arrives at Bremerton to go out of commission and refit.

Storms Sweep Germany.

Berlin.—Hurricane-like storms have been prevailing in the greater part of Germany during the last twenty-four hours, accompanied by rain and snow. All railways near the coast have suspended traffic and roads have been ruined by the waves. Railway communication with Danzig is completely cut off and a number of trains are stuck fast in the snow and all the lines approaching the city are interrupted.

Southern Cotton Company.

Meridian, Miss.—At a called meeting of the board of trade here today resolutions were passed indorsing a plan by S. A. Witherspoon to organize a stock company to be called the Southern Cotton Company, with a capital of $10,000,000, to purchase 2,000,000 bales of cotton at 10 cents per pound and take it off the market and hold it till next season in order to relieve the cotton situation.

A mass meeting has been called here for January 10th to further discuss the plan and to take definite action in the matter.

Attorney Hall Removed.

Washington.—President Roosevelt has directed the removal from office of John H. Hall, United States district attorney for Oregon. Mr. Hall has been prosecuting officers of the government in the land fraud cases, and the removal is made in connection with them.

Manufacturers' Record.

Birmingham, Ala.—Mr. Albert Phenix, special representative of the Manufacturers' Record, of Baltimore, is in the city. He will spend the next two or three weeks gathering data for a series of articles to be contributed to his journal on the industrial situation of this district.

PRESIDENT'S NEW YEAR

With Social Greetings the Capital Hails the New Year—Splendor Abounds.

MUSIC RENDERED BY MARINE BAND.

Occasion Characterized by True Democracy.—Thousands Meet the President at the Reception.

Washington.—Official and resident Washington extended New Year's greetings to the president and Mrs. Roosevelt at the white house. The event—brilliant and spectacular as the president's New Year's receptions always are—marked the formal opening of the social season of 1905.

The reception was characterized by true democracy. The portals of the white house swung wide for all the world. All were welcomed to the historical mansion and afforded the opportunity to greet both the president and Mrs. Roosevelt. Thousands embraced this opportunity. By the president's direction no absolute limit of time was placed on the reception. The reception of guests began shortly after 11 o'clock. An hour or more before that time the line of callers began to form.

Burst of Melody.

As the callers entered the white house they were greeted by a burst of melody from the marine band, sixty pieces strong, stationed in the great vestibule under the baton of Lieutenant Santleman; a blaze of color and a breath of perfume from beautiful floral decorations; and a scene of splendor, the brilliance of which was enhanced by the soft glow from myriads of shaded electric lights.

The floral decorations, while not elaborate, were more profuse than what have characterized recent white house receptions. Rare varieties of palms were disposed effectively about the vestibule and main corridor, while in the great rectangular basins between the vestibule and the corridor palms and ferns formed a striking background for the scarlet uniforms of the band. In the state dining room, in the east room and in the red, blue and green parlors, rare cut-flowers were arranged with consummate art and effectiveness, the delicate colors of lilies and orchids being accentuated here and there by a blaze of flaming red or a splash of vivid green.

Reception Begins.

The beginning of the reception was announced by a flourish sounded by trumpeters of the marine band, stationed near the foot of the main staircase. The fanfare signalized the approach of the president. Preceded by his military aide, Col. Charles S. Bromwell, and his naval aide, Commander Cameron McR. Winslow, President Roosevelt, escorting Mrs. Roosevelt, descended the stairs, followed by the members of the cabinet and their ladies, constituting the immediate receiving party. The distinguished party crossed the corridor, and passing through the green parlor, entered the blue parlor, where the president and Mrs. Roosevelt received their guests. The guests invited to be "behind the line" already had assembled in the blue parlor.

Whiskey for Cotton.

Louisville, Ky.—A firm well known and responsible, owning six distilleries in Kentucky and Maryland, and among the largest distributors of straight whiskies in the United States, has advertised for one hundred thousand bales of cotton at nearly one cent above the market price, to be paid for in Kentucky whiskey. The notice, which is issued in perfect good faith, reads:

"Do not burn your cotton. We will take 100,000 bales of cotton, delivered in proper public storage warehouses at any point in the cotton states, at 7 1-2 cents per pound for 'middling cotton,' and pay for it in Kentucky and Maryland whiskies of our distillation at contract prices in bond."

American Iron in England.

London.—The pig iron merchants of Great Britain have concluded an agreement whereby in their contracts certain specified brands of American pig iron will be tenderable against speculative contracts in the United Kingdom. Fourteen American brands are listed, of which ten are from Alabama and four are from Tennessee.

Mail Robbery in France.

Paris—A mail robbery is reported by the postal authorities to have occurred between Chanteuges and Prades. The contents of seven sacks are missing. They are believed to have contained considerable quantity of important New York mail.

THE citizens of Clanton are be stirring themselves for the town election next Monday. There is a disposition to elect an entirely new set of officers, all but one of the present board of aldermen having served several terms. G. Higgins is the popular candidate for mayor on the one ticket, and H. F. Chandler on the other.

THE fire last Friday night again emphasizes the fact that Clanton ought to, and should have, some organized way of protecting the town against a disastrous conflagration. There is excellent material for a volunteer fire brigade, and we are under the impression that if Capt. Tom Tyus will make a move he would experience no difficulty in organizing a fire company. Property owners, merchants and householders would do well to support any effort in this direction, the reduction in insurance rates alone being worthy of their consideration. Let us have a fire brigade.

PORT ARTHUR has fal'en at last, after one of the most memorable seiges, and the victorious Japs take possession of the city and strong hold. The Russians made a gallant defense as long as possible, but the indefatigable Japs gave them no rest night or day, and with starvation staring them in the face the Russians had to yield. This releases some 80,000 Japanese soldiers to swell the array in Manchuria and the coming Spring may witness some of the most terrible battles in the history of the world, unless in the meantime peace can be arranged, which at present does not appear to be probable

The Russian and Japanese fleets are approaching each other, and if the Japs succeed in demolishing this Russian fleet, as they have already destroyed others, it will leeve Russia without a navy, save a few ships in the Black Sea.

In every state where the great white staple is grown farmers and officials alike realize that the time has now come for the people who grow cotton to perfect some unif rm and consistent plan for taking the situation in their own hands, thus preventing the price of the South's greatest product from being at the mercy of chance, or worse than that, at the mercy of the men who have nothing to do with cotton save as a means of gambling.

The commissioners of agriculture, from the very nature of their offices, are more familiar with the agricultural situation in their several states than any one else could be. They can scan the whole field and see what is the wisest and best plan to pursue. Now if the men who are closest in touch with the situation in each of the cotton growing states get together it is only a question of exchange of information and suggestions for the situation over the whole South to be quickly and thoroughly understood

A SERMON TO YOUNG PEOPLE

At the Baptist church, Sunday night, the year being in its infancy, Rev. A. C. Swindall appropriately preached a fine sermon especially to young people. The text was from 2 Samuel, 18:29. "And the king said is the young man Absalom safe?" Sub dividing his discourse under several heads, he began with:

Infidelity, disbelief in God's Word—there was a tendency, not confined to young people alone, to doubt the accuracy of the blessed truths contained in the Bible, and he earnestly commended all to read a portion of the Scriptures every day. To doubt and question God's Word is not to be safe.

Self opinion—Many young people thought they could control their actions, but bad habits once formed would get the best of them in after years. As an illustration, a young girl dancing on the edge of a precipice, thinking she had control over the movements of her body, was in a precarious condition. All who trusted to self opinion were unsafe.

Rebelliousness—Young people were sometimes rebellious against the restraints of home. Parents, and those who had had experience in life, knew that certain restrictions were necessary, but young people could not see this, and rebelled against those in authority over them. To young men, and especially to young girls, there is no safer place than the home, and it is the duty of parents to make home life attractive and pleasant.

Substitution of works for Faith—Some people seemed to think that to be a member of the church, to contribute to its support, and by occasional good deeds, they were safe, and it would be well for such to strengthen their faith by reading God's holy Word.

At the close of the sermon he announced that at his next appointment, Sunday morning, Jan 15, he would preach especially to parents, and requested that all, parents and children, would attend.

NEARLY A BAD FIRE

Shortly after eleven o'clock last Friday night an alarm of fire was raised, and a rush was made for Bachelor's livery stable where an exploded lamp had started a conflagration. Fortunately it was discovered at once, and while the horses were turned out and the buggies removed, willing hands extinguished the blaze and a disaster was averted.

The two Toms—Tom Tyus and Tom Smith—were too many for such a small fire and doused the burning hay before much mischief was done. Some of the liberated horses were not returned until next day, but business went on as usual.

The Pletcher Case.

The habeas corpus proceedings in the case of J. H. Johnson and J. E. McCullough, charged with the killing of Asa Rawlinson at Pletcher, commenced at the court house, Clanton, Wednesday morning, Chancellor W. W. Whiteside presiding.

Col. W. A. Collier appeared on behalf of the State, and Col. Jesse F. Stallings, Smith & Middleton, and W. M. Adams looked after the interests of the defendants.

On account of the absence of two witnesses Col. Collier asked for a continuance but the Court overruled the motion. The morning was consumed by the arguments of counsel as to the jurisdiction of the court, and in the afternoon the examination of witnesses commenced. Drs. Matthews and Johnson testified as to their examination of the body of the deceased, and court adjourned until this (Thursday) morning. The case will probably be finished today.

Impoverished Soil

Impoverished soil, like impoverished blood, needs a proper fertilizer. A chemist by analyzing the soil can tell you what fertilizer to use for different products.

If your blood is impoverished your doctor will tell you what you need to fertilize it and give it the rich, red corpuscles that are lacking in it. It may be you need a tonic, but more likely you need a concentrated fat food, and fat is the element lacking in your system.

There is no fat food that is so easily digested and assimilated as

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil

It will nourish and strengthen the body when milk and cream fail to do it. Scott's Emulsion is always the same; always palatable and always beneficial where the body is wasting from any cause, either in children or adults.

The new year has crowded on us and we would it were in our power to give all good advice needed and mental strength to live up to all the good resolutions made now. Our good colored folks had a new year watch in their church and some good patriotic citizens ushered in our new year with impromptu bells that from their sound had done service on many such occasions before.

The orange buds blossomed into a most beautiful marriage of Dr. Rother Walker of Plantersville and Miss Edna Ricketts. The ceremony was most impressively performed by Rev. Speigel of Birmingham. The beautiful bride was most becomingly gowned in a brown tailor suit with hat to match. Miss Elizabeth, her sister, was gowned in blue tailor made suit with hat to match, was maid of honor; was attended by Dr. Stanley Walker, brother of the groom. The bride carried a shower boquet of white carnations, her beautiful sister, Miss Elizabeth, carried a shower boquet of pink carnations. The ceremony was performed in the hall, which was most tastefully decorated with holly and mistletoe arranged in bell shape. The bridal party went to Birmingham. They were treated to a shower of rice for luck. After the ceremony the mill whistle made the wedding march which was very impressive.

Miss Dunn from Montgomery, Miss Elsey Walker of Plantersville were guests of Mrs. Ricketts. Many handsome and serviceable presents were given this very popular couple. Little Misses Martin were graceful ribbon bearers.

Messrs. Bartlett and Hollisler of New York have been here on business.

Our very popular young friend, Henry Damsky, of Birmingham and his sister, Rachel, of Montevallo, made an Xmas visit to their father here.

Miss Della Blalack is home ag from Thorsby.

We are indebted to Miss Ha Latham and the Misses Derar for beautiful church decorations.

Our generous superintendent, George Fox, offered a prize for best scholarship in the Bible class. There was a tie between Misses Lottie Adams and Ada Blalack, when Mr. Fox gave each a prize.

Santa Claus and Mrs. Ensign had an understanding to send a quantity of beautiful magazines to the Sunday school children that were enjoyed.

With kola sticks and coocoo balls, the children, and some of larger growth, had much noise, but not fun, for listeners Xmas.

Mrs. Glover had the pleasure of entertaining Bro Rencher's family as they were going to their new home.

Mr. Howard Smitherman of Centreville has visited friends here.

Death of Mrs J T Anderson.

On the morning of December 26, Mrs M. A. Anderson, wife of Mr. J. T. Anderson, died at their home at Pletcher. Only on the Saturday before her death she was seized with inflamation. Mrs. Anderson was born in Montgomery County, fifty-four years ago, and was married in 1869, since which time she has lived with her husband and family at Pletcher, loved and respected by all who knew her. Fourteen children have been born to them, eight of whom survive to mourn the loss of a good mother. The funeral took place at the home graveyard at Pletcher, Dec. 29. Our deepest sympathies are with the bereaved husband and family.

A Visit to Grandpa.

I am going back down to grandpa's, I will come back here no more to hear remarks about my feet muddying up the floor. Too much said about my clothes, the scolding is never done, I am going back down to grandpa's where a boy can have some fun. He said that pie was good for boys and candy made them grow. If I can't go back down to grandpa's I will turn parrot fast I know. He didn't make me comb my head but once or twice a week, he wasn't always watching out for words I did and ought to speak. He knew all the early apple trees around for many a mile, O grandpa's a dandy and he was in it all the while. He even ran a race with me, but he had to stop to cough. He tried to ride my bicycle, but he laughed because he tumbled off. When you talk to me of heaven where all the good folks go, I am going back down to grandpa's and we will have good times I know.

No More Stomach Troubles.

All stomach trouble is removed by the use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It gives the stomach perfect rest by digesting what you eat without the stomach's aid. The food builds up the body, the rest restores the stomach to health. You don't have to diet yourself when taking Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. J. D. Erskine, of Allenville, Mich., says, "I suffered Heartburn and Stomach trouble for some time. My sister-in-law has had the same trouble and was not able to eat for six weeks. She lived entirely on warm water. After taking two bottles of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure she was entirely cured. She now eats heartily and is in good health. I am glad to say Kodol gave me instant relief." PRESENT AGITATION MUST END

Decree in Eight Divisions Given Out by His Imperial Majesty—Deals More Especially With the Lower Peasant Classes—Concessions Preceded by Sharp Declaration Against Demonstrations

St. Petersburg, Russia.—Emperor Nicholas' long expected reform ukase has been issued. The document deals, under eight heads, with practically all the subjects brought to the Emperor's attention by the memorial of the Congress of Zemstvos Presidents held here last month, and, while not specifically pledging the Government to carry out the various reforms in their entirety, as demanded by the memorial, promises that each shall be referred to the Council of Ministers, with orders to report promptly on the fullest measures of relief which can be afforded on the various subjects.

One question not touched by the ukase is that of the Constitutional Assembly. Neither is the Jewish religion specifically mentioned, though freedom for all creeds or sects, whether Christian or otherwise, is among the subjects which will be dealt with.

The various subjects will be referred to committees for early report.

The Imperial decree, which is entitled "A Scheme For the Improvement of the Administration of the State," is addressed to the Senate and is as follows:

"In accordance with the revered will of our crowned predecessor, and thinking unceasingly of the welfare of the realm instrusted to us by God, we regard it as our duty and the Government's duty, in conjunction with the undeviating maintenance of the immutability of the fundamental laws of the Empire, to have untiring care for the country's needs, distinguishing between all that is really in the interests of the Russian people from tendencies not seldom mistaken and influenced by transitory circumstances.

"When the need of this or that change is proved ripe, then we consider it necessary to meet it, even though the transformation to which this leads involves the introduction of essential innovations in legislation. We do not doubt that the realization of such an undertaking will meet with the sympathy of the well-disposed section of our subjects, who see the true prosperity of the fatherland in the support of civil tranquility and the uninterrupted satisfaction of the daily needs of the people.

"Placing in the forefront of our care thought for the best ordering of the life of the most numerous of our estates, the peasant population, we may remark that this matter is already under examination.

"Simultaneously with a detailed investigation of the initial proposals of the Ministry of the Interior, which are being carried out locally, conferences are now being held by Commissioners specially selected from among the most experienced of the highest administrative officials regarding the most important questions of peasant life, assisted in their investigation of the general needs of the agricultural industry by the knowledge and experience of local committees.

"We command these to labor to bring the laws regarding peasants into unity with the general imperial legislation, thereby facilitating the task of attaining permanent security of this estate, which, by decree of the Czar Liberator is recognized as consisting of free citizens possessing full rights."

Here follow the eight divisions or subheads of the manifesto.

BRYAN LOCKED IN.

Rescued in a Fainting Condition From a Room in Which He Was Shut.

Denver, Col.—Securely locked in the office of the station master at the Union Station, unable to open a window or to turn off the steam, William J. Bryan spent the hottest hour and a half he has known for some time. He was rescued in a fainting condition.

Mr. Bryan arrived some time before his train was due and asked for a place to write a letter. He was taken to the station master's office and as the door has a spring lock was fastened in for a long time before he could summon help.

MOB KILLS RUSSIAN OFFICER.

Fatal Riot Near Warsaw When Troops Try to Stop a Parade.

Warsaw, Russia.—There was a bloody riot at Radem, fifty-seven miles south of this city, at midnight. The troops attempted to disperse a parade, in which a number of red flags were carried, and the paraders fired on them, killing the commander of an infantry regiment and wounding others.

The soldiers returned the fire, killing one of the paraders and wounding several others.

TORPEDO IN THE NORTH SEA.

Believed to Be One Fired by the Russians at British Fishermen.

London, Eng.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Copenhagen says that fishermen have found off Hjorring, West Jutland, an unexploded Russian torpedo, which is supposed to have been discharged by a vessel of the Baltic fleet on the Dogger Bank at the time the British trawlers were fired on.

ENTIRE COUNTY SHAKEN

Giant Detonations Wreck Houses For Miles Around.

Hundred Workmen in Powder Plant at Halifax, N. Y., Had Just Left Building When First Burst Came.

Halifax, N. Y.—Detonations like the discharging of heavy guns shook this city the other morning, and hundreds rushed from their homes, believing that a disastrous earthquake was approaching. Only after several hours was it discovered that the supposed seismic disturbance was the result of the blowing up of a part of the Acadia Powder Company's plant in Waverly, ten miles away. The whole county was shaken.

Evidences of the terrible force of the fifty or more explosions are visible for twenty miles in every direction. Great chasms were torn in the ground by the giant force. Window panes were shattered and houses shook as if about to topple from their foundations. The marvelous feature of the terrible accident is that nobody was injured, although there were hundreds of harrowing experiences. Fortunately the powder magazine did not blow up. There were hundreds of tons of powder stored in it, and the loss of life and damage to property would have been appalling had it exploded.

In the home of Robert Layton, superintendent of the plant, the devastation wrought was the worst. It stood a quarter of a mile from the plant, but there is not enough of it left to put together. Margaret Layton, daughter of the manager, was sitting on the second floor when she was litfted bodily and hurled through two rooms and out of a rear window. Part of the rear extension was blown 200 feet away from its original position, and on this the young woman landed, escaping serious injury. When she recovered consciousness it was found she had only a few bruises and scratches.

The powder plant is a mile outside of Waverly, and there were 100 men employed in the place. There were twenty of them in the dry house at 10.30 in the morning, but they had left the building to go to one of the other small houses of which the plant consists when the dry house blew up. The men were thrown with terrible force to the ground and lay stunned.

Then the explosions began in rapid succession, parts of the stock in the twelve buildings affected blowing up at different times. It was in the first explosion that the home of Superintendent Layton was demolished. The town of Waverly felt the full force of the concussions and shattered glass fell from the windows of every house in the town.

Women and children ran screaming into the streets and many fainted from fright. They had expected the dangerous place would go up in the air some day, but none were prepared for the terrible shaking up they experienced for about fifteen minutes. So heavy were the detonations that many persons in Waverly and towns further removed from the powder plant were deaf for hours after the last explosion. When quiet fell upon the plant again there was a rush of men and women to the place, for hundreds had relatives employed there. Their joy was unbounded when they found that nobody had been hurt.

The effect of the explosions was felt in this city with much force. Frightened persons fled from their homes in panic, fearing they were to be engulfed by an earthquake, and for hours they refused to be reassured. When the truth was made known messengers were sent to Waverly to offer relief and medical aid, but their services were not needed.

In several instances locked store doors were burst open by the force of the concussion. The doors of one of the Fire Department houses were forced open and wrecked. In many houses books were shaken from library shelves and articles were dashed from tables.

In an almost similar manner the towns of Bedford, Renfrew and Oldham suffered. In Bedford a small house was thrown from its foundations and almost buried a crowd of merrymakers.

President G. R. Gue, of the Acadia Company, said the thermometer in the dry house registered 150 degrees just before the accident, and that that was normal temperature. The heat must have been increased suddenly through some unknown agency, he thought, to cause the two tons of powder in the building to blow up. He said the company's damage would not exceed $25,000. The cost of replacing thousands of window panes in the surrounding towns will be great, but Mr. Gue said the company could not bear that expense.

PARDONS AS CHRISTMAS GIFTS.

Texas Governor Frees Twenty-seven Convicts, Including Some Murderers.

New Orleans, La.—Governor Lanham, of Texas, issued twenty-seven pardons, as Christmas presents to the convicts in the various prisons of the State. The majority of the pardons were given to men who had long terms to serve for various crimes. A number of murderers were pardoned. The men were released as soon as the notice of the pardons was received, in order that they might spend Christmas at home.

KILLED IN R. R. COLLISION

Hotel Runner Disarranged Stop Signal For a Train.

SEVEN ARE KILLED OUTRIGHT

Engineer Went by and Met Another Train in a Head-on Wreck on the Southern Railroad Near Brown's Crossing, Ill.—Score of Persons Hurt Seriously—Crew of One Engine Jumped.

Indianapolis, Ind.—Through the thoughtless meddling of a hotel runner at the little way station at Brown's Crossing, Ill., a head-on collision of two passenger trains occurred at an early hour in the morning in which seven persons were killed, two injured mortally and more than a score more or less seriously hurt. The trains were No. 1, eastbound, and No. 2, westbound, on the St. Louis division of the Southern Railway, and the collision took place between Mount Carmel and Mauds, Ill.

Station Agent Lindley, at Brown's Crossing, had orders for the eastbound train and set the red light, requiring the train to stop. He was on the station platform attending to baggage, when the train whistled, and a hotel runner pulled the rope inside the station, drawing up the red light and showing white. The eastbound train went by the station at forty miles an hour, while the agent vainly attempted to attract the attention of the engineer. He immediately notified the officers of the road, but he could not notify the agent at the next station because there was no telegraph operator there.

Engineer Buchanan of the eastbound train, knowing he was running without orders, brought his train down to eight miles an hour, after passing the station of Mauds, and was feeling his way carefully when he saw the headlight of the westbound train coming around a curve at the rate of fifty miles an hour, the engineer having orders to pass the eastbound train at Mauds. Buchanan and his fireman jumped just as the two trains came together and thus escaped injury.

The impact of the two trains was terrific. The cars of the eastbound train, which had come nearly to standstill, were instantly telescoped and caught fire, while the cars of the westbound train were only telescoped partly and all the passengers escaped without serious injury. Engineer Brown and Fireman Rutte were both caught under the burning train and perished in agony in sight of the passengers and train crews, who were powerless to give them aid.

The men passengers soon formed a fire brigade and carried water from a creek near by in their hats. The injured were taken care of by the survivors and physicians were rushed to the scene at once. The score or more of persons injured were in the eastbound train and their hurts were of every conceivable description. As the two trains came together the passengers were hurled violently forward and were piled up against the doors of the coaches, many of them so stunned and bruised that they could not move.

Fire started and was spreading toward the passenger coaches from the baggage car and eating its way toward the injured passengers when the uninjured passengers formed their fire brigade and succeeded in stopping the flames. E. B. McNeely, a newspaper man of Princeton, was riding on the engine with Engineer Brown.

Mrs. McNeely was also on the train, but had refused to ride on the engine, having a presentiment that something was going to happen and had tried to dissuade her husband from accepting the engineer's invitation. McNeely tried to jump from the engine when he saw a collision was inevitable, but caught his foot and did not clear the track. He was badly injured. Eugene Carleton, of Dale, Ind., and Ray Underwood, of Huntington, Ind., were injured mortally, and the following were killed outright:

Albert P. Brown, forty-five years old, Princeton, Ind., engineer westbound train, killed at his post; Charles Rutte, Princeton, Ind., fireman westbound train; Homer D. Hogan, mail clerk train No. 1, Georgetown, Ind., crushed to death in car; Henry Oskins, sectionman, Tennyson, Ind.; William Underwood, section foreman, Belleville, Ill.; Cyrus Hudson, sectionman, Tennyson, Ind.; Charles Schmidt, coal miner, Centralia, Ill.

HORSE RESCUES A CHILD.

Lifts Her Out of Danger With His Teeth and Gets a Cheer.

Omaha, Neb.—A jet black horse rescued a child from a perilous position here and was rewarded for his act with the cheers of a large crowd. Five-year-old Ruth O'Hara, carrying a doll in her arms, slipped and fell off the curbstone on Farnam street, alighting under the feet of the horse.

The child's mother became hysterical, and excitedly called to passers-by to rescue the little one. Before anybody could respond the horse moved back away from the child, being careful not to step upon her, and then, putting his head down, he grasped her skirts firmly with his teeth, lifted her clear off the pavement and set her down on the curb. Then he stepped back and looked at her with evident satisfaction.

The streets were crowded with Christmas shoppers, and a great cheer went up from those who saw the incident.

A SERMON FOR SUNDAY

AN ELOQUENT DISCOURSE ENTITLED "THE TRAGEDY OF A QUEEN."

The Rev. F. F. Shannon Draws a Timely Lesson From the Story of Vashti—There Are Few Finer Exhibitions of Sacrifice in the History of Womanhood

Brooklyn, N. Y.—For his Sunday morning sermon, in Grace M. E. Church, the pastor, the Rev. Frederick F. Shannon, had for his theme "The Tragedy of a Queen." The text was from Esther 1:11-12: "Bring Vashti the queen before the king with the crown royal, to show the people and the princes her beauty: for she was fair to look on. But the Queen Vashti refused to come at the king's commandment by his chamberlains." Mr. Shannon said:

The Ahasuerus of the book of Esther is the Xerxes of profane history. By common consent of historians he was one of the most powerful monarchs that ever lived. The pages of Herodotus are filled with his exploits, and Grote and Rollin, also, dwell upon his power and achievements in an interesting manner. But his tawdry greatness is worth while only as it serves to set forth the heroism of Vashti. Already the centuries have tarnished the brilliance of his court, but not the beauty of his queen. Shushan, the palace, exists only in name. The hundred and four score days during which he showed the riches of his glorious kingdom and the honor of his excellent majesty are less than a shadow on the dial. The white, green and blue hangings, tied with cords of purple and fine linen to silver rings in pillars of marble perished long ago. The gold and silver beds, which sat upon a pavement of red and blue and white and black marble, have had no occupants for more than 2400 years. The golden vessels, from which princes quaffed the royal wine, are all one with the golden sand grains of the desert. Time is no respecter of persons. If it buries the common things in "oblivion, that shadow of darkness," it does not forget to pluck the spangles from the robes of kings, tossing them into the night also. But time cannot dull the beauty of a great soul. Time cannot quench the flame of a white life. Time cannot stain the snow of a pure heart. And that is why Queen Vashti and the tragedy of her life forever hold our admiration and our tears.

Perhaps we shall be more capable of measuring the unfortunate queen by glancing at the monarch she opposed. Ahasuerus possessed the almost unlimited power of an Oriental despot. His will was supreme in everything. We find him here giving a feast to his lords and princes. Having conceived the idea of making war on Greece, this feast to his subjects is a step looking to that end. Whatever he undertook usually came to pass. He could dig a canal through the Isthmus of Mount Athos. He could build a bridge of ships across the Hellespont. He could scourge the sea for its tempestuousness. He could bedeck the branches of a tree with jewelry as a reward for its fruitfulness. He could raise an army of more than 2,250,000 men. He could even shed tears when he reflected that in less than a century not one of these men would survive. But we have in our text one thing this monarch could not do. He could not compel a helpless woman to permit him and his drunken courtiers to make a toy of her beauty. He could not drag a high-souled queen down from the pedestal of her stainless purity!

Consider, in the first place, that the life-story of Vashti recalls the fact that palaces have furnished the actors in some of the darkest, deepest tragedies in history. When Shakspeare wanted material from which to create his immortal dramas, with unerring vision the mighty master began to probe the life history of kings and queens. From their laughter and tears, from their splendor and shame, from their rise and fall, he wove a literary tapestry which is the growing wonder of men. Indeed, as we watch Shakspeare move his royal players over his mental chess-board, we have to exclaim, with Aeschylus, "What a shadow of a shade is human royalty!" Rising in brilliance, these royal stars set in darkness; and, usually, their darkness is made more terrible by the ominous flashings of red lightnings of remorse. After a palace and its occupants have passed under Shakspeare's pen, this is the conclusion of the whole matter: Thrones are painted bubbles, and kings and queens are bubble chasers! This is not saying there are no good kings and queens, because there are. It is, rather, emphasizing the fact that the happiest people are those who are fortunate enough not to have been born under the star of royalty.

We all know how the historian loves to dwell upon the character of Cleopatra. Beyond question, she was one of the most captivating women of paganism. Descended from a long line of kings, royal blood flowed in her veins, beauty adorned her person and brilliance sparkled in her brain. When Nature called for an Egyptian queen, this fascinating Greek princess was the answer. At fourteen she was an accomplished linguist, a student of history and a skilled musician. At nineteen she conquered that Caesar who had conquered the world. Forty-six years before the Christian era she accompanied him to Rome, where she lived in pomp and luxury until Caesar's assassination. When she returned to Egypt. She met Mark Antony at twenty-eight—"a period of life," according to Plutarch, "when woman's beauty is most splendid and her intellect is in full maturity." Antony summoned her to appear before him in Cilicia, charged with having assisted Cassius before the battle of Philippi. Upon this imperious summons hung the destiny of that gifted Roman, and he knew it not. You know how she answered the summons—not as a craven culprit, but as the peerless queen of the south. As she went up the Cydnus in her royal barge, the like of which was never beheld before or since, the scene enthralled the fancy of both Plutarch and Shakspeare. He who could make words say what no other man could, had to confess, "For her own person, it beggared all description." Like a burnished throne, her barge burned on the water; the poop was beaten gold; the purple sails were so perfumed that the winds were love-sick with them; the silver oars kept stroke to the tune of flutes; she was couched in a gold pavilion like Venus, "where we see the fancy outwork nature;" dimpled boys, like smiling Cupids, were standing on each side fanning her; gentlewomen, like Nereides, tended her. When she arrived at the city the people rushed out to see her, leaving Antony alone in the market-place.

Like the incomparable Julius, she came, she saw, she conquered! Antony was dazzled, bewitched, enslaved by this siren queen. Ever afterward, with the possible exception of three years, he was her slave. Not satisfied with lavishing silver and gold and precious stones and silks and works of art upon her, he threw whole kingdoms at her feet, as if they were so many Roman forget-me-nots. He was as helpless in her power as a bird under the hypnotic spell of a snake. All the world knows how, at a critical moment in the battle of Actium, Cleopatra, for some unknown reason, was seen leaving with her vessels for Egypt. This was a signal for Antony to abandon the battle and follow his sorceress. For strength, she gave him weakness. For infatuation, she gave him deceit. For the sweets of love, she gave him the eggs of scorpions. For idolatry, she gave him death. The Egyptian Delilah had clipped ten locks of this Roman Samson and he wist not that his strength was departed from him.

So far this bewildering woman has only toyed with strong men. This child of the palace has held the golden bit of destiny between her teeth of pearl and her gods have not reined her in. But her end is coming. After betraying Antony, she retired within a castle, which had been built for just such an emergency. She then sent her paramour word that she had killed herself and his grief was such that he fell upon his own sword. But he lived long enough to discover that she had deceived him again. Dying and soaked in his own blood, he ordered his servants to carry him to her mausoleum. As the only entrance to her retreat left unbarred was a window, he was drawn up by ropes into her presence and died. And what became of her—this actor from the palace? You know the story. How she tried her charms upon Octavius Caesar and failed. How the prospect of being carried a prisoner to Rome stared her in the face and how, rather than be "led a captive princess up the Capitoline Hill," she died by her own hand. Lacking moral sense, she wore a face of brass to the end of the tragedy. Unlike the sweet-souled Vashti, Cleopatra had no veil of modesty for her face, and she asked none for her soul. Darker than Egyptian night, she has left a dark stain upon the brow of universal womanhood! Whiter than the whiteness of the dawn, Vashti, like Shelley's heroine, "clothed in virtue's adamantine eloquence, paves her path with human hearts!"

Consider, also, that in studying the tragedy of Vashti, we have to reckon with her beauty, "for she was fair to look on." When some genius equal to the task of writing a history of beauty appears, men and women will find a perpetual charm in its glowing pages. It will contain a page of joy, a page of sorrow, a page of peace, a page of war, a page of love, a page of hate, a page of poetry and a page of art. But it will contain many pages developing this thought—the tragedy of beauty.

But along with her beauty, Vashti possessed that other quality which lends beauty an enduring freshness and charm—modesty. Vashti owes her place in history not so much to her beauty as to her modesty. If beauty made her a queen, modesty made her a woman, which is far better. As queen, Xerxes could banish her; as woman, he was defied by her. As queen, he could and did dethrone; as woman, she sits upon a throne that has hearts for its cushions and centuries for its pillars. The Dubarrys, the Pompadours, the Montespans have their day and cease to be; but the Vashtis go on forever. The Clytemnestras, the Aspasias, the Cleopatras are meteors flashing through the darkness of eternal night; the Vashtis are golden suns burning through womanhood's endless day!

Indeed, modesty is so inherent an element in the great essentials making genuine beauty that without modesty beauty is impossible. We are indebted to no human law for this truth—God has woven it into the fabric of our natures. Art critics tell us that the eighteenth century was pre-eminently the century of women. Then, we are told: "Her grace possessed the most prestige, her coquetry the most disquieting elegance and her beauty the most triumphant authority." It was the age in which Mme. de Pompadour reigned in the court of Louis XV. The brushes of Latour and Boucher have pleaded with all the eloquence of their genius and art to deify this daring woman. She appointed ministers, she exiled those who incurred her ill will, she sentenced to the Bastile those who ran counter to her imperious wish. She was the patroness of philosophy, art and song. Through her magic wand Versailles was touched into a dream of splendor, which has not yet vanished. Her collection of pictures, crystals, cameos, antiques and gems was unparalleled in the kingdom. She squandered fortunes on her palaces, fetes and ball; and then other fortunes on her toilet. For twenty years this butcher's daughter held her imperial sway, which was broken only by death. But when the historian tells us that it was the dream of her girlhood to seduce the king; that her shameless prodigality makes the cheek of decency burn; that modesty found no hospitality among her sensual charms, we may well repeat the question of another, "Was La Pompadour beautiful, or merely pretty?" Instinctively drawing back as we would in the presence of a snake, we answer, "She was neither. She was a royal harlot, paraded in gilded shame, lacking most of all that jewel of modesty which sparkles in the crown of true beauty." Alas for that land whose women forsake their veils of modesty to show the people and princes their beauty!

Consider, finally, the price Vashti paid for her modesty. For her refusal to come at the king's command was the immediate cause of her dethronement. Surely there are few finer exhibitions of sacrifice in the history of womanhood. We love to read of Telesilla, who united courage with the gift of song, and saved Argos; of Octavia, shielding the children of Cleopatra, her shameless rival; of Sulpicia, renouncing the pleasures of Rome to go into exile with her husband; of Lucretia, who killed herself rather than live in dishonor; of Cornelia, the mother of the Gracchi, urging them to deeds of patriotism; of Paula, leaving her palace on Mount Aventine, to walk as an angel of charity through the slums of Rome, but not one of them outshines Vashti.

Nor has history given this lovely queen her dues. We read much of Lais, who lived in the same century as Vashti, and who was a notorious courtesan; of the immoral Aspasia, who counted Socrates and Pericles among her long list of admirers; of the treacherous Lucilla, who ruled the court of Marcus Aurelius; of Agrippina, the infamous mother of still more infamous son—Nero. All of these names have been emblazoned high up in the hall of fame. But, sadly enough, the events of Vashti's life, like Sappho's songs, have been lost. And yet these few glimpses we have of her in the first and second chapters of the Book of Esther will cause people to look at her forever. She was beautiful in Shushan the palace, and she will be beautiful for all time. She was fair to look on five centuries before Christ, and she will be fair to look on to the last day of the world. It was Vashti's beauty of soul that proclaimed her the forerunner of that renaissance for which the world is suffering to-day, viz.: A genuine revival of the old-fashioned, homespun, immortal virtue of modesty!

While the Bible says nothing of the sacrifice she made, be assured that it was big with pain. Long nights of sorrow shut her in. She knew the bitterness of friendless days. Like Dante, she experienced how hard it was to eat other's bread. But she took no counsel of her expediency. Let the king's anger burn within him, let the godless court make her a laughing-stock, still Vashti never faltered. She knew that beyond her Gethsemane, Ascension Mount was robed in glory. She knew, with all queenly women of like spirit, that gates of pearl would swing back to let her in, and that she would march to another coronation on high.

The Many Mansions.

One thing I have desired, that will I seek after; that I, in my study; I, in my shop; I, in my parlor, kitchen or nursery; I, in my studio; I, in my lecture hall, "may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life." In our "Father's house are many mansions." The room that we spend most of our lives in, each of us at our tasks or our work tables, may be in our Father's house, too, and it is only we that can secure that it shall be.—Alexander Maclaren.

Be Humble.

I charge my thoughts be humble still,
And all my conduct mild;
Content, my Father, with Thy will,
And quiet as a child.
Unite, my roving thoughts, unite
In silence soft and sweet;
And thou, my soul, sit gently down
At thy great Sovereign's feet.

The Horse's Secret.

Berlin—Dr. Carl Stumpf, professor of psychology at the University of Berlin, and a member of the Royal Academy of Science, and two colleagues, Dr. C. von Hornbostel and Dr. O. Pfungst, have ended months of experiments with von Osten's horse, "Hans." They find that the secret of the animal's replies is in his powers of observation which enable him to preceive while he looks at his questioner the instant he has reached a correct answer.

Thus they found the horse was unable to tap out accurate answers to a question when the person putting it did not know the answer, for example: "How many persons are in the group behind me?" The questioner, not looking, did not know the number and Hans was unable to give a correct reply, nor was he able when wearing blinkers to calculate, or to perform the simplest counting. Stumpf does not doubt the good faith of von Osteen, but he concluded that the horse's long training had enabled him to detect the eyesight changes in the bearing of his questioner and thereby he reached the right number of hoof beats in spelling or in using the counting apparatus.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

SISTERS OF CHARITY

Uses Pe-ru-na for Coughs, Colds, Grip and Catarrh—A Congressman's Letter.

In every country of the civilized world Sisters of Charity are known. Not only do they minister to the spiritual and intellectual needs of the charges committed to their care, but they also minister to their bodily needs.

With so many children to take care of and to protect from climate and disease, these wise and prudent Sisters have found Peruna a never failing safeguard.

Dr. Hartman receives many letters from Catholic Sisters from all over the United States. A recommend recently received from a Catholic institution in Detroit, Mich., reads as follows:

Dr. S. B. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio:

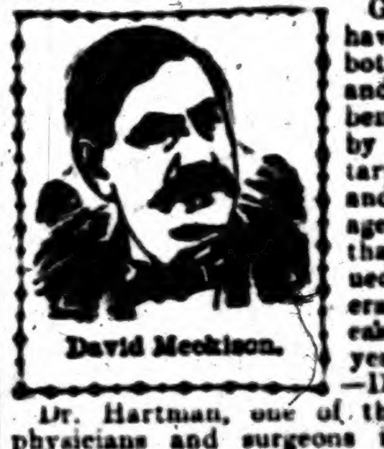
Dear Sir: "The young girl who used the Peruna was suffering from laryngitis and loss of voice. The result of the treatment was most satisfactory. She found great relief, and after further use of the medicine we hope to be able to say she is entirely cured."—Sisters of Charity.

The young girl was under the care of the Sisters of Charity and used Peruna for cataarh of the throat with good results as the above letter testifies.

Send to The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio, for a free book written by Dr. Hartman.

The following letter is from Congressman Meekison, of Napoleon, Ohio:

The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.:



David Meekison.

Gentlemen: "I have used several bottles of Peruna and feel greatly benefited thereby from my catarrh of the head, and feel encouraged to believe that its continued use will fully eradicate a disease of thirty years' standing."—David Meekison

Dr. Hartman, one of the best known physicians and surgeons in the United States, was the first man to formulate Peruna. It was through his genius and perseverance that it was introduced to the medical profession of this country.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

RAILROAD TIES OF LEATHER.

Made From Scraps Picked Up in Shoe Factories.

One of the most curious recent uses of waste material is the making of railroad ties from scrap leather such as is found in great quantities in shoe factories. F. W. Dunnell, of West Warren, Mass., has worked out a process by which ties can be made which he thinks will stand much more wear than any wooden ties. He claims 35 years of usefulness for leather ties used in ordinary railroad traffic, and tests of more than two years in yards where the wear is unusually heavy seem to support his belief in the durability of the ties he has made.

The Laws of Nature.

The universe is under the reign of law, which is everywhere—in things mean and minute as well as in things noble and great. So far as we have come into an understanding of these laws we have found none defective.

No sound philosophy can concede that a law of nature can be out of balance or in any way less than true and perfect. When we advance a theory to the point where it would prove that a law of nature is out of balance and defective, we should know that the conclusion is wrong; that it is our reasoning, and not the law, that is out of balance and defective.—From "Balance: The Fundamental Verity," by Orlando J. Smith.

Do not Suppress a Cough.

When you have a cough do not try to suppress it, but remove the cause. The cough is only a symptom of some disease, and the disease is what you should cure, then the cough will stop of itself. The most common cause of coughing is a cold. Anodynes will promptly suppress the cough, and preparations containing chloroform, opium, etc., are used for that purpose, but they do not cure the cold. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy on the other hand does not suppress the cough, but relieves it by removing from the throat and lungs the mucus which obstructed the breathing and allaying the irretation and tickling in the throat. It also opens the secretions and effectually and permanently cures the cold as well as the cough. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Notice to Non-Resident.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County.
Chancery Court, 7th District, Northeastern Division. No 48. In vacation, 1904.
David Daniel, Complainant, vs Rebecca Daniel, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register, by the affidavit on file of Messrs. Smith & Middleton, Attorneys for the Complainant, that the Defendant, Rebecca Daniel, is a non-resident of the State of Alabama, and her residence and post-office address are unknown to affiant, and further that in the belief of said affiant the Defendant, Rebecca Daniel is over the age of twenty one years.

It is therefore ordered by the Register, that publication be made in the Banner, a newspaper published in Clanton, Chilton county, Ala., once a week for four consecutive weeks requiring her, the said Rebecca Daniel, to answer, plead or demur to the bill of complaint in the above cause on or before the 20th day of January, 1905, and failing so to do within thirty days after the service of this summons a decree pro confesso may be taken against her in said cause.

Wine of Cardui Cured Her.

212 South Prior Street,
ATLANTA, GA., March 21, 1903.

I suffered for four months with extreme nervousness and lassitude. I had a sinking feeling in my stomach which no medicine seemed to relieve, and losing my appetite I became weak and lost my vitality. In three weeks I lost fourteen pounds of flesh and felt that I must find speedy relief to regain my health. Having heard Wine of Cardui praised by several of my friends, I sent for a bottle and was certainly very pleased with the results. Within three days my appetite returned and my stomach troubled me no more. I could digest my food without difficulty and the nervousness gradually diminished. Nature performed her functions without difficulty and I am once more a happy and well woman.

The Laws of Nature.

The universe is under the reign of law, which is everywhere—in things mean and minute as well as in things noble and great. So far as we have come into an understanding of these laws we have found none defective.

No sound philosophy can concede that a law of nature can be out of balance or in any way less than true and perfect. When we advance a theory to the point where it would prove that a law of nature is out of balance and defective, we should know that the conclusion is wrong; that it is our reasoning, and not the law, that is out of balance and defective.—From "Balance: The Fundamental Verity," by Orlando J. Smith.

Do not Suppress a Cough.

When you have a cough do not try to suppress it, but remove the cause. The cough is only a symptom of some disease, and the disease is what you should cure, then the cough will stop of itself. The most common cause of coughing is a cold. Anodynes will promptly suppress the cough, and preparations containing chloroform, opium, etc., are used for that purpose, but they do not cure the cold. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy on the other hand does not suppress the cough, but relieves it by removing from the throat and lungs the mucus which obstructed the breathing and allaying the irritation and tickling in the throat. It also opens the secretions and effectually and permanently cures the cold as well as the cough. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Notice to Non-Resident.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County.

Chancery Court, 7th District, Northeastern Division. No 46. In vacation, 1904.

David Daniel, Complainant, vs Rebecca Daniel, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register, by the affidavit on file of Messrs. Smith & Middleton, Attorneys for the Complainant, that the Defendant, Rebecca Daniel, is a non-resident of the State of Alabama, and her residence and post-office address are unknown to affiant, and further that in the belief of said affiant the Defendant, Rebecca Daniel is over the age of twenty one years.

It is therefore ordered by the Register, that publication be made in the Banner, a newspaper published in Clanton, Chilton county, Ala., once a week for four consecutive weeks requiring her, the said Rebecca Daniel, to answer, plead or demur to the bill of complaint in the above cause on or before the 20th day of January, 1905, and failing so to do within thirty days after the service of this summons a decree pro confesso may be taken against her in said cause.

Witness my hand, this 19th day of December, 1904. S. A. STEWART, Register in Chancery.

need a personification of the Eternal, cause we must have some image that we can see, some conception that we can grasp, some humanized thought, make Him of stone, we make our imagination. And after all that image hangs on the wall, tured in stone, or is simply engraved our brain, it is still an idol, a that stands for reality. God says, too great, too infinite, eternal for define or grasp. The agnostic is saying, 'You do not know Him,' but der that you may know Him I will and dwell among men and fill one life full of Myself, and through that you shall interpret Me. You may obtain your desire for one you can by the hand, into whose eyes you can and whom you can comprehend."

We are to see not only what God done in the past, but what He is doing. Always God was in His work He always is in it, forgiving, pitying, ing, feeding, comforting, strength We do not know it, but He is always in the hearts and lives of men, doing He did in the past, still saying to Nicodemus, "You need to be born again;" to Pharisee, "Woe unto you that widows' houses;" to the weeping "Thy brother is not dead. There dying;" to the penitent sinner, crushed the memory of a wasted life, "Go in thy sins are forgiven thee." The Christ did not stop at the cross. not say that we look at the cross too but I will say that we have looked at resurrection too little. Christ's is a tinuous life. That is what He means He says, "I am with you always," must realize that He is here and now the lives of men. My conception of Bible has undergone a great cleans cannot any longer go to a text and "That settles it." I then shut Bible up and say it is but a record of life? No, it is the revelation of the life, the interpretation of God in experience not only in the devout but in the undevout; not only in the believ but in the skeptical. The Bible seems me like a great orchestra of 100 men playing to express the musical life that in the conductor. It is God speak through the experiences of men. I be that God is carrying us through a tion time (all times are transition time and taking away the idols upon which rested and which we have counted sac in order that He may carry us back Himself, and that, if we take the ex ience of the past twenty centuries and derstand the message it sends, its lit ture, history and religious life aright shall find it all explains these words of Paul: we are not to ascend into heave bring God out of the past, nor look to future, but we are to look about us understand that He is still directing destiny of nations and ourselves. We to look within us and know that the ations, the desires, the dissatisfaction ourselves, the longing for something and better—these are the voices of was always and always will be in ld; and through the church and and by the revelation of Himself Christ, God manifest in the flesh, it will bring us, not to the church, no those ible, not to the mediator, but f. BATTLESHIP REVIEW spatch Boat Dolphin Carries Party Down Along the Line of Magnificent Vessels.

Hampton Roads, Where Salutes Are Fired Under the American Flag.

KEARSARGE TAKES THE LEAD.

Norfolk, Va.—Headed by the first- ss battleship Kearsarge, flying the ue pennant of Rear Admiral A. S. rker, eighteen warships of the ited States navy are on their way wn the coast to the winter maneuv ing grounds after having been in ected and reviewed in Hampton ads by Secretary of the Navy Paul orton and Admiral George Dewey. The fleet made up of the battle ips, coast and Carribean squadrons d the second flotilla of torpedo boat stroyers, is one of the most power ever gathered in Hampton Roads der the American flag.

The battleship Kearsarge, the flag ip of Rear Admiral Barker, headed e central column while the Texas, ying Rear Admiral Sand's pennant, d the coast warships, behind which as the cruiser Newark, flagship of e Carribean squadron with Rear Ad iral Sigsbee's pennant at her main ak. The torpedo boat flotilla was der command of Lieutenant Com ander Johnston on the Whipple.

Was Perfect Day.

There was not a cloud to cast a adow over the Roads when the dis tch boat Dolphin, carrying the Sec tary and Admiral of the navy, ar ved and were greeted by a seventeen n salute from the land batteries of ort Monroe and the flagships of the ree squadrons.

The inspection consisted of the Dol hin steaming down the line of the ips between the battleships and the ast squadrons, and returning to ke her station at the head of the lumns between the Kearsarge and exas. When she had dropped an or Rear Admirals Barker, Sands d Sigsbee made official calls upon e Secretary of the Navy and Admiral ewey. They were followed by the mmandant of Fort Monroe. As each the squadron commanders left the ck of the Dolphin, a rear admiral's lute was given, and a 19-gun salute as fired when Colonel Ramsey D. otts, the fort commander, left.

The visits of these officers were llowed by calls from the command g officers of the various ships, after hich the Dolphin weighed anchor d proceeded toward the capes.

Kearsarge Takes the Lead.

When she had gone about a half ile the Kearsarge got under way and as followed by all the other vessels the following order at eighth of a ile intervals:

Battleships Kentucky, Illinois, Ala ma, Missouri and Iowa; coast uadron, battleship Texas, monitors lorida, Nevada, and Arkansas; Car ean squadron, cruisers Newark, Ta ma, Denver and the converted yacht corpion; torpedo flotilla destroyers Whipple, MacDonough, Stewart and orden.

When the capes were reached the olphin dropped out from the head of e column, and as each flagship assed in review a 17-gun salute was red.

The ships inspected and reviewed presented a total tonnage of 98,679 d carried 410 officers and 5,166 men.

shville, Tenn.—The democratic islative caucus nominated W. B. s to succeed himself as United es senator from Tennessee. The ublicans will vote for Congressman P. Brownlow.

Americans Absorb It.

London—The shareholders of the Costa Rica railroad (British) at a meeting today indorsed the agreement whereby the Northern Railroad company of Costa Rica (American) absorbs the British concern. The agreement will become effective July 1st, from which time the American company will operate the Costa Rica railroad for about sixty-six years, which is the balance for the British company term for the concession, the American company paying for it annually in stipulated amounts, commencing with $655,000, and gradually increasing until 1912, after which time the annual payment will be $745,500.

The chairman of the Costa Rica railroad said the absorption would greatly assist the United States Fruit company in developing the banana trade.

Texas Must Raise Money.

Austin, Tex.—The twenty-ninth session of the Texas legislature convenes at noon Tuesday in regular session. The present session is an important one.

In addition to current expenses for the next two years it will have to make good a deficit of nearly $2,000,000 making the amount necessary some eight or ten million dollars. In order to meet these requirements it will be necessary to thoroughly revise the taxation system of the state or it is anticipated that along this line corporate and all intangible property will come in for considerable attention. As a result of activity along this line it is contemplated that the house will be quite as largely represented here as the regular legislative body.

Cotton Mills Liquidate.

Boston—The stockholders of the Boott Cotton mills of Lowell voted to authorize the directors to liquidate the company at a special meeting here Monday. To unsettled conditions in the cotton market during the past year, and to southern competition, are assigned the difficulty the corporation has met in continuing business at a profitable figure. The mills were shut down for three months last year, involving not only a loss of quick capital, but an addition of $160,000 to the liabilities. The company is capitalized at $1,200,000.

Cotton Mills Claim Gain.

Fall River, Mass.—The cotton mills claimed to have made large gains upon the beginning of the twenty-fifth week of the strike, but labor leaders say that all gains have been offset by losses from among those who previously had gone in.

Thirty-five weavers of the Bourne mills came out again today, saying they could not make living wages. There is no change in the general situation. The labor men express a willingness to demand unqualified surrender.

Town is Almost Destroyed.

San Antonio, Tex.—One-half of the town of Devine, thirty miles south of San Antonio, was destroyed by fire Monday night, and the remainder of the city was being threatened when the fire drove the operator who had been sending out the news from the telephone office and caused the telephone operator to cut out his instruments, leaving the place entirely cut off from the outside world. Three two-story and nine one-story buildings, principally business houses, were destroyed.

Old Sailor Drowned.

Mobile, Ala.—Captain Tom Benton, of the tug boat Eleanor, was drowned off the mouth of Fish river in Mobile bay Sunday. He was missed at this point, but no one saw him fall overboard.

He was an old seaman and resided at Bon Secour. He leaves a widow and several small children. The body has not been recovered.

Whiskey Basis Lowered.

Cincinnati—The basis price for whiskey was lowered in the chamber of commerce quotations Monday to 1.23. This follows the lowering by the trust at Peoria to 1.22. It is not likely that another attempt will be made to get the trust quotation on the chamber of commerce books.

British Steamer is Damaged.

Hamburg—As a result of having encountered extremely heavy weather on the voyage from Galveston, the British steamer Glengoil has arrived considerably damaged about deck. Her rudder is broken and other injuries were sustained.

Walk Damaged by Ocean Tide.

Atlantic City, N. J.—An immense tide driven up by the southeast gale sweeping along the coast during Friday flooded the beach front Monday. A large storehouse under the steel pier was badly damaged, the heavy planking of its front being torn out by the breakers, and two fishing boats lying near Young's pier were smashed against the pier piling.

Greek Riot in Jerusalem.

Jerusalem.—The Greek Christmas observances in the Grotto of the Nativity of Bethlehem were marked by a sharp fight between Greek and Latin clergy, arising from the old time jealousy regarding protection of the Grotto. The Greek patriarch was celebrating midnight mass when Franciscan monks created a disturbance. A collision ensued resulting in some bloodshed. The governor had to be summoned to quell the rioting.

CARTER SAID TO LEAD

Dr. Hughes Will Not be Now Retained as Postmaster of Birmingham.

P. M. GENERAL'S RULE FINAL.

If Their Choice is a Republican Who is Satisfactory, They Will Make the Selection.

Washington.—J. Rivers Carter probably will succeed Dr. J. W. Hughes as postmaster at Birmingham. The referees, J. O. Thompson and Charles H. Scott, were at the white house Saturday night discussing Alabama politics, but they made no recommendation as to the Birmingham vacancy.

Both referees have returned to Alabama and it is said will make no decision in the postoffice matter before the end of the present week. However, the candidacy of Carter is the most prominent and there is good reason to believe that he will land the plum.

There is no doubt but that the president will act on the recommendation of Thompson and Scott if they name a republican who is qualified and satisfactory in other ways.

W. F. Tebbets, collector of customs at Mobile, returned to Washington Saturday night. He is still hopeful of winning his fight for reappointment even in the face of Thompson's continued and determined opposition.

The Local Situation.

There is nothing new locally in the postoffice situation. The conference between the president and his Alabama referees on Saturday night last at the white house seems to have settled it finally that Postmaster Hughes is to be displaced. The same conference also settled the fact that the referees to name his successor provided a republican who is qualified and will give satisfaction is recommended.

While Dr. Hughes is guilty of nothing more than a violation of the technical regulations of the department, it is said that the president does not care to establish a precedent in his case by overruling the decision of the postmaster general to the effect that Dr. Hughes must go. Dr. Hughes, it is further stated, will give up the postmastership just as soon as his successor has been named. It is also expected that no decision in the matter will be reached before the end of the present week at earliest.

The special given above indicates that J. Rivers Carter at present stands the best chance of securing the endorsement of the referees. As is well known, Mr. Carter is a prominent civil engineer of this city. He is a republican, but has taken no active or partisan part with either of the factions in this state.

There are many who believe that in the event that a republican does not get the postmastership it will go to Gen. R. D. Johnston. It is said that the president thinks highly of General Johnston, whose son was with the president in the Cuban campaign, and there is a strong belief in many quarters that if a democrat is named General Johnston will be the man.

It is also suggested that the referee may present the names of all applicants and leave the responsibility of selecting the man entirely with the department. This, however, is regarded as somewhat improbable.

Meanwhile the friends of several candidates are very active and some strenuous work will be done during the next few days.

Mississippi Farmers to Meet.

Jackson, Miss.—Nearly every county paper in the state of Mississippi contains calls for farmers' meetings during the next two weeks. These meetings are for the purpose of selecting delegates to the Cotton Growers' Convention that is to be held in New Orleans on the 24th of January, and most of them are in response to a circular letter sent out by Mr. Walter Clark, of Clarksdale, who is the vice president of the Cotton Growers' Association for the state. The farmers of Mississippi are very much in earnest about a reduction of acreage for this year, and no one need be surprised if the acreage is cut down one-fourth. They are also very decidedly in favor of holding all the cotton that they have on hand until next fall, or longer, if necessary, and will go to the New Orleans meeting in hopes that some feasible plan may be adopted that will secure concert of action in all the cotton states.

Celebrated in New York.

New York.—The fall of Port Arthur was celebrated here Sunday at a mass meeting of Japanese residents of the city, held in Carnegie hall. The affair was intended to be solely for the Japanese residents, 500 of whom attended, and the only invited guests were General Stewart L. Woodford, former minister to Spain, and Alex Tison, both of whom spoke.

Winchester, Ky.—The jury in the case of Mrs. Abella Marcum, who sued Judge Hargis, ex-State Senator Alex Hargis, Sheriff Ed Callahan, of Breathitt county, and Attorney Fulton French for $100,000 for alleged conspiracy with Curtis Jett and Thomas White to slay her husband, James B. Marcum, today returned a verdict for $8,000 against James Hargis and Sheriff Callahan, and found for the defendants in the case of French and Alex Hargis.

A Vast Treasure Found.

New York.—A tale of unearthed hidden treasure amounting to $100,000, according to some versions, has become public to add to the histories of sudden wealth in the recent Bronx real estate boom.

In an old brick vault underneath the site where stood Theodore M. Macey's mansion workmen who are excavating are said to have found a rusty iron-bound chest containing enough money to pay for the modern apartment house that is to be erected. The chest is now in the hands of the owner of the ground.

The Macey mansion, with the single exception of a club house, was the last of the many colonial homes that once ornamented what is now the Bronx. The house was situated at Longwood and Prospect avenues, and was sold a short time ago to the present owner.

Gold Mining Company Formed.

Birmingham, Ala.—Messrs. T. H. Aldrich, Sr., and T. H. Aldrich, Jr., will this week incorporate "The Hillabee Gold Mining Company," with capital stock of $100,000. The incorporation papers will be filed in Tallapoosa county, where the gold lands are located and where development is already

For a number of months the Messrs. Aldrich have had men and machinery at work on their property in Tallapoosa county getting out ore and putting it in shape for the market. It is stated that the property is being worked at a good profit. Mr. A. P. Kennedy is the manager, and a stamping outfit is being operated. Mr. T. H. Aldrich, Sr., is president and his son is secretary and treasurer.

The Hillabee Gold Mining Company has 1,500 acres of land in Tallapoosa county, and fifty tons of ore are worked on daily. The returns will average several thousand dollars worth of gold a week.

Fifty Are Frozen to Death.

Berlin.—More than fifty persons were frozen to death in the provinces of East Prussia, West Prussia, and Posen during the recent cold period, including two letter carriers, the driver of a post wagon, a policeman and fifteen fishermen.

Nothing has been heard of the lightship station off Borkum reef, Hanover, which broke away from her anchorage Friday night during a terrific storm and went adrift. The government has sent out a steamer for the missing vessel. The lightship has a crew of fourteen persons.

Furnace Blown In.

Bessemer, Ala.—With the blowing in of furnace No. 4 at Robertstown Sunday morning, the industrial circle here has taken a decided upward trend. All the furnaces of this city have been out of blast for some time past, and this fact has been responsible for a considerable depression in the business here. Recently, however, all the coke ovens of the Tennessee Company have been put in operation, as have also those at Brookwood, and the supply of coke is gradually regaining its normal status, so that the early resumption of the other four furnaces in Bessemer is considered a certainty in the near future.

Gov. Folk Inaugurated.

Jefferson City, Mo.—Joseph W. Folk was sworn in as governor of Missouri Monday. The occasion was one of enthusiasm for the thousands of democrats who came from all parts of the state to participate in the ceremonies. For the first time in the political history of the state the unique spectacle was presented of both the republicans and democrats taking part in the inauguration, for among the minor state officers who took their seats were several members of the republican party.

May Give Up Taylor.

Louisville, Ky.—With the inauguration of Governor Hanly, of Indiana, politicians of Kentucky are speculating as to the probable effect the change of administration may have on the fate of William S. Taylor, the fugitive former governor of this state, who has been protected by Governor Durbin, of Indiana, since the assassination of Governor William E. Goebel. Intimate friends of Governor Hanly have expressed the opinion that he will reopen the Taylor case and give it every consideration.

Turkish Alarm.

Constantinople.—The porte has been thrown into a state of alarm by the report that Bulgarian revolutionists have planned the destruction of Constantinople. According to the report the Bulgarians have concealed a quantity of explosives near Dodeaghatch in the district of Salonika, which is on the line which offords most rapid transport from Constantinople to the Turkish frontier.

Russian Vessels Sail.

Suda Bay—Admiral Botrovsky's division of the Russian second Pacific squadron, consisting of the cruisers Oleg, Isumrud, Dnieper and Rion and the torpedo boat destroyers Grosny, Gromski and Rezity, which had been delayed in Suda Bay, left this afternoon for Port Said.

Carnegie Library Opened.

Selma, Ala.—Monday and Monday night the Carnegie library was the scene of a brilliant and ever-changing throng, the occasion being the formal opening of the building which has been erected through the enterprise and liberality of Selma's citizens and the munificence of Mr. Carnegie. The beautiful building is indeed a comfortable and cheerful place, and will prove a popular resort of culture in Selma.

EXPLOSION KILLS NINE

Towboat Defender is Shattered Opposite Huntington, W. Va.

CREW HURLED INTO WATER

Boilers Burst on Ohio River Steamer and Fierce Flames Follow—Her Barges All Take Fire—Of Thirty-eight Men and One Woman Aboard at the Time Only Nine Escaped Serious Injury.

Huntington, W. Va.—At 11 o'clock at night residents of this city were startled by a terrific explosion, followed almost immediately by a lurid glare which lighted up the heavens for miles around. The boilers of the towboat Defender had exploded just opposite the city, and the boat and a number of the barges in tow were in flames.

The work of rescuing the killed and injured at once began and it was soon found that the loss of life had been great. Of the thirty-eight men on the boat only nine escaped serious injury. Several dead bodies have been recovered. Five others were so badly burned and scalded that their lives could not be saved. Six more of the crew could not be accounted for.

A partial list of the dead and missing follows:

Perry Spencer, mate, Point Pleasant, W. Va.; Horace Wetsel, Pittsburg; James Cease, lamp trimmer, Pittsburg; Thomas Duffy and Scott Hamilton, of Pittsburg, and James ——, firemen, of Coryopolis, Pa., supposed to have burned to death; William Wetsel, George Kidd and David Adkins, deck hands, Pittsburg.

The dangerously injured are:

John Wilson, cook, Middleport, O.; Robert Holland, roustabout; Ira Ellis, second engineer; John Francis, Patrick Conley, second cook, and Richard Conley, all of Pittsburg, and an unidentified woman.

The Defender was owned by the Pittsburg Towboat Company and was one of the largest towboats on the river. She was one of the first boats out of Pittsburg on the recent rise, and towed a heavy line of coal barges to the Cincinnati market. She was returning to Pittsburg with the Victor of the same company, and it is asserted that the two big steamers were racing at the time the explosion occurred. The Victor was about a mile ahead of the Defender at the time, and her crew knew nothing of the disaster.

The burning of the Defender was viewed by thousands of people, many of whom stood shivering along the shores, dressed only in thin night clothes. The work of rescue of the victims was difficult, owing to the darkness, and only a few yawls could be obtained to go to the scene.

Captain Woodruff of the Defender was picked up fifty yards from the steamer by some small boys, who rowed in a yawl from the Ohio shore, and he was taken to that side of the river. He was not seriously injured. One victim was found half a mile below the scene, clutching a portion of the wreckage and so chilled he could not speak.

The boat, almost immediately after the explosion, sank to the bottom, not more than sixty yards from the West Virginia shore. The barges in tow were soon all aflame. They were cut loose and floated down the stream. They were finally landed and the flames extinguished by the fire department.

The dead body of Thomas Duffy, of Pittsburg, a fireman on the steamer, was one of the first taken from the wreck. The body of a fireman known as James was the next recovered.

Those rescued from the steamer were so seriously injured that they could give no names or information. It was believed that many bodies were blown into the river, and will never be recovered.

POLICEMAN KILLED IN A RIOT.

Attempt to Arrest Two Alleged Hold-up Men in Chicago Results Fatally.

Chicago, Ill.—In a riot at Twenty-fifth place, Policeman James J. Keefe, of the Maxwell street station, received wounds from which he died later at Mercy Hospital. Policeman Richard J. Birmingham, of the same station, was seriously wounded.

During the time of the riot the streets in the vicinity were filled with a mob of excited men. The riot was caused by the effort of the police to raid the house where Frank Gagan lives. He and Ollie Feinberg were arrested on charges of holding up several persons on the South Side recently.

Feinberg escaped during the riot but Gagan was arrested.

ATTACKS BEEF COMBINE.

Declares Meat Consolidation a Conspiracy in Restraint of Trade.

Washington, D. C.—Attorney General Moody submitted to the United States Supreme Court the brief of the government in the so-called Beef Trust case. It arraigns Swift & Co. and other members of the alleged combination for violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust act, contending that the methods of the trust stifle competition and restrain trade in fresh beef.

The Attorney General in the government's brief mercilessly denounces the methods of the trust, and insists that a conspiracy exists to control the markets of the nation for fresh meat.

Baltic Fleet Anchors.

Rojestvensky's squadron of five battleships and three cruisers, with transport and smaller craft, anchored in the harbor at Sainte-Marie, Madagascar.

American Japs Hear News.

Dispatches were received by Baron Kaneko and Consul-General Uchida, of New York City, telling of the surrender of Port Arthur.

Perjury Charges Dismissed.

The perjury charges against ex-Justice E. L. Fursman were dismissed at Troy, N. Y.

Premier's Life Threatened.

Washington.—Chief Wilkie, of the secret service, received a telegram from Lebanon, Pa., stating that Ignace Wenzler, a laborer in one of the iron mills there, had been arrested and held under $2,000 bond for attempting to blackmail and threatening the life of Count Von Tisza, the premier of Hungary.

Some weeks ago, it is said, Wenzler wrote the count, signing three fictitious names to the letter, stating that Wenzler, a distant relation of his, was in great need and demanding a remittance of $2,000, in default of which a representative of the "Black Hand" would go to Budapest and kill the count before Christmas day.

Russian Prisoners Celebrate.

Headquarters of the Third Japanese Army, via Fusan.—The Russian prisoners while waiting today at Changkingtsu, a railroad station for Dalny, celebrated the approach of the new year. Religious services were held in the morning at 10 o'clock, and the assembling of prisoners was discoursed on by a Russian priest in full canonical dress. After the services there was music and dancing on the open ground in front of the station.

The 5year-old daughter of a Russian officer was among the prisoners.

Fifty per cent of the officers are going to Japan.

Will Install Exchange.

Anniston—The Southern Bell Telephone company through the local office will install an exchange and full outfit for the use of the Western Steel Car and Foundry company at the local plant. The central exchange will be at the local office, while a telephone line will be run so that the office of each department will have a 'phone connected directly with the head office. The specifications are in the hands of Manager J. L. Brown and he will begin the work shortly so as to have it completed when the plant begins operations.

Land Office Men Removed.

Washington.—As the result of the investigation and prosecution of land fraud cases in Oregon the president has signed an order suspending from office James H. Booth and Joseph T. Bridges, respectively register and receiver of the United States land office at Roseburg, Ore. The action is on the recommendation of Secretary Hitchcock, and was based on a telegram from Assistant United States District Attorney Henry, who alleged that the affairs of the Roseburg office were in bad condition.

Haul Made by Robbers.

Decatur, Ala.—Armed with Winchester rifles, a brace of revolvers and with masks covering their faces, two unknown men late Saturday night robbed six men who were engaged in playing poker on a house boat on the Tennessee river thirty miles above here.

About a thousand dollars in diamonds and jewelry and four hundred dollars in cash were secured.

The robbers escaped into Sand Mountain unfollowed. They are believed to be moonshiners.

Fighting in Germany.

Berlin.—Lieut.-Gen. Von Trotha, commander-in-chief of the German forces in German Southwest Africa, cables that Major Meisler had stubborn fights January 2, 3 and 4 with a thousand Witbois and occupied Grossnabas after fifty hours' fighting. The losses have not yet been ascertained.

Probate Judge Short.

Montgomery, Ala.—State Examiner Sedberry, in his report to the governor Monday on the accounts of the officials of Marengo county, finds S. P. Prowell, probate judge, due the state over $3,000. The examiner states the shortage is due to gross carelessness.

Will Take Jap Transport.

Tokio—General Stoessel and the other Russian officers who have been given their parole will be brought to Nagasaki on a Japanese transport. It is probable they will remain at Nagasaki for a few days and will then sail for Russia on a French steamer via the Suez canal.

Chaplain McGrail Dismissed.

Washington—Chaplain Joseph F. McGrail has been dismissed from the navy by order of the president. He was tried by courtmartial on the information and charges of scandalous conduct. A Roman Catholic priest will be appointed in his place.

Mississippi Judge Named.

Jackson, Miss.—Governor Vardaman has announced the appointment of Oliver Catchings as circuit judge of the Ninth district to succeed Judge Anderson. The appointee is a son of former Congressman Catchings.

Snow in Memphis.

Memphis, Tenn.—Six inches of snow fell here throughout the early Monday morning, seriously impeding street car traffic and delaying trains from one to three hours. The storm extended over an area as far west as Little Rock, Ark.

Washington—The Interstate Commerce Commission has set a hearing to be held in this city January [illegible] on the question of the adoption of a uniform bill of lading throughout the official classification territory of the railroads.

Essen, Rhenish Prussia.—The miners of the Hercules works, against the strenuous efforts of their leaders, determined at a meeting held Monday night to strike.

No Fifteenth Circuit.

The fifteenth judicial circuit was declared unconstitutional on Tuesday by the supreme court, by a vote of four to three. The dissenting justices were Tyson, Dowdell and Denson. The announcement was made from the bench by Justice Haralson, who stated that the fifteenth circuit was passed as a general measure, when it was a local one. The fourteenth circuit is in the same fix. The circuit is composed of the counties of Montgomery, Autauga, Elmore and Chilton and goes back to the fifth with Judge S. L. Brewer as judge.

By this decision Judge T. Scott Sayre and Solicitor J. M. Holley lose the offices to which they were elected in November.

The Lusk bill which rearranged the circuits and which was declared unconstitutional by the supreme court, had this circuit in the act. However, a seperate bill was passed creating this circuit.

It has been the general opinion, since the Lusk bill was declared unconstitutional that this bill would not stand the test. Judge T. S. Sayre has not held court for many weeks, as the attorneys of the several counties in the circuit requested him not to do so until the supreme court had acted upon the constitutionality of the act.

The vote of the judges was very close, showing that there was evidently considerable merit in the briefs filed by the attorneys in favor of the constitutionality of the acts.

Clanton Town Election.

The election last Monday excited rather more interest than has usually been the case, which is a pleasant feature that bodes well for the town. The result was that H. F. Chandler was duly elected Mayor, and T. A. Curry, N. S. Johnson, J. M. Potts and J. C. Dennis aldermen.

It is rather unfortunate that three of the councilmen are from the east side of the railroad, and only one from the west. The preceding bodies have always been elected two from each side, which was an equitable division, both sides being equally represented.

The new Mayor and Council have an opportunity this year to push the town forward to the front rank of Alabama cities, and much is expected from them.

DEATH OF Dr. J. B. ADAMS.

Tuesday morning, about 10:30 o'clock, the sufferings of Dr. J. B. Adams were ended and he passed away to the great beyond. Since the amputation of both feet the Doctor has been gradually declining in health, and the cold weather of the last two weeks confined him to the house, where he bore his sufferings uncomplainingly. Almost his last words were: "I think I hear the voices of my sisters." 'Twas a beautiful thought with which to leave this world. He was a genial, pleasant young man, who would, with good health, have made his mark, but the good Lord has taken him from us.

The funeral took place Wednesday morning, and side by side with his beloved sisters the mortal remains were laid to await the final resurrection. To the bereaved family our kindliest sympathies are tendered, but we realize that "The heart bowed down" must turn to Him who alone can assuage their grief. God be with them till they meet again.

COTTON GROWERS' ASSOCIATION

Pursuant to call of Hon. R. R. Poole, nearly four hundred farmers and business men of Chilton county met at court house in Clanton on Tuesday, January 20, 1905.

The assemblage was called to order by W. H. Killingsworth, and W. H. Conway was elected chairman and J. N. Dennis, secretary; assistant secretaries W. C. Edler, G. W. Edwards and A. G. Dake.

On motion a committee composed of A. G. Dake, W. T. Hand and A. C. Mims was appointed to call on the business men of Clanton and ask them to attend and assist in the deliberations. Judge L. H. Reynolds made a short talk on the necessity for organization.

Moved and carried that the cotton acreage and fertilizer of the county be reduced at least 25 per cent. W. T. Hand of Jemison made a short address telling of his proposed plan which he intends to submit to the convention at New Orleans. Mr. Hand was unanimously elected as a delegate to the New Orleans convention to be held Jan. 24-26. Moved and carried that this organization shall be known as the Cotton Growers' Association of Chilton county, and the officers shall be a president and secretary for the county, and one chairman from each school district.

Moved and passed that this association pledges itself to abide by the action and recommendations of the New Orleans convention.

Moved and carried that a convention to consist of three delegates from each school district meet at Clanton court house on Feb. 1, 1905, to perfect a permanent organization and to carry into effect such plans as shall be adopted by the New Orleans convention. A committee consisting of W. H. Conway, W. T. Hand, Tipton Mullins, W. I. Mullins and E. A. Matthews was appointed to draft plans for permanent organizations to report Feb. 1. By unanimous vote, all parties in this movement are invited and urged to attend the meeting on Feb. 1st., especially the merchants and bankers.

That the proceedings be published in both the county papers.

That a vote of thanks be extended to W. T. Hand, W. H. Conway and J. N. Dennis for the interest shown by them in this movement.

That every School District is hereby requested to hold meetings at 2 p.m., Jan. 21st, for the purpose of organizing end electing delegates to the County convention to be held Feb. 1st.

The convention then adjourned to meet Feb. 1st, 1905.

DEMOCRATIC IDEAS VICTORIOUS IN DEFEAT.

Mr. Roosevelt has not hesitated to appropriate any Democratic garments that looked as if they might fit whatever political conditions confronted him, and for the present the Democratic party is left naked in the midst of a hard political winter

In these circumstances, what of the party's future? For the present it must evidently mark time. There is no hope of an immediate reunion of the various groups while there are such radical differences of principle within the party itself; but it seems likely that there must come ultimately a general readjustment of party lines as a consequence of the struggle against plutocracy on the one hand and socialistic mobocracy on the other. In spite of the fact that the ancient dogmas of the Democratic faith are temporarily discredited, The World still believes in them. A majority of the people apparently do not. The World believes that the principles enunciated at St. Louis are for the most part excellent. It was a mistake to say that "protection is robbery." It was not true to say that Mr. Roosevelt had made war without the consent of Congress. There was a little nonsense, we believe, about Jeffersonian simplicity. But the plea for reduction of duties that shelter monopolies, the demand for the strict enforcement of the anti-trust laws and the anti-rebate laws, the plea for Filipino freedom, the denunciation of militarism, jingoism, imperialism and government by executive order, the protest against usurpation of power by the President, the insistence on economical government—all this is excellent Americanism as well as excellent Democracy. No distrust of party leadership can obscure the virility of these principles, to which The World is devoted no less since election than it was before.

For the immediate present the Democratic party seems to rest in the hands of one man—Theodore Roosevelt. His Administration may provide the electric spark which will unite all the different elements, and it may not. Time will tell. But so far as Democratic principles triumph through the Administration of Theodore Roosevelt, The World does not intend to reject the end because of the means. After all, it is not party success but sound principles that are most important. Principles are what make and unmake governments. In the darkest hour of the Democratic party's history the fact is significant that Mr. Roosevelt's special popularity today is due largely to his adaptation of Democratic ideas to Republican ends.—N. Y. World.

Every Two Minutes

Physicians tell us that all the blood in a healthy human body passes through the heart once in every two minutes. If this action becomes irregular the whole body suffers. Poor health follows poor blood; Scott's Emulsion makes the blood pure. One reason why is such a great aid is because it passes so quickly into the blood. It is partly digested before it enters the stomach; a double advantage in this. Less work for the stomach; quicker and more direct benefits. To get the greatest amount of good with the least possible effort is the desire of everyone in poor health. Scott's Emulsion does just that. A change for the better takes place even before you expect it.

We will send you a sample free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

Weak Lungs Bronchitis

For over sixty years doctors have endorsed Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for coughs, colds, weak lungs, bronchitis, consumption. You can trust a medicine the best doctors approve. Then trust this the next time you have a hard cough.

"I had an awful cough for over a year, and nothing seemed to do me any good. I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and was soon cured. I recommend it to all my friends whenever they have a cough." — Miss M. MEYERS, Washington, D. C.

Fighting the Inevitable.

Nearly all great scientific discoveries have been combated and misunderstood even by the intelligent. Even Sir Charles Napier fiercely opposed the introduction of steam power into the royal navy and one day exclaimed in the house of commons:

"Mr. Speaker, when we enter her majesty's naval service and face the chances of war we go prepared to be hacked in pieces by cutlasses, to be riddled with bullets or to be blown to bits by shot and shell; but, Mr. Speaker, we do not go prepared to be boiled alive."

The last words he brought out with tremendous emphasis. Steam power in men-of-war, with boilers which at any moment might be shattered by an enemy's shot—this was a prospect he could not face.

Yet in a few years he found himself in command of the largest steam navy the world had ever seen.

A Mathematical Puzzle.

Here is a strange little puzzle, which has the same answer, independent of the fact that no two people solving the puzzle were born the same year and consequently use the same figures. Write down the figures of the year you were born and from this take away four. Add your age at next birthday if it comes before January, otherwise your age at your last birthday. Multiply the result by 1,000 and from this deduct 685,423. Substitute for the figures corresponding letters of the alphabet, as A for 1, B for 2, etc. The result is a Chinese table delicacy which is used in this country for electioneering purposes. Strike out the first letter and transpose those that remain to form a word.

Bought Cahmberlain's Cough Remedy and Sent it to Friends.

Mr F. W. J. Fletcher, a druggist in Victoria, Australia, says: "A customer of mine was so pleased with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which she had used for her children when suffering from colds and croup, that during a fortnight's time she obtained at my shop, nine bottles, which she sent to her friends in different parts of the state, telling them how much good it had done and advising them to give it a trial." For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Her Revenge.

The dinner was in progress. It was a dinner given in honor of some very important new acquaintances. Just before the guests arrived the master of the house had been intensely rude and annoying to his wife, and she had not forgotten it. There was a moment's pause in the buzz of conversation round the beautiful table, gleaming with lights, blushing with roses. Then the wife leaned forward and in a voice soft, but loud enough to attract the attention of the whole company, said sweetly, "By the way, James, what was that story you told me to lead up to in the middle of the dinner?"

Nobility of Purpose.

Go before no man with trembling, but know well that all events are indifferent and nothing to thee, for whatever it may be it shall lie with thee to use it nobly; this no man can prevent. —Epictetus.

And the Colonel Lost.

"What was the longest engagement you ever took part in, colonel?"

"It lasted two years, and then the girl married another fellow."—Exchange.

Tonic to the System.

For liver troubles and constipation there is nothing better than DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little Pills. They do not weaken the stomach. Their action upon the system is mild, pleasant and harmless. Bob Moore, of La Fayette, Ind., says, "No use talking, DeWitt's Little Early Risers do their work. All other pills I have used gripe and make me sick in the stomach and never cured me. DeWitt's Little Early Risers proved to be the long sought relief. They are simply perfect." Persons traveling find Little Early Risers the most reliable remedy to carry with them. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

No More Stomach Trouble.

All stomach trouble is removed by the use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It gives the stomach perfect rest by digesting what you eat without the stomach's aid. The food builds up the body, the rest restores the stomach to health. You don't have to diet yourself when taking Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. J. D. Erskine, of Allensville, Mich., says, "I suffered Heartburn and Stomach trouble for some time. My sister-in-law had the same trouble and was not able to eat for six weeks. She lived entirely on warm water. After taking two bottles of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure she was entirely cured. She now eats heartily and is in good health. I am glad to say Kodol gave me instant relief." Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

How Smith's Friend Got Through.

They were out in Kansas about 100 miles and wanted to reach Kansas City. One of them had a pass for John Smith and wife. He was John Smith all right, but his friend could hardly pass as Mrs. Smith. Although they were practically without funds, they boarded the train. "Take a seat in the rear of the car," said Smith to his friend.

Then Smith went forward and sat down by a young woman. Soon they were talking like old friends, and the subject of tickets was brought up by Smith. He asked her to let him see her ticket. It was not of the variety that requires the signature of the purchaser.

Smith examined it until the conductor came through, and then he handed up his pass and the ticket. Pointing to his friend behind, he said, "The extra ticket is for him." The scheme worked. To this day the young woman does not know that she was once Mrs. Smith for a short ride through Kansas.—Kansas City Times.

A Queer Food.

A most singular food is the larvae of a fly common in certain portions of California and known as ephydra. This insect is found in such vast quantities in Lake Mono, Cal., that it is washed upon the shores in vast windrows and can be collected by bushels. The water of Mono is very singular, seemingly very heavy and smooth, like oil, so much so that it resists ordinary wind and refuses to become ruffled. When the larvae begin to appear the Indians gather from far and near and scrape them up, place the wormlike creatures on cloths and racks in the sun and dry them, when they are beaten up and husked, looking then like rice. The Indians call the food koo-chah-bee, and many bushels are collected at his time. That larvae are nutritious is shown by the condition of the Indians, who soon grow fat on the rich diet. Many birds are attracted by the larvae and gorge themselves with the singular food.

Thackeray's Odd Ways.

"He wrote a very small, neat hand and used slips of note paper," said the late John Hollingshead of London concerning Thackeray. "These he would often gather up and put in his coat pocket, leaving his secretary at work, and stroll down to the Athenaeum club. Here, if he could get a comfortable table and was not waylaid by any gossip, to whom he was always ready to give an attentive ear, he would pull out his slips and carry his story a few steps farther. In an hour or two he would again collect the scattered papers and go on to the Garrick club, where, if not interrupted, he would resume his writing. This habit of composing in public frightened many of the old club fogies, who thought they were being caricatured for posterity, and no doubt helped to get him blackballed at the Travelers'."

Cured Lumbago.

A. B. Canman, Chicago, writes March 4, 1903. "Having been troubled with Lumbago, at different times and tried one physician after another, then different ointments and liniments, gave it up altogether. So I tried once more, and got a bottle of Ballard's Snow Liniment, which gave me almost instant relief. I can cheerfully recommend it, and will add my name to your list of sufferers." IRON MARKET STRONG

First Week of the Year Shows Many Inquiries For This Commodity.

PRICES ARE NOW VERY FIRM.

There is Little Iron on the Yards and but Little Being Held Back—Coke Ovens to be Erected.

Birmingham, Ala.—Alabama furnacemen assert that while there were not a great many sales made during the first week of the year it was demonstrated that there is much strength to the market and that there is need for a great quantity of iron by consumers.

There is not a large amount of iron on the yards in this district, despite reports current in the north that there is between 50,000 and 100,000 tons being held back by Alabama manufacturers for better prices. Railroad officials assert that there is not much iron on the yards in this section. An order for thirty-five cars to handle pig iron was placed with one of the railroads this week and when the cars were moved to the furnace plant the iron was not ready to be loaded. The great amount of iron dwindles when a casual inspection is made. The iron production in this state is far from being normal.

It is learned that there will be a decided improvement in the coke output shortly. It is a shortage of coke that is holding down the iron production. The Tutwiler Coal, Iron and Railroad Company are preparing to build a large battery of coke ovens near Vanderbilt. The Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company will, it is understood, erect a number of coke ovens between Ensley and Wylam. The Republic Iron and Steel Company have 100 coke ovens which were completed just before the strike began which are to be lighted shortly. Other coke ovens in the states are being made ready for operation.

It is stated that there will be no hesitancy in the iron shipments for some time to come. A prominent iron man stated last afternoon that a strong demand for iron at good prices can be looked for through the whole year. The present production of iron is far from being satisfactory. As to quotations $13.75 to $14 per ton, No. 2 foundry, is given.

HELEN KELLER AT HOME.

From the Florence Herald.

For the first time in twelve years Helen Keller spent Christmas at home. She left at that time, a child, unknown but to a small circle of friends. She returns a woman whose name is a household word in all civilized parts of the world, but as simple and unspoiled as the day she went away. Fame and adulation have been powerless to spoil a disposition as sweet as her intellect is brilliant.

Miss Keller has attended all of the Christmas dances and was one of the most popular girls on the floor. She is a graceful dancer and entered enthusiastically into the spirit of the festivities.

Mrs. John R. Price gave a reception Saturday afternoon when the ladies of Florence were invited to meet Miss Keller. For several hours Miss Keller shook hands and had a pleasant word for each. Her manner, so affable and gracious, charmed all who met her.

Miss Keller is in Florence for an indefinite visit and expresses the greatest delight at being with her mother.

Tiday Wave on Coast.

London.—A tidal wave struck the east coast of England Saturday morning and did great damage to a number of towns. At Yarmouth the waves swept over the marine promenade and flooded the streets several blocks back. People in houses on the sea front were imprisoned in the upper stories of their homes. Several piers were blown down and sea walls destroyed and beach amusements carried away.

Electricity Aids Vegetables.

Electric light is known to have a stimulating influence on the growth of vegetables. Two farms on Long Island which are equipped with arc lamps are said to yield remarkable products in much less than the time usually required. The effects of an exclusive electric light on the colors of flowers are still to be determined, although all kinds of plants are reported to grow with uncommon rapidity and to bear blossoms of deeper tone when subjected to the rays. One florist believes he will yet show a coal black rose by the use of this light with globes of certain colors.

Hardware Company Sold.

Gadsden, Ala.—C. W. and T. G. Ewing have purchased the entire Paden interest in the Paden-Ewing Hardware Company and will continue the business under the name of the Ewing Hardware Company. The capital stock of the new company will be placed at $40,000. T. G. Ewing will be president, with C. W. Ewing as treasurer.

Andrew Carnegie has donated twenty-five thousand dollars for a public library at San Rafael.

Poole Names Delegates.

Montgomery, Ala.—Commissioner of Agriculture Robert R. Poole made the appointment of Alabama delegates to the convention of the Southern Cotton Growers' Association to be held in New Orleans January 24, 25 and 26. There are fourteen delegates in all from Alabama.

The names of the delegates are as follows: W. A. Gunter, Jr., and M. P. LeGrande, of Montgomery; William McCurdy, of Lowndesboro; H. M. Burt, of Talladega; James Robinson, Jr., of Lafayette; J. W. Young, of Prattville; Percy Clark, of Birmingham; C. P. Rogers, of Letohatchie; John J. King, of Consul; Ike Greenwald, of Carrollton; E. M. Elliott, of Moundville; G. W. Pratt, of Pell City; Senator John Rogers, of Gainesville, and W. B. Peebles, of Vienna.

These appointees were named by Commissioner Poole after due consideration and he will urge that they surely attend the important interstate convention in New Orleans.

To Test Poisoned Foods.

Washington—The so-called "poison squad" consisting of department of agriculture clerks who have volunteered for service in carrying out the food preservative and coloring matter experiments of Chemist Wiley, will reassemble and continue the experiments until March, probably, concerning the effects of artificial coloring of food on the system. They will then have a respite until the middle of April, when the work will be resumed until July 1st.

While continuance of these experiments beyond that date has not been finally determined upon, it is probable that during next year a similar squad will be utilized under the same strict rules to carry on experiments as to cold storage food products. These tests will have in view the determining of the exact effect of cold storage on foods and the rapidity of the development of bacteria under cold storage conditions.

Marooned by Snow Storm.

Halifax, N. S.—A Nova Scotia Central train which left Bridgewater reached here after having been snowbound near Alpena station for 48 hours, during which time one hundred passengers suffered intensely from cold and hunger.

Alpena, with only a railway station, afforded no accommodations for feeding the travelers, and the locomotives had barely enough fuel to keep up steam until a relief engine broke its way through the drifts.

Communication with other points by wire was interrupted by the blizzard, which lasted two days. Tht railway management sent twenty teams from Middleton to transfer the passengers to the nearest station of the Dominion Atlantic railway, a distance of twelve miles. As the temperature was five below zero few left the train to face the storm.

Christmas in Russia.

St. Petersburg—This is the Russian Christmas eve. The streets have been filled all day long with crowds of shoppers and the markets, overflowing their customary bounds, filled adjoining streets with booths and stalls, where every variety of Christmas cheer, such as game, ducks, geese, young pigs and Christmas trees were piled high. Apparently the fall of Port Arthur has had little effect on the jollity of the Christmas crowds. Promptly at midnight everything closed up, and the city became instantly dark and the streets were deserted, but really for a renewal of the holiday festivities tomorrow.

There will be a great service in honor of the dead of Port Arthur held in the Kasan cathedral on Sunday.

Finds Double Stars.

Berkley, Cal.—More double stars have been discovered and measured at the Lick Observatory. The latest bulletin issued by the university contains an account of another hundred new double stars discovered and measured there. These new double stars are of the same character as those previously discovered at the Lick Observatory. The distance between the two new components in most of them is very small and nearly all would be difficult objects to observe under conditions less favorable than at Mount Hamilton.

Recruits Are Arrested.

Rome—About fifty new recruits wearing military caps crossed the town today singing a socialist hymn and crying "long live socialism," "down with militarism." Almost all of the recruits were arrested at their barracks.

Heavy Snow in Italy.

New York—Severe cold continues in the principal towns of Italy, according to a Herald dispatch from Rome. A heavy snow has fallen in Naples and in Bard. The rivers Orno, Odige and Cevere are frozen over.

Railroad Commission Rules.

Montgomery, Ala.—At the regular monthly meeting of the railroad commission the most important work that came before the commissioners was the adoption of rules 18 and 19, so as to conform with the acts of the legislature of 1903.

Fire in Palace.

Berlin.—Fire broke out in the royal palace Tuesday, caused by a faulty chimney. No great damage was done.

WILL FIGHT TO END

The St. Petersburg Conference Not Yet at an End. Peace Talk is Heard.

No Indication of Change in Attitude of Government; However, No Peace Proposals Made.

St. Petersburg—The conference which Emperor Nicholas has been holding with members of the council of the empire, M. Witte and other ministers, and advisers on the internal and external situation, have not yet been concluded, but nothing has occurred which would indicate that the government is prepared to depart from its present programme of continuing the war to the bitter end. Nevertheless, talk of peace was heard Sunday in many quarters, the foundation for it being ascribed to Foreign Minister Lamsdorff's alleged position in favor of such a course on the ground that, aside from the humiliation to military prestige involved, it would only mean the relinquishment of Manchuria, to which Russia already is formally pledged. There is no confirmation of this statement of Count Lamsdorff's position beyond the general knowledge that he has always belonged to the peace party. It is quite probable that the peace talk gossip has been produced by the arrival of foreign papers, as it receives no encouragement in responsible quarters here.

The belief which existed in exceptionally well-informed diplomatic circles that Japan would follow the fall of Port Arthur with moderate peace propositions has not been realized. Up to the present time nothing has reached the government either through the United States or other channels. Diplomats here can not figure out the general lines of a treaty at this juncture which both the belligerents could accept, but realize that if Japan makes any sort of offer unless it is rejected outright, as not entertainable, negotiations would be opened and negotiations once entered upon, friends of both parties could use their good offices to bring about terms. This is the only hope for a termination of the war which diplomats can see.

Solemn services in honor of those who fell in the defense of Port Arthur were held on Sunday at the Kasan cathedral, and the Troitka monastery. The services passed off without demonstration of any sort. Neither the emperor nor members of the imperial family were present. A requiem was held simultaneously in the chapel at Tsarskoe-Selo. Although Field Marshal Oyama took pains to formally communicate the news of the fall of Port Arthur, no announcement has yet been made to General Kuropatkin, or the army under him in Manchuria, or at least no mention of such an announcement is made in dispatches from the front of the manner in which the news was received there. One curious dispatch spoke of a big celebration of New Year's day along the Japanese lines, the Russians evidently mistaking jubilation over General Stoessel's surrender for New Year's festivities.

Storms in West Virginia.

Wheeling, W. Va.—Reports from interior West Virginia tell of furious snow storms in the mountains. At Weston the snowfall is 20 inches. At Pickens it reached 30 inches. At Grafton there is 18 inches and at all other points reported the fall ranges from 20 to 24 inches. Telegraph, telephone, railway and highway traffic is seriously interfered with.

Will Erect Great Plant.

Gadsden, Ala.—Engineers have been busy for several days surveying the ground for the immense pipe shops to be located here by the Coosa Pipe and Foundry company. Stakes have been driven and soon dirt will be broken for the plant. Plans are being made now for the buildings.

Gadsden Office Makes Gains.

Gadsden, Ala.—During the year 1904 just closed the Gadsden postoffice made great gains over the year 1903 in the way of receipts. During 1903 the receipts were $10,682.18, while in 1904 they reached $11,945.62, a gain for 1904 of $1,263.44.

Japs Repulsed.

St. Petersburg—General Kuropatkin reports the frustration of a Japanese attempt to surprise his center from the night of January 6th and the bayonetting of twenty-one Japanese the night of January 3d by a cavalry reconnoissance in the valley of the Taitse river in the direction of Sianchan.

Must Transport Russians.

Tokio.—It is understood that the San-Yo railway has been instructed to make preparations to transport 20,000 Russian prisoners from Shimonoseki to Kure. It is probable that the prisoners will be quartered near Kure.

The most serious case of sick and those capable of being moved will be brought to Japan, where arrangements for housing them have been completed.

FOUND HUMAN SKELETONS.

New Orleans—While building a gravel walk at his place at Independence, La., J. B. Caston, a farmer discovered twenty-nine human skeletons supposed to be the remains of the men of DeSoto's expedition who were killed by the Indians. In one hole nineteen skeletons were found and six feet away the digger unearthed eight more. In another hole a lot of decayed bones were found, which had become ashes, but the twenty-nine were intact except the skulls, which had been severed.

The position in which the skeletons were discovered indicated that the men had been massacred and buried in a heap, as five skulls were found together. A history of Independence shows that a party of DeSoto's men en route from Mobile to Natchez were attacked and murdered by the Indians and their bodies concealed.

Storms on British Coasts.

London—Stormy weather still continues on the British coasts and several shipping casualties are reported. The Glasgow steamer Stella Marie collided Saturday night seven miles off Holyhead with the Spanish vessel Oria, and both sank. The Belfast schooner Dispatch collided with the Sunderland steamer Dinnington off Ram's Gate this morning. The Dispatch was towed into Ram's Gate, but the Dinnington is believed to have sunk with her crew of ten men. Several other vessels were driven ashore at different points, their crews being rescued with great difficulty.

Licenses and Street Taxes.

Birmingham, Ala.—A. A. Gambill, city license and tax inspector, stated yesterday that the revenue collected from the license tax in Birmingham in the year 1904 was $192,474.50, an increase of $21,019.50 on the preceding year.

The street taxes in 1904 amounted to $6,000.

The total revenue collected by the city license and tax inspector in the last twelve months amounts to $198,474.50.

Cotton Planters Hold Meeting.

Macon, Ga.—A special from Dublin, Ga., says that over 500 farmers of Laurens county, who are holding 10,000 bales of cotton for better prices, held a monster mass meeting, elected delegates to the coming convention in New Orleans, pledged themselves to reduce the cotton acreage from 25 to 50 per cent, commended the plan of forming a great cotton-holding trust, properly bonded; endorsed the resolution introduced by Congressman Burelson requiring simultaneous reports of complete statistics; congratulated the southern farmers upon what has already been accomplished, and appealed to the press of tne south for aid in the movement inaugurated.

Called to Tennessee.

Montgomery, Ala.—Dr. Thomas M. Owen, director of the Department of Archives and History of the state of Alabama, has been notified that a joint resolution has been passed by the legislature of Tennessee, now in session, inviting him to appear before the two houses on January 10th to explain the Alabama history plan. Dr. Owen had already been engaged to discuss the same subject before the Tennessee Historical Society the same day at the evening session. The history leaders of Tennessee are desirous of having the Alabama plan adopted in that state and will do some good work before the legislature to bring it about. This is very much of a compliment to Dr. Owen. It is quite rare that a man from another state is so honored by the law making body of a commonwealth. Dr. Owen presented the Alabama plan at the meeting of the American Historical Society in Chicago last week, and the organization adopted a resolution indorsing the idea, something that it very seldom does for any proposition.

A $3,000,000 Land Deal.

Washington, Pa.—Negotiations were closed for the option of 9,000 acres of coal land in Washington county. The company making the option is said to be the United States Steel Corporation. The option price per acre is $333, the total amount involved being about $3,000,000.

Whole Town Arrested.

Uskub, European Turkey—On December 28th, by order of Hilmi Pasha, the whole municipality of Uskub, together with the vicar and clergy of the vicarate, were arrested, the accusation being that they had formed a revolutionary tribunal. A search of homes for the accused was without result, but all efforts to secure their liberation have been unsuccessful.

Steamer Runs Aground.

New Orleans—The steamer Mississippi (American), Finlay, at 2 o'clock p. m. January 6th for Bremen, ran aground just above quarantine station. Efforts are being made by tugboats to float her.

Federal Judge Appointed.

Washington—The president has appointed John E. McCall to be federal judge for the western district of Tennessee at Memphis to succeed the late Judge E. H. Hammond.

Miles on Gov. Douglas' Staff.

Washington—The war department today assigned Lieut.-Gen. Nelson A. Miles, United States army, retired, as a member of the staff of Governor Douglas, of Massachusetts.

NOGI REFUSES HORSE

The Meeting of the Two Generals Was Cordial. Gen. Stoessel Praises Japs.

PRINCIPAL INCIDENTS TOLD.

Nogi Says Loss of His Sons Was Nothing Compared With Attainment of the Objects Sought.

Headquarters of the Third Japanese Army, in Front of Port Arthur.—The meeting of General Nogi and General Stoessel was as undramatic as the conclusion of the siege. It had been previously arranged to take place at noon in the single undamaged house of the village of Shuisht. This house was a miserable hotel called Plum Tree cottage. Through a misunderstanding General Stoessel rode out of Port Arthur at 10 o'clock, accompanied by Colonel Reiss and two staff officers, to the Japanese lines, and missed the Japanese officer delegated to escort him to the meeting place.

The general rode there without an escort and was received by a junior officer who happened to be on the spot. The latter telephoned to General Nogi, who hurried his departure from headquarters and arrived at 11 o'clock, accompanied by Major-General Ijichi, his chief of staff, and Colonels Yasuhara, Matsudaira and Watanabe, staff officers, and M. Kawakarin, secretary of the foreign office at Tokio.

General Stoessel is a large man of heavy appearance and looks like a good fighter.

Generals Shake Hands.

When Nogi, looking care-worn, entered the cottage, the two generals cordially shook hands, and Nogi, through an interpreter, expressed his pleasure at meeting a general who had fought so bravely and gallantly for his emperor and his country.

General Stoessel thanked General Nogi for the pleasure of meeting the hero of the victorious army.

General Nogi explained that he had received a message from his emperor asking that the greatest consideration be shown General Stoessel and his officers in appreciation of their splendid loyalty to their emperor and country. Because of that wish, he added, the Russian officers would be allowed to wear their swords.

General Stoessel expressed his gratitude to the Japanese emperor for thus saving the honor of his (Stoessel's) family and said his descendants would appreciate the thoughtful kindness of the emperor of Japan. The general also expressed the gratitude of his officers and thanked Nogi for sending the message from Stoessel to Emperor Nicholas and transmitting his majesty's reply, which read:

"I allow each officer to profit by the reserve privilege to return to Russia under the obligation not to take further part in the present war or share in the distinctions thereof.

"I thank you and the brave men of the garrison for the gallant defense."

Both generals then mutually praised each other and their officers for their bravery.

The conversation afterwards turned on the explosion of the mine at Sungshue mountain fort. General Stoessel said the entire garrison of the fort was killed or made prisoners.

Stoessel Praises Artillery Fire.

The Russian commander greatly praised the Japanese artillery practice, especially the concentrated fire instantaneous with the explosion of the Sungshui mine. The gallant deeds of the Japanese infantry, General Stoessel added, spoke for themselves. It was impossible to exaggerate their good qualities.

The skillful work of the engineers had also won his admiration.

Continuing, General Stoessel said he had heard that General Nogi had lost both his sons and praised his loyalty in thus sacrificing his sons who had died fighting for their emperor and country.

General Nogi smilingly replied:

"One of my sons gave his life at Nanshan and the other at 203 Metre hill. Both of these positions were of the greatest importance to the Japanese army. I am glad that the sacrifice of my sons had resulted in the capture of such important positions, as I feel the sacrifices were not made in vain. Their lives were nothing compared to the objects sought."

General Stoessel then asked permission to present his charger to General Nogi as a token of his appreciation and admiration.

Could Not Accept Horse.

General Nogi expressed his thanks for the Russian general's kindness, but said that he could not accept the horse, but, he continued, he would accept it for the army, since he considered the Russian horses were the property of Japan and felt he could not make General Stoessel's ch his private property. General also promised that when the h was handed over to him to use th was treated with the greatest out of respect for the brave general.

Thereupon General Stoessel ass General Nogi that he admired his erous principles and appreciated point of view.

The Japanese commander reque General Stoessel to continue to occ his residence at Port Arthur unti rangements were completed for return of himself and family to R sia.

Referring to the burial of the d General Nogi said the Japanese the beginning of the military op tions had always buried the Rus dead. Those found later on would interred at a special spot and a su ble memorial would be erected as tribute to the bravery of the Japan former foes.

Taken by Photographer.

After luncheon, at which both g erals sat, the group was taken by photographer at the cottage and G eral Stoessel mounted his charger show the horse's good points and goodby to General Nogi and rode to Port Arthur.

The quiet and even solemn m ing of the generals ended at abo o'clock. The regular Russian soldi in Port Arthur marched out tod The only troops now in the city the volunteers.

Two fires were started in Port A thur today, for which General Stoe apologized. He said the volunte were unable to control the popul and he desired that the Japanese ter Port Arthur immediately to k order.

The formal entry of the Japan army into Port Arthur has been fi for Sunday, January 8th.

MEDICAL EXAMINER

Of the United States Treasury Recommends Pe-ru-na.

Another Prominent Physician Uses and Endorses Pe-ru-na.

Dr. Llewellyn Jordan, Medical Examiner of the U. S. Treasury Department, graduate of Columbia College, and who served three years at West Point, has the following to say of Peruna:

"Allow me to express my gratitude to you for the benefit derived from your wonderful remedy. One short month has brought forth a vast change and I now consider myself a well man after months of suffering. Fellow sufferers, Peruna will cure you."

A constantly increasing number of physicians prescribe Peruna in their practice. It has proven its merits so thoroughly that even the doctors have overcome their prejudice against so-called patent medicines and recommend it to their patients.

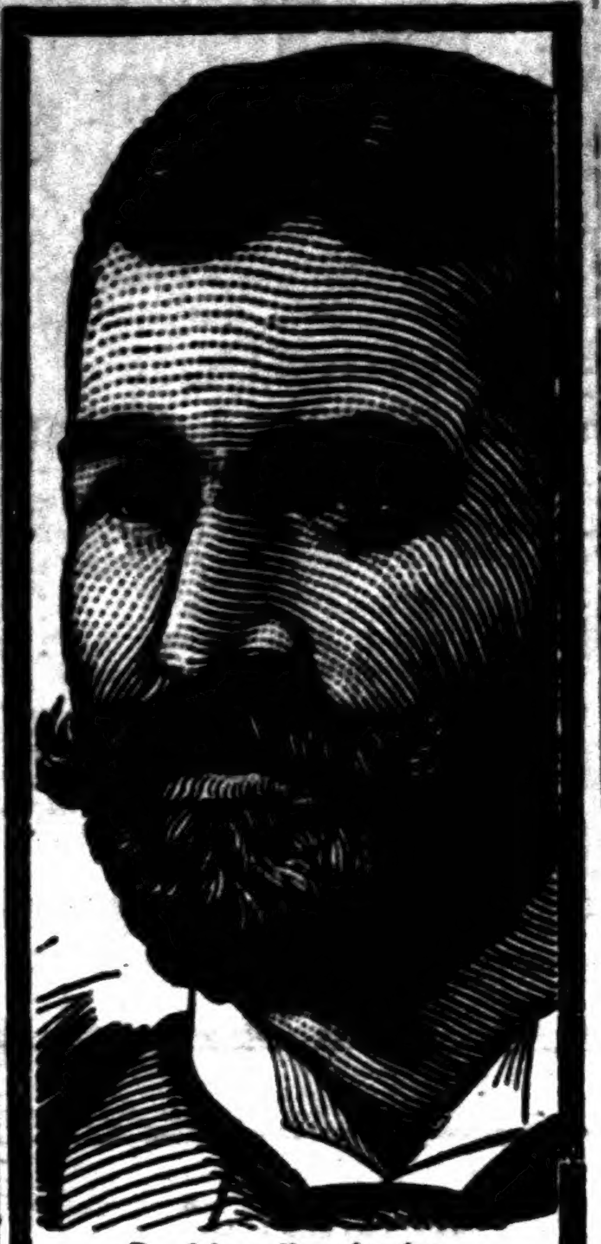
Peruna occupies a unique position in medical science. It is the only internal systemic catarrh remedy known to the medical profession to-day. Catarrh, as every one will admit, is the cause of one-half the diseases which afflict mankind. Catarrh and catarrhal diseases afflict one-half of the people of the United States.

Robert R. Roberts, M. D., Washington, D. C., writes:

"Through my own experience as well as that of many of my friends and acquaintances who have been cured or relieved of catarrh by the use of Hartman's Peruna, I can confidently recommend it to those suffering from such disorders, and have no hesitation in prescribing it to my patients."—Robert R. Roberts.

Catarrh is a systemic disease curable only by systemic treatment. A remedy that cures catarrh must aim directly at the depressed nerve centres. This is what Peruna does.

Peruna immediately invigorates the nerve-centres which gives vitality to the mucous membranes. Then catarrh disappears. Then catarrh is permanently cured.



Dr. Llewellyn Jordan, Medical Examiner United States Treasury.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

"But," he interrupts, smiling a smile of superiority and raising his voice in triumph, "you have not heard all. She gets off a street car the right way!" And we have nothing more to say against his claims.—Judge.

Coal and Railroads.

The total coal production of the United States is now at the rate of 1,000,000 tons per day, and the consumption of coal by railroads is equal to 40 per cent. of this, or $400,000 tons per day. The fuel bill of a railroad contributes about 10 per cent. of the total expense of operation and 30 to 40 per cent. of the total cost of running the locomotive. A locomotive will consume on an average $5,000 worth of coal per annum, and for a road having an equipment of 1,000 locomotives the coal bill is approximately $5,000,000.

A Testament's Long Use.

Mr. A. G. Charsley, of Beaconsfield, Bucks, one of the oldest coroners in England, is resigning appointment. He was chosen deputy to his brother, Mr. Frederick Charsley, in 1856, and he has held the coronership since 1882. Mr. Charsley has in his possession a Testament which has been used at inquests in the division of Bucks for over 100 years.

He Knew Byron.

There is now living at Nish, Servia, a man who was well acquainted with Lord Byron. His name is Stovan Kikitsch, and he is 117 years old. Though probably the oldest man living today, he is wonderfully vigorous, with clear memory, good eyesight and strong, hearty voice.

Lowell Died in House Where He was Born.

Fredericka Bremer once told James Russell Lowell that he was the only American she had seen whose children were born in the same house with herself. What was even more remarkable for an American, however, he died in the house in which he was born, which, moreover, had been his home for the 72 years of his life.

A LOVELY COMPLEXION

New York Lady Proves That Every Woman May Have It by Using Cuticura Soap.

Mrs. R. [illegible], wife of the well-known jeweller of 160 Fulton St., New York, says: "I had a friend who was justly proud of her complexion. When asked what gave her such a brilliant and lovely complexion, she replied, 'A healthy woman can be sure of a fine skin if she will do as I do, use plenty of Cuticura Soap and water.' She insisted that I follow her example, which I did with speedy conviction. I find that Cuticura Soap keeps the skin soft, white, and clear, and prevents redness and roughness."

DOMESTIC LIMERICKS.

A woman as proud as old Lucifer
Grew tired of her husband's abusifer;
So she called the police,
Who compelled him to cease
By crying, "You villain, let [illegible]!"

Then, no longer prouder than Lucifer,
Forgetting her husband's abusifer,
She promptly forgave him,
Swore falsely to save him
Thus woman let's love make a [illegible].

Still the officers, seeing the ruckifer,
Refused to take any excusifer;
But she made things so hot
That they fled from the spot—
As a witness they ne'er could make usifer.

Then, once more as proud as old Lucifer,
She thrashed hubby well for abusifer.
And the louder he wailed,
Why the harder she whaled,
Till at length he abjectly begged trucifer.

Two old farmers met on the road. "Where you been, Sile?" asked the one in yellow boots. "Been shooting the rapids," drawled the other. "Canoeing?" "No; shooting at those pesky racing automobiles that run over my chickens."—Baltimore Herald.

Uncle George—So, you are studying law, Henry? Henry—'Reading' law, Uncle George, not 'studying.' Uncle George—Oh, yes, of course. By the way, I suppose that is why the working of the law is so uncertain. Lawyers never study it, you know, but only read it.

"Yes; his wife calls him down every day." "But she's such a frail, meek-looking little woman, and he's such a big brute of a fellow." "I know. She calls him down to breakfast, after she's got up and prepared it, while he's deciding whether he'll go to sleep again or not."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Mrs. Greene—I see in the papers that Martha White has married a hostler. Mrs. Brown—My paper says Martha's husband is a Harvard coach. Mrs. Greene—Well, and doesn't that amount to about the same thing? A coach, or coachman, is half the time nothing more than a hostler.

Mrs. Tawker (a visitor)—Such lovely playing! O, I could listen to it all night! How nice it must be to have your husband home of an evening and giving you such beautiful music. Mrs. Snow—Yes; but that isn't Mr. Snow. It's Mr. Hammers, the piano-tuner. He is tuning our piano; had to come in the evening, he is so busy just now. Isn't it funny. He tells me he couldn't play a tune to save his life.

Fuddy—Crimmins gave a notable example of deathbed repentance. Duddy—Guess I didn't hear about it. Fuddy—You know he had been borrowing money from all his friends for two or three years? Well, when he found he was going to die, he squared himself with all of them by writing his personal note for the amount owed to each, payable 30 days after death. Duddy—But the paper isn't worth anything. Fuddy—I know; but it satisfied Crimmins's conscience, and of course that was the main thing.

An Auction in Japan.

A San Francisco man last night was telling of various customs of the Japanese which had come under his observation.

"One of their peculiarities is shown in their method of conducting an auction. They have auctions in Japan just as we do in America, but they go at it in a little different style.

The auctioneer exhibits the article which he proposes to sell and asks for bids upon it. He does not exhort or cajole, and there is no exciting clamoring of bidders. Lawyer Marks would be impossible to Japan, for each man who desires to make a bid draws from his pocket a slip of paper, writes upon it the highest figure he will pay and deposits his slip in a box. After the bids are all in the autioneer opens the box, glances at the bids and promptly awards the article to the man who has offered the greatest sum."

The Mass of the Stars.

To determine the masses of the stars, situated as they are far off in space, it is generally necessary to know their distance, and this has been determined for only a few stars. In a recent paper submitted at the Cambridge meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, Dr. H. N. Russell, of the Cambridge observatory, called attention to the fact that the masses of the stars could be found by Kapetyn's formula in terms of the star's magnitude and proper motion. Proceeding on this basis, he found that the average mass of fifty-five binary systems was about three times that of the sun, and that many groups of stars were of the same mass, despite the fact that they varied greatly in their brightness and proper motion. The binary stars seemed to be of the same order of mass, though their brightness, motion and spectre varied.

Knew President Pierce.

Thomas Stone McLellan, the oldest printer in Maine, the friend and companion of President Pierce, Nathaniel Hawthorne and Longfellow, has just celebrated his ninety-third birthday. He lives in Brunswick. For many years he has been a member of United Lodge of Masons and shortly after his ninetieth birthday took some advanced degrees in the ancient craft.

ALL DONE OUT.

Veteran Joshua Heller, of 706 South Walnut street, Urbana, Ill., says: "In the fall of 1899 after taking Doan's Kidney Pills I told the readers of this paper that they had relieved me of kidney trouble, disposed of a lame back with pain across my loins and beneath the shoulder blades. During the interval which has elapsed I have had occasion to resort to Doan's Kidney Pills when I noticed warnings of an attack. On each and every occasion the results obtained were just as satisfactory as when the pills were first brought to my notice. I just as emphatically endorse the preparation to-day as I did over two years ago."

Mrs. Fairbanks tells how neglect of warning symptoms will soon prostrate a woman. She thinks woman's safeguard is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—Ignorance and neglect are the cause of untold female suffering, not only with the laws of health but with the chance of a cure. I did not heed the warnings of headaches, organic pains, and general weariness, until I was well nigh prostrated. I knew I had to do something. Happily I did the right thing. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound faithfully, according to directions, and was rewarded in a few weeks to find that my aches and pains disappeared, and I again felt the glow of health through my body. Since I have been well I have been more careful, I have also advised a number of my sick friends to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and they have never had reason to be sorry. Yours very truly, Mrs. May Fairbanks, 216 South 7th St., Minneapolis, Minn." (Mrs. Fairbanks is one of the most successful and highest salaried travelling saleswomen in the West.)

When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhœa, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, bloating (or flatulence), general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues, and hopelessness, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles. Refuse to buy any other medicine, for you need the best.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—For over two years I suffered more than tongue can express with kidney and bladder trouble. My physician pronounced my trouble catarrh of the bladder, caused by displacement of the womb. I had a frequent desire to urinate, and it was very painful, and lumps of blood would pass with the urine. Also had backache very often.

"After writing to you, and receiving your reply to my letter, I followed your advice, and feel that you and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have cured me. The medicine drew my womb into its proper place, and then I was well. I never feel any pain now, and can do my housework with ease."—Mrs. Alice Lamon, Kincaid, Miss.

No other medicine for female ills in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Do not Suppress a Cough

When you have a cough do not try to suppress it, but remove the cause. The cough is only a symptom of some disease, and the disease is what you should cure, then the cough will stop of itself. The most common cause of coughing is a cold. Anodynes will promptly suppress the cough, and preparations containing chloroform, opium, etc., are used for that purpose, but they do not cure the cold. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy on the other hand does not suppress the cough, but relieves it by removing from the throat and lungs the mucus which obstructed the breathing and allaying the irritation and tickling in the throat. It also opens the secretions and effectually and permanently cures the cold as well as the cough. For sale by Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton, & Horn, Thorsby.

Anaemia.

The word anaemia is of modern origin. It was first mentioned by Albert Michel in 1732 in a thesis entitled "De Anaemia." However, if the nomenclature is new, the morbid condition indicated by the word was at all times well known. Hippocrates devoted several pages to a description of this particular condition, but Halle was the first to apply the term to a malady which was prevalent in 1802 among the miners of Anzin, in the north of France, and of which he gave a detailed description.

Chancery Court, 7th District, Northeastern Division. No 18. In vacation 1904.
David Daniel, Complainant, vs Rebecca Daniel, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register, by the affidavit on file of Messrs. Smith & Middleton, Attorneys for the Complainant, that the Defendant, Rebecca Daniel, is a non-resident of the State of Alabama, and her residence and post office address are unknown to affiant, and further that in the belief of said affiant the Defendant, Rebecca Daniel is over the age of twenty one years.

It is therefore ordered by the Register, that publication be made in the Banner, a newspaper published in Clanton, Chilton county, Ala., once a week for four consecutive weeks requiring her, the said Rebecca Daniel, to answer, plead or demur to the bill of complaint in the above cause on or before the 20th day of January, 1905, and failing so to do within thirty days after the service of this summons a decree pro confesso may be taken against her in said cause.

Lake Cayuga's Mysteries.

Lake Cayuga is one of the wonders of the eastern states. It is situated in west central New York and is upward of forty miles in length, with an average breadth of but three miles. One of its peculiarities is this: Although hundreds of persons have been drowned in its waters since the settlement of the adjacent territory, not a single corpse has so far been recovered, and it is a common saying that "Lake Cayuga never gives up its dead." Those who have made an attempt to fathom this mystery say that the bottom of this remarkable sheet of water is simply a series of large openings and craterlike cavities, the entire lake bed having the appearance of being one huge honeycomb, each of the welllike holes being reputed to be bottomless.

Another Cayuga mystery is its irregular tides. There is no stated time for their appearance, but when they do come they are very decided, the water often instantly receding 50 to 100 feet and as quickly returning with a roar that can be heard for miles.—Exchange.

The "Magic Mirror" of Japan.

The "magic mirror" of Japan is a disk of bronze, usually from six to eight inches in diameter. It is silvered on the front, which is a little convex, and there is a raised pattern on the back, which is rather concave. The polished pattern is generally a landscape, flowers, animals or Chinese characters. It is not visible in the front of the mirror, but when strong sunlight is reflected from the front of the mirror to a wall or screen the pattern of the back is visible on the screen in bright lines on a black ground. Professor W. E. Ayrton, F. R. S., with Professor John Perry, F. R. S., was the first to give the true scientific explanation of this magical effect. It seems that the design on the back alters the convexity of the front, making it flat—in fact, along the lines of the pattern. Consequently the light reflected from the front is not dispersed at these points of the design, and they appear brighter on the screen.—London Globe.

BLACK-DRAUGHT STOCK & POULTRY MEDICINE

This great stock medicine is a money saver for stock raisers. It is a medicine, not a cheap food or condition powder. Though put up in coarser form than Thedford's Black-Draught, renowned for the cure of the digestion troubles of persons, it has the same qualities of invigorating digestion, stirring up the torpid liver and loosening the constipated bowels for all stock and poultry. It is carefully prepared and its action is so healthful that stock grow and thrive with an occasional dose in their food. It cures hog cholera and makes hogs grow fat. It cures chicken cholera and roup and makes hens lay. It cures constipation, distemper and colds in horses, murrain in cattle, and makes a draught animal do more work for the food consumed. It gives animals and fowls of all kinds new life. Every farmer and raiser should certainly give it a trial.

It costs 25c. a can and saves ten times its price in profit.

Of all the wonders of nature, one the most beautiful sights is a aterfall, and as one gazes at the lume of water falling from the ights above, and listens to the sic of its roar when it dashes o foam below, the heart is stirred th emotion. O, yes, it was, really! ain man attempts to control ture. At Assouan, in Egypt, Nile has been dammed, and it ould have been almost excusable I had done a similar thing to The nner roof. Vain man puts on a of to keep out the rain, but somenes he blunders, as in the case of s roof, and while the lightning shed, and the thunder rolled, I ded through the water, and wn came a torrent upon the np chimney, shivering it to ms, leaving me in impenetrable om. "A flood of thought (as ll as rain) came o'er me," too ful to remember.

Well, Mr. Editor, Christmas has come and gone again, it is now a thing of the past, it has got us all one year nearer the grave, the great wheels of time are fast turning, rolling us all one by one into eternity, and the place that knows us now will soon know us no more. Now let us all turn over a new leaf and all do as Mr. Serrell says, increase our food crops this year and cut down on so much cotton, plant and raise more food for man and beast, we cannot eat cotton. By all means in the world let us keep and have our corn cribs and smoke houses at home, let us all come together this year and strive to raise more hogs and corn than we have been doing heretofore, thus all can manage so as to not have to draw on a western corn crib and smoke house. Keep out of debt; don't buy on a credit; don't go to town every Saturday and buy a great load on a credit, because you can get credit; stay away from town unless you have something to take along to sell; don't set your stakes no further out than you can take in next fall, for pay day will soon come; keep away from the store unless you have the chink. The price of cotton going up to 15 cents last January was a curse on the whole Southern States, it ran farmers crazy; they invested heavily in fertilizers and planted all cotton and but little corn, and now they are all caught in a snap, a great many farmers in debt and cotton down to 6 cents. Mr. J. W. Sorrell's suggestion is a good one, we should organize into an association to hold our cotton till next summer or fall for a better price. I have stored away my crop till next fall. Farmers should go easy now, hold back your cotton and don't press it on the market now while it is so low; the mills are not near supplied yet. All farmers who are short of corn should sow a heap of oats and when they come off plant the ground in peas and chuffers, there is big pay in raising chuffers for hogs. All farmers who have cotton on hand should store it away under good shelters away from any fire and there let it stay until the price gets better, and this year plant a big corn crop. Keep out of debt, don't buy because you can buy on a credit. Peace and prosperity to all. SAME OLD MIKE.

DEATH OF Mr. MILES L SMITH.

Early on Sunday morning it was discovered that the angel of death had visited the home of Mr. Miles Smith at Cooper, and the breath of life had departed from him. In the still hours of the night the spirit had quietfully and peacefully flown and nought was left but the mortal remains. The end was not quite unexpected, as the old gentleman had been ailing the last few days, but had retired the night before apparently in better health.

Mr. Smith came to Cooper from Coosa county some six years ago and was well thought of by his neighbors as a good citizen. He was 76 years of age, and for many years had been a member of the Masonic fraternity, and was buried at Clanton on Monday with the honors the brotherhood bestows upon its worthy members, several Masons attending from the Cooper, Jemison and Clanton Lodges.

A widow, three sons, A. C., Wiley and Robert, and one married daughter, Mrs. Wm. Kelly of Sylacauga, survive him, to whom our sympathies are tendered in their bereavement.

HARVEY F. CHANDLER

ELECTED MAYOR OF CLANTON FOR 1905.

The subject of this brief sketch, Harvey F. Chandler, an excellent portrait of whom is presented above, may fairly be said to be a thorough Clantonian, although born at Newnan, Ga., some twenty-five years ago When he was four years of age his parents came to Clanton, and from that day to this, his home has been here, and as he grew from infancy to boyhood, and from boyhood to manhood, he has seen the growth of Clanton from a straggling village to the presentable town it is now, and of which he has just been elected Mayor. Educated in the schools of Clanton, his business experience in mercantile affairs gained in the stores of Clanton, he is thoroughly imbued with the spirit of Clanton, and anxious to do all that is possible fo the upbuilding of the town. In politics he is a sound Democrat, h has not heretofore taken an active part in public affairs, this being first time he has been a candidate for office, and it was only a solicitation of friends that he consented to ask the citizens of th for their votes In 1902 he was married to Miss Jessie charming and accomplished young lady of Anniston, who w well known and popular in Clanton society, and whose has increased since her marriage and residence here.

The students attending the agricultural colleges in the United States number about 5000. This is not a large number compared with the total number of farmers in the country, remarks the Mirror and Farmer, but it shows that a good start has been made in the education of the tillers of the soil.

The world's leaders have had master passions. Washington ate voraciously, burned with colossal ardors and fiery tempers, fought, loved; but reined his vast soul with the consummate skill with which he managed his steed. The whole register of the passions should be developed and purified. The ancient views of eradication have passed to the lumber room of dead theories. Endowments rooted in nature, brought up out of savagery to the wisdom and sweetness, diademed by love, will make the redeemed race, concludes Clarence Lathbury, in The Being with the Upturned Face.

The recommendation of the American Federation of Labor that its members study economic conditions and listen to lectures on the subject, ought, if it is followed, to have a very beneficial effect, says the Indianapolis News, provided always the right books are studied and the right lectures are listened to.

As the population of Ireland has decreased the demand for prisons has become less and less, says the Springfield Republican, and they have been sold by the score, while the famous Harold's Cross Prison, in Dublin, occupied in the 40's by Daniel O'Connell, has been turned over to the War Office for barracks.

A New York burglar declares that while concealed in a broad portiere in Madison avenue he witnessed a scene in which a young man proposed to and was accepted by a handsome young lady. For four hours he listened to the words of love, not daring to move. He then stole some silverware and escaped. Whether he related the tale as intended mitigation of his theft is not stated.

Australian barrister writing in the North American Review tells of the great success that has been made with the telegraph under Government ownership in Australia. THE BRAVE OLD WAY.

I say risk all for one warm kiss;
I say 'twere better to risk the fall,
Like Romeo, to venture all,
And boldly climb to deadly bliss.
I like that savage, Sabine way:
What mighty minstrels came of it!
Their songs are ringing to this day,
The bravest ever sung or writ.
Their loves, the love of Juliet,
Of Portia, Desdemona, yea.
The old true loves are living yet;
And we, we love, we weep, we sigh
In love with loves that will not die.
Then take her, lover, sword in hand,
Hot-blooded, and red-handed; clasp
Her sudden, stormy, tall, and grand,
And lift her in your iron grasp,
And kiss her, kiss her till she cries
From keen, sweet, happy, killing pain.
Aye, kiss her till she seeming dies;
Aye, kiss her till she dies, and then,
Why, kiss her back to life again!

Isa, the Haymaker

BY MAE MARTIN

"A regular Amazon!" said Fred Mallandaine, shrugging his shoulders. "On the very top of a load of hay, with a straw hat pulled down over her eyes and a pitchfork in her hand!"

"Now, Fred," cried out his sister Nellie, "you are talking arrant nonsense."

"A man must believe his senses," said Mallandaine. "I asked for Miss Fane, and the ancient beldame who was shelling the peas by the kitchen window pointed one skinny forefinger across the fields, and answered, "There she is, a-gettin' in the hay. They all stirs round lively in these parts when there's a shower comin' up. You'll find her in the hayfield.'"

"And you?' questioned Nellie.

Mr. Mallandaine smiled ironically.

"I!" said he. "You must bear in mind that I was looking for a young lady, not for a farm-boy's assistant; so I just turned around and came home again."

"But there must be some mistake!" cried out impetuous Nellie. "My Florence Fane is a princess among women, tall and slender, and graceful, who plays the harp and writes delicious little essays, and——"

"There was neither harp nor writing desk on the top of that load of hay," said Ted, very decidedly. "Anu pray, Nell, don't be offended; but I am rather disenchanted with your rustic belles, after my afternoon's experience. Give me a cigar, please, and don't let anyone disturb me for a while, there's a darling."

Nellie obeyed.

But while she found the cigar case, handed the newspaper, and regulated the exact fall of the curtain folds which should be most agreeable to her brother's optical partialities, she puzzled her brain as to how, and why and wherefore this little plan of hers for an instant attachment between Fred and Florence Fane had thus come to an untimely standstill.

"It's the most unaccountable thing in the world," said Nellie to herself. "I think I'll go over and see what it all means."

Low and long, with gabled fronts and bay windows, the Fane's farmhouse stretched itself out under the umbrageous walnut trees, with Forence's easy chair on the porch, and Florence herself, posed like a woodland nymph, all mauve musli- -ls of pallid gold and fleecy land shawl.

brown cambric dress, burst into the room like a beam of sunshine.

"It isn't true!" said she, defiantly. "I'm not an Amazon, and nobody has any business to call me a farm-boy's assistant!"

"Isa!" softly pleaded Florence, lifting her white palms, as if to ward off this sudden gust of breezy defiance.

"And the hay would have been spoiled if I had'nt helped to get it in; and poor old John Knight would have been discharged for forgetting; and, besides, wasn't Maud Muller, in the poem, a haymaker? and did anyone dare to criticise her?"

"I am sure——" mildly commenced Miss Mallandaine.

"Oh, don't make any apologies," said little Isa, with her retrousse nose in the air, and two red spots on her cheeks. "And tell your brother, Miss Nellie, that I am as little anxious to make his acquaintance as he is mine."

And exit Isa, not without some slight emphasis on the closing of the door.

Fred laughed a little when the younger Miss Fane's defiant message was brought to him.

"She need not be alarmed," he said. "There is no sort of probability that we shall be brought into contact with each other."

But "Man proposes and God disposes!" says the sparkling proverb; and the week was not out before Mr. Frederick Mallandaine, strolling among the picturesque woods which surrounded the old house which the paterfamilias had taken for the summer, found himself in a ruined sawmill, where tall, sweet fern bushes grew through the yawning crevices of the moldering floor, and the sunbeams sifted like misty lines of gold between the cracks in the roof above.

"There must be a view from that peak," said Fred to himself; and springing up a slight ladder, which reared itself from beam to beam, he picked his way across the perilous flooring to the window, which looked out over a breezy stretch of vale and upland, where the blue windings of a river flashed in the sunshine, and the undulations of a distant mountain chain seemed to close up the horizon with its purple gateways.

As he stood there, feasting his eyes upon the prospect, a slight noise below attracted his ear; he hurried to the edge of the floor, only in time to discover that the ladder, his sole means of escape, was walking off upon the shoulders of a stout, silver-haired old man, who whistled cheerfully as he went.

"Halloa!" he shouted. "Hold on there, my man! Where are you going with that ladder?"

No answer—no response of any nature.

"Is the man deaf?" cried Fred, in a sort of frenzy.

That was precisely what old John Knight was. As deaf as the proverbial post!

Pretty Isa Fane was waiting for him on the edge of the ruins, holding up one pretty finger.

"Huh, John!" said she. "Don't you hear some one calling?"

"I didn't mind anybody," said old John, whoe dull ears could catch Isa's clear, sweet voice, when all the shouting of the farmhands was inaudible to him.

"It must be the owls, or some one shooting squirrels in the glen, may be."

"No," said Isa, crisply; "it's a voice calling. Stay here, John, until I come back."

John stood still, contentedly, with the ladder on his shoulder, while his young mistress hurried up the steep bank as fast as she could.

"Who is it?" she cried, in a voice sweet and shrill as a thrush's warble.

"It is I!" responded Mr. Fred Mellandaine, plaintively. "I climbed up re, and now someone has taken

GERMANY'S SHIPPING.

Highest Class of Vessels Comes From Foreign Yards.

Germany still finds it more convenient to buy a considerable proportion of her highest class steamships from foreign yards, says American Syren and Shipping. And she is not only increasing the wages of her crews from 20 to 30 per cent. during the past decade. While building new steamers in foreign yards to be placed under her flag forthwith, Germany is also buying old foreign tonnage, deemed out of date by the former owner, and somehow making these second hand ships pay their way.

In 1903 the dividends paid by the four principal Hamburg steamship lines varied from 6 to 8 per cent. What they will be after the losses of the rate war have been fixed up is perhaps wisely hidden from the shareholders in the womb of the future. "Forward, and ever forward," is the motto of the Kaiser, and he is prepared to go far.

It is one thing to compete against a dozen of other firms all under a foreign flag, each of which is eager to come out on top, but it is quite another thing to compete against is German mercantile marine, which is regarded by both Kaiser and people as a national venture and treated accordingly. Who does not remember the Kaiser's stirring speech to his subjects that the future of Germany is upon the ocean?

Brain tells in Germany, because it is not confined solely to the genius class, of whom every nation possesses some and no nation more than America, but is found throughout the length and breadth of the land, owing to the educational training being of such a nature as to insure a due mixture of theory and practice. At times, however, the men of light and leading in Germany seem to be carried away by the success of their undertakings, and act as autocratically as though Germany were without powerful rivals on both sides of the Atlantic.

This over confidence costs Germany dear, and may prove her undoing. Any way, barring Bismarckian bluffness, Germany is a potent object lesson as to the freedom permitted to her capitalists in building up a mercantile marine, and the great impetus given thereto by her statesmen and Kaiser.

KING MACRAE.

The Hardy Scot Who Rules Tierra del Fuego.

In new kilts and plaid and playing a pibroch of triumph on his pipes, John Farquharson Macrae, formerly of Scotland, but now of Tierra del Fuego, strode the gangway of the Oruba at Liverpool yesterday, bound once more for South America. During twenty-two years, spent for the most part among the hostile natives of the Land's End of the Western Continent, John Farquharson Macrae clung to his pipes as he clung to his Scottish accent. When he had no human companion to converse with, his pibroch resounded over the waters of the Magellan Strait.

As a youth he left his native heath for Argentina and reared cattle. After a few years he found himself in possession of over 500 horses and a couple of thousand sheep.

These animals he trekked over two thousand miles, with the aid of a compass and chart, to southern Patagonia. He watered and fed his flocks and herds by the way with only five men to assist him, but at the end of a year of hunger and thirst and fatigue he found himself in possession of a fine stretch of country over 80,000 acres in extent.

After leasing this land for ten years, he sought fresh territory and trekked over into Terra del Fuego.

He was the first Briton to penetrate into the country, and the natives resented the intrusion. The tall Aonas and the stunted Yaghans came in hordes, attacked his little castle, and lay in wait for him with arrows.

An intrepid rider and an unerring shot, however, he would ride away concealed by the horse's body and shooting with deadly effect. For several years he carried his life in his hands, but at last the savages began to regard him with such respect and fear that they christened him "Sorto," the native equivalent for "the devil."

For some years past the Scott's pioneer has been undisputed monarca

The students attending the agricultural colleges in the United States number about 5000. This is not a large number compared with the total number of farmers in the country, remarks the Mirror and Farmer, but it shows that a good start has been made in the education of the tillers of the soil.

The world's leaders have had master passions. Washington ate voraciously, burned with colossal ardors and fiery tempers, fought, loved; but reined his vast soul with the consummate skill with which he managed his steed. The whole register of the passions should be developed and purified. The ancient views of eradication have passed to the lumber room of dead theories. Endowments rooted in nature, brought up out of savagery to the wisdom and sweetness, rediademed by love, will make the redeemed race, concludes Clarence Lathbury, in The Being with the Upturned Face.

The recommendation of the American Federation of Labor that its members study economic conditions and listen to lectures on the subject, ought, if it is followed, to have a very beneficial effect, says the Indianapolis News, provided always the right books are studied and the right lectures are listened to.

As the population of Ireland has decreased the demand for prisons has become less and less, says the Springfield Republican, and they have been sold by the score, while the famous Harold's Cross Prison, in Dublin, occupied in the 40's by Daniel O'Connell, has been turned over to the War Office for barracks.

A New York burglar declares that while concealed in a broad portiere in Madison avenue he witnessed a scene in which a young man proposed to and was accepted by a handsome young lady. For four hours he listened to the words of love, not daring to move. He then stole some silverware and escaped. Whether he related the tale as intended mitigation of his theft is not stated.

Australian barrister writing in the North American Review tells of the great success that has been made with the telegraph under Government ownership in Australia. As to England, the post and telegraph services are combined, thus cheapening the administration of both, and though Australia is a large and sparsely settled country the cost of messages there averages less than half what it does in the United States.

THE BRAVE OLD WAY.

I say risk all for one warm kiss;
I say 'twere better to risk the fall,
Like Romeo, to venture all,
And boldly climb to deadly bliss.
I like that savage, Sabine way;
What mighty minstrels came of it!
Their songs are ringing to this day,
The bravest ever sung or writ.
Their loves, the love of Juliet,
Of Portia, Desdemona, yea,
The old true loves are living yet;
And we, we love, we weep, we sigh
In love with loves that will not die.
Then take her, lover, sword in hand,
Hot-blooded, and red-handed; clasp
Her sudden, stormy, tall, and grand,
And lift her in your iron grasp,
And kiss her, kiss her till she cries
From keen, sweet, happy, killing pain.
Aye, kiss her till she seeming dies;
Aye, kiss her till she dies, and then,
Why, kiss her back to life again!

Isa, the Haymaker

BY MAE MARTIN

"A regular Amazon!" said Fred Mallandaine, shrugging his shoulders. "On the very top of a load of hay, with a straw hat pulled down over her eyes and a pitchfork in her hand!"

"Now, Fred," cried out his sister Nellie, "you are talking arrant nonsense."

"A man must believe his senses," said Mallandaine. "I asked for Miss Fane, and the ancient beldame who was shelling the peas by the kitchen window pointed one skinny forefinger across the fields, and answered, 'There she is, a-gettin' in the hay. They all stirs round lively in these parts when there's a shower comin' up. You'll find her in the hayfield.'"

"And you?" questioned Nellie.

Mr. Mallandaine smiled ironically. "I?" said he. "You must bear in mind that I was looking for a young lady, not for a farm-boy's assistant; so I just turned around and came home again."

"But there must be some mistake!" cried out impetuous Nellie. "My Florence Fane is a princess among women, tall and slender, and graceful, who plays the harp and writes delicious little essays, and——"

"There was neither harp nor writing desk on the top of that load of hay," said Ted, very decidedly. "And pray, Nell, don't be offended; but I am rather disenchanted with your rustic belles, after my afternoon's experience. Give me a cigar, please, and don't let anyone disturb me for a while, there's a darling."

Nellie obeyed.

But while she found the cigar case, handed the newspaper, and regulated the exact fall of the curtain folds which should be most agreeable to her brother's optical partialities, she puzzled her brain as to how, and why and wherefore this little plan of hers for an instant attachment between Fred and Florence Fane had thus come to an untimely standstill.

"It's the most unaccountable thing in the world," said Nellie to herself. "I think I'll go over and see what it all means."

Low and long, with gabled fronts and bay windows, the Fane's farmhouse stretched itself out under the umbrageous walnut trees, with Florence's easy chair on the porch, and Florence herself, posed like a woodland nymph, all mauve musli[illegible]ls of pallid gold and fleecy [illegible] land shawl.

brown cambric dress, burst into the room like a beam of sunshine.

"It isn't true!" said she, defiantly. "I'm not an Amazon, and nobody has any business to call me a farm boy's assistant!"

"Isa!" softly pleaded Florence, lifting her white palms, as if to ward off this sudden gust of breezy defiance.

"And the hay would have been spoiled if I hadn't helped to get it in; and poor old John Knight would have been discharged for forgetting; and, besides, wasn't Maud Muller, in the poem, a haymaker? and did anyone dare to criticise her?"

"I am sure——" mildly commenced Miss Mallandaine.

"Oh, don't make any apologies," said little Isa, with her retrousse nose in the air, and two red spots on her cheeks. "And tell your brother, Miss Nellie, that I am as little anxious to make his acquaintance as he is mine."

And exit Isa, not without some slight emphasis on the closing of the door.

Fred laughed a little when the younger Miss Fane's defiant message was brought to him.

"She need not be alarmed," he said. "There is no sort of probability that we shall be brought into contact with each other."

But "Man proposes and God disposes!" says the sparkling proverb; and the week was not out before Mr. Frederick Mallandaine, strolling among the picturesque woods which surrounded the old house which the paterfamilias had taken for the summer, found himself in a ruined sawmill, where tall, sweet fern bushes grew through the yawning crevices of the moldering floor, and the sunbeams sifted like misty lines of gold between the cracks in the roof above.

"There must be a view from that peak," said Fred to himself; and springing up a slight ladder, which reared itself from beam to beam, he picked his way across the perilous flooring to the window, which looked out over a breezy stretch of vale and upland, where the blue windings of a river flashed in the sunshine, and the undulations of a distant mountain chain seemed to close up the horizon with its purple gateways.

As he stood there, feasting his eyes upon the prospect, a slight noise below attracted his ear; he hurried to the edge of the floor, only in time to discover that the ladder, his sole means of escape, was walking off upon the shoulders of a stout, silver-haired old man, who whistled cheerfully as he went.

"Halloa!" he shouted. "Hold on there, my man! Where are you going with that ladder?"

No answer—no response of any nature.

"Is the man deaf?" cried Fred, in a sort of frenzy.

That was precisely what old John Knight was. As deaf as the proverbial post!

Pretty Isa Fane was waiting for him on the edge of the ruins, holding up one pretty finger.

"Huh, John!" said she. "Don't you hear some one calling?"

"I didn't mind anybody," said old John, whoe dull ears could catch Isa's clear, sweet voice, when all the shouting of the farmhands was inaudible to him.

"It must be the owls, or some one shooting squirrels in the glen, may be."

"No," said Isa, crisply; "it's a voice calling. Stay here, John, until I come back."

John stood still, contentedly, with the ladder on his shoulder, while his young mistress hurried up the steep bank as fast as she could.

"Who is it?" she cried, in a voice sweet and shrill as a thrush's warble.

"It is I!" responded Mr. Fred Mallandaine, plaintively. "I climbed up [illegible]re, and now someone has taken [illegible] ladder away and I can't get back."

[illegible] stood there, tall, slight, brown-[illegible]d, with her hands clasped be-[illegible]r back, and the wind blowing [illegible]nut curls about, while a mis-[illegible]ight scintillated under her [illegible] eyelashes.

GERMANY'S SHIPPING.

Highest Class of Vessels Comes From Foreign Yards.

Germany still finds it more convenient to buy a considerable proportion of her highest class steamships from foreign yards, says American Syren and Shipping. And she is not only increasing the wages of her crews from 20 to 30 per cent. during the past decade. While building new steamers in foreign yards to be placed under her flag forthwith, Germany is also buying old foreign tonnage, deemed out of date by the former owner, and somehow making these second hand ships pay their way.

In 1903 the dividends paid by the four principal Hamburg steamship lines varied from 6 to 8 per cent. What they will be after the losses of the rate war have been fixed up is perhaps wisely hidden from the shareholders in the womb of the future. "Forward, and ever forward," is the motto of the Kaiser, and he is prepared to go far.

It is one thing to compete against a dozen of other firms all under a foreign flag, each of which is eager to come out on top, but it is quite another thing to compete against is German mercantile marine, which is regarded by both Kaiser and people as a national venture and treated accordingly. Who does not remember the Kaiser's stirring speech to his subjects that the future of Germany is upon the ocean?

Brain tells in Germany, because it is not confined solely to the genius class, of whom every nation possesses some and no nation more than America, but is found throughout the length and breadth of the land, owing to the educational training being of such a nature as to insure a due mixture of theory and practice. At times, however, the men of light and leading in Germany seem to be carried away by the success of their undertakings, and act as autocratically as though Germany were without powerful rivals on both sides of the Atlantic.

This over confidence costs Germany dear, and may prove her undoing. Any way, barring Bismarckian bluffness, Germany is a potent object lesson as to the freedom permitted to her capitalists in building up a mercantile marine, and the great impetus given thereto by her statesmen and Kaiser.

KING MACRAE.

The Hardy Scot Who Rules Tierra del Fuego.

In new kilts and plaid and playing a pibroch of triumph on his pipes, John Farquharson Macrae, formerly of Scotland, but now of Tierra del Fuego, strode the gangway of the Oruba at Liverpool yesterday, bound once more for South America. During twenty-two years, spent for the most part among the hostile natives of the Land's End of the Western Continent, John Farquharson Macrae clung to his pipes as he clung to his Scottish accent. When he had no human companion to converse with, his pibroch resounded over the waters of the Magellan Strait.

As a youth he left his native heath for Argentina and reared cattle. After a few years he found himself in possession of over 500 horses and a couple of thousand sheep.

These animals he trekked over two thousand miles, with the aid of a compass and chart, to southern Patagonia. He watered and fed his flocks and herds by the way with only five men to assist him, but at the end of a year of hunger and thirst and fatigue he found himself in possession of a fine stretch of country over 80,000 acres in extent.

After leasing this land for ten years, he sought fresh territory and trekked over into Terra del Fuego.

He was the first Briton to penetrate into the country, and the natives resented the intrusion. The tall Aonas and the stunted Yaghans came in hordes, attacked his little castle, and lay in wait for him with arrows.

An intrepid rider and an unerring shot, however, he would ride away concealed by the horse's body and shooting with deadly effect. For several years he carried his life in his hands, but at last the savages began to regard him with such respect and fear that they christened him "Sorto," the native equivalent for "the devil."

For some years past the Scott's pioneer has been undisputed monarch [illegible]f Tierra del Fuego, where he has [illegible]massed a fortune. It is with the bag-[illegible]s that he rules.—London Mail.

Negroes Rob a Flagman.

Oxmoor, Ala.—Two negroes robbed and probably fatally wounded H. C. Almon, a flagman on the Louisville and Nashville railroad Friday night about 8 o'clock at Oxmoor, eight miles from Birmingham. Almon is at St. Vincent's hospital in a very critical condition, with a slight fracture of the skull just above one eye, and a bullet hole through his abdomen.

The train was the second section of No. 19, a freight from Birmingham to Anniston. When the train reached Oxmoor the flagman went back to protect it, and the two negroes jumped on him. They took his pistol from his pocket, and after beating him over the head with the butt, they threw him on the ground and shot him through the back. The ball perforated the intestines and the abdomen, causing what is generally thought to be a fatal wound.

The flagman was discovered by the other employes of the road, who were attracted by the shot. Their suspicions had been aroused by the long absence of the flagman. He was brought to Birmingham on No. 4, which arrived at 9:10 o'clock Friday night, and was carried to St. Vincent's hospital in the ambulance of Shaw & Son.

The negroes made the assault for the purpose of robbery. Friday was pay day on the Louisville and Nashville, and they thought that he would have a large amount of money on his person. They secured only a few dollars, however, as Almon had left his money at home.

Dr. Pressly operated on the flagman Friday night, but there is little hope for his recovery.

Mr. Almon lives on Twenty-first street, Avondale.

Waterworks Nearly Complete.

Bessemer, Ala.—The construction of the new Bessemer waterworks system, which has been delayed several weeks by the past bad weather, is drawing near to completion, and it is stated on positive authority that water will be pumped into Bessemer between now and the 20th of this month.

As it will take several more weeks to finish the cistern on Red Mountain, the water for the present will be pumped direct from Hawkins springs.

All the delayed machinery for the pumps has now arrived and the finishing touches are being made on the pumping station.

The reservoir will have a capacity of 5,000,000 gallons, and will give an average pressure in Bessemer of 80 pounds. The work is being pushed as rapidly as the weather will permit.

Hurt by a Street Car.

Birmingham, Ala.—Green Scott, a farmer who lives in Shades Valley, was seriously injured, his horse was killed and his wagon mashed to pieces by street car No. 418 on the Lakeview line Saturday night about 6:30 o'clock. The accident occurred at Twenty-fourth street and Avenue F.

Scott was carried to St. Vincent's hospital in Shaw & Son's ambulance and an operation was performed. His skull was slightly fractured by the blow he received when the car struck the wagon, and he has other bruises about the head and body.

Well-Known Physician Dead.

Tuskegee, Ala.—Dr. William J. Gautier, a prominent physician, died of heart trouble after an illness of a week. Had he lived thirteen days longer he would have been 80 years of age. He has practiced medicine in Tuskegee for more than half a century.

For a number of years he has been president of the board of trustees of the Alabama Conference Female college. The funeral will take place from the Methodist church of which he was an official member. Deceased is survived by his wife, son and four daughters.

Mobile, Ala.—Ira Carter, colored, was hanged at St. Stephens, Ala., Saturday, for the murder of Conductor S. W. Asked, of Birmingham, on an excursion train at Yellow Pine, Ala., on the Mobile and Ohio railroad on the night of May 24, 1904. This is the first legal hanging in Washington county in sixty-two years.

Farmer Held Up By Negroes.

Decatur, Ala.—A farmer by the name of Sam Tounsand, residing some fifteen miles from Decatur, claims to have been held up and robbed about six miles from here while on his way home in his farm wagon late Tuesday evening. The robbers were two strange negroes. He says the negroes took all the money he had, which was $1.17, and they also took a sack of flour, a dollar's worth of coffee, a dollar's worth of sugar and a quart of whisky. One negro covered him with a shotgun while the other one got the property.

Fire at Blountsville.

Blountsville, Ala.—Saturday night about 11 o'clock the splendid residence of A. B. Todd was entirely consumed by fire. The inmates, comprising Mrs. Todd and two little children and several boarding students, had a close race for their lives. Loss, about $2,000; no insurance.

Receiver Named.

Jasper, Ala.—On the petition of T. L. Long and others of Jasper, Chancellor J. J. Altman has appointed Jack S. Moore, of Jasper, as the receiver of the Walker Coal and Mineral Land Company.

Three Brothers Killed.

Selma, Ala.—In a row at Peterman one Smith shot one of three brothers named Smith and was himself killed.

THE CZAR'S ADDRESS

To the Noble Defenders of Port Arthur, He Gives Honor Unstintingly.

HE SAYS STRUGGLE MUST GO ON.

Declares That Russia's Strength Grows with Adversity—Has Not Failed to Recover.

St. Petersburg—Emperor Nicholas has addressed the following rescript to the army and navy:

“Port Arthur has passed into the hands of the enemy. During eleven months the fight has been going on in its defense. More than seven months its noble defenders had been cut off from the rest of the world. Without any positive assurance of relief, they continued to fight and did everything in their power to check the progress of the enemy, sparing neither life nor heart blood to uphold the honor of the Russian people.

“Russia, with pride and admiration, followed each move in the contest. The whole world was astounded at their gallantry, but daily their ranks were thinned, their power of resistance diminished and under repeated attacks by the enemy, they were obliged to give way.

“Peace, honor and undying memory will be the portion of you Russians who have fallen in defense of Port Arthur. Far from home, you have laid your bodies upon alien soil—a sacrifice to the dictates of your own honor and the demands of your emperor.

“Peace and honor be your portion. Always will you be so held in our heart and memory.

“Honor to the living. May God restore you to health and strength and give you patience to face this disaster with which you are confronted.

“My gallant troops and sailors: Do not let this sorrow dismay you. Our army is strong and daring. This fight against them occurs 7,000 miles from our home; but, Russia is powerful. In the thousand years of its existence, there have been still heavier trials, worse and more threatening dangers, but Russia ever arose from trial with renewed force and strength. Do not let your souls be troubled by lack of success and heavy losses. Russian strength growths with adversity.

“With all Russia, I join in the belief that the time is coming when God will give strength to our glorious army and navy to arise and break the forces of the enemy.

(Signed) “NICHOLAS.”

Report of Guerrilla Fighting.

Tokio—The Japanese casualties in the recent fighting at New Chwang and other places involved in the Russian raids are estimated at one killed and fifteen wounded, all non-commissioned officers or privates. The Russian total losses are estimated at over three hundred. The Japanese report that the supplies of munitions stored at New Chwang and Niuchiatun were not damaged.

Cossacks in Manchuria.

Tokio—Additional reports from the Japanese headquarters state that the Russian cavalry which was defeated in the neighborhood of Yinkow Wednesday retreated in a disorderly condition to north Takaokan, south of New Chwang, leaving sixty-two killed and wounded behind. Many abandoned their arms and accoutrements in their fight. It is believed that the Russian casualties exceed 200. The Japanese routed the Russians near New Chwang Friday.

Praises Japanese Troops.

Tokio—Lieut. Gen. Nadien, who is one of the Russian officers who were given their parole at Port Arthur and who has arrived here, is 65 years old. He said to an interviewer:

“When I entered Port Arthur I was a major general. Since then I have been promoted to the rank of lieutenant general and commanded the fourth division during the siege. I lived in the trenches. The bravery shown by the Japanese navy is beyond comparison. Its achievements are unparalleled. With the Japanese navy and the Russian army nothing in the world could withstand us. Our soldiers are uneducated—it is not so with the Japanese. The bravery displayed by the Japanese soldiers is unrivaled. It seems shameful to kill such splendid men. I lament the tremendous sacrifice of life on both sides.

“The emperor is a good sovereign who is rarely seen. He seems to be disgusted at the cruelties of the war. I wish for peace. I think hostilities will cease during the coming autumn at the least.”

Sheffield, Ala.—The Northern Alabama Gas Company has extended its mains from Florence, across the Tennessee river, and is now ready to furnish the people of Sheffield with gas for cooking and illuminating purposes. The town already has a first-class electric light system.

The report of the Alabama Car Service for the month of December shows 59,261 cars handled as against 65,667 for December, 1903.

Bankers and the Conference.

Waco, Tex.—The following call for a large representation of bankers from the cotton growing states to meet in conference with a committee to be appointed by the cotton convention at New Orleans January 24-26 has been issued:

“To all Bankers of the Cotton States and Territories:

“As presidents of the several bankers' association of the following cotton states and territories, at the special request of Hon. Harvie Jordan, chairman arrangement committee interstate cotton convention, to be held at New Orleans January 24, 25 and 26, 1905, we invite all bankers of these states and territories, whether members of a bankers' association or not, to attend a conference at the St. Charles hotel, New Orleans, January 25, 1905, at 11 a. m., to meet with a committee of cotton growers to be appointed by the convention, and a committee of merchants attending the convention, to devise or adopt a plan for organizing a cotton ware house system throughout these states and territories:

“L. B. Farley, Montgomery, Ala., president Alabama Bankers' Association.

“Charles F. Penzell, Little Rock, president Bankers' Association.

“H. Robinson, Jacksonville, Fla., president Florida Bankers' Association.

“Miller S. Bell, Milledgeville, Ga., president Georgia Bankers' Association.

“D. M. Reynolds, Baton Rouge, La., president Louisiana Bankers' Association.

“F. H. Fries, Winston, N. C., president North Carolina Bankers' Association.

“Frank Craig, South McAlester, I. T., president Oklahoma and Indian Territory Bankers' Association.

“B. F. Maulding, Anderson, S. C., president South Carolina Bankers' Association.

“J. P. Gautt, Knoxville, Tenn., president Tennessee Bankers' Association.

“W. H. Rivers, Elgin, Tex., president Texas Bankers' Association.

“William M. Haliston, Richmond, Va., president Virginia Bankers' Association.

Hon. Eugene Williams, author of what is known as the “Waco Cotton Ware House Plan,” will attend the meeting and advocate his scheme.

This plan, which has attracted wide attention throughout the country, provides for the erection of a ware house at each point where five thousand or more bales are usually marketed, so that the farmer may, if he so desires, store his cotton, and if necessary, borrow money on the ware house receipt.

Mills to Start Soon.

Anniston, Ala.—A deal was closed Saturday for the purchase of a quantity of iron for the rolling mill of the local plant of the Western Steel Car and Foundry company, and when the first delivery of iron is made the rolling mill will be started immediately. This will be joyful news, as it will not require a long time for the delivery of the iron and this part of the large works will begin.

Superintendent Wrenshall says that this department of the work will resume as soon as the material arrives, and in the contract the iron is to be delivered as soon as possible. The rolling mill of the big plant employs about three or four hundred men when run to its full capacity, and the most of these receive very high wages. A large number of the men employed at the mill before it shut down have returned to the city preparatory to taking positions at the works.

Cotton Program Ready.

New Orleans.—Following the preliminary announcement of the program of the Southern Cotton Growers' Protective Association's convention at New Orleans, January 24th, 25th and 26th, President Harvie Jordan has announced the full official program. Mr. Jordan will open the meeting as temporary chairman. Perhaps the most important question at opening will be the permanent chairmanship. Col. E. S. Peters, president of the recently formed National Cotton association, is prominently mentioned; also Congressman John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, and Hon. Eugene Williams, of Texas. The latter is father of the “Waco plan” to hold and ware house cotton, which will come up for discussion. A committee to formulate and present a report on the “Waco plan” will meet on January 25th.

A contract has lately been made between the Venezuelan government and Manuel V. Fejera, a Venezuelan citizen, for the exclusive manufacture of matches in that country. This monopoly is based on a law promulgated in 1899, which provided that the match industry should be a source of government revenue. By the terms of the contract in question the importation of matches in Venezuela is prohibited.

ALABAMA TOBACCO

Experiments Made in Perry County Show That It Can Be Grown Here.

PRODUCT SAID TO BE GOOD.

Further Experiments Will Be Made in Both States Looking Toward Improvement of Flavor.

Montgomery, Ala.—The United States Department of Agriculture has begun, or rather renewed, its efforts to encourage the growth of cigar leaf tobacco in Alabama and Texas, and is sending out literature containing valuable information on the culture and curing of the plant, as well as advice on marketing the commercial product. This matter was first called to the attention of the bureau of soils of the department some years ago by the success attained in Texas, where experiments had been made with a filler leaf from seed secured from Cuba. Some of this leaf appeared to be of fine quality and close inspection showed it to surpass any domestic leaf examined up to that time. Much of the Texas leaf was sent to the Paris exposition and made a part of the government exhibit there. Subsequent investigations strengthened the belief in the prospect of the Texas crop, though poor facilities for marketing had reduced the crop to less than one hundred acres in 1901. It was also discovered that what is known as the Orangeburg sandy loam was the best soil for the tobacco, and produced the finest aroma of any experimented with. This soil, a reddish or greyish sandy loam, with a red clay sub-soil, is found not only in Texas, but many of the gulf and south Atlantic states, and in peculiarly essential quantity in Perry county, Alabama, where there are 82,000 acres of it.

The Alabama Product.

The Alabama product, grown entirely in Perry county, is pronounced good and meets with much approval from the trade, though it has not yet shown as favorable properties as the Texas output, due, no doubt, to the fact that the Alabama cultivation has not been so well developed as the other. The department of agriculture will, as a consequence, encourage the farmers of Perry county, and others which show favorable conditions, to plant limited amounts of the crop. As a preliminary movement farmers will be urged to put in a restricted acreage under the advice and supervision of the experts of the bureau of soils. It is thought that to begin with fifty acres will be enough in Alabama, with much more another year, if things work out well and there can be found a good market. The area planted by one person should not fall below two acres nor go above ten. Those who undertake to go in with the department in this must be men of means adequate enough to take care of a crop of filler tobacco, the bureau assuming no financial responsibility nor rendering financial aid.

Must Get Ready For It.

In addition to having just the kind of soil needed each farmer who goes into the experiment will be expected to build suitable barns for curing the weed. For a five-acre field it will require a barn 30 by 60 feet, which ought to cost about $400. For a crop of ten acres the building should be 100 by 20 feet, with a distance of 20 feet between sill and plate, which ought to cost about $600. Copies of the soil survey showing location of this Orangeburg sandy loam and clay will be supplied by the bureau of soils of the United States Department of Agriculture on request, and negotiations for the advice of the bureau experts may be opened with Milton Whitney, chief of the bureau of soils, who will be glad to take up the matter at any time. Inquiries may also be sent to Mr. G. T. McNess, tobacco expert of the department at Washington, or Mr. W. M. Hinson, expert in charge of the Texas work at Nacogdoches, Tex.

More Smallpox.

Scottsboro, Ala.—There are seven new cases of smallpox at Hollywood, a small station just east of this place, on the Southern railroad. Mr. and Mrs. Carnes and their little daughter; also a son of Will Middleton and a daughter of Will Matthews, a daughter of M. L. Johnson. There were so many people exposed to it before they knew what it was that there will doubtless be several more cases before it can be stamped out.

Many Cattle Drowned.

Selma, Ala.—Many cattle were drowned during the high water caused by the rains along the Boguchetto creek, which swelled beyond its bounds.

Want to Urge Payment of Money.

Rome—The religious orders, strongly supported by Cardinal Vives y Tuto, are urging the vatican to press for payment of the money awarded by the United States for the purchase of the friars' lands in the Philippines. The vatican has replied that nothing can be done in the premises until Archbishop Agius, the apostolic delegate to the Philippines, arrives at Manila and makes his report on the situation.

New Railroad Coming.

Birmingham, Ala.—The Atlantic and Birmingham is to be completed into Birmingham at once. The official announcement was made Saturday by Vice President and General Manager Wadley, and the following account of it was sent out by the Associated Press:

“Waycross, Ga., January 14.—George Dole Wadley, vice president and general manager of the Atlantic and Birmingham railroad, made the statement today that immediate steps would be taken for the extension of the road from Montezuma, the northwestern terminus, on through Georgia and thence to Birmingham.

“The present mileage of the Atlantic and Birmingham system is slightly over 300 miles. The road extends from Waycross to Montezuma, and from Brunswick to Thomasville.

“The distance from Montezuma to Birmingham is in the neighborhood of 250 miles. The route for the Birmingham extension was surveyed about a year ago, and while the present plans of the officials have not been made public, it is believed that the route will be used for the new line.”

The proposed road passed through Talladega and Roanoke, Ala.; La-Grange and Talbotton, Ga., between Birmingham and Montezuma. It will give a direct connection of about 450 miles to the Atlantic coast and insures another direct water connection for Birmingham.”

Historical Society.

Montgomery, Ala.—The Alabama Historical Society is one of the most aristocratic deliberative and study bodies in the state, having had on its rolls many of the greatest men of the commonwealth since its organization on July 8, 1850, in the city of Tuscaloosa. It was chiefly promoted by Dr. Basil Manley, and the first president was Hon. Alexander Bowie. Among the distinguished men who helped to organize the body were Governor H. W. Collier, Bishop N. H. Cobbs, Col. A. J. Pickett, Dr. L. C. LeGrand, Gen. E. D. King, J. T. Wallace, Esq., Judge J. J. Ormond, Prof. M. Tuomey, Dr. Joshua H. Foster. From the date of the first annual meeting in 1851, the sessions were held in Tuscaloosa until 1900, the headquarters were removed to Birmingham, where they remained to June 3, 1901, when they were permanently established at Montgomery, on account of the establishment of the state department of archives and history, to which the society turned over its collections and other possessions. Its purposes are to stimulate interest into history and historical investigation, provide a body of students for regular meetings for historical discussions; to aid in collection of historical objects; and to raise funds for publication purposes. The society was incorporated by the state legislature in 1852. Dr. Thos. M. Owen, director of the department of archives and history of the state, is the secretary.

New Line Projected.

Florence, Ala.—Reports of the progress of the Mobile and Northern railroad, the survey of which has been made from Florence to Mobile, are most satisfactory. A party composed of J. G. Markin, L. A. May, E. T. Terry, L. S. Mallory and W. H. Cohegan, of New York, representing Northern capitalists, are in Florence this week on business connected with the road. The new road, if it follows the survey already made, will pass through some of the best agricultural and mineral sections of the State. It will traverse the coal sections of Jefferson and Tuscaloosa counties, the Blocton coal fields and pass through the cotton sections of several of the black belt counties.

Florence will be the northern terminus, but rumor has it that the road will probably be extended later to connect with some of the great trunk lines.

Old Officers Re-elected.

Montgomery, Ala.—The Alabama Historical society at its meeting here Friday re-elected the old officers as follows: Governor W. D. Jelks, president; Thomas M. Queen, secretary and treasurer. The annual oration was delivered by Acting Governor Cunningham, whose subject was the importance of the interpretation of history. All the old vice presidents were reelected.

Convicted of Postal Robbery.

Mobile, Ala.—Henry Rogers, alias Frank Thomas, was convicted in the federal court yesterday for holding up a mail carrier and was sentenced to life imprisonment in the penitentiary. The alleged crime was committed fourteen years ago.

Fire By Lightning.

Abbeville, Ala.—William Richards, a farmer residing on the plantation of R. G. Sowell, near Abbeville, had the misfortune to lose two mules, a wagon and buggy and the contents of his barn by lightning Friday. The barn, which was also destroyed, was struck by the bolt and the above damage quickly resulted.

City Can Not Issue Bonds.

Anniston, Ala.—Chancellor W. W. Whiteside, of this city, has rendered a decree in the case of R. A. Mitchell v. the city of Gadsden involving the legality of the election which authorized the issue of $100,000 in bonds for the construction of the water works system, and he has declared that the election was void and illegal. The city is therefore perpetually enjoined from issuing the bonds under that authorization.

A BIG cotton crop having proved unrenumerative, it would be good policy to raise a smaller crop this year

THE Alabama State Horticultural Society will hold its second annual meeting at Montgomery next Tuesday and Wednesday. P. C. Smith the Thorsby nurseryman who is vice-president of the Society is on the program for an article on "Spraying for the San Jose scale." The railroads offer one fare plus 25 cents for the round trip.

PRESIDENT Roosevelt a few days since nominated Felix O. Dudley as postmaster for Clanton, and the nomination was promptly confirmed by the Senate. Mr. Dudley has made an excellent fourth-class postmaster, and doubtless will enhance his reputation now that increasing business has placed the office in the third class.

IN compiling some statistical information for the Census Bureau, Department of Manufactures, THE BANNER, (which, by the way, is the only manufacturing establishment in Clanton) evolved some interesting facts which we are pleased to present to our readers.

By an act of Congress the Census Bureau was charged with the gathering in 1905 of statistics of the manufactures of the United States, and to insure accurate statements the individual who shall give false information is liable to a penalty "not exceeding ten thousand dollars, to which may be added one year's imprisonment," and with this penalty in mind we were particularly careful in arriving at our figures. The period covered is from Jan. 1, 1904, to Dec. 31, 1904.

In the first week of 1904 the circulation of THE BANNER was 1104, and in the last week of December it was 1308, an increase of 204 in the twelve months. All told, 65,688 BANNERS were printed and published in the year, which, divided by 52, gives an average of 1263 each week. The weight of the paper used was 6165 pounds.

In the Job Printing department, which embraces general job printing, and the manufacture of books, pamphlets and blank books, THE BANNER has filled orders and shipped manufactured goods to patrons in Shelby, Bibb, Jefferson, Elmore and Coosa counties, thus bringing into Chilton from outside of the county, several hundred dollars for circulation here, and as we are profoundly convinced that to patronize home folks is the duty of all good citizens we never send money away to purchase anything which can be bought at home.

When it is considered that the Editor of THE BANNER was, in consequence of severe sickness, incapacitated from work a great part of the year, the amount of work turned out from the office is very gratifying, and speaks well for the Chilton young men engaged in the office.

To keep up-to-date we have just put in a dozen fonts of new job type, of the latest fashion—Chilton cannot lag behind Montgomery or Birmingham, so far as The Banner is concerned.

REDUCE THE ACREAGE

Editor Banner—I read account of the meeting of farmers, merchants and bankers of the 10th in the interest of the Southern farmer; read their resolutions, pledges, etc. Only one thing is necessary for the success of the cotton maker and holder, viz: Hold what cotton they have and plant not to exceed two thirds of a last year's acreage. Did the thought ever occur to the average farmer that six bales of cotton at ten cents brings the exact amount of money that ten bales does at six cents, and hence estimating fertilizers, rents, labor of making and gathering taken from the net proceeds of the ten bales at six cents will leave the farmer terribly in the hole as it were, while the man who grows the six bales at 10 cents has at least a living profit.

My advice to all is to borrow money on your cotton in hand, i. e., if you have to have it. If not obliged to have it, hold on your own account. Plant less. Get up the old sow, the old cow and the old mare, raise your meat, beef and colts at home (right here in Chilton county) and quit going to market for it. Think of what has been paid out by Chilton county farmers in last five years for mules and horses alone. Add the cost of these to the meat, which has been an unnecessary expenditure, and fifty thousand dollars would not cover it.

Going back to the meeting on the 10th, I want to ask: Did you ever see a lot of small farmers that could agree? Did you ever see a lot of small country merchants that were not always trying to work to his neighbor merchant's disadvantage? It is different over in Louisiana, where the crop runs from 500 to 2000 bales, all farmers agree, work in unison, will not induce one another's tenants away, as in this country. No man has a moral right to try to induce his neighbor's tenant away, but should go in daylight and in the face of right and work out his own salvation and let others do likewise All country folks ought to work together; the country banker, country merchant and the country farmer should be the best of friends, because their interest is identical, one with the other, and as a whole the country people are the salt of the earth. My mother, wife and daughters are all country women; I would not have them otherwise if I could. Ours is a good country, of good people, working, debt-paying people, and why not wake up to our own interest, hold the one, two or twenty bales cotton you have, let all the South act in concert, not sell because your neighbor holds. Do not plant the earth in cotton because your neighbor plants none. Have your beat meetings or school district meetings. Don't talk about cotton alone, but all crops. There is money in many crops if judiciously made and handled. Raise feed that makes good hogs, cattle and horses and they bring cash the same as cotton. Let each man buy him a home; if he can't buy 160 acres, let him buy 80, and if not 80, let him buy 40 acres, build such house as he can pay for, such furniture as his money will pay for, cook on the fire rather than cook on stove bought on credit. On the contrary go in debt, if you have no cash, for a good horse or mule and wagon and do not plough an ox or $40 horse or mule. To do the latter is extravagance while the former is economy.

While the foregoing is given in a rambling way, if it is adhered to all will go well. If not, the contrary result will obtain. The Southern people are on top, thank the Lord, if they only improve their opportunity. Remember the basis of this communication is hold your cotton already made, plant lightly of cotton, heavily of all feed crops, improve your live stock, fowls, etc., plough deeper, cultivate more land to the mule, plant your good land and pasture or rest your poor land, do your own work and quit depending on a lazy negro or lazy white person, either as to that matter.

DEATH OF Mrs. H. C. YOUNG.

On Tuesday morning, at her home at Jumbo, Mrs. H. C. Young breathed her last, after a sickness of two months, caused by a kick from a cow. The good lady was 58 years of age, and had passed her whole life in that neighborhood, where she was loved and esteemed by all who knew her. The funeral took place Wednesday morning at the Mullins' graveyard. A widowed husband and seven grown children mourn the loss of a good wife and fond mother, but they will remember that life is short and they will meet her in the better land "She is not dead, but sleeping."

SAD DEATH OF Mrs BRISTOW.

About three years ago when Capt. J A and Mrs. Dudley removed their family from Clanton to Dolive, in Baldwin county, their only daughter, Miss Lula, was a sweet girl just budding into womanhood, the joy of her parents, the pride of her brothers, and the loved companion of all her young friends. Only twelve months ago Mr. Oscar Bristow, also a former resident of Chilton, wooed and won her, and the union was a most happy one, blessed two months since with a little one, the delight of their home Now the home is desolate, and husband and child, brothers and parents, all are grief-stricken by the loss of their loved one.

On Monday Mrs. Bristow was standing with her back to the fire, at her home at Dolive, when her dress ignited, and she was enveloped in flame from head to foot. Running into an adjoining room for assistance, Dr. J. C. McLeod and wife, threw her on the bed and smothered the fire with blankets and quilts, but unfortunately it was too late and she died a few hours later—a Godly life cut short. She was a devout Christian, and an exemplary young woman, taking a prominent part in all church affairs. The funeral took place at Jemison Wednesday.

The numerous friends of the family grieve with them, and the knowledge of the wide-spread sympathy we trust will help them to bear their loss; moreover their aching hearts should be consoled by the thought that she is now an angel in heaven.

"SAVED MY LIFE"

—That's what a prominent druggist said of Scott's Emulsion a short time ago. As a rule we don't use or refer to testimonials in addressing the public, but the above remark and similar expressions are made so often in connection with Scott's Emulsion that they are worthy of occasional note. From infancy to old age Scott's Emulsion offers a reliable means of remedying improper and weak development, restoring lost flesh and vitality, and repairing waste. The action of Scott's Emulsion is no more of a secret than the composition of the Emulsion itself. What it does it does through nourishment—the kind of nourishment that cannot be obtained in ordinary food. No system is too weak or delicate to retain Scott's Emulsion and gather good from it.

We will send you a sample free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

No More Stomach Troubles.

All stomach trouble is removed by the use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It gives the stomach perfect rest by digesting what you eat without the stomach's aid. The food builds up the body, the rest restores the stomach to health. You don't have to diet yourself when taking Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. J. D. Erskine, of Allenville, Mich., says, "I suffered Heartburn and Stomach trouble for some time. My sister-in-law has had the same trouble and was not able to eat for six weeks. She lived entirely on warm water. After taking two bottles of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure she was entirely cured. She now eats heartily and is in good health. I am glad to say Kodol gave me instant relief." Cured Lumbago.

A. B. Canman, Chicago, writes March 4, 1903. "Having been troubled with Lumbago, at different times and tried one physician after another, then different ointments and liniments, gave it up altogether. So I tried once more, and got a bottle of Ballard's Snow Liniment, which gave me almost instant relief. I can cheerfully recommend it, and will add my name to your list of sufferers." New Brooklyn Bridge.

New York—Fearful lest the strain to which the Brooklyn bridge is being subjected will weaken it to such an extent that a great catastrophe might be possible, engineers of the department of bridges are reported to have determined that the structure must be almost completely rebuilt. To do this, it will require at least two years and meanwhile traffic between New York and Brooklyn will have to be diverted to the Williamsburg bridge, the new Manhattan bridge and to the Brooklyn subway tunnel, now in course of construction. Four or five years may elapse before this can be accomplished, as great traffic problems will have to be solved beforehand.

An inspection of the Brooklyn bridge shows it to be in a safe condition at present, but it is admitted by all the engineers that steel has an age limit, and that this limit is being rapidly approached. The structure is now having to withstand a weight of traffic which it never was intended to bear. But little will remain of the present bridge except the great stone piers.

It is estimated that the cost will be about $5,000,000.

Fire in Starch Plant.

Oswego, N. Y.—The starch plant of the Corn Products Company was damaged to the extent of $150,000 by fire today, which destroyed the packing department, kiln room and scrapping room. A portion of the granary was also burned. The fire was caused by the explosion of a boiler.

Athens, Ala.—After standing fifty years, the railroad station at this place is being torn down to make room for a more modern structure. The new depot will be of the most improved construction.

Selma, Ala.—This city was cut off for several hours yesterday from telephone and telegraph communication with the outside world on account of the rain and wind storm. The railroads also report heavy damage.

extensive scale, the operators us
g Mexicans to transport their goods and securing enough profit upon the articles to pay the Mexicans' fines when the latter were arrested and jailed. Several special agents of the treasury department, including B. Parker, the chief of the special agents of the United States, have been here giving testimony regarding the alleged violations. The names of the persons indicted will not be made public until after their arrest, which has not yet been effected.

Panamans Angered.

Panama—Representatives of all political parties here have asked American Minister Barrett to withdraw the suggestion he made to the Washington government that the functions of governor of the canal zone and minister to Panama be combined in the person of the governor of the canal zone.

It is argued by the memorialists that the dignity of Panama as an independent nation required a separate legation. The American minister has replied that the suggestion was made in the interests of both Panama and the United States, and that he can not withdraw it.

He said, however, that he will report the request to his government without prejudice to the attitude of Panama.

Demands Annullment.

Port au Prince, Hayti—Mr. Powell, the American minister, has informed the government of Hayti that the United States government refuses to recognize the validity of the sentence in continuancy to fifteen years at hard labor pronounced by the Haytian court against Jaeger Huber, an American citizen, for alleged complicity in bond frauds charged against the administration of former President Simon Sam and officers of the Bank of Hayti.

The United States demands the annullment of the sentence under protection of energetic intervention. The demand has caused much excitement here.

Italian Bark Goes Ashore.

West Palm Beach, Fla.—An Italian bark, the name of which could not be learned, went ashore five miles south of Palm Beach Sunday. The bark carried a crew of fifteen men and a cargo of 500,000 feet of pine lumber. She sailed from Pensacola for Antwerp. All the crew are safe, but the vessel is on the beach and it is feared that the waves will beat her to pieces tonight, leaving a total wreck. The wind is still very high and the sea is rough, and it is feared that other wrecks will be reported tomorrow.

Rice Farms.

Some day large rice farms will be the rule and not the exception along the banks of the Apalachicola river. This is the finest section in the world for rice culture, and those seeking investments along these lines should investigate these claims.

It is easier to return compliments than borrowed umbrellas.

Engineer is Killed.

Leeville, Ala.—In a wreck Sunday on the Nona Mills tram road, caused by spreading rails, Engineer Albert Glaendof was killed. He tried to escape from the cab, but the locomotive was turned completely over, catching the engineer's head and crushing it.

The report of the Alabama Car Service for the month of December shows 59,351 cars handled as against 65,067 for December, 1903.

officer who has ren Port Arthur, dis-ditions at the fortress, ition of the warships and as much better than I had

r. Evidently there was much ng done at Port Arthur after iege commenced. The works on Meter hill were not permanent, d the trenches there were similar o those used by the Boers during the South African war. It seems that the Russians had no general electrical scheme or movable engines or dynamos for searchlights.

"Russian naval officers say that it is impossible yet to ascertain whether the Japanese fire or the opening of sea cocks sank the ships in the harbor. The hospitals are fairly well kept, and are still used for the wounded and for prisoners.

"I understand that up to the time of the capitulation the garrison at Port Arthur received only special allowances, but before the surrender General Stoessel paid off the men. This, together with the constant purchase by the Russians of supplies from junkmen, may explain the report that there was no treasure left at Port Arthur.

"The treatment of the Japanese prisoners at Port Arthur did not compare with that accorded the Russian prisoners in Japan. The Japanese prisoners were given poor food and no fuel, and only once were they permitted to go outside of the prison."

Cossacks in Neutral Territory.

Tokio—Later reports from New Chwang indicate that General Mistchenko's Cossacks, in their recent raiding southwest of Liao Yang, deliberately invaded neutral territory and broke the limits of the war zone.

The reported Russian note to the powers calling attention to China's non-enforcement of neutrality is regarded here in some quarters as absurd. It is felt that China's weakness and constant failure to enforce neutrality must release Japan from obligation to observe restrictions which Russia openly ignored. While the extension of belligerent territory is to be regarded, it is felt that Japan must take steps to protect herself against the repetition of raiding expeditions whose success depends on the violation of neutral territory.

Huan Shan—There has been no serious fighting for several days, though night skirmishes on both sides continue. The most important recently was that in which Captains Kosinoff and Troitgki, with seventy-five Cossacks, drove the Japanese out of the villages of Mitzi and Tkhangay and captured a large amount of forage at both places. General Linevitch has been inspecting the whole front and finds that the men and supplies are in excellent condition. The Japanese on their side are pushing sapping operations toward the Russian lines at several points, but have not made serious progress.

St. Petersburg—Some of the newspapers here are claiming that the Japanese are using the British island of Tabuan, near Borneo, as a base, and that the British are concealing the fact by preventing communication between Borneo and Singapore, on the ground that the cable is undergoing repairs.

The report from Washington that it is believed the powers will informally protest to Russia against the notice served by her that she will consider herself no longer bound to regard the neutrality of China if Japan continues to violate it, has created astonishment here, where it is held that any protest should be directed against the action of Japan, against which Russia has now thrice warned the powers. Russia's position is that she is bound under the circumstances to take steps for the protection of her own interests.

an Shot at Calera.

Ala.—O. M. Harriman, a on the force at Calera, was the back and probably fatally d in Abe Stein's bar room at place Sunday. The shooting was e by one of two men who are un-er arrest in Shelby county on the charge of assault with intent to murder.

Harriman states that the two men formerly worked on the police force, or were deputies in Calera, and that they were discharged and he was given the position which one of them held. He was standing in the saloon talking to a friend when the two men stepped in.

One of them shot him, he states, but he does not know which it was. Both were immediately arrested, but no information could be obtained from Calera last night concerning the shooting.

Dr. Gunn, a well-known physician of Calera, accompanied the wounded man to Birmingham. An operation will be performed today. Harriman was in too much pain and was too weak to stand an operation last night when he was brought to Birmingham and carried to St. Vincent's hospital in Shaw & Son's ambulance.

The wound is in the back, indicating that the man who shot Harriman was standing behind him. The bullet penetrated the lungs and made a very ugly wound. It is probable that Harriman will live.

Harmony for Stockmen.

Denver, Col.—Negotiations have been opened by the officers of the National Live Stock association with the American Cattle Growers' Association, which was organized in this city last Friday by cattlemen who seceded from the stockmen's convention, with a view to establishing harmonious relations between the two organizations. The National Live Stock association's board of control has decided to meet in this city on May 9th next, on which date the American Cattle Growers' association will hold its convention here.

Meanwhile the executive committees of both organizations will make efforts to harmonize their interests in their by-laws and constitutions. It is proposed to have the new association of cattle growers affiliate with the parent organization, exactly as does the National Wood Growers' association. President F. J. Hagenbarth and several members of the executive committee of the National Live Stock association have applied for membership in the cattle growers' association, believing that it can be made of benefit to the united live stock interests of the country.

Convention Begins Today.

Indianapolis, Ind.—With the arrival Sunday of the last Pennsylvania delegation, practically all the 600 miners who will participate in the convention of the United Mine Workers, which begins Monday in Tomlinson hall, were to be found scattered among the several hotels. It is probable that Monday's session of the convention will, after organization is effected, be entirely consumed by the reports of officers.

President Mitchell has prepared a message convering all the important developments of the year, and it is expected that he will look into the future far enough to make several recommendations seeking the continued welfare of the United Mine Workers. It is thought that he will leave the details of the proposed plan to increase the revenues of the organization to the secretary-treasurer, W. H. Wilson, but in all probability he will comment upon the advisability and the need for such a movement. Mr. Wilson in his report is expected to go into this plan in detail, giving the reasons and making suggestions for its fulfillment.

Jail Delivery.

Decatur, Ala.—A jail delivery took place at the city jail Sunday night about 8 o'clock. There were confined in the jail three white men and a negro. Turnkey Chapman was making his rounds for the night prior to retiring. He missed one white man, but thinking he had retired for the night, paid little attention to the matter. The turnkey stepped into a cell to see that everything was alright, and when he did so the door was shoved too and locked on him by one of the white prisoners. The prisoner then made his escape, leaving the turnkey a prisoner in his stead. The turnkey was released later by a member of his family.

The man who escaped was fined in two cases yesterday and another case against him was set for trial this morning.

Carter is Appointed.

Birmingham, Ala.—J. Rivers Carter has been appointed postmaster of Birmingham according to a telegram which was received in official circles here this afternoon shortly before 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

He was endorsed for the office by Messrs. J. O. Thompson and C. H. Scott.

New Bank for Decatur.

Decatur, Ala.—At a meeting of the representative business men of New Decatur held Saturday night the Commercial Savings Bank and Trust Company was organized with a capital stock of $25,000. At the meeting held Saturday night the following board of directors was elected: Dr. W. H. Walton, E. C. Payne, Judge W. H. Simpson, R. H. Allison, Dr. J. A. Hill, Sam Blackwell.

PHILIPPINE REPORT

Secretary Taft Says Islands Are in a Prosperous Condition Under Americans.

FILIPINOS LEARN ENGLISH.

Many Applying for Examination As English Clerks.—Industrial Taxes Abolished.

Washington.—Secretary Taft has submitted to the president the annual report of the Philippine commission, together with the separate reports to the commissioner of the civil governor of the islands and of the heads of the four departments, and the president has transmitted them, with the secretary's letter, to congress.

The secretary says in his letter of transmittal to the president that the reports show the great benefits which have been conferred upon the islands by a continued state of tranquility. Except in the wild, mountainous region of the unexplored island of Samar and the Moro region of the Rio Grande and Lake Lanao, in the sparsely settled island of Mindanao, and in the island of Jolo, conditions as to the tranquility and ladronism, he says, continue to improve, and except in the places mentioned agriculture and peace are not at all interfered with by lawlessness or depredations. He says it is quite satisfactory to observe the good effect of a settled policy with respect to the civil service, under a stringent civil service law, the personnel and efficiency of the service.

Learning English.

Many of the Filipinos are learning English and applying for examination as English clerks. The secretary says that the falling off in the government revenues has reduced the funds available for education. From the central government last year the amount expended did not exceed $1,200,000, as against $1,600,000 the previous year. He adds that without wasting money $5,000,000 a year in the maintenance of the public schools of the Philippine Islands could be readily expended. The enrollment has increased from 183,000 to 263,000 in one year, and there is a demand for American teachers and Filipino teachers in each province. The total expenditures for education last year, including those from central provinces and municipal governments, was nearly $2,000,000.

New Coinage.

Regarding the new coinage of the islands the secretary says one of the most satisfactory results of the government's transactions during the year in the islands is the establishment on a firm basis of the new coinage. The Spanish-Philippine coin and the Mexican coin have been practically driven out of the islands, the former by purchase of the government and a recoinage into the new coins, and the latter by legislation hostile to the importation and circulation of the Mexican money, as well as a strong demand for it in other countries. The danger which presents itself now is the rise in the price of silver, which if it continues may make the silver pesos worth more than 50 cents gold, the present standard of value, and thus lead to the melting up of the new silver pesos of the government.

Tax Revision.

During the year the commission has enacted an internal revenue law and abolished the industrial taxes subjected on all kinds of business, even the smallest, to a license tax that was thought to work proportionately harder on the smaller business than upon the large enterprises. The present bill imposes a tax upon the production of liquor and alcohol, upon the manufacture of cigars and cigarettes and also upon banking and corporations.

Internal Revenue.

The internal revenue law has not been in operation a sufficient length of time to justify criticism or praise of it.

A large part of the $3,000,000 voted by congress has been and is being expended in the construction of roads in the islands.

Regarding the tariff on Philippine products in the United States, the secretary says:

"The reports of Governor Wright and of Commissioner Worcester, show what has appeared in the reports from the islands since the American occupation, the necessity for reducing the tariff on Philippine products entering the United States in order that we may give to the islands a market in America."

Of the Moros, Secretary Taft says:

The Moros.

"The report of Major-General Wood on conditions in the Moro province is of much interest. The Moro government act was framed with a view to giving the persons responsible for the Moro government greater latitude in dealing with the various Moro tri and the wisdom of that latitude is shown by events which it was supp when the Moro act was passed that the Moros were sufficiently ad in tribal government to have c ary laws, which, after elimination of such features as were savage or barbarous might be adopted for practical use, but General Wood's report shows that among the customs of the Moros there is particularly nothing which a government under the auspices of the United States can make itself responsible and he recommends that the effort be to make the criminal laws of the islands substantially uniform throughout the archipelago and in this view I fully concur.

"The union of the military arm with the civil arm in the Moro province has proved to be an excellent arrangement and I can see no reason why it should rot indefinitely continue. The Moro is so different from the Filipino and so much below him in civil governmental capacity that while such an union is entirely unfitted for the development of the Christian Filipinos, it seems to be the only kind of a government adapted to the Moros."

Burton Gets a New Trial.

Washington.—The case of Senator J. R. Burton was decided by the supreme court of the United States Monday dismissing the writ of certiorari to the circuit court of appeals for the Eighth circuit, and reversing the verdict of the district court for the eastern district of Missouri on the ground that payments to Burton was made in Washington. The district court was therefore reversed and the case remanded for a new trial.

Killed and Injured.

Tuskegee, Ala.—As the result of a shooting scrape between 6 and 7 o'clock, two men are dead and two men are badly cut

The dead men are Bob McBryde, aged 56, shot in the head, and Jim McBryde, brother of Bob, 33 years old, shot in the head and shoulder. The wounded are J. T. Conner, sheriff, severely cut in several places, the worst being a gash in the face, and George Lauer, deputy sheriff, cut in hip.

The McBryde brothers live at Cotton Valley, ten miles from here. They had been drinking, and earlier in the day the sheriff had undertaken to persuade them to go home. About night they were creating disorder in the streets and using loud and profane language. Some one telephoned the sheriff, who, in company with his deputy and Chief of Police Taylor, went to place them under arrest. The McBrydes resisted and assaulted the officers with their knives. The officers fired eight shots at them. Jim McBryde's head was severely beaten apparently with the butt end of a pistol. The McBrydes were both unmarried. Bob was a clerk in his father's store and Jim was a farmer.

Storage Plant Burns Two Days.

Chicago, Ill.—The fire which started in the beef storage warehouse of Schwarschild & Sulzberger, Forty-first street and Ashland avenue, last night was still burning today, although under control. The firemen cut holes in the sides and roof of the building, a six-story structure, in their efforts to find the fire, and although dense volumes of smoke and ammonia smoke poured out of the apparatus, no flames were visible.

The fire was in the sawdust which was packed between the double wa of the building. Fourteen firemen were overcome by the ammonia, and were carried out by their companions. All will recover. The loss is estimated at $150,000.

Exposition Open on Sunday.

Portland, Ore.—It has been decided to throw open the gates to all the exhibits at the Lewis and Clark exposition on Sundays. The management will endeavor to emphasize the educational features as much as possible. A local organization headed by ministers, educators, philanthropists and students of advanced thought will work in conjunction with the management of the fair in the matter of Sunday congresses and the plan is to have the gathering in the exposition auditorium devoted to discussions and addresses upon education, religion principles of government, charities, corrections, humanitarian laws, etc.

Tried to Rob a Bank.

Lafayette, Ala.—An attempt was made at an early hour Monday morning to rob the Bank of Lafayette. The outer door of the vault was blown off with dynamite and an attempt was made to wreck the safe inside, but the robbers evidently became frightened and left before completing their work.

The papers and money in the safe are intact and nothing was taken from the bank. The damage to the vault will amount to about $1,000. A kit of tools stolen from a local blacksmith shop was found in the bank this morning.

County Building Burns.

Chicago, Ill.—Fire broke out Monday on the top floor of the county building here. For a while destruction of the entire building was threatened. The flames, however, were confined to a portion of the two upper floors and the roof. Three painters at work in the county building were seriously burned in an explosion of their material when the fire started.

Mobile's Vegetables Set Back.

Mobile, Ala.—The spring vegetable crop received a severe set back Monday morning through the freeze, the temperature going as low as 21 degrees above zero. Early cabbage, turnips, beets, radish, rutabagas, onions and other small vegetables were hit. The area damaged covers more than a thousand acres, and the money loss will be in the neighborhood of $50,000.

SUFFERED FROM CATARRH OF LUNGS SO COMMON IN WINTER: CURED BY PE-RU-NA.

MRS. FRANK WILSON
MRS. H. E. ADAMS

A PLAIN TALK

On a Plain Subject in Plain Language.

The coming winter will cause at least one half of the women to have catarrh, colds, coughs, pneumonia or consumption. Thousands of women will lose their lives and tens of thousands will acquire some chronic ailment from which they will never recover.

KEEP PERUNA IN THE HOUSE.

Unless you take the necessary precautions, the chances are that you (who read this) will be one of the unfortunate ones. Little or no risk need be run if Peruna is kept in the house and at the first appearance of any symptom of catarrh taken as directed on the bottle.

Peruna is a safeguard, a preventative, a specific, a cure for all cases of catarrh, acute and chronic, coughs, colds, consumption, etc.

A COLD ON THE LUNGS THREATENS TO BECOME SERIOUS.

Pe-ru-na Brings Speedy Relief.

Mrs. H. E. Adams, ex-President Palmetto Club, of New Orleans, La., writes from 110 Garfield Court, South Bend, Ind., as follows:

"I am pleased to endorse Peruna, as I took it about a year ago and it soon brought me relief from a cold on my lungs which threatened to be serious.

"The lungs were sore and inflamed, I coughed a couple of hours every night, and I felt that something must be done before my lungs became affected.

"Peruna was suggested by some of my friends who had used it, and acting upon their advice I tried it and found that it was able to bring about a speedy cure. You have my highest endorsement and thanks for the good it did me."

Sounding the Praises of Peruna.

Mrs. Frances Wilson, 32 Nelson St., Clinton, Mass., writes:

"Had you seen me at the time of my illness and now, you would not wonder that I take delight in sounding the praises of Peruna.

"My ailment was a severe cold which attacked the bronchial tubes and lungs.

"I followed your special directions and after using six bottles of Peruna, I was on my feet again. I think Peruna a wonderful medicine."

HOW THE PLANTS GROW.

ARE ABLE TO TAKE FOOD ONLY IN MINERAL FORM.

The Difference Between the Growth of Animals and Plants is Plainly Described—The Plant Possesses Very Limited Powers of Assimilation.

The Epitomist gives a very good description of the methods of plant growth so far as they are understood. The difference between the growth of animals and plants is plainly described. The article is as follows:

Like all living things, plants grow by the assimilation of food, plant food, therefore, is the raw material from which the growth of new substance is produced, says the Epitomist. The only difference between animals and plants in this respect lies in the fact than animal organs are able to take food in the form of organic matter, which has existed in animals or plants. Plants, on the other hand, are able to use only materials in mineral form. Of the many substances entering into the composition of agricultural plants, all, except carbonic acid and water, come directly from the soil, through the roots. One other ingredient of all plants, namely nitrogen, really comes from the air, but it enters the plant through the soil to which it is carried by the rain. Plants are composed of both organic and inorganic materials. Each exerts indispensable influence in the action of the other. The soil material or mineral matter, is the means of changing air materials into organic compounds. These compose much the larger part of all vegetation. In similar manner atmospheric plant materials are indispensable to the changing of soil substances into these important organic materials. Each is essential to the action of the other, and is, therefore, necessary to plant growth. There is an important difference between plant food and mere material fed to plants. This difference is as definite with the plants as it is with animals. The animal feeder never forgets that only a part of the substance fed to his animals is actually utilized or enters the body as a part of the new growth made. Of the total material fed to animals, it is known that only a part is digestible and has actual food value. The feeder has visible evidence that a considerable part of the material consumed by his stock is actually excreted, proving that only a portion has been used. The plant possesses equally limited power of actual assimilation, though is excretes no unused material. From the entire material supplied to the plant as a source of food it is able to take up and use but a comparatively small part. In other words, of the entire soil and air material from which the plant draws its food, or from the material supplied as fertilizer only a camparatively small part is really consumed. Only this small part ever actually becomes a part of the plant itself. Only the part capable of being used is really plant food. Too many farmers act on the supposition that manure, phosphate, potash salts, ashes, nitrate of soda and other forms of fertilizers, are plant food; and that the mass of material thus placed at the disposal of the crop is a guide to the real fertilizing or food value of the article. Of each of these materials only comparatively small part is ever really used by the crop. Phosphate supplies only phosphoric acid. In like manner potash salt supplies actual potash; nitrate of soda contians nitrogen; the real plant food in each case is only a part or ingredient of these materials supplied. The remainder of these substances is simply present as a necessary medium, or conveyor, to make the real plant food economical, convenient for handling, or in some way make the substance required by the plant more practically available. Plant growth takes place by the actual formation of new material. This new material is made from the plant food of the soil and atmosphere, within the plant itself. The real plant food actually becomes a part of the plant itself. The other constituents of the soil, air and fertilizing materials are simply rejected by the plant. These are as distinctly not available for plant growth as is the case with animals in respect to the material excreted by them. The new material or growth of plants consists of two different classes of substances, organic and inorganic, that is animal or vegetable material and mineral matter. No organic matter, as such, is real plant food; it is simply a source of plant food. Manure, blood and cottonseed meal, all organic materials, must become decomposed and changed into mineral matter. Wood in like manner is first reduced to ashes before actual plant food, always in the form of mineral matter. Its own life work, or function, is to convert this mineral matter into organic forms. Phosphoric acid, potash and nitrogen enter the plant in solution through the roots. Carbonic acid enters through the leaves. In the leaves a combining takes place, sunlight being the active agent. By this action new compounds containing both organic and mineral material, are formed. The new material thus produced becomes a part of the plant, is added to the plant, thus the plant grows. The sap or juice of the plant is a moving current containing the materials for this new growth, in solution, which it conveys and deposits. Thus the material for continued growth is supplied.

A Well Deserved Tribute.

The awarding of the Grand Prize to the Winchester Repeating Arms Co., New Haven, Conn., at the St. Louis Exposition, confers upon this company the highest mark of distinction attained by any manufacturer of guns or ammunition in the world. Although a great number of medals were given, the only award of a Grand Prize was to the Winchester Repeating Arms Co.; given as it was in competition with the leading manufacturers of all countries, it testifies decidedly to the superiority of Winchester rifles, shotguns and ammunition. The success attained by the Winchester Repeating Arms Co. at this exposition is in line with past honors. At the Paris Exposition they received the Grand Prix, and wherever exhibited have always been given the highest possible prizes. This latest recognition of superiority is the natural result of thirty years of careful and successful endeavor in maintaining the high quality of Winchester rifles, shotguns and ammunition.

Railroading in Japan.

Japan has 4236 miles of railway, of which 210 miles were constructed in 1903. The number of passengers carried on these railways in 1903 was 110,000,000, the freight transported was 16,122,671 metric tons and the cash receipts amounted to about $23,800,000.

Beware of Ointments For Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists; price, 75c. per bottle.

Germ Day.

The State of Utah has established a holiday in honor of germs. It is called General Health Day and is the first Monday in October. On this day all theatres, churches, public halls, hotels, boarding houses, etc., must be thoroughly disinfected.

Another club woman, Mrs. Haule, of Edgerton, Wis., tells how she was cured of irregularities and uterine trouble, terrible pains and backache, by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—A while ago my health began to fail because of female troubles. The doctor did not help me. I remembered that my mother had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound on many occasions for irregularities and uterine troubles, and I felt sure that it could not harm me at any rate to give it a trial.

"I was certainly glad to find that within a week I felt much better, the terrible pains in the back and side were beginning to cease, and at the time of menstruation I did not have nearly as serious a time as heretofore, so I continued its use for two months, and at the end of that time I was like a new woman. I really have never felt better in my life, have not had a sick headache since, and weigh 20 pounds more than I ever did, so I unhesitatingly recommend your medicine."—Mrs. May Haule, Edgerton, Wis., Pres. Household Economics Club.

PANSY

Do not Suppress a Cough.

When you have a cough do not try to suppress it, but remove the cause. The cough is only a symptom of some disease, and the disease is what you should cure, then the cough will stop of itself. The most common cause of coughing is a cold. Anodynes will promptly suppress the cough, and preparations containing chloroform, opium, etc, are used for that purpose, but they do not cure the cold. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy on the other hand does not suppress the cough, but relieves it by removing from the throat and lungs the mucus which obstructed the breathing and allaying the irretation and tickling in the throat. It also opens the secretions and effectually and permanently cures the cold as well as the cough. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Of Waverly, Texas, writes: "Of a morning, when first arising, I often find a troublesome collection of phlegm which produces a cough and is very hard to dislodge; but a small quantity of Ballard's Horehound Syrup will at once dislodge it, and the trouble is over. I know of no medicine that is equal to it, and it is so pleasant to take. I can most cordially recommend it to all persons needing a medicine for throat or lung trouble." Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

REVIEW OF REVIEWS
The more Magazines there are, the more Indispensable is The Review of Reviews

"Indispensable." "The one magazine I feel I must take." "The world under a field-glass." "An education in public affairs and current literature,"—these are some of the phrases one hears from noted people who read the Review of Reviews. The more magazines there are, the more necessary is the Review of Reviews, because it brings together the best that is in all the most important monthlies of the world. Such is the flood of periodical literature that nowadays people say that the only way to keep up with it is to read the Review of Reviews. Entirely over and above this reviewing section, it has more original matter and illustrations than most magazines, and the most timely and important articles printed in any monthly.

Probably the most useful section of all is Dr. Albert Shaw's illustrated "Progress of the World," where public events and issues are authoritatively and lucidly explained in every issue. Many a subscriber writes, "This department alone is worth more than the price of the magazine." The unique cartoon department, depicting current history in caricature, is another feature. The Review of Reviews covers five continents, and yet is American, first and foremost.

Men in public life, the members of Congress, professional men, and the great captains of industry who must keep "up with the times," intelligent men and women all over America, have decided that it is "indispensable."

IN MEMORIAM.

"In the midst of life we are in the midst of death." This is true of brother John Rasberry, a member of Mulberry Baptist Church just about one year before his death, which occurred a few weeks ago, he was one of the most healthful looking young men in my audience. He was young, strong and handsome, but the white scourge, consumption claimed him Since it was God's will to take him from father and mother, grandfather, brothers and sisters, and a host of friends, we rejoice that he was ready to go. He would often talk to his parents and an aged grandfather of going to heaven. He also asked some of his friends, who had erred through strong drink, to live better lives. Since I have moved to Goodwater and can no longer preach at the old Mulberry church, I am glad to believe in the immortality of the soul and that one day it will be my happy lot to meet my young Brother Rasberry and some others of that community in that house not made with hands, eternal and in the heavens. May those who mourn his loss put their trust in the one who doeth all things well.

MEDICINE

Thedford's Black-Draught comes nearer regulating the entire system and keeping the body in health than any other medicine made. It is always ready in any emergency to treat ailments that are frequent in any family, such as indigestion, biliousness, colds, diarrhoea, and stomach aches.

Thedford's Black-Draught is the standard, never-failing remedy for stomach, bowel, liver and kidney troubles. It is a cure for the domestic ills which so frequently summon the doctor. It is as good for children as it is for grown persons. A dose of this medicine every day will soon cure the most obstinate case of dyspepsia or constipation, and when taken as directed brings quick relief.

DANVILLE, ILL., Dec. 22, 1902.

Thedford's Black-Draught has been our family doctor for five years and we want no other. When any of us feel badly we take a dose and are all right in twelve hours. We have spent lots of money for doctor bills, but we get along just as well with Black-Draught. IRA H. BAKER.

Ask your dealer for a package of Thedford's Black-Draught and if he does not keep it send 25c. to The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., and a package will be mailed to you.

TO FRIENDS OF EDUCATION IN CHILTON COUNTY.

The people of Chilton county are almost asleep on the subject of local taxation. Why can't we awake to the educational needs of the present? Can we afford to sit still and see our sister counties go on and reach the goal? Many counties have already taken action upon this important subject, and will get this year more funds, some of them, from this source than from the State, and at the same time it only costs each individual a small extra tax. I feel sure that the people of Chilton county realize the importance of this question and would give a handsome majority in favor of it if they had an opportunity to vote on the subject.

Let me appeal to you in behalf of the boys and girls over this county, especially those back in the rural districts who only get the poor advantages offered them by the State for an education. Resolutions favoring local taxation in the Institutes have been passed, but seemingly no results follow. Surely we ought to inaugurate a campaign at once, so that before the year 1905 shall have passed away the children of this county will be getting the benefits of this tax. Can't we have some one in each school district to secure enough names to petition the commissioners to call an election for this purpose not later than early spring? Who will take the matter up and push it?

Vine Hill.

Married at Bethel Church, Centreville, Ala., Jan. 25., Mr. I. Roy and miss maude Odell Logan. The bride was beautifully dressed in brown silk, trimmed in burnt orange with beautiful hat to match the dress The bride is the charming daughter of mr. and mrs. Thomas Logan. The groom son of mr. and mrs. G. R. Roy, Rev. John Mitchell performing the ceremony. The happy couple were accompanied to their home here by mrs. maggie James, mr. Thomas mitchell, and mrs. G. R. Roy. We wish them a long and happy life.

mrs. maggie James and mrs. G. R. Roy were recent visitors of mrs. Jane Harville.

Mr. Bailey Mills and his charming daughter miss Lilian, were recent visitors of mrs. Bettie mills.

mr. Will Blue's house caught on fire last Friday night, the fire was raging so when discovered it could not be extinguished. The house was burned to the ground, consuming everything in it, also his barn and all the out houses. We extend to them our deepest sympathy.

Prof. W. W. Hinton and charming wife were welcome visitors of mr. G. R. Roy and family recently.

mr. Gus Pope has returned home from Selma, after spending several days on business.

miss Annie Sherrill, the accomplished teacher of Milton visited her mother and sister recently.

Mr. John Hinson of Selma was in Vine Hill recently on business.

Col. Rush and daughter, Mrs. J. Y. Propst, were recent visitors of Mrs. Jane Harville.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Parker were recent visitors of their mother and father near this place.

Miss Sallie Joe Bowlin has returned home after spending a week with friends and relatives here.

Mrs. Dr. Johnson went to Plantersville recently on business.

Mr. F. A. Pope has lagrippe, also his son, Warner. There are several more cases in and around here.

IN MEMORIAM.

Died on the morning of the 19th inst., Artie Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Armstrong, aged eleven years, nine months and nine days.

There's a form and voice missing,
In the saddened home to-night,
For Artie's gentle spirit
Has taken it's upward flight
With the angels now rejoicing.
She has joined the choir above;
And soars in realms celestial,
Where all is peace and love.

When years of great age has been attained, and the body and mind grows feeble, it seems but natural that a kind and loving Father should take us home to live with Him; but in the early years of youth and exuberance when life is all merriment, and hope pictures so much joy in the coming years, that Providence is indeed mysterious and past all finding out, that takes us away from loving hearts and a happy home. Thus Artie, in the dawn of young womanhood, has been "called up higher." She was possessed of a bright mind and sunny nature, and was a general favorite. After an illness of two weeks of typhoid fever complicated with meningitis, she passed tranquilly away, all human agencies having failed to restore her. She will be sorely missed, but we should not grieve, as our loss is her gain. May we so live that we may meet her in the "Sweet bye and bye." "She is not dead but sleepeth." Peace to her ashes. J. P. "In a multitude of counsellors re is wisdom," and certainly re was a multitude in Clanton dnesday at the adjourned meet of the Cotton Growers' Association, when the court house was l-filled with a representative y of Chilton's best citizenship. good to see the interest that is g manifested in this movement uch vital importance to the people of the entire South, and where re is such unanimity of sentiment and determination, success is more than likely to crown their orts. The organization was not fected, it being the unanimous ire to follow strictly the New leans program and await the action of the meetings to be held in ry school district February 11 to t three delegates from each dis to the county convention at nton when the organization of Association will be completed.

Diversity of crops was much dis ed, and P. C. Smith, the Thorsby nurseryman, who is enthusiastic the prospects of fruit raising in county, read a paper on peach wing, which he avers would be ofitable crop here, far ahead of on raising at five cents a pound.

TO FRIENDS OF EDUCATION IN CHILTON COUNTY.

The people of Chilton county are almost asleep on the subject of local taxation. Why can't we awake to the educational needs of the present? Can we afford to sit still and see our sister counties go on and reach the goal? Many counties have already taken action upon this important subject, and will get this year more funds, some of them, from this source than from the State, and at the same time it only costs each individual a small extra tax. I feel sure that the people of Chilton county realize the importance of this question and would give a handsome majority in favor of it if they had an opportunity to vote on the subject.

Let me appeal to you in behalf of the boys and girls over this county, especially those back in the rural districts who only get the poor advantages offered them by the State for an education. Resolutions favoring local taxation in the Institutes have been passed, but seemingly no results follow. Surely we ought to inaugurate a campaign at once, so that before the year 1905 shall have passed away the children of this county will be getting the benefits of this tax. Can't we have some one in each school district to secure enough names to petition the commissioners to call an election for this purpose not later than early spring? Who will take the matter up and push it?

Vine Hill.

Married at Bethel Church, Centreville, Ala., Jan. 25., Mr. J. Roy and miss maude Odell Logan. The bride was beautifully dressed in brown silk, trimmed in burnt orange with beautiful hat to match the dress. The bride is the charming daughter of mr. and mrs. Thomas Logan. The groom son of mr. and mrs. G. R. Roy, Rev. John Mitchell performing the ceremony. The happy couple were accompanied to their home here by mrs. maggie James, mr. Thomas Mitchell, and mrs. G. R. Roy. We wish them a long and happy life.

mrs. maggie James and mrs. G. R. Roy were recent visitors of mrs. Jane Harville.

Mr. Bailey Mills and his charming daughter, miss Lilian, were recent visitors of mrs. Bettie Mills.

mr. Will Blue's house caught on fire last Friday night, the fire was raging so when discovered it could not be extinguished. The house was burned to the ground, consumming everything in it, also his barn and all the out houses. We extend to them our deepest sympathy.

Prof. W. W. Hinton and charming wife were welcome visitors of mr. G. R. Roy and family recently.

mr. Gus Pope has returned home from Selma, after spending several days on business.

miss Annie Sherrill, the accomplished teacher of Milton visited her mother and sister recently.

Mr. John Hinson of Selma was in Vine Hill recently on business.

Col. Rush and daughter, Mrs. J. Y. Propst, were recent visitors of Mrs. Jane Harville.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Parker were recent visitors of their mother and father near this place.

Miss Sallie Joe Bowlin has returned home after spending a week with friends and relatives here.

Mrs. Dr. Johnson went to Plantersville recently on business.

Mr. F. A. Pope has lagrippe, also his son, Warner. There are several more cases in and around here.

The time has arrived when changed conditions in great centres of population demand a different system of transportation on our trunk lines than has heretofore existed. Modern steam locomotives capable of hauling through passenger and freight trains will still dominate where units are comparatively infrequent and the haul long, but even for this class of service on roads with heavy traffic electricity will gradually supplant steam as the cost of producing current decreases in central power stations and the cost of equipment is lowered—due to cheapened methods of manufacture, the use of water power, and the invention of labor saving and more efficient devices. The traveling public within what may be termed the suburban zones are no longer satisfied with trains of many cars hauled by heavy locomotives at lengthy intervals, continues William J. Wilgus, in Harper's Weekly; neither do they longer tolerate with patience the smoke, gas, cinders and noise inseparable from the steam locomotive. In other words, the steam railroad, if it is successfully to hold and multiply its suburban traffic, must offer the advantages to which the public has become educated by the marvelous development of electric railways within the past twenty years. Trains at short intervals, prompt acceleration, frequent stops for local trains, independent tracks for express service, and the absence of products of combustion, all of which are possible only with the use of electricity, make the outlying districts attractive to the toiler in the city, and thereby propagate traffic.

A FELLOW FEELING.

Why She Felt Lenient Towards the Drunkard.

A great deal depends on the point of view. A good temperance woman was led, in a very peculiar way, to revise her somewhat harsh judgment of the poor devil who cannot resist his cups, and she is now the more charitable. She writes:

"For many years I was a great sufferer from asthma. Finally my health got so poor that I found I could not lie down, but walked the floor whilst others slept. I got so nervous I could not rest anywhere.

"Specialists told me I must give up the use of coffee—the main thing that I always thought gave me some relief. I consulted our family physician, and he, being a coffee fiend himself, told me to pay no attention to their advice. Coffee had such a charm for me that in passing a restaurant and getting a whiff of the fragrance I could not resist a cup. I felt very lenient toward the drunkard who could not pass the saloon. Friends often urged me to try Postum, but I turned a deaf ear, saying 'That may do for people to whom coffee is harmful, but not for me—coffee and I will never part.'

"At last, however, I bought a package of Postum, although I was sure I could not drink it. I prepared it as directed, and served it for breakfast. Well, bitter as I was against it, I must say that never before had I tasted a more delicious cup of coffee! From that day to this (more than 2 years) I have never had a desire for the old coffee. My health soon returned; the asthma disappeared, I began to sleep well, and in a short time I gained 20 pounds in weight.

"One day I handed my physician the tablets he had prescribed for me, telling him I had no use for them. He stayed for dinner. When I passed him his coffee cup he remarked, 'I am glad to see you were sensible enough not to let yourself be persuaded that coffee was harmful. This is the best cup of coffee I ever drank,' he continued; 'the trouble is so few people know how to make good coffee.' When he got his second cup I told him he was drinking Postum. He was incredulous, but I convinced him, and now he uses nothing but Postum in his home, and has greatly improved in health." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

OLD PARD.

The Story of a Collie

By Joseph E. Wing.

Nearly twenty years ago I owned a shepherd puppy away out on the Range Valley ranch in sunny southern Utah. He was not pretty—dark with tawny markings, small, too, for his age, but his eyes were merry and had in them a peculiar knowingness that I had never seen in dog-kind before, nor since. I named him Pard and he was truly a most willing and effectual partner of my joys and sorrows. The canyon was a lonely place, so far as humankind went, though it was peopled with all sorts of animals, some that we chose and some that chose us.

This little Pard puppy had the most surprising courage I have ever seen in any animate thing. It was not coupled with moroseness or ill temper, it was not displayed for his own gratification, but in obedience to my wishes. He would not hesitate to attack any living thing and the tempestuous fury of his attack and rage would bluff off almost anything so that he won surprising victories. I do not like useless dog-fighting, but when we discovered his quality we would give him signal to attack other dogs, some of them full grown and four times his size and weight. It was astonishing and amusing to see him launch himself with fierce impetuosity upon some huge antagonist and I never knew it to fail that the big dog would be so overwhelmed with surprise, dismay and wonder that he would give up and turn tail. I suppose he wondered what sort of animal this was anyhow, behaving so differently from what might reasonably be expected of a puppy. Only with his brothers, all bigger than himself, could he have a real fight, and this we prevented as much as possible for fear that one would injure, maybe kill, the other. I have seen Pard and big Bummer, his overgrown brother, twice his size, roll headlong down a precipitous hillside, neither one relaxing hold. And yet little Pard had a sweet, sunny temper. He fought because he deemed it part of his duty in the world, and his policy of sudden, fierce onslaught won. I have often thought of this principle; it is true in many things in life, one who is not afraid, who is vastly aggressive, overpowers those inherently much stronger than themselves.

Pard was a natural worker. He was what the cowboys call a "heeler," that is, without teaching almost, he would slip up behind a cow and bite her heels. The result was a sudden attainment of speed on the part of the cow. A dog that goes to the cow's head is no good on the range. Dogs were very useful to us because of the rocky and brushy canyons. Little Pard would heel them when he was scarcely larger than an old cow's foot. More than once he got kicked tail over appetite, once indeed the cow caught his head between her foot and a rock and that time he lay there without a quiver for a long time. I thought it his last effort, but he revived and had lost none of his vim, curiously enough. But he learned to get at the heels sort of sideways as it were.

But little Pard was too good to last. One day as a horse wrangler was riding up a brushy canyon after the saddle band the little dog stopped to bark in a clump of maple brush. The rider called him away, got the horses and returning passed again this clump of brush. The unwise little doggie stopped again to investigate that great yellow cat that lay watching him so sleepily with outstretched feet. There must have been after the rider had gone, a sudden leap, a hoarse low growl, a stunning blow of huge paw, a crunching of little dog bones and the flesh of the gamest little shepherd dog I have ever known became part of a mountain lion, while the intrepid spirit went back to its maker. We never found his hide nor bones.

Some years later after I had come back home to Ohio and was married I again sought a shepherd dog. One day when strolling in a thick forest back from the road I found a log cabin newly built, in which was dwelling a curious man, half hermit, half woodsman, living all alone, clearing up a bit of "new ground" for the crop, loafing when he wished, working when the spirit moved. That is not a bad sort of life, by the way. This old man Willis White had a pair of dogs that he called "shepherds." The female seemed to be a Collie, the dog must have been about half that blood. He was big, strong, silent, savage. Gypsies left him there, desperately wounded; Willis White took care of him and kept him. Afterwards the old dog would stand by the hour and watch the higaway, a third of a mile away, a dreamy look in his eyes, thinking of his old companions of the road, wondering, no doubt, whether they would come for him again. He was a fine watchdog; it was not safe to approach the cabin when Willis was away.

A litter of fine puppies was born, my wife and I selected one of the prettiest, and felt for the bump on the back of the head that denotes sense and courage. We traded some hens for him, I think, and we had our puppy. Maybe we would have left him had we foreseen the immediate result. He grew, how he did grow! Our mother loves dogs and fed him well; he was a great, wide, laughing puppy, but so full of mischief and so hard to break of his tricks! Among other accomplishments he took to slaughtering cats. This we could not have, so after repeated thrashings, very savage ones, too, for he was not a sensitive Collie, but a beast with any amount of endurance, and he always loved me the better for thrashing him. I took a kitten that he had killed and tied it about his neck; he dragged it about, crestfallen, for some hours, then disappeared, and finally came leaping joyfully to me, the kitten gone. I hunted for it but only found a few fragments. He had eaten it, but he never again hurt a kitten.

We named him Old Pard after the good one, and he soon became one of the family and felt a personal responsibility for many things. He developed into a fine watchdog, too; to some he showed only a friendly greeting, others he instinctively felt ought to be denied any admission at all. We learned later that some of those he hated worst were night thieves; he had either known of their prowlings or had instinctively hated them. Many feared him and our hen roost fared better than our neighbors', though later he extended his night patrol to the home of a close neighbor, to their great satisfaction.

Old Pard developed into a great worker with stock. He was always too swift, too impetuous to suit me, but he was a big help. Many thousands of lambs he has helped pen, always he was in place when it was time to put the feeding lambs in the barn or to drive them out at feeding time. He would "speak to them" when they were tame and stubborn, barking fiercely as long as you wished, subsiding at command. He knew what I wanted of him always, but would not always do it. I never knew what a perfect sheepdog he was capable of being until one day when I was up on a barn roof the lambs got a gate open and 500 of them came racing into the road. Pard saw them before I did and stopped them. I was about to go down to his assistance, but to my astonishment he began doing exactly what I had long been trying to teach him, going from side to side, his white brush high in air, waving to and fro, gently, quietly; slowly he drove them back, never one mad rush, never a bark save when it was needed. It showed to me that he had sense enough, that is, brain enough, he knew, but the fierce impetuosity of some alien blood made it very difficult for him to curb himself and when I was there he laid the burden of restraint entirely upon me.

I never knew a dog with more conscience, though it was hard for him to use it sometimes. He hated swine and was very rough with them. We hardly dared set him to driving them, for he killed one or two shotes in his impetuosity. He would catch and hold the largest sow. One day a neighbor's little pigs got into a cornfield where I was husking. We drove them out and I had hard running to keep him from injuring the fat little rascals. This kept up for several days, each time the same difficulty from Old Pard's too great willingness. Finally one day I did not go to the field and was dismayed to hear his excited barking down there and the frantic squeal of an infant pig. I ran as fast as I could to save their lives, for my neighbor was a good old man and a friend, but when I got to the crest of the hill whence I could look down and see the skirmish it was a most curious and amusing sight. The big dog was hurrying the pigs out, but doing it in a new and original manner for him. He would run with force against them, knocking them endways, then stop without biting at all, and tail aloft and mouth open and eyes dancing watch their recovery and listen to their frantic squeals. Presently he would make another rush. I said not a word to him and he escorted them thus harmlessly clear out of the field. He had reasoned to himself: "Now Joe is not here to pull me off these little pigs. I can't bite them, but must restrain myself. Hang it all, but I will have some fun, anyway!"

Speaking of his conscience again, here is an illustration. When we killed hogs I always gave him the kidneys. One day we butchered but finishing late did not do more than carry the carcasses into an outhouse and lay them on a bench. Next morning, coming down to see about matters, I was annoyed to see the door ajar and yet more vexed when as I stepped up Old Pard came out. He looked up at me in a friendly and confiding way, quite fearless, as though to say: "Now Joe, don't look so infernally cross, I know my place I guess," and I went in to see what he had eaten. He had without putting his paws on the carcasses reached over and torn out and devoured the kidneys, leaving the rest untouched!

But one of the most marvellous acts, showing reason and a knowledge of proportion, was when I was trying one day to catch a tiny sucking lamb, just old enough to run like a john rabbit. Old Pard joined in the chase and between us we caught the darting mite, but Pard did his part by first running into it full tilt, knocking it over, then holding it down by putting his feet upon it, he would not touch it with his teeth.

The rascal was a born scrapper. He was a terror to every dog that passed the place, and no beatings would deter him in the least from assailing passing canines, great and small. I could set him on a dog in a distant field, if he got one glimpse he was off like a shot and the intruder rued the day he set foot in that field. He was singularly lacking in gallantry, for he would run females away as readily as males. While he was first fighting his way to acknowledged supremacy there was a big, fierce yard dog between our house and the village that was wont to make a terrific bluff every time Pard passed with me, raging up and down the fence as though he would burst a blood vessel if he could not get at Pard to tear him up. I had no idea but he could whip our dog, but one day to my astonishment Pard cleared the fence at a bound and attacked the enemy on his own soil! It was a terrible fight but Pard gained the victory and came grimly on after a time, on three legs. Thereby was illustrated a curious side of dog nature. The two dogs had neither had a racial friend before, my neighbor's dog had never been known to leave his house, yet in a day or two I found fraternizing very amiably with Old Pard! He was the only dog not belonging on the place that Pard ever made friends with, and he was killed soon after, how I never knew. It was strange that no one ever killed Old Pard. He was hated by a good many and did in fact have some lead in him; he was annoying to passers-by who had dogs with them but he would not harm any honest man.

The crowning act of a useful life was when he saved my brother Willis from a horrible death. We had a gentle Jersey bull, dehorned. People got afraid of him but I laughed and showed that he could be driven with a cornstalk. One day Willis went out to the pasture to drive up the cows, the bull sulked and would not come. Willis kicked him and in an instant the lurking devil came out, the beast sprang at him, knocked him down; the boy sprang up and ran, the bull overtaking him in an instant and knocked him down again and tried to gore him. The third time this was repeated, Willis' head was butted down into the mud until blood ran from his ears. I saw it from afar and started to run to help. Never did my feet seem so glued to the ground; it seemed to me that I was rooted to the spot as I realized all that would happen before I could gain that quarter of a mile. All at once Old Pard bounded by me like a flash and streaked across the field. Before he had gotten half way the bull saw him and hesitated a moment, before he was there the great coward was in slow retreat. Old Pard knew the enormity of the offense and promptly seized him by the nose and led the bellowing cringing bully a merry dance across the field. By a miracle not a bone was broken, but the bull went into bologna soon afterward.

I wonder how long dogs live? When Pard was about twelve years old he lost his hearing and became morose and unhappy. He was of use, though, and we suffered him to stay another year, then got a new puppy. It was touching to see the new and playful Collie and the old veteran. The puppy worshipped him and while he played with him it was with a good deal of respect, and Old Pard suffered any sort of indignity from him almost, rising up silently and going away when the infantile pranks were too unendurable. But he taught the Collie his bad tricks of assaulting passers by, so we held counsel and decided to put him mercifully to sleep, and I buried him with real sorrow and respect. His successor is a lovable Collie, but I fear he will never have in him the go and dash that made Old Pard his fame.—Breeders' Gazette.

The Cable to Alaska.

The Sitka-Seattle cable, 1070 miles long, which was completed and thrown open to public use on Aug. 28, has since been operated most successfully, its electrical conditions exceeding anticipations. The commercial business of one month recently closed up amounted to over $10,000, and the prospects are that the receipts of the next year will exceed $100,000. The tariffs on commercial messages are: From Seattle to Sitka, $1.50; to Skagway, $2; to Valdez, $2.50; to Fort Egbert, $3; to St. Michael, $3.50; to Nome, $4.

The Alaskan telegraph system was first started in 1865. The cable section, starting from Seattle, touches at five other points, the total length being something over 2060 miles. The land system includes more than 40 stations, separated from each other by distances varying from three to 60 miles. Wireless telegraphy is also used at one point for transmitting messages a distance of 107 miles. In running the land lines much difficulty was encountered, both on account of the rough country through which they passed and the severe climate.

He Was Wondering.

A Scotch doctor, who was attending a laird, had instructed the butler of the house in the art of taking and recording his master's temperature with a thermometer. On repairing to the house one morning, he was met by the butler, to whom he said: "Well, John, I hope the laird's temperature is not any higher today." The man looked puzzled for a moment, and then replied: "Well, I was just wonderin' that mysel'. Ye see, he died at twal

STATE HAPPENINGS

Of General and Local Interest as They Occur.

Old War Claim Paid.

Florence, Ala.—T. L. Hewitt, a Florence contractor, has been notified that the United States government has allowed his claim for $1,000, and that a draft for that amount will soon be forthcoming. G. Burrow, an uncle of Mr. Hewitt's, owned the plantation on Shoal Creek during the war, near which a troop of federal soldiers camped. The army appropriated for its own use all the hogs, cattle, feed provisions to be found on the place and the commanding officer, to solace his feelings, gave him a due bill for $1,000.

After the close of the war Mr. Burrows presented the claim to the proper authorities, but was refused payment. The matter, however, was entered on the records of the war department.

A claim agent at Washington recently dug up the old claim and made an effort to locate Mr. Burrows. It was found that he had died many years ago and the money will be paid to T. L. Hewitt, his only surviving relatives.

Two Children Burned.

Gadsden, Ala.—The 4-year-old son of J. W. Stone was burned almost to death Saturday afternoon about 5 o'clock. The little fellow was playing around the fire when his clothing ignited and before help arrived was horribly burned on the body, besides inhaling the flames. Medical aid was summoned, but no hopes are entertained for the child's recovery.

Early Sunday morning the 4-year-old son of M. E. Jones, receiver of the Gadsden Waterworks Company, narrowly escaped being burned to death. The child reached up to the mantle for a match safe, when its clothing ignited from the grate. Mrs. Jones answered its screams and threw the boy in a blanket, smothering the flames, the child escaping unhurt. The clothing was burned from the knees down but the child was unharmed.

Captures His Man.

Mobile, Ala.—Saturday at Bayou La Batre, in the lower end of Mobile county, thirty miles from this city, Inspector G. M. Shippy, of the Chicago police department, arrested Vincent Brisco on the charge of murder. The crime with which Brisco is charged is the willful shooting of Policeman Pat Duffy of Chicago on the night of May 1, 1902.

Will Riley, subsequently captured by the Chicago police, admitted that he was one of the men the policemen caught coming out of a residence, and was sentenced to thirty years in the penitentiary. He turned state's evidence and said that Brisco fired the fatal shot. Since that time the officers have been looking for Brisco, whose whereabouts were discovered by Policeman Taylor, of this city, formerly a member of the Chicago force. Brisco served five years for burglary and since his residence at Bayou La Batre there have been many mysterious burglaries there. Shippy will leave with his prisoner Monday.

Due the State $412.50.

Montgomery, Ala.—A shortage of $412.50 in solicitor's fees due the state was reported to the governor Saturday by Assistant State Examiner W. F. Wilkinson, who has just concluded his examination of Hale county officials' books.

The fees are due from former Circuit Clerk S. W. Walton and Sheriff G. W. Duggar.

In one account with the state a debt of $337.50 of solicitor's fees is noted. In this account the defendants were convicted and in most instances the costs have not been settled.

Postmasters Appointed.

Washington.—Postmasters appointed: Charity, Lowndes county, John F. Hattemer, Jr.; Coleman, Crenshaw county, Kate Brown; Kaylor, Randolph county, James W. Moon.

Truckage Will Be Killed.

Mobile, Ala.—The cold wave struck Mobile and the temperature has been falling ever since. A cold northwest wind has been blowing half a gale, with the result that the river has fallen between three and four feet and many vessels are aground in slips.

The thermometer registers 26 and is still falling. The weather bureau predicts a minimum of 12 degrees. All exposed truckage will be killed.

Heavy Car Contract Awarded.

Anniston, Ala.—The Western Steel Car and Foundry Company has been awarded contracts within the last few days for the building of fourteen hundred freight cars by the local plant, and that work on them would commence just as soon as material could be secured. The greater majority of these cars are to be built for the Southern road, in fact more than one thousand of the number.

Everything will be in readiness for starting up the rolling mill on Monday, February 6. It is expected the pudding furnaces will start on that day; the finishing mill about a week later. Owing to the very disagreeable weather that has been prevailing for the past few weeks the company has been unable to get in material, but with more open weather it will soon be all aglow from one end to the other with life. All the machinery has been gone over and placed in good condition. A working force is rapidly being employed and systematized.

No More Companies.

Montgomery, Ala.—The compromise board, composed of the governor, the attorney general and the state auditor made one more compromise on the matter of privilege taxes for corporations in the state. This was for the Central Iron and Coal Company of Tuscaloosa, which admits that it had last year a capital stock of $600,000, on which the tax of one-tenth of one per cent. would have been $600. The matter was compromised for $300, and is about the fourth of the kind effected since the passage of the new section of the revenue law stipulating the charge. This fee is for the tax of 1904, and does not include anything for this year. It is understood that there will be no compromise this year, though this is not authoritatively stated.

Succumbs to Paralytic Stroke.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—News of the death of G. Lunsford Treywick has been brought to the city, who has resided in this section since Alabama was a territory. Mr. Treywick went for a walk over his plantation early in the afternoon and not having returned late in the evening a search was made. At 8 o'clock he was found prostrated in an open cotton field stricken with paralysis and in an unconscious state. He was immediately carried to his home, where medical aid was summoned, but he died within a short while after reaching his home. It is thought he lay in the field several hours after receiving the stroke.

MASSING TROOPS.

The Russians are Bombarding the Japanese—65,000 Troops on Left.

CONTINUED ATTACKS MADE.

Steamers Carrying 2,000 Russian Refugees from Che Foo Have Departed for Odessa.

Tokio—The Russians are massing about 65,000 troops on the Japanese left and bombarding the left flank and center. Small forces of Russians are attacking along the line.

Manchurian headquarters of the Japanese army report that on Saturday the Russians occasionally bombarded the right and center armies, following up the bombardment with attacks, which the Japanese immediately repulsed. In the direction of the left wing a Japanese detachment were victors at Chenchieppao, and occupied Liutiako and Lichiawopeng on Saturday, the Russians retreating north and west. The Japanese occupied many of the positions southeast of Heikoutai on Saturday, and are now assaulting the main position.

Another detachment dislodged a regiment of infantry, a brigade of cavalry and twelve guns occupying Hairhpao, five miles south of Heikoutai. The Russian strength opposing the Japanese left flank is roughly estimated at eight corps, consisting of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth infantry divisions, the Second and Fifth brigades of European rifles, the Ninth infantry division of the Tenth corps, part of the Twenty-first infantry division, part of the First Siberian corps, and the First and Ninth brigade of rifles.

Russian Refugees Depart.

Che Foo, January 29.—Three steamers carrying 2,000 Russian refugees left here today for Odessa. Two junks, the vanguard of twenty-five which left Port Arthur January 27th, arrived here today. The coldest weather of the season was experienced during the trip, and a majority of the women and children aboard were nearly frozen.

St. Petersburg—A telegram from Huan mountain states that General Mistchenko has been wounded in the leg.

Vladivostock Isolated.

London—According to a Tokio dispatch to the Daily Telegraph, Russian supplies from the interior are concentrated at Lake Baikal owing to the fact that the railroad east of that point is blocked with snow. Vladivostock is now isolated on the land side, as well as the sea front.

Bombardment Is Severe.

General Oku's Headquarters—The Russian bombardment beginning at dawn on the extreme left rapidly spread along the whole front of Oku's army. It was kept up fiercely all day, and it was the strongest artillery fire since the battle of the Shakhe river. Salvos are being fired continuously. There also is considerable musketry firing.

The Japanese are replying seldom, and are saving their fire, awaiting an attack. There is a possibility that the entire line will be engaged soon.

Drank Chloral Hydrate.

St. Louis, Mo.—After writing a note explaining that he would take his life because he was weak for want of food, Robert Bowen, 35 years of age, a metal polisher, drank chloral hydrate in his room. He had been dead several hours when found today. In the note Bowen asked that his wife and relatives in Tennessee be notified of his death. Bowen left $2,000 life insurance in the A. U. of W.

Gadsden, Ala.—Word was received Friday at the sheriff's office from Birmingham that the sheriff of Jefferson county had captured Kit Naugher and had him in jail awaiting officer from Etowah. Naugher is wanted here on several charges, the last one being for the larceny of a $75 shotgun from a friend here, which he pawned for $4.50 and then skipped the town. An officer will go down after him.

Italian Blown to Atoms.

Pittsburg, Pa.—An explosion of dynamite at the Shoenberger plant of the American Steel and Wire Company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation, brought painful injuries to forty persons, temporarily disabled fifteen residences and broke at least 2,500 windows.

In a shed near the plant the company had 300 pounds of dynamite stored to be used as required in the breaking up of the large ore piles. A few moments before the explosion, it is said, an Italian was seen to enter the shed. The only remnants found of him were portions of the trousers, vest and shirt hanging to telegraph wires in the vicinity.

Fifteen of the houses in the neighborhood were rendered untenable. When the wounded people, men, women and children, mostly foreigners, rushed from their homes into the streets, pandemonium reigned for a time, and wild reports of many dead and dying were circulated.

Cane Growers' Meet.

Montgomery, Ala.—The third annual convention of the Interstate Sugarcane Growers met here, with more than one hundred delegates in attendance. Acting Governor Cunningham welcomed the delegates to the state and city, and response was made by Colonel John Dymond, managing editor of the Louisiana Planter of New Orleans.

At the afternoon session President D. G. Purse, of Savannah, delivered his annual address, and papers were read on various questions pertaining to the growth of sugarcane and the manufacture of its products.

A Serious Accident.

Athens, Ala.—Ollie McGrew, a young white man hailing from Elkmont, in the northern part of this county, met with a serious and what might have been a fatal accident while beating his way on a freight train, which passed through Athens this forenoon.

He had intended getting off the train here, and the train not coming to a stop he attempted to swing off, and as a result he lost the part of one foot and received serious bruises about the head. He was quickly discovered and his condition being serious, he was given prompt medical attention by the railroad surgeon here. He does not blame the company for the accident.

Will Build Greenhouses.

Florence, Ala.—William Zimmerman has purchased several lots in the Simpson addition in East Florence, on which he will build green houses and cultivate flowers. The people of Florence have been compelled heretofore to ordr their cut flowers from Nashville and the establishment of a green house here will fill a long felt want. Florence is becoming noted as a home for fine chickens, many orders coming in to local chicken fanciers from the adjacent country. This week a pen of Barred Plymouth Rocks was shipped to a party in Pennsylvania.

AGREE ON COTTON

Both the Acreage and Use of Fertilizers to be Cut 25 per Cent. This Year.

NO DISSENTION IN THE MEETING.

Proposed That Farmers of Each Southern District Sign Iron-Clad Contract on Reduction.

New Orleans.—The following resolution was adopted by an enthusiastic and unanimous vote of the cotton convention delegates:

man Interstate Cotton Growers'
man Interstate Cotton Growers'' Convention:

"We, your committee on acreage and the use of fertilizers, do recommend that the acreage to be planted in cotton in 1905 shall be 25 per cent. less than in 1904, and that there shall be a reduction of 25 per cent. in the use of commercial fertilisers in growing cotton.

"We recommend the following plan for the accomplishment of said reduction:

"First—That the vice-presidents of this association for each state shall call a meeting of all persons interested in cotton on the 11th day of February, 1905, at the county seat of each county, not already organized, on the plan hereinafter set out, at which meeting there shall be elected a county chairman and a precinct chairman for each school district, or other smallest political sub-division of the county.

"Second—That there shall be held in each school district or other smallest political sub-division of the county on the 18th day of February, 1905, at 1 o'clock p. m., a meeting of all citizens of said district or other smallest political sub-division, who are interested in the growing of cotton, which meeting shall elect a committee of three on acreage and membership.

"Third—At said precinct meeting, the farmers and land owners present shall be asked to sign the following agreement:

"We, the undersigned farmers, or land owners, living in (school district) (beat), (precinct), No. —, County of ——, State of ——, hereby pledge ourselves to reduce the acreage planted by us in cotton and to reduce our consumption of fertilizer in growing cotton as shown by the statements set opposite our names.

"Fourth—That said committee on acreage and membership shall immediately canvass said district and ask all farmers and land owners in said district who do not attend said meeting, to sign said pledge and committee shall return said pledge to the chairman of said precinct.

"Fifth—Said precinct chairman shall preserve said pledges and they shall immediately make a written report to the county chairman showing the total number of acres planted in cotton in said precinct in 1904, and the total number to be planted in cotton in said precinct in 1905, the total amount of fertilizer used in growing cotton in said precinct and the total amount to be used in said precinct in said years.

"Sixth—The county chairman shall immediately forward to the state vice-president of their respective states a written statement showing the total number of acres planted in cotton in their respective counties in 1904, and the total amount to be planted in 1905, and shall make a like report as to the fertilizer used and to be used in said years.

"Seventh—The vice-presidents of such state shall, immediately upon receiving the reports of the country chairman, forward to the president of this association a report showing the number of acres planted in cotton in his state in the year 1904, and the amount of fertilizer used in said year in growing cotton, and the amount of cotton to be planted and fertilizers to be used in 1905.

"Eighth—The president of this association, upon receiving these reports, shall immediately tabulate the same and send a copy thereof to the county chairman in the different cotton states and territories.

"Ninth—If any county not already organized should fail to organize, the vice-president of the state in which the said county is situated, shall cause to be organized as herein provided, and if any precinct should fail to organize, the county chairman of the county in which such precinct is situated shall cause such precinct to be organized as herein provided.

"Tenth—It shall be the further duty of the officers of this association to report the names and addresses of such persons who refuse to sign the agreement to reduce acreage for 1905, together with the number of acres of cotton planted by such persons in 1904 and the number of acres that they will probably plant in 1905, and to make a like report as to fertilizers."

COTTON GROWERS' ASSOCIATION

The Cotton Association of Chilton county convened at Clanton on Feb. 1st, and after hearing reports from the Southern Cotton Association, which met at New Orleans on Jan. 26. the following report was read and adopted:

REPORT OF COMMITTEE.

We, your committee on ways and means and permanent organization, submit the following report, to wit:

1st. That, having faith in the work done and the plan adopted by the Southern Cotton Association at New Orlean, Jan. 26, 1905, we recommend that the plan adopted by the said Association for organizing the Southern Cotton Associations, be strictly followed, and to end that this body do not organize to day, but recommend to its members that they take part in the mass meetings called by the said Southern Association to meet in the several school districts of this dounty February 11, 1905, for the purpose of organizing Chilton county.

2. We further recommend that this body request and urge all cotton producers, merchants, bankers, manufacturers, and members of the different professions, in each school district in this county, to lay down their private interests for one day and meet in the respective school districts, Feb. 11, 1905, and devoie that day to the general welfare of our county. Let us come together and thus make a grand stccess. One for all, all for one.

3. We further recommend that W. H. Conway, as chairman, be authorized and requested to communicate with Commissioner of Agriculture Poole, or other proper officials of the Southern Cotton Association, and request them to furnish him such blank forms and papers pertaining to the organization as they may be able to supply, and that said Conway, upon obtaining such supplies, shall furnish them to the several school dislricts for Feb. 11, to the end that our organization may be regularly formed.

4. We further recommend that the sense of this body be expressed to day upon the subject of holding a county fair some time in the fall of this year and offering suitable prizes, for the purpose of encouraging our farmers to diversify their crops and grow their own meats and food products at home.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

W. H. Conway, W. T. Hand,
Tipton Mullins, W. I. Mullins,
E. A. Matthews, Committee.

The membership fee for all persons joining this Association shall be 25 cents, and all fees thus collected shall be turned over to the treasurer of the county association.

Write to W. H. Conway, Jemison, Ala., for stationery needed for the school district meetings, February 11. unless name and address have already been left with him for supplies.

W. H. Conway, Chairman.
J. N. Dennis, Secretary.

The plan of permanent organization being very lengthy it is impossible to print it at this late hour in this issue and it will be published next week.

Providence, Beat 10.

Query. Why should we attend Sunday school? Where is the joy? And what is the reward for our faithful attendance? Why should we attend Sunday school? Because it is the medium through which we can learn more of God, His will and work It is a place of teaching and training The gospel is the power of God unto salvation and therefore should be thoroughly understood by all A better plan of learning the Word of God is not known to us It puts the Bible into our lives, the teaching is of the heart-to-heart kind. manly, strong, and intended to help us to be better to morrow than we are to day In order that the gospel may accomplish that where unto it has been sent, it must be studied and meditated We should be up and doing Fill up every hour with work for the Master Leaving no crevice or craving for sinful amusement to creep in No department of work is of more vital importance than the Sunday school To me it is a mystery unsolved that every one who has been blessed with health and inteligent minds do not take an interest in, and encourage the Sunday school. Simply failing in what we ought to do may be more inexcusable than any mistake in our best methods of doing.

Where is the joy? To my mind, it's in the heart of the faithful worker, who has thoroughly discharged his or her duty. Teaching and studying the riches of the Word of God, and so preparing the way for the King to come into hearts and lives. What a glorious work! Work is what every Christian must have in order to grow and enjoy God's smile; and study is work—work that will bear luscious fruit in the life and character of the student. Futhermore, he commands us rejoice, no duty is more clear. The joy of the Lord is our strength. We can fill our hearts with inspiring thoughts, with memories of blessings. We can occupy our minds and souls with plans, with doing good to others, and with acts of obedience to the inward voice of Christ. In God's world, for those that are in earnest, there is no failure, no work truly done, no word earnestly spoken, no sacrifice freely made, was ever made in vain. The Christian life is not sad and it does not prevent real enjoyment, but it does demand that diversions shall be safe, pure and helpful and not dangerous to self or others. This as a general principle should guide the Christian. In Sunday school the end aimed at is acceptance and growth in the spiritual kingdom. What greater joy can we expect than that God-given joy which we receive when we perform our duty.

Where is the reward for our faithful attendance? If we have been full of charity, helpful, kindly and eager to speak tender, pitying words, thought no evil, believed all things, hoped all things and endured all things, can any one doubt what the fruit will be? The natural comes first, and after that the spiritual. It is far more glorious, but after all, the same; but as is the natural, so is the spiritual. At the end of duty is the blessing after having discharged our duty in that of teaching and being taught in the blessed Word of God and having conscience void of offense we have great joy. But the final reward, of course, is in the world to come.

The Sunday school ask that a copy of this be sent to The Banner for publication.

Zonie B. Robinson.

Perfect Confidence.

Where there used to be a feeling of uneasiness and worry in the household when a child showed symptoms of croup, there is now perfect confidence. This is owing to the uniform success of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the treatment of that disease Mrs. M. I. Basford, of Poolsville, Md., in speaking of her experience in the use of that remedy says: "I have a world of confidence in Chamberlain's Couph Remedy for I have used it with perfect success. My child, Garland, is subject to severe attacks of croup and it always gives him prompt relief." For sale Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

"Ye" For "The."

"Ye" for "the" is not now and never was a proper form of expression. The word "ye," as it appears in all old books and legal documents, should always be pronounced as "the," the "y" being only a corruption of the thorn letter, a symbol which stood in place of "th" and which was formerly used by printers when difficulties were experienced in "spacing out."

Obtuse.

"Pa," said little Willie, who was struggling over his lessons, "what is an obtuse angle?"

"An obtuse angle," replied his father, "is an Englishman to whom you try to explain a joke."—Philadelphia Ledger.

IN MEMORIAM.

The deceased, Mr. J. A. Miller, was beloved by many hearts—all that knew him. He was killed in Montgomery in a street car and freight engine wreck on the 30th of January. He was a conductor on car No. 19. His remains were brought to Coopers on the 31st, where a host of sad hearts met the corpse. The smiling face was still in death. The remains were taken Providence church cemetery, Cross county, after service by Rev. J. D. Hughes he was laid to rest by his wife, who has been sleeping there the last six years. He leaves a father, step mother, one little son, and one brother, six sisters to mourn his death and a host of friends and relatives. He was 35 years old and has been a member of the Baptist church seventeen years. His work was delightful; in his church he met all his friends with a smile which will be hard to forget. We sympathize with all that weep over the dear one. Weep not for him, he is an angel in heaven, he is happier than they that are left behind. Take up your cross and work for the Master and we will meet Him in the bright beyond to part no more, for we know not the hour we must go too. While it is sad to give such a one up it is God's will and His will must be done. His work will be accomplished now so peacefully. They are resting on the loving Savior's breast; they are waiting for you and me.

Alabama Sunday School Association.

The twenty-second annual Convention of the Alabama Sunday School Association will be held in the city of Birmingham, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, April 25–27 next. The basis of representation is as follows: All officers of the State Association, five delegates at large from each county, all ministers of the gospel, the superintendent and two other delegates from each Sunday School.

The railroads of the State have granted a rate of one and one-third fare, on the certificate plan, to delegates attending the Convention. The delegates will be entertained by the Sunday school workers of Birmingham.

For Thin Babies

Fat is of great account to a baby; that is why babies are fat. If your baby is scrawny, Scott's Emulsion is what he wants. The healthy baby stores as fat what it does not need immediately for bone and muscle. Fat babies are happy; they do not cry; they are rich; their fat is laid up for time of need. They are happy because they are comfortable. The fat surrounds their little nerves and cushions them. When they are scrawny those nerves are hurt at every ungentle touch. They delight in Scott's Emulsion. It is as sweet as wholesome to them.

ONE-HALF IN COTTON.

Verbena, Jan. 28, 1905

Editor Banner—Now that the Southern Cotton Growers' Association has met, pledged and resoluted, it is left with all farmers and others to do their part in carrying out the actions of the association. But if a general idea prevails that was advanced by a young farmer to me on yesterday, then we had all as well go it wild and each take care of himself. When I appealed to him and lot of others not to plant over one half his crop in cotton he said "The big men argue that, then when they get the small farmers to agree they go to work and plant a'l their crop in cotton, thus making all the money at the expense of the little fellow." I said this is what a suspicious element teaches, and so it is.

I had the honor to attend the convention in New Orleans on the 24, 25 and 26, and while I have attended conventions which nominated candidates for President of the United States, yet this body of farmers, bankers, merchants, manufacturers, lawyers and doctors which met in New Orleans were superior in appearance, and no doubt in reality, to anybody I ever saw before. Think of a body of men 3500 in number from all over the cotton growing srction. The brains of the South, meeting as one mind, having a love feast, as it were. It certainly means something. The newspapers of the city of New Orleans even failed to do the meeting justice, as it was even a more enthusiastic and harmonious meeting than the account by newspapers indicated. And now I say let each and every farmer in Chilton county plant not to exceed half his crop in cotton, the balance in oats, peas and corn. Let every landlord say to his tenants you can't plant more than half your crop in cotton; then in the absence of this order by landlord let the tenant say to Mr. landlord I will only plant half my crop in cotton; let the advancing merchant say to all, if you plant over half your crop in cotton I can't furnish you; let the man who loans money, say to his debtor, go ahead and protect yourself, make a living at home by raising as nearly all you can consume as you can; do not plant over half your crop in cotton and if you fall behind this year I will carry you until you can extricate yourself. I conceive this to be the only feasable plan to bring about good results. Don't say that this is right and then go slip around and do just the opposite, but all should act with one accord. I, for one, pledge that no tenant of mine shall plant over one half his crop in cotton, and so far as my individual crop is concerned, will not exceed one fourth in cotton, and if anyone doubts this let him come and spend a day or two with me, eat some of our country grub, and at my own expense I will prove my faith by my works—will "cite" him. On the other hand go and subscribe for some leading farm journal, read and study it carefully and quit reading the trade lists of Montgomery Ward & Co. and Sears, Roebuck & Co.; economize your time as well as your hard earned dollars and all will be well with you. With special interest in the wellfare of the farmer and laboring people, I am with respects,

F. A. Gulledge.

That Tickling in the Throat.

One minute after taking One Minute Cough Cure that tickling in throat is gone. It acts in the throat—not the stomach. Harmless—good for children. A L. Spofford, postmaster at Chester, Mich., says: "Our little girl was unconscious from strangulation during a sudden and terrible attack of croup. Three doses of One Minute Cough Cure half an hour apart speedily cured her. I cannot praise One Minute Cough Cure too much for what it has done in our family." It always gives relief. ... a Russian subject, was wounded by sword cuts and is in a hospital. Representations were at once made by Ambassador Hardinge to the Russian government, which demanded that the governor general of Warsaw institute strict inquiry into the incident. His majesty's ambassador also sent Colonel Napier, the military attache, to Warsaw to report on the subject."

Factories Guarded by Troops.

Warsaw—By order of the governor general the governments of Warsaw, Lodz and Petrokoff have been placed under the operation of the law for the strict maintenance of public order. The government buildings and large factories are guarded by troops, part of the electric plant has been destroyed by strikers.

Chicago Police Are Elated.

Chicago, Ill.—The Chicago police were elated over the report that Johann Hoch had been arrested in New York. For over a week they have hoped to hear of his arrest at some eastern seaport, as they had information that he would attempt to leave the country and return to Germany. Although the police hope to convict him of murder, the only specific charges they have against him at the present time are bigamy and wife abandonment. From all accounts, Hoch has been married to twenty-five different women, and six of these have died under circumstances which the police declare to be suspicious.

Found Dead in Calaboose.

Cullman, Ala.—Henry Murlett, better known here as Governor Murlett, was found dead in a cell of the town calaboose Monday morning by the jailer who went to carry his breakfast. He was put in jail last night for drunkenness and disorder. Murlett is a well known character in Cullman and came of a good family, though he has been wayward for years. The coroner pronounced alcoholism as the cause of his death. He has a mother and a wife living in Cullman. He was about forty-five years old.

Volcano Again Active.

Mexico City—Reports from Colima state that the volcano is again active. Smoke is issuing daily in dark clouds, apparently from an opening considerably below the crater.

The danger, it is believed, lies in the formation of a new crater at an altitude which would permit of the discharge of lava. While many of the inhabitants in the vicinity of the volcano are uneasy as a result of the renewed activity, there has been no exodus, such as has characterized previous indications of activity in the crater.

German Cruiser Moltke Sails.

Charleston, S. C.—The German cruiser Moltke, which had been in port nearly two weeks, sailed Monday morning, and the officers, cadets and sailors on board will next set foot upon their native soil. The cruiser's men have been royally entertained while in Charleston, and all the boats in the harbor saluted with whistles and flags as the vessel steamed out of the harbor.

eral troops garrison the towns and martial law has practically been established. The present situation in the two provinces is partially due to ladronism and to disaffection due to the national revenue law.

The force of the bandit ladrones is estimated at 500. The bandits have intimidated peacefully-inclined natives, who have been forced to assist them.

Kills His Wife.

Jasper, Ala.—Sheriff J. S. Moore received a telegram from Drifton, in the lower portion of this county, stating that Marion Earnest, a white man, had shot and killed his wife near that place Sunday afternoon.

No details of the killing could be obtained, but it is learned that Earnest was under the influence of whiskey at the time he committed the deed. Earnest's brother and another man from the same community were in Jasper today to procure a coffin for the dead woman, but nothing definite as to the cause of the killing could be learned from them. Earnest is believed to be in hiding and Sheriff Moore will make a determined effort to apprehend him.

Exposition at Jamestown.

Washington—A bill embodying three methods of government participation in the proposed celebration of the settlement of Jamestown, Va., was completed by the special sub-committee of the house committees on industrial arts and expositions. The first plan is for a naval, marine and military exposition under the control of a United States commission.

The second provides in addition that the government shall participate in a land exhibit, and the third gives direct government aid in the way of an appropriation to the enterprise. No sum is named in the bill as the cost of any of the plans. The bill will be acted on by the full committee in the near future.

Hundreds of shops were wrecked and several stores were burned. Probably a few soldiers were killed. The ambulances were busy all day. There are alarming rumors from the country districts. It is rumored that the town of Brestlitovsky is burning."

The Daily Mail's St. Petersburg correspondent reports that Sir Charles Hardinge, the British ambassador, has asked the Russian government to make inquiry into outrages on the British consul general and vice consul general at Warsaw.

Serious in Warsaw.

Warsaw.—The strike disorders are becoming more serious. The ordinary life of the city is quite suspended. On Sunday the strikers stopped the street railway service, but remained otherwise orderly. Today, however, they began wholesale pillage.

The majority of the shops in Marshal Kovski street and the State Vodka shops were looted. All the factories, shops, schools and theaters are closed, and the street lamps are extinguished. There have been several collisions between the police and strikers and many arrests have been made.

Situation in Moscow.

Moscow.—The strike is considered to be practically over.

A blizzard has rendered excellent service to the authorities in keeping the people indoors and there was not the slightest disorder today on the part of the strikers. The authorities, however, have taken exceptional precautions to avoid the assemblage of crowds. Even the Sunday markets were closed.

Strong pickets were posted all over the city, inside the factories and outside. There are about 30,000 troops in the city. It is reported that the police Saturday night sent several thousand of the strikers back to the villages.

Indications point to a general resumption of work in the Moscow mills and factories on Tuesday. The university will re-open on Thursday.

Spinners form Organization.

Atlanta, Ga.—Representatives of the Hard Yarn Cotton Spinners of the South met here Saturday and formed a temporary organization by the election of L. D. Tyson, of Knoxville, president, and W. A. Robinson, of Anderson, S. C., secretary. An adjournment was taken for one week, when the spinners will meet at Charlotte, N. C., to form a permanent organization. The attendance today was not large.

Grain Rates Reduced.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Announcement has been made by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company and the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company, of a reduction in the grain freight rate from Chicago to Philadelphia, Newport News and Baltimore. The new rate will become operative on February 1. The amount of the reduction is not known.

New Depot to Be Built.

Meridian, Miss.—Engineer J. M. T. Hamilton with a corps of men has begun the topographical work at the site of the new union depot. The contract for grading the grounds was let last week to Hard & Son, and the contractors expect to put a gang of one hundred men to work with teams Monday morning grading the ground to the levels marked by the engineer.

The city boards have designated the streets which are to be paved out of money derived from the $180,000 bond sale last week. The blocks described are as follows: Three blocks on Second street, one on Fourth street, three on Fifth street, one on Sixth, three on Twenty-first avenue and one on Twenty-second avenue. Two of the blocks on Fifth street to be paved lead to the $25,000 freight depot of the Queen and Crescent.

The drivers affected belong to the lumber, box and shelving teamsters' local of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters. Since last December they have been seeking an increase of wages for drivers to two horse wagons from $13 to $14 a week. No increase is asked for drivers who have been getting $12. The employers would concede no advance.

Groom 80, Bride 18; Paupers.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—A remarkable marriage has been performed in the office of Probate Judge James C. Brown, when A. M. White and Edna Blackburn, both inmates of the county alms house, were made husband and wife. The groom is 80 years of age, while the bride is but 18.

The couple met each other at the alms house. After a short courtship they secured enough money for a license, and came to town, where the knot was tied. After the ceremony the couple returned to the alms house on their honeymoon.

Shot by a Mute.

Greensboro, Ala.—Allen Wilson, a deaf and dumb man, over 60 years old, in a difficulty Friday evening, shot twice with a pistol Walter Kinlard, very dangerously wounding him. Kiniard is about 35 years old and both of them are unmarried.

The shooting occurred near Hedgeworth's, in this county. Wilson came in today and gave himself up to the sheriff and is now in jail awaiting the result of the wounds.

Wilson is the brother of Lew Wilson, who was murdered on the same place several years ago.

Child Burned to Death.

Scottsboro, Ala.—May Rousseau, the 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Rousseau, of Paint Rock Valley, this county, was burned to death Friday.

She was boarding in the family of Mr. William Flannagan, of Garth, attending school. The little girl was alone in her room just after breakfast putting on her wraps preparatory to starting to school, when by some means her clothing caught fire from the open grate. She lived two days, and suffered greatly until death relieved her.

BIRDS MUST BE SPARED.

BOLL WEEVIL TROUBLE DUE TO SLAUGHTER OF QUAIL.

Insects Destroy One-Tenth of the Products of the Farms of the United States—The Loss of Their Feathered Enemies a Public Disaster.

One-tenth of the products of the farms of the United States is destroyed by insects, according to the reports from the Agricultural Department of the Government at Washington, D. C.

One quail ate twenty-three pairs of weevils for breakfast, and this number, multiplied by 34,000,000, or the amount of weevils that would come from one pair of weevils in a year, would amount to 782,000,000 weevils that were destroyed in one morning by one quail.

These astonishing statements were made at the Boys' High School by Prof. Frank Miller, president of the Audubon Society, in a talk to about 150 boys on the subject of "Birds."

The boys of the high school, together with their friends, had been invited to attend the lecture, and the instruction received along the particular line handled by Prof. Miller was worth considerable to the lads.

In addition to the word pictures of the different birds as given, there were also stereopticon views shown that proved interesting as well as instructive.

Suspended from the platform on which Prof. Miller stood were several banners containing the following:

"Insects pest the planter and are food for the birds."

"One wild turkey will eat more insects in one day than can be stuffed into a metal form the size of the whole turkey."

"One pair of boll weevils will produce 34,000,000 descendents the first year."

In opening the subject taken, Prof. Miller said that it was such a vast one that he could talk for hours each night for a month and still not be able to go into the deepest parts thereof. He said that the advocates of protection for the birds presented two reasons why they should be protected. One reason was boys, and the other girls and women.

"While I do not intend going deep into the latter reason," said the speaker, "still I desire to say this much, and that is that the girls and women of this country are responsible for the destruction of more birds than are the boys and men. This is because of the fact that they desire the plumage of the birds for their hats, and their vanity is not satisfied until the most beautiful feathers are obtained.

"That the birds are not given the proper protection is because of the fact that the Legislatures fail to enact laws preventing the wanton destruction of them. They had rather the birds be on the dining tables of the members than save thousands of dollars annually to the farmers and fruit growers of this country.

"Birds are nature's aid in the removal of pests, and one bird alone will eat on an average 2,400 insects each year. This fact, when it is taken into considertaion that each insect will be the direct cause of thousands of others coming into the world to be of trouble to the farmer, is sufficient alone to have the legislative members throughout the country enact a law that will prevent the wanton destruction of insectivorous birds.

"The loss of birds from the fields and woods is a great public disaster, and can only be remedied by the passage of laws that will prevent the killing of them by the thousands, as is now done annually."

The boys of the high school appeared to be interested greatly in the address of Prof. Miller, and replied to his questions rapidly and with accuracy. They were able to name thirty-seven different varieties of birds common in the State of Louisiana, and Mr. Miller remarked to them that this was just eleven more than the members of the normal school were able to name him last week.

Particular attention was paid to the boll weevil now prevalent in the Southwestern States, and in exhibting to the boys a specimen of the prairie hen, now almost extinct, he said that it was his opinion that the farmers of that section would not now be troubled with his destructive insect but for the fact that the bird had been slaughtered until few were left.

At the conclusion of his address Prof. Miller was applauded heartily by those present, and asked to leave his specimens in the school building, that they might be examined and studied by those who desired to do so.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

AN ARCTIC SEA.

Experiences Through Which the Frithjof Passed in the Ice Pack.

William S. Champ, who recently returned from an unsuccessful effort to reach Franz Josef Land with the steamship Frithjof, in which he tried to carry relief supplies to the Zeigler polar expedition, has told some of the experiences through which the Frithjof passed in encountering the ice pack which skirts Franz Josef Land for a distance of 40 miles on all sides.

"A successful trip to Franz Josef Land," said Mr. Champ, "is the simplest and easiest thing imaginable. I made such a trip during the summer of 1901 to carry relief to the Baldwin party. You go north from Norway until you encounter the ice. You skirt the ice until you find the lead to the land, and when you finish your work you come back with equal ease and facility. It is accomplished by no more hardship than a trip across the Atlantic in an ocean l for shadows would be least visible when the sun is directly overhead.

They appear most quickly at the equator, and invade the higher altitudes after a lapse of a few days. In polar regions they have never been seen. What are they? Organic resembling vegetation, answer Prof.
Pickering and his adherents—vege-tion that flourishes luxuriantly when the sun shines and withers when night falls.

Given a planet on which the temperature probably never rises above the melting point of ice, on which ter vapor and carbonic acid gas discharged by volcanoes, is there anything in the nature of things vegetation should not exist? It has been pointed out that certain lichens grow in regions of the earth where the temperature never rises above the freezing point. The intense cold the moon is, therefore, not a conclusive objection against the flourishing of plant life. A single day, it may urged, is not sufficiently long for development and decay of vegetation, but sixteen hours on the moon are le more than half an hour on earth; a day lasts half a month, may well be regarded as a miniature season.

The absence of storms on the moon and the fact that a branch would urged upward with but one-sixth effort required on the earth are inestimable advantages of this lunar vegetation over terrestrial plant life.—Booklovers' Magazine.

"Old Prob's" Fine.

A group of young men, many them officials in the government service, recently met in the room of a Washington clubhouse.
the suggestion of one of the party was agreed that the one first "
ing shop" should be fined a dollar;
the evening passed and no fine been imposed.

Mr. Willis L. Moore, Chief of Weather Bureau, overcoat and hand, arose at last to go.

"Good evening," said he.

"Hold on there; a dollar, please," shouted out several in unison.

Mr. Moore straightened back though he had been hit a blow, ed puzzled, then grinned, and,
a word, fished out the dollar.—

COL. BECKWITH SAYS:

"I Take Pleasure in Commending Pe-ru-na For Coughs and Colds."

COL. PAUL E. BECKWITH.

Colonel Paul E. Beckwith, Lt. Col., retired, 1st Reg. Minute Men, in a letter from 1503 Vermont avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C., writes:

"From the unqualified endorsement of many of my friends, I take pleasure in commending your remedies for coughs and colds."—Paul E. Beckwith.

IN FIELD OR BARRACKS PE-RU-NA IS EFFICACIOUS.

The constant exposure to the elements experienced in an outdoor life is not so apt to cause coughs and colds as sedentary habits.

Those who are brought face to face with the weather every day in active life are much less liable to catarrhal diseases than those who are housed up in illy ventilated rooms. And yet both of these classes are more or less subject to catarrh and catarrhal diseases. The soldier as well as the civilian finds it frequently necessary to use Peruna on account of coughs and colds.

ALL CLASSES ARE SUBJECT TO CATARRH.

No one is exempt. The strong and healthy are less liable than the weak and ill, but none entirely escape.

Peruna has always been a great favorite with the military men, both in the army and navy.

The strongest kind of testimonials are received from officers of high rank concerning the virtues of Peruna for all catarrhal ailments.

Only a small per cent. of these can be used for publication for want of space.

Mr. Harrison L. Deam, Burnside Post No. 8, Department of the Potomac, Colonel Encampment No. 69, Union Veterans' Legion, Colonel Green Clay Smith Regiment No. 17. U. V. U., Department of the Potomac, Military Order Loyal Legion, Department of Columbia, Major 34th Indiana Veteran Volunteer Infantry, writes:

"There is no longer any question as to the curative qualities of Peruna in all catarrhal troubles. Its successful use by many of my friends entitles it to confidence and endorsement."

Bryan's Story of Himself.

"My first ambition," said W. J. Bryan in a lecture at Topeka, Kan., "was to be a Baptist preacher. I dropped that ambition after I had seen a baptizing when I was still a boy, but my republican friends have been mean enough to say that my giving it up was due to the natural aversion of a democrat for water. My next ambition was to be a farmer and my third to be a lawyer. I fell into politics accidentally, but stayed there by choice. I had no intention when I went to Nebraska of going into politics. It is easily proved by the fact that at the time I went there the state was republican, the district republican, the county republican, the city republican, the ward republican, and I regret to add that there has not been so great a change in their political complexion as I would like."

Whist and Inventing.

Here is an incident illustrating how business problems pursue the inventor of the airbrake. A few years ago a game of whist was progressing smoothly, when after one of the deals Mr. Westinghouse did not pick his cards up, but kept drawing on a piece of paper before him. The others watched him curiously, remarked that they were ready to proceed, and then waited and waited, unable to understand why he should pay no attention to them. Suddenly, with a flash of triumph in his eye and exultation in his voice, he cried out, "Brown, I've got that natural gas meter fixed—here it is; it can not fail to work successfully," and picking up his cards he asked: "Whose turn is it to play?"

Ancient Timekeeping.

Ancient timekeeping has received new light from two remarkable stones lately unearthed by the German explorers on the site of the old Ionic port of Miletus. These stones are the remains of calendars, of which one is shown to date from 109 A. D. The year was divided into 12 zodiacal signs and against each month the motion of the remaining signs was given, with a note predicting the weather. On the left side were 30 holes, a wooden peg being moved forward one hole each day, thus giving the astronomical date.

There were 5,340 suicides in the United States in 1899; 6,755 in 1900; 7,245 in 1901; 8,291 in 1902; 8,597 in 1903, and 9,240 in 1904. And all the fools are not dead yet by a long way.

The Deepest Mine.

The deepest mining shaft has been sunk to a little more than a mile in Cape Colony and the deepest bore hole has reached the same depth in Silesia. It is said that there should be no insurmountable difficulties in carrying a shaft down twelve miles. An approximate estimate has shown that to reach a depth of two miles the cost would be $2,500,000. Ten years would be required and a rock temperature of 122 degrees Fahrenheit would be found; while to penetrate twelve miles would cost $25,000,000 and would take 85 years, the rock temperature expected being 272 degrees Fahrenheit.

A WOMAN'S MISERY.

Mrs. John LaRue, of 115 Paterson Avenue, Paterson, N. J., says: "I was troubled for about nine years, and what I suffered no one will ever know. I used about every known remedy that is said to be good for kidney complaint, but without deriving permanent relief. Often when alone in the house the backache has been so bad that it brought tears to my eyes. The pain at times was so intense that I was compelled to give up my household duties and lie down. There were headaches, dizziness and blood rushing to my head to cause bleeding at the nose. The first box of Doan's Kidney Pills benefited me so much that I continued the treatment. The stinging pain in the small of my back, the rushes of blood to the head and other symptoms disappeared."

Rapid Progress in Japan.

Up to 1897 there was not a single public telephone in Japan. The first systems were installed in 1890. At the end of 1901 there were 179 public stations, with twenty-five city systems and 25,000 subscribers, while as many more were demanding telephone service. The Japs are capable of "hurricane fighting," but also capable of hurricane progress. In 1871 there were 19,000 telegrams sent; in 1881, 2,586,000; in 1891, 4,674,000, and in 1901, 16,221,000.

15 YEARS OF TORTURE

Itching and Painful Sores Covered Head and Body—Cured in Week by Cuticura.

"For fifteen years my scalp and forehead was one mass of scabs, and my body was covered with sores. Words cannot express how I suffered from the itching and pain. I had given up hope when a friend told me to get Cuticura. After bathing with Cuticura Soap and applying Cuticura Ointment for three days, my head was as clear as ever, and to my surprise and joy, one cake of soap and one box of ointment made a complete cure in one week. (Signed) H. B. Franklin, 717 Washington St., Allegheny, Pa."

Ancient Forks.

A London jeweler has made a collection of ancient forks used in England, which show some little known facts about the table manners of a few centuries ago. The forks, which are of solid silver, date from the sixteenth century. In many cases the designs in all this time have scarcely varied in any detail, and the forks look like those which might be bought today. The old forks were a great luxury in their time, and were only used by the aristocracy.

Last Cowhide Boots in Senate.

With the coming retirement of Senator Cockrell, of Missouri, will go the last pair of cowhide boots from the senate. When he first took his seat, twenty-nine years ago, he wore this ante-bellum footgear and he still clings to it.

Senator Cockrell is tall, broad-shouldered, but a gaunt, lean man. He stoops a little when he walks and bends his head forward, with a hand spread fan shape behind his ear when he desires to listen.

A curiosity in the matter of bell ringing is to be met with at Fulburne, near Cambridge. The church bells there not only ring the hours of the day, but at intervals also the date of the month. Thus, at 12 o'clock noon on the 31st there would be forty-three strokes.

One of the most curious bridges ever built, perhaps unique in the history of the world, was that made by the British troops in 1860. They were marching on Pekin, but found their progress barred by a flooded river of considerable width and depth. A timber party was formed, but found nothing to cut down or borrow suitable for a bridge. At last a huge store of coffins were discovered in the village, and with these the soldiers built their bridge and crossed alive over the receptacles for the dead.

Parkman's Sense of Justice.

A friend met Francis Parkman walking along the street holding two street boys by their coat collars. In reply to his friend's request for an explanation Parkman said: "I found this boy had eaten an apple without dividing with his little brother. Now I'm going to buy one for the little boy and make the big one look on while he eats it."—St. Nicholas.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O.

WOMEN'S NEGLECT

SUFFERING THE SURE PENALTY

Health Thus Lost Is Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

How many women do you know who are perfectly well and strong? We hear every day the same story over and over again. "I do not feel well; I am so tired all the time!"

Miss Kate McDonald

More than likely you speak the same words yourself, and no doubt you feel far from well. The cause may be easily traced to some derangement of the female organs which manifests itself in depression of spirits, reluctance to go anywhere or do anything, backache, bearing-down pains, flatulency, nervousness, sleeplessness, leucorrhœa.

These symptoms are but warnings that there is danger ahead, and unless heeded a life of suffering or a serious operation is the inevitable result.

The never-failing remedy for all these symptoms is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Miss Kate McDonald, of Woodbridge, N. J., writes:

The Clergyman's Hobbyhorse.

Visitors to a quaint little church in England observe a curious relic in the shape of a high stool with a leather top like a saddle. The parish clerk shows not a little pride in this relic and tells its story with relish. During the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries the country parsons were accustomed to spend much of their time hunting with their country squires. Oftentimes the fox got more attention than the sermon on the following Sunday. Such was the case with the parson who left the saddle stool behind him as a relic of the days of fox hunting parsons. He was a good deal more at home in the saddle than in the pulpit, so in order to introduce some of the life and spirit into his discourses which he felt while in the hunting field, the reverend gentleman had this saddle stool made. It was placed in the pulpit before the parson mounted the steps. Once astride this hobby the parson was able to reach a much higher degree of enthusiasm and eloquence than he could have unmounted.

Give Your Stomach a Rest.

Your food must be properly digested and assimilated to be of any valve to you. If your stomach is weak or diseased take Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It digests what you eat and gives the stomach a rest, enabling it to recuperate, take on new life and grow strong again. Kodol cures sour stomach, gas, bloating, heart palpitation and all digestive disorders. L. A. Sopher, of Little Rock, Ky., writes us: "We feel that Kodol Dyspepsia Cure deserves all the commendation that can be given it, as it saved the life of our little girl when she was three years old. She is now six and we have kept it for her constantly, but of course she only takes it now when anything disagrees with her." Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

A Famous Aqueduct.

One of the most imposing architectural relics of western Europe is the aqueduct of Nismes, in southern France. After the lapse of sixteen centuries this colossal monument still spans the valley, joining hill to hill in nearly perfect state. The highest range of arches carries a small canal just wide enough for a man to creep through and still retaining a thick lining of Roman cement. The height of the structure is 188 feet and the length of the highest arcade 872 feet. Its use was to convey to the city of Nismes the water of two springs twenty-five miles distant.

A Right of the British Navy.

The British navy since the time of Alfred the Great has claimed the position of being "first among equals" and has maintained this position to the present day. It is acknowledged by the navies of the world in the fact that on meeting a British man-of-war they first salute, the courtesy being returned by the British ship. The Dutch resisted this demand until 1673 and the French until 1704, since which date it has been an item of international law.

I was all run down from nervousness and overwork and had to resign my position and take a rest. I found that I was not gaining my strength and health as fast as I could wish, and as your Wine of Cardui was recommended as such a good medicine for the ills of our sex, I bought a bottle and began using it. I was satisfied with the results from the use of the first bottle, and took three more and then found I was restored to good health and strength and able to take up my work with renewed vigor. I consider it a fine tonic and excellent for worn-out, nervous conditions, and am pleased to endorse it.

Plant City, Fla., Feb. 3, 1905

Editor Banner—Having promised a number of my friends in Alabama to write to them, you among the number, I will, by your permission, write a short note for the Banner. First of all I will say that we have had a freeze in Florida and the leaves on the orange trees are killed, but many of the old citizens say that the trees are not damaged; I do not know, as I have no experience in the orange business, but I am in a fair way to learn and to do so with experience. But if I loose my grove I still feel glad that I came to this country, for I do feel that in many respects, with its advantages, It is the garden spot of the world and the advantages are so numerous that I will not undertake to mention all, only a few, and first, we do not have cold winters, something growing here all the year round and farmers are selling for a good profit almost every month in the year. Second, cattle and hog raising is profitable. I saw a farmer selling bacon in Plant City at fifteen cents per pound, and people can grow and do grow anything here that is grown in any State except wheat and cotton. I will say, in conclusion, that there is one thing that makes me feel sad, that is to be separated from life long friends. Alabama is dear to me in a thousand ways, but above all it is closer on the line of the recollection of so many dear friends, they are friends of a life time, and I cannot live to get so close to any other people. It is true there may be a few in the dear old State that do not love me, but I can say, with all the little differences that may have existed, that there is not a soul that lives in the State that I would harm, and I wish them all well, and although many miles away, I am still the true and devoted friend to the people of the State and especially to Chilton.

Respectfully,
S. M. Adams.

Maplesville, Feb 6, 1905

Editor Banner—In your last issue some one wants taxes raised for school funds. It's a gloomy time to think of burdening the people with paying more money, but if it is necessary to the betterment of the children I will be in favor of it. But in all the raises the teachers' salaries have gone up, and the girls and boys have not had what we expected, so another raise is feared. Let us work together for the benefit of the children. Our teachers should be paid a good salary, but all can help some. We are in need of longer schools, so teachers and taxpayers should work together.

S. E. Waldrup.

Jemison, Feb. 6, 1905

Editor Banner—Please give me space to say a few words about the farmers organizing. Now, brother farmers, don't forget the date, be on hand ready to take an active part in the association, don't wait to see what the other fellow is going to do. Go or come by his home and get him to go with you and help in the organization. We want a united action. Remember united we stand, divided we fall. I think we should everyone adopt the report of the committee as it reads and agitate a county fair sometime in the near future.

Now a few words about this year's crop. Now as it is about time to begin staking off the different plots of ground for different crops, I would suggest that you pick out the very best land to plant in corn, the next best in oats, followed with peas, next best in cotton, and don't forget the 25 per cent decrease in acreage, also the decrease in use of commercial fertilizers. Now brethren, we have got the situation in our own hands if we will hold on and stick together. I will close by halloaing hurrah for Gulledge and success to the Banner, I am

Clanton, Feb. 7, 1905

Editor Banner—As you doubtless know the country is being flooded with bear literature advising farmers not to organize and cut cotton acreage and fertilizers for cotton. Will you please call the attention of farmers to the move and explain to them that the promoters of said scheme are working for the bears and not for the farmers?

Yours truly,
J. N. Dennis.

Clear Creek, Feb. 8, 1905

Editor Banner—I want to say a few words by way of endorsing a letter in the last Banner in regard to a special school tax, as someone has got to make a start in this movement. I wish to say to the people of the different school districts that we in district No. 58 are getting up a petition to county commissioners asking for an election to be called to vote on a special tax of ten cents on the one hundred dollars, and I hereby ask all trustees in other townships to do the same, and to get the petitions in by or before the first of April, 1905, so the matter may be considered at the regular meeting in April. This is the only way to determine whether we want a special school tax or not. Hoping the trustees will take this in hand at once, I am

Very truly yours,
W. H. Shaw, D. T.

Enterprise.

As I have heard nothing from Enterprise for some time I will tell you we are still in the ring. We hear a good deal of cotton talk just now, very little corn talk, no politics in it. I think we ought to get something else on our mind besides cotton. Let us do as Mr. F. A. said, call up the old sow, give her a nubbin and give the old cow the shuck off of it and let's have plenty of meat and milk and butter.

Our school is moving along nicely, H. L. Davis is our teacher; success to H. L.

We will send in our petition in regard to school tax soon; hope our county will go for the tax. Hope the farmers will do something about cotton, less cotton is what we need and more hog and hominy. Not much visiting, too cold, half of us got grip and not much else. Let everybody come out on Feb. 11 and see what we can do.

Piney Woods Rooter.

Bethsalem.

Editor Banner—Since there seems to be so much enthusiasm among the farmers and common masses of our people in regard to cotton growing and future mutual protection, we desire to show which side we are on, if we cannot fight.

Now, if you will kindly give us a little space in your valuable paper, we will begin to spread it on. First, will say we are away back in rural South Chilton, but since we are not firing the woods in many places, we are ginger hot, endorsing the place and bylaws set apart by Mr. Poole, Commissioner of Agriculture, and the many steps taken by the people of Chilton and surrounding counties in regulating the production of cotton.

Now, talking or doing the wind work is an easy matter, but brother farmer, air castles are easy torn down, almost a summer breeze would dislocate its foundation. Now, since we are uniting for the mutual protection of the whole South, let us build our castle with the brick "union" and mortar, "do what we say." Furthermore, let's take Bro. Gulledge's advice and be sure and digest that part which says "This is what a suspicious element does."

Since the Institute which met at Concord, Jan. 21 and 22, consisting of the educators of Chilton county, by a majority endorsed the ten cent special school tax, and in the meantime advised the county Supt. to send a blank to each chairman of the respective districts in the county, and urge them to solicit the names of the people that we may petition the commissioners' court for an election to put on the ten cents special school tax for the support of our schools, will say we are anxiously awaiting the arrival of some; perhaps they are coming around the dirt road.

Now, brother farmer, the time will come and is now here, that our shoulders must go to the wheel. So don't be afraid, for where there is union there is strength. Let us turn this wheel and petition the next commissioners court and get this special school tax for the support of our public schools.

We have given you some of the crust of our pie and if this misses the waste basket, next time we will cut you off a piece from the centre.

Ten Millions Are Saved.

Brownwood, Tex.—The following signed statement has been issued by C. H. Jenkins, of the executive committee of the Southern Cotton Growers' Association:

"Since the first call was issued for the farmers to organize for the purpose of securing a 25 per cent. reduction of acreage, and fertilizers, cotton has advanced $2.50 per bale. Upon the basis of four million bales being still in the hands of the producers, this means a gain of $10,000,000 to the cotton growers of the South. If the farmers and business men of the South will stand by the program agreed upon at the New Orleans convention, this gain will amount to forty millions of dollars on the crop in hand by June 1, and the gain on the next crop will be at least one hundred and twenty-five million dollars. Can we afford to pay something in labor and in money for such a consummation as this?

"The essentials are reduction in the next crop, and holding the present crop. The present crop cannot be held economically without warehouses; therefore, my advice is to build warehouses and do it now. Let the farmers and business men of every country get together at once and raise the necessary fund to build a warehouse.

"C. H. JENKINS.

"Member of the Executive Committee Southern Cotton Growers' Association."

Cut Each Other.

Birmingham, Ala.—"Rube" Preddy and Albert Irwin, two well-known young white men about town, cut each other pretty badly Friday night about 7 o'clock in the pool room in the Florence hotel. The fight was the result of a dispute over a game of pool which, it is said, Preddy tried to break up.

As the result of the fight Preddy is at St. Vincent's hospital with three long cuts across his shoulders and down his back, and Albert Irwin is cut, but less dangerously. Irwin is employed in the pool room. Neither has been arrested.

Preddy was drinking and came into the pool room and interferred with a game. Irwin asked him to stop and he replied with profane language. The two commenced fighting and drew knives.

The physicians had to take thirty-six stitches in one of the cuts in Preddy's back, and a few less in the other two cuts. The wounds are not fatal.

Unknown Man Killed.

Elmore, Ala.—The body of a white man killed by a Louisville and Nashville freight train at Elmore station was taken to Montgomery Friday night.

Conductor Brooks says that he noticed the young man just before the train went into the Elmore sidetrack. The man, he says, was neatly dressed, his overcoat and clothes well fitting and wore kid gloves. In fact he looked as if he had been to a dance at Deatsville, where it is thought that he boarded the freight train to come to Montgomery.

Conductor Brooks says that there were no papers or means of identification of any kind on the man, but it was supposed that he was a Montgomery boy who had been to a country dance and was trying to get home quickly.

Unless something is heard from the family or friends of the dead man this morning the body will be buried by the Louisville and Nashville railroad.

Wenobee Ordered Sold.

Roanoke, Ala.—Chancellor Whiteside has made a decree ordering the sale of the Wenobee cotton mills, which are located near Roanoke, in Randolph county. Mr. J. A. Williams, of LaFayette, is the receiver and he will advertise and sell the property, which is valued at $15,000. The chancellor reserved his decision on other questions in the case.

City Flooded With Water.

London.—The forty-two-inch main supplying Liverpool with water burst at Eton, Terpoley, Saturday morning and twenty million gallons of water was liberated. The surrounding country is inundated and roads changed into deep channels. Enormous damage but no fatalities.

Two Men Killed in Jasper County.

Jasper, Ala.—There was a killing at Horse Creek late Tuesday afternoon. The particulars are not known further than that a man by the name of Wiley Burns killed an Italian whose name is not known. Coroner Moss Newburger went over to hold an inquest, accompanied by Sheriff Moore and County Solicitor Ernest Lacy.

Arrested for Starting Fires.

Charleston, S. C.—The police arrested Raymond Bowman, a young white man, on the charge of starting a series of fires in hay warehouses during the past few weeks. It is said that he has practically confessed to all the charges.

A trolley car was wrecked during an "inky-black" fog in Chicago the other day. This sounds like a nautical tale, but it is not.

A Very Large Fire.

Birmingham, Ala.—Property located on First avenue and Morris avenue, between Twenty-first and Twentieth streets, valued at about $240,000, was destoryed by fire between 1 and 3 o'clock Sunday morning.

Chief Mullin had about given up all hope of saving a single building in the block bounded by Twentieth and Twenty-first streets and First and Morris avenues, but at 2:30 hope revived and the situation improved rapidly.

Telegraphed for Assistance.

Montgomery, Atlanta and Chattanooga had been telegraphed for assistance, the fire department here fearing that the fire might spread to adjacent blocks and wipe out some of the most valuable property in the city.

The Woodward building, the Metropolitan hotel property, the Union station and likewise all property on the north side of First avenue between Twentieth and Twenty-first streets seemed in jeopardy.

For more than an hour the city had been illuminated within a radius of ten blocks by the high leaping flames, and sparks were falling in showers over a radius of four blocks.

The fire broke out on the second floor of the building at Morris avenue and Twenty-first street, occupied by Franklin, Stiles & Franklin, produce dealers, and owned by the Earle estate.

One fire engine, driven at full speed, exploded.

The loss, as near as can be estimated, is as follows:

Earle building, First avenue, $27,000; Tomlinson building, First avenue, $25,000; Harrison building, First avenue, $5,000; Earle double on Morris avenue, $12,000; two other buildings on Morris avenue (owners not ascertained, $15,000; Garry Co.'s stock, $70,000; Candy Co.'s stock, $15,000; Drs. Dozier's equipment, $2,000; Colby Co.'s stock, $15,000; Snider Tobacco Co.'s stock, $5,000; Farnklin, Stiles & Franklin's stock, $15,000; Erb Co.'s stock, $3,000; Cooper Co.'s stock, $5,000; Norton Co.'s stock, $15,000; Camp Hardee, $2,000; Twenty-first street bridge, $1,000; French plate glass furniture and fixtures, $5,000. Total, $237,000.

Daughter Burned; Father Frozen.

Gadsden, Ala.—Ruth, the 7-year-old daughter of Mrs. Tate Condon, was severely burned Saturday afternoon by her clothing being ignited from the fire place. She was at the home of a man named Jeffries and standing near the fire with her back turned when her dress caught. She ran out of the house to her mother's, nearby, with the dress in flames and fell at the door exhausted.

Her dress was pulled off her, but not before her body was burned from her legs to her head and the flesh hanging in pieces. Her mother wrapped her up in a piece of carpeting and brought her to town, where she was given medical attention. Her burns will not result seriously unless pneumonia sets in from exposure. Her father was found frozen nearly to death the same afternoon in a buggy in the rear of a Chestnut street saloon. He was frozen stiff and the spark of life was almost gone when he was found by the police. He was taken to jail and revived and may recover.

Green County Planter Drops Dead.

Demopolis, Ala.—W. N. Glover, a prominent citizen and extensive planter of Green county, fell dead in the hall of his home near Forkland, while on his way to his office to pay some hands.

Gruesome Wedding.

Montgomery, Ala.—W. J. Batson and Miss Willie Edwards married at Andalusia while the mother of the bride was dying and her father ill with pneumonia. The ceremony took place in the kitchen and the mother's soul went out between the opening and closing words of the ceremony.

Deaf Mute Arrested.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—John Wilson, a deaf mute, who has been in the city for a day or two begging, was arrested Saturday by Chief of Police McGill on the charge of vagrancy. Wilson was using a forged letter with the name of W. B. Bankhead, of Huntsville, signed to same, recommending him very highly.

Killed During Card Game.

Mobile, Ala.—Sheriff Powers received news of the killing at Pierce, in the northern part of this county, late Friday evening of Walter Ruffin by Walter Tate. Tate shot Ruffin in a quarrel over a card game, making good his escape.

Youthful Couple Elope.

Huntsville, Ala.—The elopement of Allen Hutchins, aged 17 years, and Miss Annie Davidson, aged 16, and their marriage at Petersburg, Tenn., caused a sensation here.

The elopement was caused by the contemplated removal of the bride's family to Mississippi. Miss Davidson was not missed until the family had gone to the depot, and was ready to get on the train.

Suicided With Scissors.

Sheffield, Ala.—The body of John Burch has been carried to Anniston for burial and the funeral will be conducted by the Odd Fellows of that city of which body he was a well known member.

Mr. Burch died as the result of wounds inflicted by himself with a pair of scissors. He stabbed himself in the abdomen, the back and in the temple, the last wound proving fatal.

It is said the rash deep was committed in a fit of temporary insanity. He had tried to commit suicide several times, and threatened the life of his little 14-year-old daughter. Last Saturday he locked himself in a room with her and took morphone, but was saved by the timely arrival of help, which she ran out and summoned.

Explosion of Dynamite.

Altoona, Ala.—Last Friday night ten cases of dynamite was exploded at the tunnel on the Altoona extension wrecking the buildings and a blacksmith shop nearby. Fortunately no one was hurt. The shock was felt for miles around and was plainly felt in Gadsden. One of the employers went into the building with a gas get and in some way some dry shavings on the floor become ignited. The young man seeing that he could not extinguish the explosion came. Mr. Hardy, Pink Flowers and D. D. Gilland, employers at the tunnel, had just left the blacksmith shop which was wrecked.

To Form Truckers' Association.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—A number of Tuscaloosa's citizens are arranging to form a truckers' association in this county. For the present their time will be devoted to the raising of peas and beans, which will be shipped to the Northern markets. A committee consisting of J. D. Foster, William Shepherd and Henry Burns have just returned from Cuba where they went to make a thorough investigation along this line. Mr. Murphy, secretary of the Truckers' Association of Eutaw, is in the city in the interest of the forming of this new enterprise.

Furnace Nearly Complete.

Gadsden, Ala.—The Alabama Steel and Wire Company will have completed its fourth open-hearth steel furnace within the next few days and it will be immediately placed in commission. The furnace is now being finished and when it is blown in the plant will have a daily capacity of 400 tons of basic steel per day and 100 or more tons of this will be put upon the market, the remainder being made up into wire and nails by the company's own mills at Ensley. It is believed that as soon as this surplus steel is provided for two more furnaces will be built completing a battery of six under the present roof space. The full complement of steel furnaces will be ten—eventually.

Killed in the Mines.

Birmingham, Ala.—Six men were killed in the mines of Alabama during the past month, and there were eight non-fatal accidents. This is considerably below the record for January, 1904, but about the average number of killed and injured in the mines each month.

Of the six fatal accidents, one was electrocuted by breaking the insulation on an electric wire, and the remainder by falling rock.

For January, 1904, eleven were killed. Of the non-fatal accidents, five were caused by falling rock, one by flying coal and one was burned by gas.

There are four or five counties in which the titles to the superintendents of education are in dispute, the old incumbents attempting under the old election law to hold over and refusing to surrender the offices to the superintendents-elect.

Recent decisions by the Supreme Court caused this change of policy.

General Fight at Ensley.

Ensley, Ala.—A fight took place in a little shoe shop here Saturday afternoon in which four negroes and two white men were involved. It is charged that an effort was made by a negro to steal a pair of shoes and the fight followed Joe Dumalia, white, was cut in the back several times. Felix Bird, colored, one of the negroes under arrest, is supposed to have done the cutting.

Kinaird Dies of Wounds.

Greensboro, Ala.—Walter Kinaird, who was shot a few days ago by Allen Wilson, a deaf and dumb man, 73 years old, died today. Wilson is still in jail awaiting preliminary trial.

Treasurer's Books Burned.

Jasper, Ala.—A sensation has been caused in Walker county by the discovery that the cash books of the retiring treasurer, R. W. Miller, have been burned. The books were discovered in a charred condition in the grate of a drug store. Mr. Miller denies all knowledge of the circumstances. A state auditor was asked to come to Jasper and adjust matters before the new treasurer, H. S. Morrow, takes charge.

Strawberry Growing.

Greenville, Ala.—A short time ago a stock company was organized for the purpose of raising strawberries at Butler. This corporation set 100 acres. At Garland there are a number of small growers, enough in the aggregate to ship berries in large quantities. Now another company has purchased a large tract of land at Dunham and they have organized and will be known as the Hazelton Company. This will put Butler right up in the front rank with Conecuh and some of the North Alabama counties.

This company is made up of a number of the best business men of Birmingham. They have an expert strawberry grower as manager, and as their company is capitalized at $15,000, they will have money enough in the business to make a great success of it.

Shooting in Cullman.

Cullman, Ala.—City Marshal Bill Schneider shot John Mouder in Frank Arndts' saloon. Schneider was attempting to arrest Mouder, and it is said that Mouder resisted and drew his knife on the officer. Others say he had his knife in his hand at the time Schneider came up and made no move with it toward Schneider. There are many conflicting stories. Schneider shot him in the breast near the center. Mouder is living at this time, but it is believed he will die. He is a married man about 30 years of age and has one or two children. He lives about one mile from town and is a farmer.

Spargle in Trouble.

Anniston, Ala.—Charles Spargle, a young white man, is in jail at the city hall with a serious charge opposite his name on the warden's book. Sparkle is charged with robbery and larceny. It is alleged that Spargle entered a private room of Mr. W. T. Grace at the peerless pool room and secured a pocketbook and contents. The pocketbook was found in his clothes when Spargle was arrested two days ago on a charge of trespassing, and Mr. Grace notified of the find. The book contained a registration certificate and a Confederate $100 bill, with some other papers of Mr. Grace. It is claimed that the man entered the place with a key, but the pocketbook is all that was missed. Spargle claims that he found the pocketbook and intended to return it. When arrested he was in bed in the room of a man who had him arrested for trespassing.

Will Not Hurt Mobile.

Mobile, Ala.—In regard to the story given out in New Orleans by General Agent Leach of the Mobile and Ohio, to the effect that the greater part of freight export traffic of the Mobile and Ohio would be diverted to that port as the result of newly acquired terminals there, Col. E. L. Russell, vice-president of the road, characterized the statement as preposterous, and that any arrangement affecting New Orleans will not take away any business from Mobile.

"The new business is expected to be taken away from the Atlantic ports, not from a port which we have already done much to build up," said Colonel Russell. "To show that nothing of the sort is contemplated we are going to build another dock and double story warehouse in Mobile, and the engineers have been here to lay out the work."

Assessment Board to Meet Again.

Montgomery, Ala.—The state board of assessments at its annual meeting found that several railroad companies had neglected to send in a valuation of their property, including trackage and sidetracks, etc., and no action was taken on the railroad assessments. The delinquents will be given until Tuesday, February 21. The total assessment of the railroad property subject to the assessment of the board was $52,000,000 last year. There is a heavy increase for 1905.

Alabama Postmasters.

Washington.—The following postmasters have been appointed: Bastic, Pickens county, Ida A. Stucey; Dayton, Marengo county, Sarah R. Lockhart; Diamond, Marshall county, Virgil H. Copeland; Emerson, Washington county, James B. Burton; Samuel, Choctaw county, William M. Doggett.

Wreck on Southern.

Uniontown, Ala.—A freight wreck on the Southern railway here in the early hours of Saturday morning has interrupted traffic between Selma and Demopolis all day. Three cars turned over, turning up the tracks and doing much damage, but, fortunately, no one was injured. Passenger trains from Meridian were detoured around by Akron.

Hartford Bank Authorized.

Hartford, Ala.—The First National Bank, of Hartford, has been authorized to begin business with $30,000 capital. The officers are: Lee Burford, president; J. J. Hughes, vice-president; W. H. Bishop, cashier.

Fire at Anniston.

Anniston, Ala.—Fire gutted the cottage occupied by H. Wood, and owned by L. H. Kopia. It was valued at $800, fully covered by insurance. Most of the household effects were saved. The fire originated from a defective flue.

Decrees Declared Void.

Montgomery, Ala.—All acts of the judges of the nullified Fourteenth and Fifteenth circuits performing the functions of a chancellor are void.

Man Blown to Pieces.

Gadsden, Ala.—News of an accident in which one man lost his life at the Tumlin gap tunnel on the Altoona extension, has reached here.

Ed. Payne, who was foreman, was loading a hole preparatory to making a blast, when in some manner four sticks of dynamite exploded, dashing Payne's brains all over the rocks, tearing off his arm and mangling his body. One hand was picked up some distance away. His remains were shipped to his home in Georgia. Foreman Sparks lost his life in a similar manner three weeks ago, and Mr. Payne succeeded him.

Work on Tennessee.

Huntsville, Ala.—Congressman William Richardson, of the Eighth Alabama District, writes from Washington that the amount of money appropriated for Colbert Shoals in the Tennessee river, about $400,000, is enough to carry on the work now in progress there until the appropriation of the Fifty-ninth Congress is at hand. Judge Richardson said he had to be content with appropriations for the Tennesse this session, and that the small appropriation of $15,000 for dredging in the river between Guntersville and Hobb's Island will remove the sand bars that interferred with low water traffic during the last summer.

Increases Capital Stock.

Anniston, Ala.—At a meeting of the stockholders of the Anniston Lime and Stone Company, the capital stock of the company was increased to $200,000, fully paid up. The increased capital stock was found to be necessary on account of the company more than doubling their former capacity, by the erection of a splendid battery of kilns at Tredegar, Ala., and the acquisition of large and valuable tracts of mineral and timber lands, as well as the building of new dwellings, warehouses, railroads, etc., as well as the acquisition of the Comer-Cobb Mineral Company properties.

Caught Stealing.

Birmingham, Ala.—Walter Whitfield was arrested Thursday on a charge of larceny from the person of A. O. Jones, of Adamsville, who was under the effects of intoxicants.

The officers had followed Whitfield and Jones from the union passenger station, where they had suspected Whitfield's intentions by his actions. They watched him carry Jones to a room and by standing on a box and looking over the transom they saw Whitfield take the money from Jones. The amount was about $10. Whitfield attempted to leave after making the "touch," but was caught.

Frauds by "Deaf and Dumb."

Anniston, Ala.—Two men, claiming to be deaf mutes, recently worked Anniston and secured considerable money from the benevolently inclined.

Since one has been arrested in Montgomery and the other in Birmingham and it developed that they were frauds. One had a letter of recommendation from Hon. W. B. Bankhead, of Huntsville, which proved to be a forgery. He was arrested on suspicion in the Capital City. The other man was arrested in connection with a shooting affray at a Birmingham boarding house.

New Fertilizer Company.

Abbeville, Ala.—The Howard Fertilizer Company, of Abbeville, filed with Secretary of State E. R. McDavid Saturday notice of the increase of its capital stock from $5,000 to $25,000.

The Howard Fertilizer Company has been very successful in its business. The stockholders are P. W. Roberts and son, E. L. Armstrong, Webb Riley, O. L. Dortch, T. H. Hatcher, W. J. Howard, R. M. Dudley, W. M. Chevirs, W. F. Chevirs, S. C. Hughes, J. D. Covington, I. V. Luens, R. J. Reynolds and A. S. Steagall.

Will Establish Station.

Florence, Ala.—The postoffice department will establish station No. 1 in East Florence, to be open for business by February 15th. Dr. A. C. Sullivan will be in charge of the station, which will be in his drug store on Royal avenue. Money orders, stamps, registered letters and all postal supplies will be kept at the new station.

Theater Destroyed.

Salem, Mass.—A moving picture apparatus exploded on a stage during the performance of the Mechanic Hall theater last night, starting a fire that drove an audience of 1,300 people in a panic from the place and destroyed the building, entailing a loss of $50,000. None of the spectators were hurt.

Steamer Burns.

Cincinnati, O.—The steamer Hudson, moored at the east end marine ways, was destroyed by fire Saturday night. Loss, $30,000. The boat is owned by the Cincinnati and Pittsburg Packet Company and has been out of commission for several months. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Leaped Into Burning Oil.

Marietta, O.—After shooting his wife near Wick, W. Va., Saturday, Lindsay Owens committed suicide by burning himself in an oil well. Believing his wife was fatally wounded he went to an oil well near by and having set fire to the gas fumes he leaped headlong into the flames. His charred body was taken out later. Mrs. Owens will recover. Jealousy was the cause.

SOUTHERN ❖ FARM ❖ NOTES.

TOPICS OF INTEREST TO THE PLANTER, STOCKMAN AND TRUCK GROWER.

Thirty Years' Experience in Berry Fruit Growing.

Thirty years old in any one line of business is quite patriarchial, for this has been a generation of changes and frequent adjustments and readjustments. It has not fallen to the lot of many men to hold to one thing for so near the third part of the century. I consider myself fortunate that fate has permitted me to bend virtually all the energies of my life to one thing, given me time and opportunity to master it in proportion to my abilities and to reap a reward that seems to me greater than my deserts. And still more fortunate am I in that I have had sons to grow up around me, profiting by my experience, to see more broadly and reach higher, making my plans and aims their plans and aims, but larger. But I am not writing a family history, but a treatise on fruit growing.

In that thirty years I learned many things and had to unlearn many things.

What I had to chiefly unlearn was that the old system of manuring fruits was wrong. To me and to my average contemporaries in those days manure was manure and fertilizer fertilizer. It occurred to us dimly, if at all, that as different animals required different kinds of food and in different proportions, so did different plants and crops. And I will add that the loss from illy balanced manure and fertilizer in those dark days was enormous, and who will be bold enough to say that the dark days are even yet entirely past with all of us?

The three fertilizing properties which experience has proven should be added to the soil to make it productive are, as is well known, nitrogen, potash and phosphoric acid. All of these are essential, one as much as the other, but they are needed in different proportions on different soils and for different crops, and their blind and injudicious use works loss in many ways.

As nitrogen is the most expensive it is in that the greatest waste and loss occurs in the ignorant use of fertilizers. The loss is greater in berry fruit growing than in any other crop we have, because more fertilizer is used on this than is the custom on other crops and because the loss in quantity and quality through unwise manuring is so great in this crop.

My largest crops of fruit have always come from the most liberal use of fertilizer when rightly proportioned. My largest crops of disappointments have grown where the largest quantity of illy balanced fertilizer was used.

My experience is that a perfectly balanced berry fruit fertilizer should contain at least two and one-half times as much potash and twice as much phosphoric acid as it contains ammonia.

My plan in planting strawberries, dewberries, blackberries, raspberries, etc., is to apply cottonseed meal in the drills before the plants are set at the rate of 600 to 800 pounds to the acre. This is sown in the drills and mixed with the soil and listed on just before the plants are set in winter or spring. After that no more nitrogen is used in any form until after the crop is gathered the following year.

I depend upon plenty of potash and phosphoric acid to make the fruit. Nor have I ever failed in my whole experience to make a good crop except one year when hail destroyed about one-half. I apply potash in the form of sulphate of potash, which is decidedly the best form for all kinds of fruit, using about 100 pounds per acre, usually mixed with 300 pounds of acid phosphate or dissolved bone. This mixture I sow broadcast over the plants during late fall and winter. It will undoubtedly pay to use a somewhat large quantity of both of these fertilizers either broadcast before the plants are set or else by chopping in around and between the plants during the summer or early fall. Potash and phosphoric acid, as they are much less liable to be washed out and lost than ammonia is, can therefore be more liberally used without loss, as most of the fertility of this kind remains in the soil until taken up by the plants.

I will add that the largest yield of strawberries which I ever heard of being made in this State was grown by myself under the system of fertilizing above described.

O. W. BLACKNALL.

Kittrell, N. C.

Subsoiling.

A few years ago we saw some red clay land, containing little humus, sub-soiled eight to ten inches. The work was done with an excellent two-horse subsoiler drawn by two mules. That work was thrown away. Heavy spring rains solidified the clay. The zeal of the farmer doing the work was not according to knowledge. He knows better now. He will not repeat his error. But he is fully convinced of the great value of subsoiling our clay lands. If he can break one or two inches of clay with one mule drawing a diamond point tongue plow that is all he wants on land with a light top soil. Following that with small grain and peas he incorporates humus into the soil and is ready then to break up two inches more of the clay. Thus by degrees in three years he will secure a ten-inch soil well charged with humus and capable of resisting heavy rains, or long droughts. Land should never be subsoiled when the clay is wet and sticky. We saw a field prepared for wheat this fall. In places the soil was shallow. A two-horse turn-plow was used. The wet clay was brought to the top, where it remains in clod, and it will be there next spring. Break only so much of the hardpan or clay as can be incorporated with the top soil. This work should be done before the first of March. Any subsoiling that leaves the broken clay in a mass is worthless, as the first heavy rain will cause it to become soil again.—Progressive Farmer.

Value of Cotton-Seed Meal.

A pound of cotton-seed meal is worth a pound and three-quarters of corn for feeding cattle, but when cotton-seed meal is fed and the manure saved with reasonable care, three-fourths of its fertilizer value may be regained in the droppings. Can we continue to waste three-fourths of the value of our cotton-seed meal because we have not learned, and apparently do not want to learn, to raise and care for live stock? At present the price of cotton-seed meal is based on its fertilizer value alone, but as its food value becomes better appreciated, the price will be determined by its combined fertilizer and feeding values. During the last ten years the price of meal has risen from $15 to $25 per ton, and I predict that during the next ten years it will advance to $35, because it is worth that amount in comparison with the usual price of other food stuffs. Can we afford to continue to use it as fertilizer alone, at that price, and ignore and waste its feeding value?

We certainly need live stock to consume this cotton-seed meal, for only by feeding it can we obtain its full value. The same principles are involved when we consider the disposition that should be made of leguminous forage crops. It is universally admitted that it pays to grow cowpeas as a means of soil improvement, for, even when the crop is cut for hay, there is still left to the soil, in the roots and stubble, from $2.50 to $3 worth of nitrogen for every ton of hay produced. But when this crop is grown, what shall we do with it? Every ton of this cowpea hay is worth at least $10 for fertilizer, at the price we pay for plant food in commercial fertilizer.—Progressive Farmer.

Subsoiling With One Horse.

A farmer came to us a few days ago saying that you are always telling us to break the hard pan and subsoil our land. You are no doubt correct, but what is a poor man with only one horse to do? This is our advice to him and all such farmers: Take pea stubble that is intended for cotton next year. The leaves and remnants of vines are now on the ground. They should be saved. Use a six-inch shovel and lay off the rows cotton width as early as possible. When this is done, take a tongue or diamond point plow and run in the same furrow. That will break the hard pan. Then do the same thing for the middle, leaving the freezes to pulverize the soil. If land is intended for corn, make the rows proper width and run the furrows in the middle. That requires a little time, but it will pay any farmer cultivating lands. Another plan for one-horse farmers is to swap labor. Buy two-horse-plows and harrows in common and take it time about using them. They will soon be able to buy another horse. Two farmers could thus unite.—Charles Petty, in Progressive Farmer.

Millet Seed Poultry Food.

The following is from the Farm and Fireside: The commercial millet seed is about as cheap as wheat, and it is possible that in the future it will become a special food for all kinds of poultry. Millet seed contains more oil than corn, but less starch, and is also more nitrogenous. The advantage in its use is that as the seeds are very small each hen is compelled to eat slowly, and must also perform considerable work before she can secure a full meal. Such method of feeding the fowls brings them nearer the natural conditions required, as a portion of the food will be digested slowly and entirely before all the food is eaten. A quart of millet seed scattered in litter—such as cut straw, leaves or earth—in the morning should amply supply fifteen hens until night, when a full meal of grain and other foods may be given for the finish of the day. Hens so kept will give better results than if fed twice a day or oftener.

HOUSEHOLD MATTERS

Cheese Rounds.

Cut stale bread into rounds, butter and set in the oven to brown slightly, then spread with finely grated cheese, dust with salt and pepper and set in a hot oven until the cheese is melted.

Cabbage Salad.

Cut off the outer leaves from a firm head of cabbage and soak it in slightly salted water for an hour. Cut out the stalk and then shave very fine. Mix with a boiled salad dressing and pile in a mound on a plate. Mask or cover with a little of the dressing, and garnish the edge with some long shreds or straws of the cabbage without dressing.

Boiled Dressing.

Cream a rounding tablespoon of butter; heat two tablespoons of vinegar with the same of hot water. Put a saltspoon of salt, a few dashes of pepper and the yolks of two eggs together; beat slightly, add the vinegar and water, and when cooked thick add the butter and stir. When hot add a half-cup of thick beaten cream. This makes enough to serve two people.

Salsify Fritters.

Wash and scrape the salsify and drop into cold water as fast as scraped, for this vegetable turns dark on exposure to the air. Cook in plenty of boiling salted water until nearly tender, but not soft. Grate, season with salt and pepper, a rounding tablespoon each of flour and butter and two beaten egg yolks to two cups of salsify. Drop in spoonfuls into hot deep fat and cook until brown.

Fruit Ice Cream.

Soak a slightly rounding tablespoon of gelatine in one-half cup of cold milk, strain into two cups of rich milk or one cup of milk and one cup of thin cream. Dissolve seven-eighths cup of sugar in one tablespoon of hot water, and when hot and melted add to the first mixture. Now add two cups of beaten cream, two teaspoons of vanilla and freeze partially. Stir in one cup of cut preserved or candied fruit and finish freezing. Drain off the water, repack and let stand three hours. More fruit may be used.

Tripe a la Lyonnaise.

Italians are extremely fond of tripe and prepare it in a variety of appetizing ways. It is most digestible and is usually served with Parmesan cheese. Wash in cold water two pounds of the honeycomb tripe and put it in a saucepan with two quarts of boiling salted water. Simmer gently for ten minutes, drain and dry with a clean cloth. Cut into long, fine strips about an inch in length. Put in a saucepan three tablespoonfuls of olive oil, and when hot add two tablespoonfuls white onions cut in thin slices, and cook until a golden color. Add the tripe, cook slowly for fifteen minutes, season with salt, pepper, a dash of cayenne, a tablespoonful of parsley and a tablespoonful of tomato conserve. Serve with grated cheese. Both the cheese and the conserve can be purchased in any Italian store much more reasonably than can be procured elsewhere. The conserve comes in little tin cans, five cents a can, and lasts indefinitely, since a spoonful is quite sufficient for seasoning.

New Suggestions.

A cloth-covered broom will wipe the dust from papered walls and ceilings.

A little powdered borax will make washing look extra glossy when ironed, if thrown into the starch.

A scraping of raw potato, laid upon a soft cloth and bound over sore eyes, will cure them.

A coarse brown wrapping paper soaked in vinegar and placed on the forehead and eyes is good for sick headache.

Powdered borax strewn over places frequented by ants, cockroaches and other vermin will drive these pests away.

One teaspoonful of pure, sweet oil, taken three times a day, after meals, will cure the worst case of dyspepsia.

Hot lemonade is one of the best remedies for a bad cold.

Crushed cubeb berries, smoked in a clay pipe, will cure catarrh.

A preparation of fat oil varnish and rectified spirits of turpentine, if applied to iron, steel and other metal articles will prevent them from rusting.

The dullest scissors can be sharpened if you try to cut, as it were, a coarse sewing needle with them.

A layer of sugar over preserves, jellies, etc., will prevent them from gathering mould.

A pinch of salt will improve the flavor of apple sauce.

Slices of bread toasted in the oven until a golden brown are far more wholesome than those toasted in a toaster before an open fire.

A teaspoonful of burnt sugar will give an amber color to soups made from white meats.

A diet of tomatoes will ward off a bilious attack.

It is true economy to begin the dinner with soup of some kind.

It is a Reform.

The Crumpacker proposition, properly applied, would give us constitutional representation. That would break up the oligarchy which at present controls the South, and that in turn would bring the South into touch with the order of things which works so well elsewhere. And in that day Mr. Crumpacker would be welcomed in the South as a friend of that section.—Washington Star.

MORE QUIET IN EAST

The Russians are Successful in an Attack With the Japanese. Small Loss.

SEVERAL SMALL SKIRMISHES.

Reports from General Kuropatkin Show That Both Sides are Preparing to Get Busy.

St. Petersburg—According to General Kuropatkin's latest reports, which indicate the wounding of a third general, Domdoski, the operations at Sandiapu and the fighting at Shakhe have been momentarily suspended. The Russians successfully repulsed the last attack of the Japanese eastward with heavy loss. The cold is still intense, there being 24 degrees of frost. There are indications that the Japanese are preparing to break the inactivity on their own account as soon as the weather moderates.

The war office is closed and no further facts regarding the reports that General Kuropatkin is about to give up his command can be obtained.

General Kuropatkin Reports.

St. Petersburg—General Kuropatkin, in a report to Emperor Nicholas says:

"No fighting was reported on February 4th. At present activity is confined to operations by our volunteers which harass the enemy. There is artillery firing on both sides, and a hasty strengthening of positions by both the Russians and Japanese."

General Kuropatkin on Friday reported the repulse of the Japanese advance guard on the left flank toward Saosyr and Chansan, with slight losses, the Japanese leaving 50 dead on the field.

Number of Skirmishes.

Tokio—There were a number of serious skirmishes along the Shakhe and Hun rivers Friday and Saturday. The Russians shelled portions of Japanese lines Friday night and small bodies of Russians attacked Waittao and Titi mountains, and places in those vicinities. Reports received from Japanese Manchurian headquarters say that the attacks were repulsed.

Friday afternoon Russian batteries stationed at Liuchientun and Wanpao mountain, north of the Shakhe river, and at other places shelled the Japanese positions. Saturday morning 600 cavalry, comprising one force, and two companies of infantry and one battery of another, simultaneously attacked Chitaitse, on the right bank of the Hun river. The Russians appeared to have reserves. The Japanese garrison at Chituitse was defending the place when the report of the attack was forwarded.

Three hundred Russian cavalry with two guns occupied Songchin on Piaksin bay, northeastern Korea, January 24th, but abandoned the town January 28th and retired northward.

Russians Hold Japs.

Mukden—During the night of February 1st the Japanese artillery facing the Russian right opened a terrific fire on the Russian positions southeast of Sandiapu, in preparation for an outbreak. The Russian artillery replied and the cannonading lasted until after noon.

During the night of February 2 the Japanese attacked the village of Schantan and adjoining Russian positions, but by daylight of February 3 they had been defeated along the entire front. The Russians even advanced slightly. The Russian losses were about 300 and those of the Japanese were heavy.

Japanese prisoners believe that an important movement is pending.

Tachimi Bore Brunt.

London—According to the Tokio correspondent, Lieutenant General Tachimi, in command of the Eighth Japanese division, bore the brunt of the fighting in the battle of Holkoutai. He was constantly opposed by superior forces, but continued fighting till the last, with a total loss of 162 officers and 5,500 men killed or wounded.

General Matsumara Dies.

London—General Matsumara has died at the front from congestion of the brain. He commanded the operations at 203 Meter Hill, and was decorated and promoted for heroism.

Will Repair Furnace.

Gadsden, Ala.—The work of making the necessary repairs on the old charcoal furnace will be commenced in a few days and will be pushed as rapidly as possible, as the new owners are anxious to get it into commission. The stack will be rebuilt and other improvements made.

Several Buildings Destroyed By Fire.

Athens, Ala.—Athens had a severe fire last night, which did a considerable amount of damage. The fire originated in the Haggard building, and spread rapidly, destroying several buildings. The loss is unknown.

Belgian Miners Strike.

Mons, Belgium.—About 14,000 coal ore struck for higher wages. The national congress of miners will meet shortly to discuss a general strike.

Shooting Over Domestic Affairs.

Memphis, Tenn.—A special from Dresden says: R. B. Atkins, a prominent farmer residing in the twenty-fifth district of this county, and his wife and her sister, Miss Mary Nanny, are in jail here charged with assault on T. D. Atkins, son of the first named, who lies at death's door from two shotgun wounds, inflicted at the hands of his father. They were arrested on warrants sworn out by the son after the shooting occurred.

Domestic affairs caused the shooting.

Two Men Killed.

Dennison, O.—Two men were killed and one seriously injured in a wreck on the Baltimore and Ohio near here. The dead are:

J. Henry Muelhoffer, of New Philadelphia.

James Lambright, of Roanoke.

Injured: James Marshall, of Uhrichsville.

The men were "pinching up" a car on a siding when a freight train left the track and crashed into the car the men were working on. A broken rail was the cause.

Einstein Locked Up.

Chicago, Ill.—Abbot Lewis Einstein, husband of Dorothy Russell, daughter of Lillian Russell, was locked in a cell at the Harrison street police station. His wife several days ago instituted proceedings against him for divorce.

Saturday night Mrs. Einstein and her husband met on the street and he threatened to kill her, it is said. Mrs. Einstein went to the police station and reported the alleged threats. She charges Einstein with threats to kill her.

Hobson Denied the Pulpit.

Kansas City, Mo.—During the absence of the pastor of an Iola, Kans., church, a committee of the church arranged to have Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson fill the pulpit.

The minister returned and promptly vetoed the plan, refusing to give way to Hobson. His usual services will be conducted in the church, and the nearest Captain Hobson can get to the pulpit will be a front pew.

Huntsville Mill Will Start.

Huntsville, Ala.—The West Huntsville cotton mill will resume operations at an early date after an idleness of nearly two years. The mill is the property of Tracey W. Pratt, one of the organizers of the Southern Textile Company, and was closed down a short time after the trust began business. All of the former operatives of the mill are now employed in other factories about the city and new hands will have to be imported from other mill towns.

Child Scalded to Death.

Florence, Ala.—A most peculiar and a horrible accident occurred at the home of Mrs. McClanahan, in East Florence, which resulted in the death of her 14-months-old grandchild. The child and its mother, Mrs. George Ramsey, were visiting her mother, while the father was in Texas. The little fellow was playing at some distance from the stove, on which a pot of potatoes was boiling. One side of the stove was propped up on a wooden peg that became misplaced, tipping the pot over. The entire contents were precipitated on the child. It lived but a few hours, dying in great agony. Mr. Ramsey was telegraphed for and is now hastening home to attend the funeral of his baby.

Want Gorky Released from Prison.

Paris.—The imprisonment at St. Petersburg of Maxim Gorky, as a result of the part which he took in the reform movement in Russia, creates an impression in French literary circles, which are signing a petition for his release. Among the signatories are Mm. Rodin, Anatole France, Juares, Charpentier, Clartie, Marcel Prevost, Ludovic Halevy and Claude Monet.

Nine Injured in Collision.

Plattsburg, N. Y.—Nine persons were injured, some of them seriously, in a head-on collision between a passenger train and a freight train on the Delaware and Hudson railroad Saturday. The collision was caused by the crew of the freight train leaving a switch open. The injured were from small towns in the northern part of the state.

Must Remain Single One Year.

Austin, Tex.—The lower house of the state legislature passed the senate bill forcing persons giving ground for action in divorce cases to remain single for three years, the other party to the divorce to remain single one year. This action of the legislature is the culmination of the crusade which has been waged against divorce throughout the state for some time past.

Ruston, La.—Fire Friday destroyed nine buildings and contents, including the Lincoln hotel. Loss estimated at $40,000, with insurance of $25,250.

Montgomery, Ala.—Governor Cunningham has authorized the advertisement for bids on approximately $4,500,000 of the state's bonds. The advertisements go into the newspapers now and bidders are allowed until April 4 to put in their bids. By this means the state's bonded indebtedness will be refunded. The governor recently made a trip to New York for the specific purpose of looking into this matter and the advertisement for bids comes as the result.

SHOOTING NEAR MOBILE.

Mobile, Ala.—Sunday night William Page, who was riding with two other men in a buggy near Wilmer, twenty-five miles from Mobile, was shot and instantly killed by a man believed to be named Taggart, and employed by a Chicago portrait concern, who was riding on the same road, as a result of the three men guying him.

The slayer stopped his buggy to ask which of the men had passed an offensive remark, and a pistol duel with Page followed, in which the latter was killed, but his shots did not strike his assailant.

The man supposed to be Taggart drove rapidly toward Mobile and officers were sent to intercept him, but so far he is believed to have changed his course and gone north through Mississippi.

Union and Union Miners Sued.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—Twenty-one suits amounting to $147,000 were filed in the county court here late Saturday afternoon. Each of the suits was $7,000. They were filed by the non-union miners at Brookwood, 16 miles north of Tuscaloosa, against the United Mine Workers of America in district No. 20; also the local organization, No. 656, and W. R. Fairly, Ed Flynn, J. L. Clemo, Dan Painter, Lindsay Parrott, Done Davis, Ott Davis, Green Walker, Luther Walker, John Brown, John Quarles, Shelton Quarles and John Wallace.

The Allegations.

The plaintiffs claim that during the month of October last the local organization held several mass meetings, the result of which was a demand upon the Alabama Consolidated Coal and Iron Company to dismiss from their mines all non-union workers and that if they should fail to grant their request a strike would greatly retard their output. They were compelled to act as the union miners demanded. The plaintiffs allege that for this reason on November 10th they were turned out of their homes, and many of them deprived of the bare necessities of life.

Wreck on Branch Road.

Anniston, Ala.—On the Eastern railway, a branch of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, extending from Stockdale to Pyriton, there was a wreck Sunday. It is a mixed train that is operated on this line and the trucks under two freight cars just in front of the passenger coaches were demolished.

The wreck occurred about six miles from Stockdale and on the edge of a trestle that is thirty-nine feet high. No one was hurt. The passengers were carried to Stockdale on the engine.

The wreck is being cleared and trains will be put in operation again some time today.

Wreck on Southern.

Selma, Ala.—Passenger train No. 21, on the Southern, due to reach Selma at 3:45 a. m., was derailed at Jones' switch, seventeen miles north of here. The tender of the engine left the track, carrying with it a combination car and first-class coach. Passengers were transferred, reaching here about noon.

The wreck was a disastrous one, but no injuries are reported to any one.

Will Extend Lines.

Florence, Ala.—The Sheffield Street Railway company is planning to extend its line in this city by laying tracks on Tennessee street from Court street to the old line, five blocks east. Large quantities of freight being handled by the line and the track on Tennessee street will be used for this purpose. Tracks will also be laid in the allies in the rear of Tennessee street wholesale houses.

Fire at Anniston.

Anniston, Ala.—Shortly after midnight fire was discovered in the store of the Anniston Dry Goods store and for a short time it seemed that the structure known as the Hot Blast building was doomed to destruction. The early discovery of the fire prevented a conflagration.

If the fire had gained headway one of the best business blocks in Anniston would have been burned.

The damage was confined to the stock of the firm where the fire started and to the Hot Blast office overhead, which is slightly damaged by smoke.

The origin of the fire is unknown.

Boy Accidentally Killed.

Atlanta, Ga.—Arthur Howell Bairdain, a lad of 12 years, was killed by his 15-year-old brother at his home on Capitol avenue Sunday afternoon. The boys were playing with a 32-caliber pistol, the property of their father, when it was accidentally discharged, the bullet passing through the brain of the younger boy. He died after a few hours.

Fire at Fairmont, W. Va.

Fairmont, W. Va.—The main buildings of the university at [illegible] burned Saturday. Loss $50,000.

Stabbed to Death.

Selma, Ala.—James Perkins, porter of the Elks house, was [illegible] and dangerously stabbed by a negro Saturday night near the old hall on [illegible] street. He says there were three in the crowd and that he did not recognize any of them.

THE people of Chilton county are to have an opportunity of voting upon whether they will have a special school tax levied. Petitions to the County Commissioners are being circulated asking for a day to be appointed for the election, and it is to be hoped that our people will follow the example of other enlightened counties and vote in favor of a special tax for the education of their children.

After four days session, replete with interesting developments and much hard work, the greatest gathering of Southern representative men ever assembled adjourned at New Orleans on January 28th. Among those present were not only cotton planters, but bankers, merchants, manufacturers and professional men, whose interests are as great in the profitable production of cotton as those raising it.

The results of this convention or meeting far surpassed the most sanguine expectations of the cotton grower who was watching it with keenest interest. Instead of simply adopting a set of resolutions, advising what the "stay at home" planter should do, they went much farther and agreed upon a plan of permanent organization, whereby each cotton grower in the South would have an opportunity of becoming a member. When this organization is completed, as it will be, the Southern Cotton Association, by which name it will be called, will be the greatest and most powerful organization ever formed.

The South's greatest crop—cotton—has long been neglected along this line and the producer has had no opportunity of dictating prices in any manner, being at the mercy of the spinner and speculator entirely. But with the formation of this great cotton association, he will be able not only to dictate his own price, but will be in position as the growers of other farm products, viz: sugar cane, wheat, tobacco growers and all others, to protect the interest of cotton in every other manner.

Financial aid and assistance can at all times be secured for the handling of the staple, thereby enabling the South to market all during the year its great crop instead of doing so within a few months as has been the case.

Already the Southern Planters Commission & Holding Company has been formed at New Orleans, on account of the sanction received by the Southern Cotton Association. This Company has perfected arrangements whereby financial aid to an unlimited extent will be secured for the purpose of withholding two million bales of the present crop from the market.

To be successful in the undertaking, the co-operation and assistance of the Southern Cotton Association is necessary; consequently, it is to the interest of everyplanter, whether he raises one bale or 5,000, to become a member of the Association.

COTTON GROWERS ASSOCIATION

So much of the plan of the Southern Cotton Association adopted at New Orleans as is necessary was also adopted by the convention at Clanton last week, and is as follows:

"Whereas, all the various industries of the world are under thorough and systematic organization to protect, develop and manage their special interests, and:

"'Whereas, the cotton interests of the Southern States are not organized, and by reason of not being so organized there is no uniform system for regulating production, securing markets financing the products and generally supervising and advancing such interest; therefore, be it

"Resolved: First—That there shall be one supreme organization, known as the Southern Cotton Association, embracing all the cotton-producing States and Territories, to evolve and execute practical and efficient plans with reference to cotton production, cotton supply, cotton marketing and financing, by systematic and carefully adapted organization of all cotton interests and by legislation as experience suggests to effect and enforce the purposes of this organization.

"Second—The purposes of this Association shall be to regulate cotton production, cotton supply and financing, and especially cotton marketing, using every effort to secure broader markets and to limit the production to the demand at remunerative prices, and to reduce to a minimum all expense of handling cotton and its products from the time it leaves the field until it reaches the consumer.

"Third—That there shall be an organization in each cotton growing State and Territory subordinate to the central organization, to be known as the STATE ORGANIZATION.

"Fourth—That there shall be an organization in each county producing cotton of each cotton growing State subordinate to the State or Territorial organization.

"Fifth—That there shall be an organization effected in each of the civil subdivisions of the county subordinate to the county organization, and under regulations of the county organizations.

"Sixth—There shall be a president, a vice president, a secretary and a treasurer of the Southern Cotton Association, and of the organization of each State, Territory and county, who shall hold office for one year and until their successors are elected and qualified.

"Seventh—The duties of each officer shall be prescribed in the constitution and bylaws for each organization as hereinafter provided.

"Eighth—That the cotton producers of each School District of each county shall meet on 11 day of Febuary 1905, organize by election of officers, and, after organizing, shall at once proceed to elect three representatives from the cotton producers of that precinct to the

COUNTY ASSOCIATION

to be held 16th day of February, 1905 at the county seat.

"Each county association shall, on the date to be named, convene at the county seat and organize by the election of its own officers and its representative to the State organization.

"Second—That there shall be held in each school distrit of the county on the 11th day of Februrary, 1905, at 1 o'clock p.m., a meeting of all citizens of said district who are interested in the growing of cotton, which meeting shall elect a committee of three on acreage and membership.

"Third—At said precinct meeting, the farmers and land owners present shall be asked to sign the following agreement:

"We, the undersiged farmers, or land owners in school district No.—, County of Chilton, State of Alabama, hereby pledged ourselves to reduce the acerage planted by us in cotton and to reduce our consumption of fertilizer in growing cotton as shown by the statements set oposite our names.

"Fourth—That said Committee on Acerage and Membership shall immediately canvass said district and ask all farmers and land owners in said district who do not attend said meeting, to sign said pledge and said committee shall return said pledge to the chairmain of said precinct.

"Fifth—Said precinct chairman shall preserve said pledges and they shall immediately make a written report to the county chairman showing the total number of acres planted in cotton in said precinct in 1904 and the total number to be planted in cotton in said precinct in 1905, the total amount of fertilizer used in growing cotton in said precinct and the total amount to be used in said precinct in said years.

AT Hawkinsville, Ga., the farmers of the county met to organize a cotton association, and proved their faith in the value of cotton by raising a fund for the purpose of buying all cotton that may be brought to that market and holding it until the price reaches at least 8 cents. The Atlanta Journal says:

"The most important and far reaching action taken, however, was the formation of a syndicate to control the local cotton and prevent any cotton being shipped from this county so long as the present low prices prevail. In a few minutes $6,000 was subscribed to buy up what is known as distress cotton, that is cotton that is forced on the market by the neediness of the owners This cotton will be bought by the syndicate at an advance over the market price on the day of sale of 1-16 of a cent. The cotton will then be stored, as the syndicate is pledged not to sell any cotton in this manner for less than 8 cents per pound Back of this syndicate stand wealthy planters, warehouse men, merchants and bankers, which makes its success certain."

THE Supreme Court has decided that the new county of Houston was constitutionally formed.

It has been a long time since I have seen anything written from this place, so I will try to write a few words to let the people know that we are not yet dead. The Sunday school at this place is getting along nicely considering the bad weather, but I hope to see it build up more in the future in the grand and glorious work, for it seems that the people have almost forgot Sunday schools and churches and gone after something else. But now let all come back and build up our Suhday school, for I think we will have a better time, dont't you think so. Now let all cheer up and not sit with your head hung down because cotton is at a low price. Let us cheer up and plant more corn and make more meat at home and then we can live at home and board at the same place. I will close with good wishes to the Banner and its many readers,

Mrs. Rufus McCary, knowing our country's need, has most patriotically presented her husband with a fine soldier boy.

We are pleased to state that our old friend R. Garner, has moved to town and is in improved health.

Little George Allen, who had his hip broken by falling from a pile of lumber, has been carried to Selma for treatment.

Mr. Ensign has secured the services of George Lathram, from near Shoults.

We sincerely hope some may be enjoying better weather than we are, it is fearfully disagreeable here

SUBSCRIBER.

Perfect Confidence.

Where there used to be a feeling of uneasiness and worry in the household when a child showed symptoms of croup, there is now perfect confidence. This is owing to the uniform success of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the treatment of that disease Mrs. M. I. Basford, of Poolsville, Md., in speaking of her experience in the use of that remedy says: "I have a world of confidence in Chamberlain's Couph Remedy for I have used it with perfect success. My child, Garland, is subject to severe attacks of croup and it always gives him prompt relief." For sale Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Alabama Sunday School Association.

The twenty-second annual Convention of the Alabama Sunday School Association will be held in the city of Birmingham, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, April 25-27 next. The basis of representation is as follows: All officers of the State Association, five delegates at large from each county, all ministers of the gospel, the superintendent and two other delegates from each Sunday School.

The railroads of the State have granted a rate of one and one-third fare, on the certificate plan, to delegates attending the Convention. The delegates will be entertained by the Sunday school workers of Birmingham.

That Tickling in the Throat.

One minute after taking One Minute Cough Cure that tickling in throat is gone. It acts in the throat—not the stomach. Harmless—good for children. A. L. Spofford, postmaster at Chester, Mich., says: "Our little girl was unconscious from strangulation during a sudden and terrible attack of croup. Three doses of One Minute Cough Cure half an hour apart speedily cured her. I cannot praise One Minute Cough Cure too much for what it has done in our family." It always gives relief. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

When You Have a Cold.

The first action when you have a cold should be to relieve the lungs. This is best accomplished by the free use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This Remedy liquefies the tough mucus and causes its expulsion from the air cells of the lungs, produces a free expectoration, and opens the secretions. A complete cure soon follows. This remedy will cure a severe cold in less time than any other treatment and it leaves the system in a natural and healthy condition. It counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

To "Make No Bones."

The phrase to "make no bones," which is in such common use, may be generally explained as implying that something is done readily and with no such impediment as a bone might be to one who was eating food. It has been explained to be a modification of an older phrase to "find no bones," which seems to have had reference to bones found in soup and hindrances to the consumer. Some folk not only find but make difficulties and hindrances, at which they are content to stick. In Skelton's "Elynour Rummyng," 1529, the lady so readily believed the story that she—

Supped it up at ones (once),
She found therein no bones.

Surely a Bad Pen.

An Alabama statesman was writing with a noisy, spluttering pen. Laying the pen down, he smiled and said:

"Once I was spending the evening with a friend of mine in Selma. We sat in the dining room, and from the kitchen came a painful scratching sound.

"'Martha,' said my friend to the maid, 'what is that scratching in the kitchen? It must be the dog trying to get in.'

"'Huh!' said Martha. 'Dat's no dawg scratchin' de do'. Dat's de cook a-writin' a love letter to her honeysuckle.'"

Croup

Begins with the symptoms of a common cold; there is chilliness, sneezing, sore throat, hot skin, quick pulse, hoarseness and impeded respiration. Give frequent small doses of Ballard's Horehound Syrup, (the child will cry for it) and at the first sign of a croupy cough apply frequently Ballard's Snow Liniment to the throat.

Mrs. A Vliet, New Castle, Colo., writes, March 19, 1902: "I think Ballard's Horehound syrup a wonderful remedy, and so pleasant to take."

DIVERSIFICATION

Is the Keynote in an Address Issued by the Secretary: Wilson.

SOMETHING TO SELL EVERY DAY.

Will Make Farmers Independent of the Cotton Crop.—Place it on the Plane of a Surplus Crop.

The great cotton convention which was held in New Orleans last week has emphasized in no unmistakable terms that the prosperity of the South is dependent upon diversification; that the welfare and happiness of every farmer, every merchant and every banker is to have each farmer practice diversification, so that he may control his cotton instead of being controlled by it; that he must make it a surplus crop and not a sole dependent.

The South is rich in fertile lands and an equitable climate to produce all the great food crops of the world, and with live stock become the most independent and prosperous section. There is no other section of the Union that can produce as great a variety of crops as the South.

The National Cotton Association stands for the reduction of the cotton acreage and the consequent increase in diversification. Our plan is to have a community of interest between the farmer, the merchant, the banker and the local paper, for diversification along such lines as will be to the best interest of each individual community. And in this work the National Cotton Association has the support and indorsement of the farmers, the bankers, merchants, newspapers, spinners and the legitimate handlers of cotton. It also has in this the support of every friend and well-wisher of the farmer and those who are really working for the prosperity and upbuilding of the South.

There should be a community of interest and a close organization between the farmers, and bankers and the editor of each local newspaper of every school district of the south, not only as to cotton, but as to all other crops that can be raised with profit.

What Have We Done?

The National Cotton Association has received reports from the school precinct meetings that more than 400,000 farmers, bankers and merchants are pledged to a reduction of the cotton acreage and adoption of diversification. This work will be kept up through the local committee of each school precinct cotton association until every farmer in the southern states has been pledged to diversification and a reduction of the cotton acreage.

More than 2,000 editors of local papers throughout the South have replied to our personal letters and said that they will carry a department in each issue on "Diversification."

Diversification.

Diversification means, first, that every farmer should set aside a sufficient amount of land to produce all the food and forage he will need for his own consumption.

Second—Then plant a little more of such crops as he can sell for cash each month in the year in his local market, or, together with his neighbors, make up a shipment for the larger market, and in this each one wants the advice of his local banker, merchant and editor.

Third—When those two are provided for, then plant your cotton crop. Make cotton your surplus crop.

With the possible exception of Texas, there is not a southern state that raises enough corn, oats and other grains to supply the home demand, and every year your cotton money goes to swell the wealth of the western grain farmer.

The following shows the production in the various cotton states of corn in 1904:

State.	Bushels.
North Carolina	40,705,478
South Carolina	22,189,837
Georgia	47,234,713

There is no reason why the South should import corn, but there is every reason why we should not only raise enough for our own consumption but make it an article of export. Every southern state is nearer the great export markets of the world than the great Central West, which is now supplying these markets.

Start a campaign in your school precinct association for more corn. There are farmers in every community who always make a success in raising corn; let them tell you how to do it. There is more money in corn at 50 cents a bushels than cotton at 6 cents a pound.

Resolution Adopted by the Southern Bankers at New Orleans.

"Resolved, That we, the southern bankers, heartily indorse the object of said association and promise our hearty co-operation.

"Second, That we believe that the bankers are amply able and willing to finance the holding of the surplus of the present crop, which we propose to do, provided the acreage of cotton for 1905 is reduced not less than 25 per cent. and the fertilizers in like proportion.

"Third, That we urge the necessity of a thorough organization and call on the various interests of the country to assist in keeping this question agitated from now until such time as a perfect organization shall have been affected."

Resolutions adopted at the Interstate Cotton convention, New Orleans, La.:

Reduction of Acreage.

"We, your committee on acreage and fertilizers, do recommend that the acreage to be planted in cotton in 1905 shall be 25 per cent. less than in 1904, and that there shall be a reduction of 25 per cent. in the use of commercial fertilizers in growing cotton."

Financing and Holding the Present Crop.

"Your committee concludes, after last night's exhaustive session and the morning's discussion, that each state and local section seems amply able to finance their present holdings. We believe the cotton now in the hands of the producer should remain at home on the farm or be stored in local warehouses, having same fully protected from the elements and dangers of fire. The banks and commission men evidence their willingness and desire to aid in marketing the balance of the crop, so as to hold in check any disposition to rush in their cotton unduly and break the market.

"We feel if the convention, as a whole, pledges itself and the respective states these delegates represent to an absolute reduction of 25 per cent. in cotton acreage for the year 1905 and 25 per cent. reduction in the use of fertilizers, the entire problem will be solved."

Recognizes New Officers.

Montgomery, Ala.—Attorney General Massey Wilson Friday furnished State Superintendent of Education I. W. Hill with an opinion which advises him to revoke his policy of the past and recognize the new elected county superintendents of education in lieu of the old officers.

To Make Tile Blocks.

Gadsden, Ala.—The Gadsden Tile Company is erecting a building on Locust street, opposite the Printup hotel, which will be used in the manufacture of the tile paving blocks. The building will be completed within the next day or two, when the work of making the blocks will be begun in earnest.

Buy Land to Erect Houses.

Gadsden, Ala.—The Coosa Pipe and Foundry Company has purchased through M. W. Bush, manager, forty acres of land known as the Riverview, lying just north of the Alabama Consolidated furnace. The land was purchased from W. M. Meeks as trustee, and the price paid was $100 per acre. The property will be used for the purpose of erecting 500 tenement houses for the employes of the pipe works. The company has an option on twelve acres adjoining the plant, and it is rumored that another large pipe plant will be erected on this land at some future time.

Large Engine Received.

Anniston, Ala.—General Yardmaster Fred O'Rouke received from the Alexandria shops a mammoth switch engine to be used in the local yards. The engine is as large as some of the largest engines now in use on the Birmingham division of the Southern, and it will assist materially in handling the business at this point. It weighs 117 tons.

Gadsden, Ala.—As the eastbound local freight train of the Southern railway was nearing Heflin Wednesday evening a number of rocks were hurled into the caboose by three parties supposed to be tramps. One of the rocks struck Flagman Charles Holt and inflicted an ugly wound on his face. A man who gave his name as A. O. Davis has been arrested.

Alleged Larceny After Trust.

Birmingham, Ala.—W. R. McArthur was arrested here Friday night charged with larceny after trust, and his father, F. E. McArthur, was arrested in Knoxville on the same charge. They were both connected with a large piano company and are wanted in Atlanta, Macon, Knoxville, Chattanooga and Savannah on charges similar to those preferred here.

Huntsville, Ala.—The Huntsville Savings Bank and Trust Company has absorbed the Farmers' and Merchants' National Bank, and will continue the business under the name of the Huntsville Bank and Trust Company.

Drug Company Fails at Anniston.

Anniston, Ala.—The Live Love Drug Company was thrown into involuntary bankruptcy here Saturday and J. C. Moore was appointed receiver. The Doster-Northington Drug Company, of Birmingham, is the largest creditor. The assets of the firm are said to be about $2,500, and the number of open accounts and the liabilities are placed at $5,000.

PLAN DOWNFALL

Slavs Held an Enthusiastic Meeting in Chicago. Will Enlist Other Cities.

FORM LIBERTY FEDERATION

With Avowed Purpose of Aiding Revolution Declared to Be Impending in Austria Hungary.

Chicago, Ill.—At a stirring meeting Chicago Slavs have organized to aid their countrymen in the revolution which they declare will come in the Austrian empire. Nearly a thousand delegates from Slavic organizations were present and listened to a revolutionary address made by Dr. Ante Tresica-Pavicica, deputy to the Austrian parliament from Dalmati. When he completed his address the preliminary organization known as the "Slav Liberty Federation" was announced. It is the plan to spread the organization to other American cities.

Dr. Tresica-Pavicica made an impassioned address, telling of the financial wrongs he said had been committed and making an appeal to the people present to organize to strike a blow immediately before the ten-year contract between the federated nations could be renewed.

In a summary of the summary he said: "In my opinion Hungary came to the end of its aspirations in the election last week. The extremists in the country do not recognize this and believe they can secure more concessions from the federation. If they should demand more it means the dissolution of the empire. The dissolution of Austria-Hungary means the downfall of the imperialistic policies of Hungary. While this imperialism is founded upon the support of the dynasty and army, the Magyars, the Hungars will lose the support of the army and of the dynasty if they clamor for more than has been granted to them. In that case all nationalities will revolt. No country in these days will aid the oppressor, Hungary.

"For these reason I am glad that the opposition in Hungary was victorious at the polls, for every such victory hastens the dissolution of the Austro-Hungarian empire."

Electric Railway Planned.

Nashville, Tenn.—Application for the charter of the Nashville and Huntsville railway has been made at the court house. This line is to be the middle section of vast rapid transit railway to be run eventually from Memphis through Nashville, Birmingham and Montgomery to Pensacola, Fla. The capital stock of the company asking for a charter is just $50,000 but it is said the road will cost millions and that capitalists worth many millions are back of the big enterprise.

In Alabama the line runs from Huntsville to Birmingham; from Birmingham to Montgomery; from Montgomery to Pensacola by way of Haynesville. A branch runs west from Haynesville to Camden, Ala., across the Alabama river at Camden and continues west to Pine Hill, Ala., effecting a juncture with the Mobile and Ohio railroad.

From Nashville to Huntsville the line will be 107 miles long and 315 miles from Huntsville to Pensacola.

New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and St. Louis capitalists are back of the enterprise.

Cut Off By the Storm.

Atlanta, Ga.—Atlanta is suffering from the worst sleet storm for years and for many hours there has been no communication by telegraph or the telephone with the outside world. This condition was remedied about noon, when one wire to Washington was secured. Sleet and rain which fell Sunday and until an early hour Monday, crippled the street car system and excepting in the center of the city, there has been no electric light since Saturday. To prevent injury to life and property the current was ordered cut off the street system early last evening, and not a car has moved since 5 o'clock last night.

The weather is warmer and the ice is falling from wires and shade trees. The loss to wires has been enormous and days will be required to put them in use. The telegraph companies give some hope of reaching southern points by night.

Natchez, Miss.—Charles Houck, a houseboatman, has been murdered and the widow of Houck's former partner badly beaten and left for dead by three negroes at Sicily Island, on the Louisiana shore of the Mississippi river. Houck's trading boat and fishing camp were plundered. The negroes escaped, and still are at large.

Posse Out Chasing Murderer.

Plainfield, N. J.—This vicinity is being hunted over by a posse in an attempt to find the murderer of George Williams, a young man in the village of Watchung, who was found dead in his sleigh on the road Tuesday. Williams had started out to drive a well-dressed stranger to Warrenville and that was the last seen of him until he was found dead. The stranger has disappeared and no motive for the crime can be learned.

General Shooting Scrape.

Abbeville, Ga.—One person was killed and five wounded as the result of a dispute over a land line near Rhine, five miles west of this place, Tuesday evening. The dead:

W. P. Livingston, bailiff.

Wounded—M. A. Burham, W. B. Bryant, W. T. Bryant, Tom Coffee and Mrs. Georgia Ray.

Livingston and one of the Bryants, it is reported, attacked and seriously beat a son of M. A. Burham last Friday. Burham met Bryant the next day and thrashed him. When the aggrieved men and their relatives met, prepared for trouble, the shooting began. Mrs. Ray, a sister of the Bryants, rushed to the scene and was wounded by a stray bullet. There is no information as to the nature of the wounds received by those who were not killed, but it is reported further trouble is expected.

Wanted Investigation Made.

Montgomery, Ala.—A petition, signed by some of the most prominent citizens of Walker county, asking that one of the state examiners be sent to Jasper to examine the books of County Treasurer E. W. Miller, has reached Acting Governor Cunningham.

The cause of this petition is the mysterious burning of the cash book of Treasurer Miller last Thursday. The charred leaves of the cash book, according to reports which reached Montgomery Saturday, were found in or near the grate of R. L. Little's drug store at Jasper close to the table on which ex-Circuit Clerk Little and Craig Palmer of Jasper had been working on it a few hours previously.

Two Young Highwaymen.

Birmingham, Ala.—Two white boys said to be about 22 years of age, armed themselves with pistols Sunday night and took upon themselves the role of highwaymen. Arthur Wilson, an unassuming colored boy, was their first victim. The young negro was met at the corner of Fifth avenue and Eighteenth street. At the point of the gun the negro very calmly allowed himself to be "fleeced" of all he had which consisted of $3.50 in cash, a week's earnings, also a $1 watch, four cigars and a silk handkerchief.

On the corner of Nineteenth street and Seventh avenue at 8:30 o'clock Mr. Brazeal was held up by the youngsters right in front of his home. The highwaymen demanded that he "unload." They relieved Mr. Brazeal of a solid gold watch and $2 in cash.

The police department has been notified of the hold-ups and also a description of the boys furnished.

Firemen Froze to Ladders.

Montreal, Quobec.—Fire on St. Lawrence street destroyed the telephone exchange and two other buildings. The loss is over $100,000. The fire, which is the most picturesque in years, presented many sensational features. Firemen froze to the ladders and had to be chopped away. Others had cheeks and ears frozen. The temperature was 10 below zero.

Revolutionists Ready to Quit.

Buenos Ayres.—Colonel Calaza has started for Cordoba with the government troops. It is stated that Colonel Delacruz, commanding the artillery there, has been killed and that the leaders of the insurrection at Cordiaz have offered to submit only on the condition that their lives be spared.

President Quintana has replied, however, that their surrender must be unconditional and that the courts will decide the fates of the revolutionists.

The transport Santa Cruze has sailed for the outer harbor with political prisoners.

Scalded to Death.

Florence, Ala.—A peculiar accident occurred at Mrs. McClanahan's in East Florence which resulted in the death of her 14-months old grandchild. The child and its mother, Mrs. George Ramsey, were visiting her mother while the father was in Texas. The little fellow was playing at some distance form the stove on which a pot of potatoes was boiling. One side of the stove was propped up on a wooden peg that became misplaced, tipping the pot over, and the entire contents was precipiated on the child. It lived but a few hours, dying in great agony.

Glass Smashed—Shoes Stolen.

Ensley, Ala.—Sneak thieves smashed a glass in D. B. Bird's show window Saturday night and grabbing several pairs of shoes that were on display succeeded in making their escape.

Child Fatally Burned.

Willford, Ala.—Thursday evening the four-year-old little girl of Mr. R. H. Hubbard was burned to death. It seems that the little girl was left in the house with two smaller children while the mother carried water to her husband. On returning to the house she found the child sitting on the door-steps with all her clothing burned off. She died about 7 o'clock.

Col. Rapier Very Ill.

Mobile, Ala.—Col. John L. Rapier president of the Mobile Register, is very low and his life is despaired of by the attending physician. He will live probably through the night.

Five Drowned.

Cambridge, Md.—Word has reached here that five men have been drowned in Hooper's straits while attempting to reach shore from icebound oyster vessels.

THE PULPIT.

A SCHOLARLY SUNDAY SERMON BY THE REV. HERBERT H. MOTT.

Subject: Can a Man Do as He Likes?

Boston, Mass.—The following sermon was contributed to The Christian Register by the Rev. Herbert H. Mott. It is entitled "Can a Man Do as He Likes?" and the text is: "Choose you this day who you will serve."—Joshua xxiv., 15.

Can a man do as he likes?

Of course not! you say. All sorts of barriers hedge him round. He would like to fly as the birds fly, but the weight of his flesh and bones keeps plodding along the ground. He is born poor or stupid; consequently he can neither buy a steam yacht nor set the Thames on fire, though he would like dearly to do both. The force of public opinion compels him to don a tall silk hat and a frock coat when he would much prefer to go about in a golf cape and a shooting jacket. The force of public law compels him to run his auto at ten miles an hour when he very much wishes to spin along joyously at the rate of thirty. Every man exists under a set of compulsions. He is obliged to submit to many limitations, natural and artificial, and he is compelled, by pushes and pulls and pressures he is unable to resist, to do many things he doesn't want to do.

Nevertheless, in spite of a man's abject slavery in certain directions, is there not some small space, some little area, in which, instead of being a slave, he is actually and truly free? a department of life and conduct in which he can do as he likes?

The old doctrine—the doctrine believed by our fathers, and by nearly the whole of humanity, civilized and uncivilized, in every part of the world, from the beginning of recorded time—was that there is such a department of life and conduct; that in all vital matters, in all matters that have to do with the moral quality of life, a man can do as he likes. Our fathers held that, whenever we stand at a point where two roads diverge, we are able to choose, select, determine, which road to pursue. In such a situation the casting vote remains with us.

Whenever two or more governments, leaders, employers, claim our allegiance, we can "choose whom we will serve." This is true, said our fathers, no matter how severe the pressure. The temptation, urgency, force of circumstances, may be so great as to resemble compulsion. It appears as if we were obliged to take one road rather than the other. This, said our fathers, is appearance only. In reality, whenever two or more alternatives present themselves, whenever two roads open before us, the decision remains with us. It is with us to say yes or no, to lift the latch or not to lift it, to take the left or the right. No matter how great the pressure brought to bear on us, in the last resort we can always choose poverty instead of riches, captivity instead of freedom, suffering instead of ease, and instead of life, rather than yield, if need be, we can always choose death.

This is the old doctrine, and, although it has stood both the test of time and the test of experience, there appears to be, in these days, a widely spread tendency to ignore it. No one denies that circumstances exercise a powerful influence over our lives, but the tendency nowadays is to ascribe everything to circumstances.

It is related that the eminent naturalist, Professor Boulton, placed the eggs of caterpillars in differently colored boxes, and left them there to hatch out, with the remarkable result that the eggs in the blue box hatched out into blue caterpillars, those in the red box into red, and those in the yellow box into yellow caterpillars. They were, you see, the product of their surroundings, they were what the tint of their surroundings made them. And so, it is declared, are you and I; we are what our surroundings and those of our ancestors make us. We are the planes of outside conditions, past and present.

Here is a man who is an enemy of society. He preys upon his kind. His career is divided between debauchery and other crimes. He is the victim, the helpless victim, of outward circumstances, we are told. His mother was a drunkard, his father was a thief. He was reared in the slums. What can you expect? True, he has been to a reform school; true, he has been helped and aided by various philanthropic people whom he has mercilessly deceived. But he, poor fellow! could not help himself. Like Professor Boulton's caterpillars, he took on the tint of his environment. Born in a black box, he turns out black. His surroundings were evil, therefore he is evil.

Or, again, there is the hero who, like Charles Lamb, gives up all, in order to support some one dependent on him, or surrenders life itself in order to save the lives of others. We are told the same story about the hero as about the thief. He is not brave or self-denying of his own accord. He is heroic simply because the conditions in which he was brought up were favorable to heroism, and so heroism grew out of his soul, just as cabbages grow out of the soil when the soil contains the seeds of cabbages.

Goodness and badness, heroism and criminality, it is declared, do not reside in us, but in our surroundings. We are mere passive lumps of clay, on which our surroundings stamp whatever is in them. We are the slaves and victims of the conditions in the midst of which we are. When we fancy we are doing as we like, going our own way, following our own wills, we are, in reality, merely obeying the pressure of circumstance. We are under a rigid law of necessity all the time. Even when we stand where two roads diverge, and think that we ourselves choose to take the left hand or the right hand road, it is not really we ourselves who choose, but a number of circumstances and conditions, working on us and through us.

This doctrine, that we are creatures of circumstance and cannot help what we do, is a misleading one. It tends to self-deception. It makes us imagine ourselves better than we are. When we do wrong, this doctrine offers the temptation to us to say: "It was not my fault. It was the fault of my education and surroundings." And this will lead today, as it has always done in the past, to a general laxity with regard to wrong doing—to a habit of t lightly of the exceeding sinfu sin.

This evil doctrine is the more cult to combat because there is ment of truth in it. We are and swayed by circumstances. and education do exercise a pow influence over us. These thing be taken into consideration. theless, they don't explain every Make what allowance you will f cumstances and education, every transaction we have the word. There is a ward struggle between the rival pulses of duty and self-regard. he climbs again upon the shot-s deck to seek his lost comrade. it is in vain. The next moment killed by a Russian shell, and his c push off, only just in time to themselves.

Why do we regard this man hero? Why was a public funeral in his honor by his countrymen? do we praise him? Because we the brave action was due to him, to no thing and no one else. Bec we feel that he stood where two diverged—the way of duty and the of safety—and that he was maste the situation. He determined w road to take. Going through the hospitals in our large cities one is surprised to find such a large proportion of the patients lying in those snow-white beds women and girls, who are either awaiting or recovering from serious operations.

Why should this be the case? Simply because they have neglected themselves. Ovarian and womb troubles are certainly on the increase among the women of this country—they creep upon them unawares, but every one of those patients in the hospital beds had plenty of warning in that bearing-down feeling, pain at left or right of the womb, nervous exhaustion, pain in the small of the back, leucorrhœa, dizziness, flatulency, displacements of the womb or irregularities. All of these symptoms are indications of an unhealthy condition of the ovaries or womb, and if not heeded the penalty has to be paid by a dangerous operation. When these symptoms manifest themselves, do not drag along until you are obliged to go to the hospital and submit to an operation—but remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved thousands of women from surgical operations.

When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhœa, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, bloating (or flatulency), general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy.

The following letters cannot fail to bring hope to despairing women.

Mrs. Fred Seydel, 412 N. 54th Street, West Philadelphia, Pa., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I was in a very serious condition when I wrote to you for advice. I had a serious womb and ovarian trouble and I could not carry a child to maturity, and was advised that an operation was my only hope of recovery. I could not bear to think of going to the hospital, so wrote you for advice. I did as you instructed me and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; and I am not only a well woman to-day, but have a beautiful baby girl six months old. I advise all sick and suffering women to write you for advice, as you have done so much for me."

Miss Ruby Mushrush, of East Chicago, Ind., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I have been a great sufferer with irregular menstruation and ovarian trouble, and about three months ago the doctor, after using the X-Ray on me, said I had an abcess on the ovaries and would have to have an operation. My mother wanted me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a last resort, and it not only saved me from an operation but made me entirely well."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles. Refuse to buy any other medicine, for you need the best.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice and medicine have restored thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

MANSON MEETS THE ENEMY.

What He Said When He Saw His Torturer Face to Face.

"It is unbearable!" declared Mr. Manson. Then he threw down his paper and remarked to Mrs. Manson that she must be devoid of nerves. "If you think for one minute," she replied, "that I enjoy being tortured all day long and most of the evening by that dreadful tooting, you're entirely mistaken, Archibald." The Chicago News gives some further account of Manson's experiences.

"Somebody ought to stop it," Manson said, gruffly.

"So you have said before," Mrs. Manson remarked, sweetly.

The perpetual, maddening, amateurish playing of a peculiarly shrill fife was destroying domestic harmony not only in the Manson flat, but in every house in the block. It began early in the morning. The scales were an accompaniment to the breakfast coffee, from which the men of a dozen families fled, leaving their wives to be tormented by a repertoire that wavered through "Suwanee River" to "Yankee Doodle."

Nobody was quite sure from which house the fife shrilled forth, but by calling in the aid of distracted servants and comparing notes, the neighborhood finally settled down on the Grahams' as the fatal spot.

"They have a ten-year-old nephew living with them now," a feminine detective triumphantly announced. "He must do it."

"Chloroform him," promptly said all the husbands, especially Manson.

The fife was most annoying on hot days. On a certain broiling Saturday afternoon Manson's nerves gave way.

"Any human being," he said, "who will deliberately torture, or allow any one to torture, the rest of the world with such outrageous, ear-splitting racket ought to be driven off the street. I can't see why some of you women don't complain about it to Mrs. Graham. You could lead up to it, gracefully, you know."

"Has it ever occurred to you," asked his wife, crisply, "that some of you men might speak to Mr. Graham? I don't even know his wife by sight. If I did I might be tempted to say something."

"Maybe the boy will swallow the fife," suggested Manson, hopefully. "Possibly both Graham and his wife are deaf, and that's the reason they don't mind it themselves. People with as little consideration for other folks' feelings ought to have a few good plain truths hammered into them. If I ever get a chance I'll do it. You watch!"

Then there came an evening when Manson was met on his return by an excited wife.

"What do you think!" she cried. "Mrs. Graham called today, and she is the dearest old lady you ever saw. She spoke so sweetly of her nephew, Bob, and said he was such a comfort to them! His parents are dead. She said he just loved music—"

"Music!" snorted Manson.

"Just loved music," went on Mrs. Manson, hastily, "and nearly broke his heart till they got him the fife. She—she wanted to know—she said she hoped it didn't annoy us."

Manson breathed hard.

"Wh—what did you say?" he asked, feverishly. "You told her?"

"I just couldn't, Archibald," Mrs. Manson confessed. "She was so placid, and had such a sweet way—and—"

"You had the chance and let it go by," said Manson, with cold dignity.

It was three nights later—72 hours, 36 of which had been enlivened by the shrilling of the fife—that Mr. and Mrs. Graham and the demon Bob himself passed by and stopped on the Mansons' door-step. Manson looked at Bob curiously. He was a singularly prepossessing child. There was a fascination in merely gazing at him. He approached Manson confidently, and his dark eyes were very winning.

"Do you like music?" he asked. "I do. I have a fife, and I practise lots. Maybe you've heard me. Don't you think it's pretty?"

Mrs. Manson gripped her chair arms and waited for the worst.

There was a silence, during which Manson gazed into the eager, appealing face of the author of his daily torture. His duty was plain, but he had not counted on the boy's eyes. At last he spoke.

"Yes, indeed, it's great!" he said.

Campaigning in Missouri.

Senator Cockrell and Joseph W. Folk of Missouri were to make campaign addresses in the same town on the same day. They left St. Louis together, and until a late hour chatted in the smoking compartment. When they finally decided to retire Mr. Folk noticed the senator remove his shoes and then carefully place them under the covers at the foot of his berth. He could not restrain his curiosity.

"Why do you place your shoes in bed with you?" he asked quizzically.

"Sh-h-h! Not a word!" said the senator. "I am to address a peculiar class of my constituents tomorrow. They are gentlemen from the tall timber. Now, do you understand?"

"I must confess that I do not," replied Mr. Folk.

"Well," said the senator, "if I left those shoes out the porter would polish them, would he not?"

"Most assuredly he would," said Mr. Folk.

"Well, down in this part of the country the people don't stand for statesmen with polished shoes."—Sunday Magazine.

BISHOP OWES HEALTH AND LIFE TO PE-RU-NA.

Ministers of All Denominations Join in Recommending Pe-ru-na to the People.

Public speaking especially exposes the throat and bronchial tubes to catarrhal affections.

Breathing the air of crowded assemblies, and the necessary exposure to night air which many preachers must face, makes catarrh especially prevalent among their class.

Peruna has become justly popular among them.

BISHOP L. H. HALSEY.

The Friends of Pe-ru-na.

Despite the prejudices of the medical profession against proprietary medicines, the clergy have always maintained a strong confidence and friendship for Peruna.

They have discovered by personal experience that Peruna does all that is claimed for it.

The Bishop's Strong Tribute to Pe-ru-na.

L. H. Halsey, Bishop C. M. E. Church, Atlanta, Ga., writes:

"I have found Peruna to be a great remedy for catarrh. I have suffered with this terrible disease for more than twenty years, until since I have been using Peruna, which has relieved me of the trouble.

"I have tried many remedies and spent a great deal of hard-earned money for them, but I found nothing so effectual in the cure of catarrh as the great medicine, Peruna.

"I feel sure that Peruna is not only a triumph of medical science, but it is also a blessing to suffering humanity.

"Every individual who suffers with respiratory diseases will find Peruna a magnificent and sovereign remedy."—L. H. Halsey, Bp. C. M. E. Church.

Peruna is the most prompt and sure remedy for catarrh that can be taken. Many a preacher has been able to meet his engagements only because he keeps on hand a bottle of Peruna, ready to meet any emergency that may arise.

We have on file many letters of recommendation like the one given above. We can give our readers only a slight glimpse of the vast number of grateful letters Dr. Hartman is constantly receiving, in praise of his famous catarrh remedy, Peruna.

Could Not Agree.

It was at one time arranged that Dante Gabriel Rossetti, his brother William and Swinburne and George Meredith should live together in a certain house. Meredith happened to see Dante Gabriel Rossetti at breakfast and changed his plans. Meredith himself tells the story: "It was past noon," he says. "Rossetti had not yet risen, though it was an exquisite day. On the breakfast table on a huge dish rested five thick slabs of bacon, upon which five rigid eggs had slowly bled to death. Presently Rossetti appeared in his dressing gown, with slippers down at heel and devoured the dainty repast like an ogre." That meal was too much for Meredith—and he sacrificed three months rent rather than see it repeated."

GOOD LUCK Baking Powder

make it the most widely chosen of all leavening agents. During this year 16,145,114 pounds have been sold (many orders coming in for car-load shipments), which is the largest business for a single factory in the world. This is only the inevitable result of the original Good Luck plan—to furnish the best baking powder in the world at the lowest price—10 cents a pound. Good Luck is the best because it is purest, because it produces the lightest, whitest, sweetest of baking. These results are due to its unequaled leavening force, to the fact that it contains no adulteration whatever. It is the most economical because it takes less to do the work than any other baking powder. If your dealer doesn't sell Good Luck let us know, and we'll see that you are supplied at once.

PUTNAM FADELESS DYES

Rushton

I will write a few items from this place, the mill of W. W. Wadsworth ... It is on the bank of the [illegible] river. They have a fine saw and planing mill, and a well equipped commissary store, and sell at satisfactory prices. They have neat cottages for their laborer's families to live in and a nice church and school house and a stove; the room can be kept warm the coldest day that comes, which should be highly appreciated by the mill crew and community. It speaks volumes for Mr. Wadsworth; it shows that he is not only in it for dollars and cents, but it shows that he has the humblest citizen at heart. He is now building them gardens so every family can have all kinds of vegetables, in fact he is doing all he can to make them happy and contented. The health of the town and community is as good as any in the country. Farmers are a little blue in regard to the low price of cotton. I don't think they will plant as much guano and cotton seed this spring as usual, past experience teaches them better. Hurrah for Rushton and the Banner. Yours till the river freezes over.

Crosses on Beer Barrels.

Beer barrels are invariably marked with a series of crosses, which nowadays denote the quality of the beer contained in the cask. These crosses were originally put on by the monks, who then made all the malt liquors, as a sort of trademark. The crosses were not of the same shape as now shown, but were more akin to the shape of a crucifix and were intended to show that by "their oath sworn on the cross" the beer supplied was of a fit and drinkable condition.—London Times.

Why Babies Look Old.

Washington.

"My father," said Wellington's son, "deemed Washington the purest and noblest character of modern time—possibly of all time—and, considering the raw troops with which he had to oppose the trained and veteran soldiers of England, also a great general." Another interesting statement which the second duke made to General Wilson, who writes to the Cornhill, was that when his father was assigned to the command of an expedition to be sent out against the city of Washington and New Orleans in 1814 he declined the command chiefly on the ground that he would not fight against Washington's countrymen. And when his government asked for the names of three officers from whom a commander could be selected Wellington wrote, "Sir Edward Pakenham, Sir Edward Pakenham, Sir Edward Pakenham," and so poor Sir Edward, his brother-in-law, was sent to New Orleans to meet his death in the most disastrous defeat ever sustained by a British army.—St. James' Gazette.

Itch—Ringworm

E. T. Lucas, Wingo, Ky., writes, April 25, 1902: "For 10 to 12 years I had been afflicted with a malady known as the 'itch.' The itching was most unbearable; I had tried for years to find relief, having tried all remedies I could hear of, besides a number of doctors. I wish to state that one single application of Ballard's Snow Liniment cured me completely and permanently. Since then I have used the liniment on two seperate occasions for ring worm and it cured completely. 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

"Agreed," said the patron, well pleased. The bills were presented to him, and they amounted to nearly $6,000, neither butcher nor baker having been paid for twelve years.

BILIOUSNESS
AND
CURED BY THEDFORD'S
BLACK-DRAUGHT

Because the liver is neglected people suffer with constipation, biliousness, headaches and fevers. Colds attack the lungs and contagious diseases take hold of the system. It is safe to say that if the liver were always kept in proper working order, illness would be almost unknown.

Thedford's Black-Draught is so successful in curing such sickness because it is without a rival as a liver regulator. This great family medicine is not a strong and drastic drug, but a mild and healthful laxative that cures constipation and may be taken by a mere child without possible harm.

The healthful action on the liver cures biliousness. It has an invigorating effect on the kidneys. Because the liver and kidneys do not work regularly, the poisonous acids along with the waste from the bowels get back into the blood and virulent contagion results.

Timely treatment with Thedford's Black-Draught removes the danger which lurks in constipation, liver and kidney troubles, and will positively forestall the inroads of Bright's disease, for which disease in advanced stages there is no cure. Ask your dealer for a 25c. package of Thedford's Black-Draught.

Old British Drinks.

Mead, made of honey, water and spices; bragget, morat and piment variants, were very early drinks in England.

Currant wine, elderberry, gooseberry, mulberry, quince, plum and apple wine are old fashioned varieties. Parsnips and turnips produce a very powerful village brandy.

Cowslip and rhubarb wine are very different, the former weak and the latter very heady.

Fir tree tops, green nettle tops, birch and beech sap, bog myrtle, heather produced liquors. And did not a New England rhyme, meant to encourage the patriotic boycott on British goods, run:

> We can make liquor to sweeten our lips
> From pumpkins and parsnips and walnut tree chips?

Sloe gin and rue gin are queer drinks. Negus is sherry, hot water, lemon, sugar and nutmeg. The London Outlook says that Derbyshire women used to drink in secret a "ferociously intoxicating" potion made out of the poisonous foxglove.—New York World.

Nollekens and Chantrey.

Nollekens, the sculptor of George III., had a rare generosity which more than made up for his eccentricities. When Chantrey, afterward so famous, sent his bust of Horne Tooke to the exhibition he was young and unfriended. Nollekens said to those who were arranging the works for the exhibition:

"There's a fine, a very fine, work. Let the man who made it be known. Remove one of my busts and put this one in its place."

Often afterward when he was requested to make a bust he would say in his persuasive, well nigh irresistible way: "Go to Chantrey. He's the man for a bust. He'll make a good bust of you. I always recommend him."

Yet this same man was penurious to a fault and by absolute frugality accumulated a fortune of $1,000,000.

The Doctor's Twins.

A worthy Glasgow doctor while enjoying a holiday in Arran took the opportunity along with a friend to go whiting fishing. During operations the doctor's sinker came off and was lost.

Here was a dilemma. No sinker, no more fishing that day. Ha! Happy thought! His flask. No sooner said than done. The bottle was filled with salt water, carefully corked and sent down on its mission.

After a few minutes' interval, "Ha," quoth the doctor, "a bite!" And up he pulls at racing speed a fine pair of whiting, one on each hook.

"Ha, doctor, twins this time!" exclaimed his companion.

"Yes," quoth the doctor, "and brought up on the bottle too."—London

Three years ago Rev. Frank Willis Barnett bought the Alabama Baptist and with push and money began to build up its circulation until it has nearly reached the 10,000 mark and goes to more than 1200 postoffices in Alabama. Mr. Barnett who was educated in Europe has been a great traveler and his series of illustrated sketches on the West now running in the Alabama Baptist are filled with interesting data gathered from many sources. He not only visited the points of interest but read up on the subject in advance and put himself in touch with the Boards of Trade and acquired a vast literature on the great West. Mr. Barnett is making the Alabama Baptist a paper of which his denomination is proud and is getting out a religious weekly filled with good reading for all in the home.

Cowslip and rhubarb wine are different, the former weak and the ter very heady.

Fir tree tops, green nettle tops, and beech sap, bog myrtle, heather produced liquors. And did not a England rhyme, meant to enc the patriotic boycott on British g run:

Nollekens and Chantrey.

Nollekens, the sculptor of Geo III., had a rare generosity which than made up for his eccentriciti When Chantrey, afterward so famo sent his bust of Horne Tooke to exhibition he was young and unfrie ed. Nollekens said to those who w arranging the works for the exh tion:

"There's a fine, a very fine, wor Let the man who made it be know Remove one of my busts and put one in its place."

Often afterward when he was quested to make a bust he would in his persuasive, well nigh irresisti ble way, "Go to Chantrey. He's man for a bust. He'll make a goo bust of you. I always recomme him."

Yet this same man was penurious a fault and by absolute frugality a cumulated a fortune of $1,000,000.

Clanton. Feb. 13, 1905

Editor Banner—In your last issue, one of your correspondents says "It's a gloomy time to think of burdening the people with paying more money, but if it is necessary to the betterment of the children I am in favor of it. But in all the raises the teachers' salaries have gone up, but the girls and boys have not had what we expected. so another raise is feared."

Now, Mr. Editor, I wish to say in answer to this, that every time a good thing is proposed someone is ready to try to but it out of existence. Almost anyone can find some place for a but against any good proposition.

Some people are not capable of proposing anything that is beneficial to mankind, therefore they must be content with butting at everything proposed by other people. In the first place, the 1 mill tax will not burden anybody. It is too small to burden even those who would object to local taxation. I heard of one man objecting to it because, as he said, "It would be given to the little 'two-by-four' preachers." That expression of his knowledge (?) shows what element fears "another raise." I asked what this man's share of the 10 mill tax would be, and learned that it would be about 4½ cents.

On the other hand, when county Supt. Moore was circulating a petition some time ago, the most prominent lawyers, business men and land owners of Chilton county gladly signed it. Did you stop to think what a little "mite" it will be for any one individual and what part the railroads and large corporations will pay?

The railroads of Alabama are valued at over $50,000,000 00 paying to the State more than $285,000 00 tax. Yet, the railroads do not object to local taxation for schools when it is legal. They realize that prosperity travels hand in hand with education, and that prosperity of the masses means greater passenger and freight traffic, hence greater prosperity for themselves.

Is this necessary for the girls and boys? In my limited knowledge, there are orphan children whose guardians are so "close-fisted" that paying tuition, coupled with the loss of the child's time, puts its education clear out of the question. Then, there are some parents who are too careless, or too worthless to educate their children. Is it Christlike or even moral to refuse to help these poor children who cannot help themselves, and who are not to fault for their existence, or their surroundings?

In regard to the "raise" in teachers' salaries, we will say that no truthful and well informed individul can deny that the standard of schools and teachers have ("raised") risen in greater proportion than their salaries. If the teacher is a teacher worthy of the name, his work does not end with the school hours, but runs on far into the night in preparation for the morrow's teaching.

If the teachers are getting such enormous salaries, why is he as poor as a church mouse? Show me a wealthy teacher and I will show you one of the seven wonders. The boys and girls are getting what we expected so far as I know. They are getting better buildings, better teachers, and longer school terms. This 1 mill tax has been voted on in nearly one-third of the counties of Alabama and only one county has rejected it, and that, I believe, by only 16 votes. The question is before us. Shall ignorance reign supreme, or shall we hold aloft the banner of intelligence?

As I have not saw anything from this place in some time I will try to write a few words to let you know that we are not dead.

Yet our Sabbath school is about dead but I hope to see a build up in the near future in the glorious work of our Master, for it seems that the people have almost forgotten Sunday school and church and gone off after something else. But now let us all come back and build up our Sabbath school and promulgate the cause more in the future than we ever have in the past.

Death angels visited the home of mr. F. A. Pope on last Thursday morning, Feb. 9th, 1905, taking the devoted husband and father. Mr. F. A Pope was the father of seven children, five of whom are living to mourn the loss of a devoted father and concrecated Christian. He was the post master at Vine Hill fo several years, and also had a large stock of goods. He was alway be honest, upright and true.

Mr. Pope joined the Methodist church in early life and gave his heart and life to God in a complete surrender of all the powers of his being. His life was marked by activity zealousness and gentleness. When not hindered by sickness or other providential causes, he was always found at the service of the sanctuary and delighted to seek fellowship and communion with the people of God, He made no loud profession, but the forces of his life, tho silent, were powerful. He was a faithful husband, a loving father, a firm friend. He was a blessing to the community in which he lived. The church and community loses a good Christian character in his death. Nearly all his life was spent in the neighborhood of Vine Hill, consequently he was well known and had many friends and neighbors who will sadly miss him. His example and teaching will abide long in the hearts of his children and be treasured as their most priceless possession in all the years to come.

Mr. Pope was stricken with pneumonia and suffered great pain for a few days. His remains were laid away in the presbyterian cemetery at Vine Hill, the funeral services were conducted by Rev. Davies.

Arm Torn in a Mill.

Cullman, Ala.—Mr. Joe Walker, an employe in the Cullman oil mills at this place, lost his left arm in the mill Monday morning at 9 o'clock. He was operating the linters on the second floor of the building when his left arm was caught in one of the machines. His hand and forearm was fearfully torn and the bones crushed into a mass from the elbow to the shoulder. The attending physicians are sure the arm will have to be amputated at the shoulder. At the time the accident occurred there was no one with Walker on the second floor and for half an hour he hung in the running machinery unable to stop it or call assistance. Another employe happening to enter the room found him and stopped the machinery.

Another Fire in Chicago.

Chicago, Ill.—Fire Monday night destroyed the six-story building at 136-139 Clinton street, entailing a loss of $200,000. The damage was divided among a large number of small manufacturing concerns and agents of eastern manufacturers. Because of the high wind that prevailed the firemen had a desperate fight to keep the flames within the building. Great embers were carried for several squares by the wind, and for a time there was danger of a general conflagration in the square in which the fire occurred.

Japs Can Stand Cold Weather.

General Kuroki's Headquarters, via Fusen—The Japanese artillery, which seldom replied to the Russian bombardment during the preceding three months, has become more active and artillery duels along some portions of the front occur almost daily. The exceedingly cold weather of the past fortnight has been followed by mild and sunny weather, and the snow is melting rapidly. Altogether the winter has been much less severe than expected. The Japanese have endured the cold as well as the rains.

Wreck Near Billingsley.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—There was a small wreck on the Mobile and Ohio railroad Saturday at Mulberry tank, near Billingsley, Ala. Freight train No. 31 had stopped to take water at this tank about 1 o'clock in the afternoon, and while standing there local freight No. 15 ran into the train from the rear. D. R. Bettis was the engineer on No. 31, and George R. Ingram was on the local. Neither one was hurt very seriously. Ingram was slightly hurt by jumping from his engine.

Mule Trade Has Decreased.

Covington, Ga.—The mule trade in Covington, which is generally very lively at this season of the year, has fallen off considerably since the slump in cotton prices. As the mule is an important adjunct in the cultivation of a cotton crop, the unusual depression in this line of business is regarded as unmistakable evidence of the intention of the planters of this section to greatly reduce their cotton acreage for this year

Preacher Passing Raised Bills.

Huntington, W. Va.—Washington Hager, of Hadley, a Baptist minister, has been arrested for passing two dollar bills that had been raised to tens. He was engaged in conducting a revival meeting at Big Ugly Creek when the arrest was made. The bills were passed on ex-Sheriff J. M. Porter, of Hamlin, and Crockett, both of Hadley.

Fire Made Them Homeless.

Chicago, Ill.—Twenty-four families were made homeless by a fire which destroyed a four-story flat building at 166 Webster avenue here Monday, entailing a loss of $100,000. There was a panic among the occupants of the building, but it is believed all escaped.

Will Bridge the Tennessee.

Washington—The president has approved the bill authorizing the Decatur Transportation and Manufacturing company to construct a bridge across the Tennessee river at Decatur, Ala., and the bill to quit titles to certain land in Mobile.

Last of Cadet Corps Named.

Montgomery, Ala.—Joe Frank Lassiter, of Montgomery, and Walter Wellman, of Huntsville, were appointed as Alabama representatives in the school boys' cadet corps for the president's inauguration. This completes the list of five.

Quarantine Bill Vetoed.

Guthrie, Okla.—The quarantine bill extending the line around and including the Osage nation within Oklahoma, which recently passed unanimously both houses of the legislature, has been vetoed by Governor Ferguson.

Lieutenant Murdered in India.

Calcutta—Lieutenant Herman, commanding the South Waziristan militia, has been murdered at Wana by a Masaud. The murderer was arrested.

According to Egyptology it took 120 years and $800,000 to build Noah's ark. Thus you will observe that there were grafters even in those days, remarks Puck.

VARIETY OF CROPS.

The Farmer Should Diversify His Planting—Plant Different Things.

CORN AND COW PEAS IN SOUTH.

Suggestions As to the Cultivation of These Crops Come from Secretary Wilson, of Fort Worth.

It has long been recognized that corn and cow peas are two of the most valuable food crops for stock in general use by southern farmers. Their hardy character, vigorous growth and wide adaptation to climates and soils place them in the first rank of plants for general farm use. In the improved system of agriculture which the south must adopt to meet boll weevil conditions corn and cow peas must occupy a more important position than in any previous period, because soil conditions must be improved to successfully make good cotton crops, and this can best be accomplished by the alternate planting to corn and cow peas and to cotton.

CORN.

The soil should be prepared for the corn crop the same as for cotton by deeper fall plowing (or breaking) of the land and winter cultivation. Breaking for corn ought to be eight inches deep, but where the previous breaking has only been three or four inches, it will not do to go down to eight inches at once, hence it will be advisable in such cases to break only about six or seven inches so as not to stir up too much crude soil, but reach a depth of eight inches or more as soon as practicable. The winter cultivation referred to is simply harrowing or discing the land at intervals of twenty to thirty days so as to put it in the best of condition for planting. Plant early as the season will permit in rows, six feet apart on rich land, and five feet apart on hill lands and worn bench, bottom or prairie lands. Where corn is planted five and six feet apart in rows, it will bear a little crowding in the row. It may be single stalks once in ten to twelve inches, according to the fertility of the land, or it may stand two stalks in a place once in twenty to twenty-four inches; the single stalk is preferable. The wide rows allow the sunshine to penetrate to the soil and gives a better ear than where the planting is done in narrow rows.

SEED CORN.

In the selection of seed corn better results in bushels will be reached by selecting promising varieties, grown not more than 200 miles north of the field to be planted. It should not be understood that it is necessary to secure corn grown one to two hundred miles north. Promising varieties grown in the immediate neighborhood, if they have been carefully selected, will undoubtedly give the most satisfactory results. The objection to corn grown in the immediate vicinity is that it has not as a rule been selected with care, and hence it is almost impossible to get pure bred corn except from some seedsman who has taken unusual pains to keep it pure.

The ears should be of medium length with kernels deep and firm, well filled at the ends and with small cob. Above all it should be corn specially selected and carefully housed, and not taken at random from a crib.

In planting reject the irregular kernels at each end, and use plenty of seed.

FERTILIZERS.

The use of a small amount of fertilizer on corn land until the soil can be improved and filled with cow peas is of great importance to the planter. The continued use of fertilizers year after year is not specially recommended, but at the commencement in order to stimulate the corn and the cow peas it is necessary if the best results are expected. On light soils and uplands that have been considerably worn, use 400 pounds of fertilizer per acre, compounded as follows: 160 pounds of 14 per cent acid phosphate, containing 2 per cent of potash, and 240 pounds of cotton seed meal, thoroughly mixed. Distribute in the rows where the corn is to be planted two to three weeks before planting and follow with the cultivator to mix the fertilizer with the soil. On rich prairie or bottom lands use only one pound of cotton seed meal to three pounds of phosphoric acid and potash, applying only 200 pounds of the mixture per acre. In general reduce the proportion of cotton seed meal used in the mixture and the total amount of fertilizer applied per acre as the fertility of the soil increases.

As soon as the corn is up use the harrow, then cultivate once in ten days till the corn is too large. The first cultivation may be deep—all later cultivations should be shallow. Many use only the plow in cultivation. It is not the best implement, but will answer a good purpose if thoroughly used. More depends upon the thorough use of an implement than upon the special form of the implement; however, the two-horse cultivator does better and more rapid work, but it is a little difficult to use this implement where there are many stumps. Thin the corn in the rows to a stand of one stalk each to ten to twelve inches on poor lands and to fifteen inches on very rich lands. The greater width of the rows allows a closer stand in the row.

COW PEAS.

As the time of the last working of the corn plant four rows of cow peas in each space between the corn rows, using about two bushels and a half of the peas per acre. In case the land is poor it will be well to use 100 pounds of cotton seed meal per acre at the time of planting the cow peas—this will help the corn and insure a crop of peas. In selecting peas for planting in corn, it is well to use a variety that produces the most vine so as to thoroughly cover the land with the crop. Some use the clayed cow pea and some the black Carolina. Both are good, and will answer the purpose if planted with care.

It may be urged that too much expense is put upon the corn crop by this method. The cost of fertilizer is placed at $5.50 per acre, the additional work upon the land at $2.00, and the cow peas at $3.50, making a total of $11 per acre extra. The return should be, and will be under average conditions, an increase of 40 bushels of corn per acre, worth $20 and at least one ton of cow peas, worth $12—Total $32. Nor is this all, the effect of good cultivation and the cowpeas on the cotton crop to follow the next year should be equal to a quarter of a bale of cotton, of $10.00, which added to the $32.00, gives a total of $42.00 for an expenditure of $11.00 in labor and fertilizer.

Three Men Killed.

Brewton, Ala.—A disastrous wreck on the logging road of the Florida and Alabama Land Company, between Wing and Falco Junction in Covington county. A section crew, Shelby Hartly, Walter Clark and Tom Dauphin, all white, were killed outright. Their homes were in Walton county, Florida.

Warren Haskell, fireman, had one leg cut off, and the other broken; Dock Cook, section foreman, was slightly injured. The engineer and conductor escaped without injury. The men were riding on the engine, backing out ahead of the cars, when the tender jumped the track, struck a tree, demolishing the locomotive, and tearing up the track.

The cars remained on the rails.

Steamer Nueces Is Floated.

Galveston, Tex.—The Mallory line steamer Nueces, from New York for Galveston, which went ashore Tuesday night about thirty miles west of here, was floated without serious damage to the vessel or cargo.

Woman Held for Murder.

Birmingham, Ala.—G. W. Herron, a miner living near the Weller mines fourteen miles south of Birmingham, was shot twice and almost instantly killed. His wife is under arrest charged with the crime and she claims that she shot in self-defense, the weapon being discharged while her husband was abusing her. Weller was well known in the Blue Creek region, in this county. Deputy sheriffs went to the scene this morning while Coroner Paris left for the scene this afternoon to hold an investigation. The woman will be held in the county jail here until the matter has been thoroughly investigated.

Fight Against Polygamy.

Boise, Idaho.—The house has passed the senate bills providing for fines and imprisonment as punishment for polygamy and adultery.

Much sentiment has developed in favor of a move against illegal cohabitation, since it is claimed a polygamy law can not be enforced because of the difficulty of proving marriage.

Bed sheets are unknown in Japan except in hospitals.

Four Killed.

New Brighton, Pa.—A man and three boys were killed, one boy is dying and three more were slightly injured as the result of a bobsled carrying sixteen boys dashing into a train. All the others on the sled miraculously escaped with hardly a scratch.

Gunboat Newport Safe.

Newport News, Va.—The gunboat Newport, which had been adrift at sea for several days, was towed in Feb. 10 by the tug Wahneta. The gunboat's propeller was missing.

Roads Resume Service.

Jackson, Miss.—Regular train service has been resumed on all railroads running out of Jackson. Nearly all trains are running on their accustomed schedule. The service on the Queen and Crescent road from Jackson to Meridian was interrupted about eighteen hours by washouts, but the regular passenger trains managed to go through yesterday afternoon. All washouts have been repaired.

Accidentally Shot.

Sylacauga, Ala.—Mr. Lee Blocker accidentally shot a man named Bessemore Monday. Bessemore was shot in the foot and the wound is not dangerous.

Grain Firm Fails.

Glasgow, Scotland.—The John McNair Company, big American flour importers, have failed, with liabilities of 80,000 pounds. The creditors are principally Americans.

TROUBLE IS OVER.

So Thinks the Warsaw Chief of Police, on the Strike Situation.

MAY EXPELL THE STRIKERS.

If the Men Do Not Return to Work They Will Probably Be Forced to Leave the City.

Warsaw—Baron von Nolkeni, chief of police of Warsaw, who had just returned from a conference with Governor General Tchertkoff of the province of Warsaw, gave the following details regarding the state of affairs in this district:

"The strike continues in all of the big factories. The manufacturers are coming to me to discuss the situation, and Tuesday I purpose seeing some representatives of the strikers.

"Unless the strikers return to work the police will expell all those living outside of the Warsaw district. If they will not work they must go home. The men have no money, and it seems impossible that the strike can continue much longer. Our task is one of great difficulty. We are not fighting an economic but a political movement, having its origin in St. Petersburg.

"The worst troubles, however, are probably over. Small disturbances may break out here and there, but not on such a scale as the earlier riots here."

Private telegrams received from Dombrova say that all the factories there are closed. Thirty thousand wagon loads of ore are standing on the railway tracks, and the entire freight traffic of the Vistula line must be suspended unless the wagons are moved.

Workmen Return to Work.

Tiflis—The workmen here generally are returning to work. The authorities are taking measures to protect those who are resuming their labors. Trifling disorders are reported at other places in the Caucasus.

The civil governor has ordered a meeting of the municipal council to discuss means for the settlement of the labor troubles, but the councillors, finding that the order stipulated that the discussion be held in secret, declined to acquiesce, on the ground that it would be impossible to arrive at a settlement under such conditions.

Pushing American Cotton.

New Orleans, La.—Chairman John L. McLaurin, of South Carolina, of the committee appointed by the Southern Interstate Cotton Convention recently held here and of which Hon. John M. Parker, of this city, and E. Ascroft, of Alabama, are members to wait on the president and ask him to form a commission to introduce American cotton into the Orient and other undeveloped markets, will visit Mr. Roosevelt on the 20th.

Senator McLaurin calculates that if China may be induced to use American cotton, it is not unreasonable to believe that 25,000,000 bales of the American crop will be consumed after five years.

Woman's Weight Killed Her.

Pottsville, Pa.—Mrs. John Wolf, of Tremont, Schuylkill's largest woman, whose weight was 450 pounds and girth nearly ten feet, died from her excessive avoirdupois. When her funeral was held it was necessary to remove the doors to get out the coffin, which was carried by as many pall bearers as could get hold of it.

New Fire Hose Arrives.

Jasper, Ala.—The city of Jasper has received two reels and a thousand feet of hose to equip the Jasper volunteer fire department. The work of organizing the fire company will be taken up and completed within a short time, and it is expected that a reduction of insurance rates will ensue.

Conductor Killed; Others Injured.

Des Moines, Ia.—Conductor H. M. Marsh was killed and twenty-five persons were slightly injured near Melbourne, Ia., when a locomotive and eight cars on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad went into a ditch, as a result of striking a broken rail near the end of a 200-foot bridge.

The wrecked train consisted of two locomotives and nine coaches, bound from Chicago to Omaha. About 300 feet east of a bridge that spanned a gulch at a height of eighteen feet, the train struck a broken rail, after the first locomotive had passed over safely. The rest of the train except the rear car, rushed on over ties and earth into the gulch, crushing the bridge.

No Divorce for Insanity.

Montgomery, Ala.—The supreme court has held that E. B. Price, of Tallapoosa county, cannot secure a divorce from his wife, though she is an inmate of the state insane asylum at Tuscaloosa, and has been of unsound mind for thirty years.

There is no law in Alabama by which a man or woman may secure a divorce because of insanity.

Found Dying Between Tracks.

Oakland, Cal.—Reuben C. Collins, a contractor of Seattle, was found lying between the Southern Pacific tracks at First and Jefferson streets shortly after 6 o'clock Friday night unconscious and bleeding badly from a fracture of the base of the skull, and other wounds about the head. He was removed to the receiving hospital, where he died.

Papers found in his possession showed that he had been a member of the firm of Gerrick, Collins & Gerrick, contractors in iron construction, with offices at 620 Pioneer building, Seattle. He apparently lives at 1019 East Third street, Seattle; is married and has two children. Tickets found on his person indicate that he left Seattle on February 8.

Coming South.

Chicago, Ill.—There is to be a great rush into the south and southwest, if inquiries now being received by western railroads regarding homeseekers' excursions signify anything. One mail in a single railway office today contained more than one hundred letters, all asking about the soil and climate. The movement is not confined to the southwest, but southern states, like Alabama and Mississippi, are receiving a great deal of attention. On one line alone 487 passengers with homeseeking tickets have left Chicago in the last six weeks for a single county in Alabama. For the present migration to the British northwest seems to have come to a stop and the tide has turned southward.

Freeze Causes Wreck.

Parsons, Kan.—Missouri, Kansas and Texas fast passenger train No. 21, from Kansas City to Oklahoma City, was wrecked at Moran water tank early Sunday. The train was running as a double header on account of the heavy snow, and the water from the tank had formed a heavy coat of ice upon the rails, which derailed the first engine, causing the second engine, two baggage cars and mail car to pile up. Engineer C. W. Phelps, of Denison, Tex., who was on the first engine, was killed, his body being badly mangled. None of the passengers was hurt.

Jeweler Found Dead.

Memphis, Tenn.—The lifeless body of W. N. McCallister, a prominent jeweler of New Albany, Miss., was found in front of a business house across the street from his store at an early hour this morning.

McCallister presumably had been shot Sunday night after leaving his place of business by some one concealed inside the store, as a bullet hole was found in the window of the front door. A sheriff's posse with bloodhounds, which have found the trail of the murder, is now in the bottoms in hot pursuit.

Charged with Misusing Mails.

Milwaukee, Wis.—A man giving the name of N. C. Collins, aged 32, was arrested at a local hotel tonight by a United States deputy marshal, charged with unlawful use of the mails. The specific charge against Collins is said to have been a transgression of the law at New Orleans on January 15th, in connection with the horse races. Collins and one J. F. Barrett, also of New Orleans, are accused of having operated the Co-operative Turf Association in New Orleans, which is believed to have been one of many agencies of a get-rich-quick concern.

Excess of Rain.

Mobile, Ala.—The heavy rains of the past week are beginning to make themselves felt in the interruption to traffic on the railroads entering Mobile. About ten inches have fallen here in the past nine days. Three and a half inches fell Sunday.

Swims Into Enemy's Harbor.

Tokio—The publication of naval honors discloses the fact that Lieut. Yokowo, commander of the torpedo boat destroyer Fuji, thrice during last July swam into a harbor, towing five fish torpedoes. Lieut. Yokowo performed many other acts of bravery.

Japanese Buy Oats in Dakotas.

Minneapolis, Minn.—According to Minneapolis elevator men, who operate strings of elevators throughout the Dakotas, over 2,000,000 bushels of oats have just been bought up by the agents of the Japanese government. How the Japanese have managed to elude the Russians in getting the grain to their army is a mystery.

Flood Sweeps Valley.

Madison, Ind.—Message just arrived by courier from Beattyville, Ky., reports 30-foot swell coming out of the Kentucky river, carrying everything before it and sweeping the valley clean.

Left Children to Perish.

Scranton, Pa.—Two small children of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Yearsley set fire to their home by treading on a safety match. The mother rushed to a second floor room to save them, and when she found that the spread of the flames had cut off her escape by the stairs she leaped from a second-story window without sustaining injury, deserting her children, who were rescued by neighbors.

Serious Fire Averted.

Opelika, Ala.—Opelika came near having a serious fire. Fire was discovered up stairs over the buildings occupied as stores by Mills Bros. & Hearn at the corner of Tallapoosa street and South Railroad avenue. Where the fire was discovered was formerly used as rooms for lodging, and two young railroad men went up to obtain lodging and discovered the fire. It is supposed that some tramps who were sleeping there had built the fire from which it caught.

Gretna Green Affair.

Eufaula, Ala.—William Watson and Miss Eva Wells, of this city, were parties to a Gretna Green wedding at 8 o'clock. The bride is a lovable young girl of about 14 or 15 summers and was en route to the Sanford Street school of which she was a regularly enrolled pupil when the groom came along in a hack and she joined him in a visit to Georgetown, Ga., where Judge J. E. Dozier tied the nuptial knot. The affair was a complete surprise to their most intimate friends.

Fires in Cotton Mill.

Huntsville, Ala.—Fires were started Saturday morning in the engine room of the West Huntsville cotton mill, which has been idle about eighteen months, and the machinery is being limbered up preparatory to the immediate resumption of operations. The mill has 6,000 spindles and employes 250 people when in operation.

Freight Cars Broke Through.

Demopolis, Ala.—About midnight Thursday night a west-bound freight on the Southern railway broke through the Devil's run, a large trestle in the eastern suburbs of this place. One box car loaded with miscellaneous freight and a car load of coal went through. Fortunately the break occurred at the span at the west end of the trestle. No lives were lost.

Fell from Second Story.

Wylam, Ala.—John M. Smith, a carpenter, while at work on a new building at Wylam, fell from the second story and had three ribs broken and his left shoulder dislocated. He also received internal injuries which may prove fatal. He has a family.

Ellawhite Cotton Mill to Be Doubled.

Uniontown, Ala.—The contract has been let for doubling the size and capacity of Ellawhite cotton mill. As this will be the second time that the mill has been doubled within a few years, it is a self-evident fact that under the management of Mr. Val Taylor it has been a very profitable investment to the stockholders.

Will Lay Corner Stone.

Greenville, Ala.—Invitations have been issued for the ceremony of laying the corner stone of St. Elizabeth's Catholic church at Greenville, which will take place on Sunday afternoon, February 19th, at 2:30 o'clock. Right Reverend Bishop E. P. Allen will conduct the exercises.

Was Murdered Christmas.

Gadsden, Ala.—A gruesome story comes from the Tumlin tunnel, out in the western portion of the county, to the effect that a negro workman who disappeared about Christmas, was found dead in an old field about ten days ago. It is said that the negro left the tunnel work on Christmas day for his home in Birmingham, and it is supposed that he was murdered and robbed and thrown into an old field.

Gas Franchise Extended.

Huntsville, Ala.—The Huntsville city council has granted the New York and Alabama Oil Company a year's extension of time on the franchise giving it the right to lay gas pipes in the streets of this city and furnish natural gas to consumers. In a letter to the council asking for the extension, President Francis Wilson, of New York, stated that his company will be supplying enough natural gas from its wells at Hazle Green to keep every citizen warm. President Wilson's company has gas in abundance now, but no pipes will be laid for several months yet.

Powder Works Explosion.

Birmingham, Ala.—The separator at the Dupont Powder Works blew up Friday at 11:30 o'clock. The report was heard all over the city, though the works are six miles out.

Wild rumors are out as to fatality list, but telephone messages to Boyles, two miles from the scene, say no one was killed, but considerable damage was done to property. Had the explosion occurred in the day time several would have been killed.

At 1 o'clock telephone message from the powder works stated that positively no one was killed.

Runs Amuck With Pistol.

Huntsville, Ala.—Floyd Jones, a well-known carriage painter, ran amuck with a pistol Saturday while intoxicated and after taking a shot at John Fackler, a negro hack driver, tried to kill L. Lehman, a business man. The man had the pistol pointed against Mr. Lehman's stomach and tried to pull the trigger, but Mr. Lehman made his escape by flight. Jones resisted arrest, but was finally lodged in the city prison, where he is held on several charges, one of them being assault with intent to murder.

An Art Teacher Goes Suddenly.

Birmingham, Ala.—William Tent, a white man who came to Birmingham a few weeks ago and advertised as an art teacher, has left the city and complaint has been made against him by several ladies of this city.

It seems that Tent set up an art gallery at 1612 Third avenue some time ago and advertised for students. He always required a deposit for incidentals and thirty or forty ladies in different parts of the city are said to have paid money to him.

Passing Raised Bills.

Fayette, Ala.—J. W. Nix, a white man about thirty years of age, has been placed in jail on a charge of passing raised bills. It is said that he bought goods from the store of R. T. Homner & Co., giving a twenty dollar bill in payment. Afterwards the clerk is said to have discovered that the bill had been raised from ten to twenty dollars. It is also charged that more raised bills were found on the person of Nix when his arrest occurred.

Incorporated.

Union Springs, Ala.—The mercantile business heretofore conducted by Mr. C. R. Russell has been changed into a stock company with a paid up capital stock of twenty thousand dollars and the same nature of business as has been conducted by Mr. Russell will be continued by the new company. The stockholders are Messrs. C. R. Russell and W. W. Rainer, Jr., and Mrs. N. M. Russell, Mr. Russell being president and Mr. Rainer secretary and treasurer.

Postoffice and House Burned.

Camp Hill, Ala.—Fire which started in the store of W. C. Jenkins destroyed that building with a loss of $1,500 with $400 insurance. The postoffice was also burned, as was the store of V. P. Matthews, with a loss of $600 Ferguson & Head leased the latter building and lost $150 worth of merchandise.

Bloodworth Murder.

Decatur, Ala.—Several special officers, as well as the regular local officers, are still working on the Miss Belle Bloodworth murder case. It is believed by some that they have a clue, though nothing has been made public as yet.

Boy Loses Both Legs.

Decatur, Ala.—Will Brown, aged 12, son of Tinner W. A. Brown, jumped from a freight train here and in jumping his foot slipped, throwing him under the train, cutting off both legs below the knees. Charlie Lawson jerked him from under the cars, otherwise he would have been ground to death. He will recover.

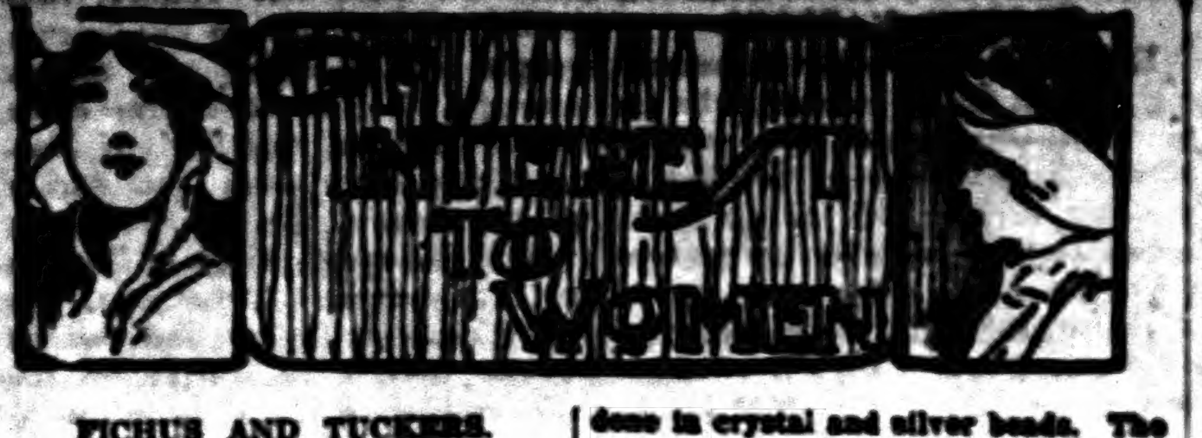
Rhodesville Store Burns.

Florence, Ala.—The general merchandise store of C. S. Rhodes, a wealthy planter of Rhodesville, this county, was burned Monday night with all its contents. Mr. Rhodes carried $1,500 insurance. The telephone wires are down and no particulars could be learned.

Investigation Ordered.

Montgomery, Ala.—An investigation of the burning of the Anniston dry goods store at Anniston has been ordered by Deputy Insurance Commissioner H. R. Shorter.

Talladega, Ala.—At its regular meeting Monday evening the city council appropriated $5,000 for the extension of the sewerage system into Stonington.



FICHUS AND TUCKERS.

It is remarkable how decorous, feminine, and altogether delightful an effect a fichu imparts to a dress. No wonder so many women decided to vary the changes with fichus of lace and fichus of muslin, fichus of fur, and fichus of velvet, such as Marie Antoinette and her ladies liked, upon their toilettes this winter.

For we are playing the part of our great-grandmothers again, and it is surprising that such words as genteel, ladylike, elegant, and graceful are not often on our lips, seeing that it is of that vogue our manners and fashions are made. The very lowest walk may most honestly be described as mincing. The athletic stride is gone, and we glide along as if there were little wheels beneath our feet, with here and there a limp, suggestive, perhaps, of feeble knees, but only feeble enough to serve as a demonstration in total opposition to the strenuous movements that were deemed modish.

A fichu worn by a bride the other day was over a robe of ivory white supple satin, set in quite full at the waist and flounced with lace, which, to be correct, was Brussels, a lace that every bride who can will wear now, owing to its smartness and to the further fact that it, too, breathes memories of that same distant day when Brussels was the only wear.

Above this rich yet simple skirt a corsage a pointe was seen, made with a full chemisette, drawn into a collarless band edged with lace and a fichu modestly draped about the shoulders and in front tucked inside the corsage beneath a knot of orange blossoms, myrtle, and white heather. The sleeves were of elbow length and flowered with lace, but it was the fichu that gave the frock its sign-manual.

The fichus of the hour have no ends; they are Puritanical in their sweet simplicity and effective.

A tucker is another adjunct of the evening toilette that is charmingly prim and pretty, but not quite new even as a revival, for early in the year we discovered its advantages, and entered it as a noticeably desirable item of our full-dress frocks. Made of net or lace, it borders the decolletage, and has a draw-string of ribbon run through it which is tied in front. There are many deviations of the tucker. One is applied to the day gown and is a Toby frill in miniature made of lace pleated in the center, so that one edge stands up round the throat, and the other lies down; and another is a quilling of point d'esprit or lace.—Washington Times.

HANDSOME BLOUSE EFFECTS.

One of the salient feature of the season's fashionable blouses is the heaviness of the material employed for their construction. Women have fought long and hard against the heavy fabrics being utilized for separate waists, but the inevitable has happened. Velvet is among the heavy waist materials which are demanding a great deal of attention. Very handsome models are turned out of the modiste shops of it. Velvet will always hold an important position in the fashionable world and although many cheaper editions have come to light within the past few seasons, the expensive quality will hold its own. Heavy waists are, as a rule, not becoming, and the beauty lies entirely in the fit of the garment. The lines, so to speak, must be perfect, and one who does not possess an extremely shapely figure will not look exactly smart in one. Of course, the long shoulder effect must be tolerated, but any bagginess around the arm-hole is unpardonable. There are only a few styles in which a waist of heavy material might be made. The most becoming one is the perfectly plain affair, with a pocket on either side to break the severeness. The velvet models are sometimes trimmed, but the greatest skill is necessary to make them look at all presentable. One pretty affair, which was, by the way, extremely becoming to the wearer, was of black velvet. The entire front was beautifully embroidered in white roses. There were no frills or puffs to make it look clumsy and a prettier waist could not be wished for. Another striking one was made of gunmetal colored velvet. It had five deep plaits in front, each an inch and a half wide and finished severely with stiching. The sleeves had very wide cuffs, stitched to match the front.—Newark Advertiser.

SILK WOVEN TO IMITATE RIBBON.

Silk a yard and a half wide, woven to imitate pompadour ribbon, is another newcomer at the counters devoted to evening fabrics. This is especially effective for stately robes in combination with velvet. Brocades grow in favor and many of them are woven in dress patterns, each gore of the skirt a study in itself.

An imported gown on these lines is composed of rich ivory brocade showing an exquisite design in large rose sprays. The pattern is picked out in finest gold thread with crystal drops sprinkled on the flowers for all the world as though they were freshly plucked from the dewey beds. The pattern is outlined by tiny icicles done in crystal and silver beads. The skirt is slashed up on either side and in the front over a petticoat of chiffon and lace, the lacing being accomplished by very soft ribbon. The tight-fitting, pointed bodice has a softly folded ribbon which, brought across and around the arms, forms the little sleeves with an additional fall of lace. From both sleeves and bertha depend longer icicles built of the crystal and silver beads.—New Haven Register.

ABOUT SASHES.

One woman has adopted a charming way of wearing her ribbon sashes.

After the ribbon has been formed into a boned and well-fitted girdle, slightly pointed on the lower side, both back and front, a flat twist of the ribbon hides the back fastening, with the top finish that in no way disturbs the back, so desirable. From the girdle point in the back, on either side of it, the ribbon is plaited into a strap perhaps ten inches long. A loop of 12 or 14 inches is added to each strap, with an end of ribbon left hanging some three inches below the loop. A tight twist of ribbon at the head of each loop suggests a natural knot at that point. A long sash end, falling within a few inches of the bottom of the skirt, is added to each of the two loops, but that should be done by attaching it under the loops at the top before the heading or twist is made, so as to have it hang well, besides insuring a perfect finish underneath.

Six or seven yards of ribbon will be required to follow out this sash model, but when complete it produces the prettiest ribbon trimming that one can imagine for a gown.—Boston Traveler.

THE HANGING OF PICTURES.

In hanging pictures the guiding principle as to height is the level of the eye, but combined with that are equally important considerations of size, shape and color, in relation both to wall spaces and to each other. The inclination seems to be to hang pictures too high, giving an impression of being skied.

Too high, too far apart, poorly balanced and forming steps or gables are pitfalls to be avoided. When one's pictures are large and can be hung one in a place, with a thought only for the proper height and lighting, the problem is a comparatively simple one. The eye must rest directly upon it; it must not give the impression of weighing heavily upon the piece of furniture beneath, nor must it float off into space above. The shapes must harmonize with the shape of the piece of furniture beneath, as well as with the space. That the dark places must be lighted up with the light pictures and the dark photographs hang in the high lights can easily be seen.—Harper's Bazar.

DIFFERENT WAYS OF RESTING.

"I hold, in theory, that every woman should lie down every afternoon and relax, taking an hour's interval of entire repose, not even thinking of anything that taxes her, and thus repairing the waste places of her life after a busy morning. This is my theory, firmly held and warmly recommended to you. Let me whisper, in strict confidence, that this is not a thing I ever do myself. To take a nap in the daytime would be for me one of the impossibilities, and the mere suggestion is enough to keep me wide awake. My preferences," says Margaret E. Sangster in the Woman's Home Companion, "are a rocking chair and footstool and a bright story in the half hour after the mid-day meal. A neighbor of mine has always a white shawl on hand and knits when she wants to relax. I could not tell you how many white shawls this lady has made and given away, but she is so proficient in their manufacture that she knits like an automaton. This pastime is her sedative, and she would not forego it on any account."

FASHION HINTS.

Wrist bags are made in three shapes. There is the bag which is perfectly square and which opens its full width. Then there is the oblong bag. And there is the bag that is very deep, but not very wide. The most popular is the oblong bag, about nine inches long and about five inches deep.

The woman who wishes to appear fashionable this season must insist upon three small but essential points when choosing her winter costume. She must demand width across the shoulders, a slender waist and nicely rounded hips. Nor is it necessary to contract the waist to give it the proper slim effect. The smallness of the waist, and a good modiste can accomplish both with little inconvenience to her customer.

Zibeline and fancy mixtures are fighting hard for a place on the fashion register, and some of the best-dressed women are wearing plaids. In dark blues and greens is a smart walking suit made with a plaited skirt, devoid of any other trimming, save rows of heavy stitching.

The Italian Minister of Public Instruction made use of 67,000 visiting cards during his thirty-two months of office.

WANDERINGS.

I'm oft inclined to wonder if
An earthworm, when [illegible]
Would meet with any [illegible]
Supposing that it tried to crawl.

Then, too, I often wonder whether
A man who set about to tether
Ten tigers in a field like cows
Could make the striped creatures browse.

And then again, I wonder which
Is stickiest—tar, glue or pitch.
Perhaps each, all or either are,
But I should say pitch, glue or tar.

And, furthermore, I wonder why
A normal person such as I
Can't walk about upon one hand—
Some things we never understand.

But most of all I wonder how
A man can tell just when is Now,
For Now keeps going back to Then,
While Soon is straightway Now again.

'Tis useless, though, to wonder what Is meant by this impressive rot.

The Benefit of Fairy Tales

It is very reasonable to argue that no creation of human fancy could last as fairy tales have lasted through no one knows how many hundreds and thousands of years unless it was very good. For that which is not good and not sound must surely die, and only that which is good and sound shall last through the grinding of the ages.

So I believe that parents could fill their children's imaginations full of fairy tales if they would make those imaginations strong and healthy. As for that man or woman who has not these bright and joyous things flying like golden bees through the dim recesses of his memory, I can only say that I think his or her parents must have been neglectful of the earlier training of their child, and that I am sorry for that poor soul who has lost so much pleasure out of his life.—Howard Pyle in Book News.

YOUR attention is invited to change of advts. in this issue. F. A. Gulledge of Verbena makes a good proposition, and T. U. Crumpton, of Maplesville, tells a new story in his facetious way.

Commissioners' Court met for the February term, Monday, and adjourned Wednesday evening. Routine business was transacted, and some bills passed. Among the latter were bills for stationery amounting to about $900, but some of this was brought forward from last year, the bills having been held back for investigation, and part was carried forward for further enquiry.

A very considerable proportion of this $900 could have been expended in the county at a saving of from 25 to 50 per cent of the taxpayers' money, but just so long as these orders are sent off to distant places, the taxpayers may make up their minds to see their money wasted in paying extravagant bills. The business man gets what he needs at the nearest place, and at the most reasonable prices, and it is only good business for the public money to be spent in the same way.

Kincheon.

Editor Banner—Will you give me space for a few lines concerning the 10 mill school law. Now, brother farmers, our greatest fault is we stay at home and work hard and when the men that do not sweat for bread get up a plan to get a purse for themselves we endorse it and never consider its merits. Now, let us consider where our public school system is drifting to. It reminds me of hogs pushing and shoving over a trough of slop; of course the big hogs push the little ones off and get the slop. In some of our districts, where one side has more voters than the other, they locate the school house on one side of the district and leave the children on the other side out of reach.

Of course the county board of education can't afford to give the children out of reach a transfer, for that would cause the strong side to vote against them, and it's better for all the children in the county to go uneducated than for one politician to be defeated

Think of the last State examination, only three white teachers passed. A third grade certificate is good for two years. In two years we have four examinations, 4x3—12 teachers for Chilton county, just enough for a few of the towns. You know the licensed teachers will get the public money.

Well, I am making my letter too long, so I will close by asking the people to think. As ever,

G. W. EDWARDS.

[illegible]

Editor Banner—Notwithstanding the call for all persons who are in sympathy with the present movement concerning holding of present surplus of cotton and reduction of acreage for the present year, I don't think a soul stirred in that direction in this community on the 11th inst. Isn't it strange, and nevertheless true, that just a few people in each church, school district, political beat meeting, county or State convention, and even in National affairs, run the country? It is because 95 per cent of people try to evade their duty as common citizens, especially in the enforcement of law and order either moral or otherwise. No one here took the lead and hence no meeting, but I feel almost certain old Verbena farmers will do the right thing at last. I, for one, disagree with the present movement from two standpoints, viz.: 1st, I favor more than 25 per cent reduction in acreage of cotton. 2d, I do not favor the 25 per cent reduction in use of guano, but advise all to cut acreage fully 40 or even 50 per cent, then add 100 pounds guano per acre; do your own work and if there is not profit in your cotton how can you expect to get it by reduction of use of fertilizer? All who have had experience in farming know that fertilizers have been the salvation of the Chilton county farmer. The average lands fo Chilton county, with 150 pounds fertilizer, makes a bale to three acres; with the use of 300 pounds for a few years the average would be a bale to two acres, with all good lands yielding 1000 to 1500 pounds, or bale to the acre. Don't all know this cotton is more easily cultivated, gathered and marketed in better time than little trifling late cotton?

Now, don't do as some have done or did in response to my allusion two weeks ago to the trade lists of certain houses, saying I was trying to influence trade to my own store, and hence jealous of the trade circular business. God bless you, my friends, I have nothing for sale except two or three mules, lot pure bred cows from $75 to $200 each, a smoke house full home raised bacon and a few dollars I am offering at 95¢ each. (Will write you about these 95¢ dollars later). I have no guano for sale, have all mine to buy just as you do, and if any of the good boys need me, I will stand by them while they hold cotton and reduce acreage. But take my advice, reduce acreage fully 40 per cent, then add 25 per cent to amount fertilizer and you are bound to make more money in the end.

Another thing, call for and demand a higher grade of guano and phosphate than in the past. I am now using as top dressing for oats guano that costs me $28.55 cash in car lots. I got the idea of a lot from Missouri farmers I met in the West last spring, who told me that 200 to 300 pounds guano sown as top dressing, which cost them $35 to $40 per ton, gave them an average increase in yield of ten to fifteen bushels wheat per acre. Thus you see by expending, say five dollars per acre in fertilizers, they get in return ten to fifteen dollars in wheat. I first sow my oats two to three bushels per acre according to grade of land, plough in with steel beam pony plow deep as I can, then top dress with 300 pounds high grade guano, and harrow to a level, then roll well and in so doing I pack my land which prevents killing by ordinary freezes. It is as well to top dress after spring sets in, as it is taken up by the growing crop just the same. Then, soon as oats are off, sow one to one and a half bushels peas to acre broadcast and turn in deeply and carefully harrow and roll land again and if you don't make seven to ten bushels peas to acre, I will "set 'em up," and if good land you need not be surprised at fifteen bushels to acre. In this way you increase your profits and improve your land all the time. I have selected a field near my house in which I never expect to put any crop again except oats in fall and peas in the summer, and this year I am going to show you 40 to 50 bushels oats to the acre and fully 15 bushels peas to the acre. If I fail in either, will report such failure; if I succeed, will do likewise, and I am not afraid of failing.

Now, let us hear from someone else along this line. Your paper was fairly well filled with communications last week. Let each one sign his name, if he differs with me I grant him the right.

F. A. GULLEDGE.

P. S. I saw a gentleman in your town today trying to get a telephone put through our county by some foreign corporation. Why this? There is plenty of money in Chilton county to take care of the cotton on hand, why can't we citizens form a company and build them all over our county, thus giving employment to our county people and keeping our money at home. Let our central office be at Clanton, and let our lines radiate to every nook and corner of our county. Let us hear from some of the money kings of Chilton on this subject. I, for one, am ready and willing, and would suggest that it be started on the co operative plan, thus allowing farmers and all others who wish to do so to participate in the work and profits to be gained therefrom.

As it has been some time since I have seen anything from this place, I ask for a space for a few words. As I went to Sunday school I heard the church bell ringing at Clanton and it did me good, for I felt that amidst the gloom and sorrow that some were trying to do good. Our church and Sunday school is moving along nicely, there seems to be more interest in our Sunday school then ever before We organized about six years ago and there has never been a vacation. Our church members do not drink strong drink and they give their money to help the support of the gospel So men and boys, let us leave off the drink that will doom our souls and give to help the cause of our Master.

SAD, BUT TRUE

The editor sat and studied awhile
And wondered what he should do,
For cash was scarce, and to make matters worse,
So many subscribers were due
That to himself he said here's a pretty go,
I can't go for 'em one at a time,
But perhaps they'll heed my tale of woe
And "cough up" to this rhyme.

Wadsworth

As old Uncle Dick has webbed up I will try to give you a few dots and scratches around Wadsworth.

Old Uncle Allen Rowell died a few days ago with old age, I guess it was old age, he was 110 years old. Uncle Joe Williams is dead; he was 87

Everybody is sick with lagrippe. I have never in my life heard as much talk of any two things as I have of lagrippe and cotton. Though I am truly glad that the men are taking the steps they are in regard to cotton, for I know that less cotton and more corn, peas, potatoes and hogs would pay better or do more good It is strange to me how a sensible man can see any money in going to town in the spring of the year and buying a fine mule on credit at $175 and get six or seven tons of fertilizer on a credit; then he will make his note for $175 for his supplies; then maybe he will get him a new wagon and fill it with something to eat and something fine to wear all the time. He will then get in his new wagon and drive off and feel as big and glad as if it was all paid for; and what he is proud of I can't see unless it is because the big man as it were, will credit him. He then will take his children, and nine out of every ten will take their wife and plant the place over in cotton and about the middle of May he will say I have got to get someone to help me to chop cotton, I just can't chop it all myself Then his wife will say don't hire anyone, I will have to wait on them and I had rather chop cotton than to wait on them and pay them besides. So here she and the children will go in the cotton patch and the children ought to be in school and maybe she ought to or feels more like being in bed. I don't wonder at poor women having catarrh, rheumatism and other female troubles. And the next thing is the doctor, he does no good, then it's to try Peruna or Liquozone and everything else that she hears of Anyway, he will plant 10¢ cotton and when he goes to sell it's 4 or 5¢. Now what is he to do? Though maybe he thinks as two Montgomery citizens have invented a machine that picks, gins and packs cotton in the field, that he can clear money in raising 4 cent cotton, but I can't see it that way, hog and hominy is the thing with me. If a man has got plenty of corn, hogs, milk and butter, chickens and eggs and a garden and other things that he can have on a farm he has got a good living, and what else does he want. He could live better and not work half so hard; his children could go to school more and do the work too. Now hoping that the smart men of the country will do the right and best thing in regard to cotton, I close.

That Tickling in the Throat.

One minute after taking One Minute Cough Cure that tickling in throat is gone. It acts in the throat—not the stomach. Harmless—good for children. A. L. Spofford, postmaster at Chester, Mich., says: "Our little girl was unconscious from strangulation during a sudden and terrible attack of croup. Three doses of One Minute Cough Cure half an hour apart speedily cured her. I cannot praise One Minute Cough Cure too much for what it has done in our family." It always gives relief. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

When You Have a Cold.

The first action when you have a cold should be to relieve the lungs. This is best accomplished by the free use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This Remedy liquefies the tough mucus and causes its expulsion from the air cells of the lungs, produces a free expectoration, and opens the secretions. A complete cure soon follows. This remedy will cure a severe cold in less time than any other treatment and it leaves the system in a natural and healthy condition. It counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Alabama Sunday-School Association.

The twenty second annual Convention of the Alabama Sunday School Association will be held in the city of Birmingham, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, April 25–27 next. The basis of representation is as follows: All officers of the State Association, five delegates at large from each county, all ministers of the gospel, the superintendent and two other delegates from each Sunday School.

The railroads of the State have granted a rate of one and one-third fare, on the certificate plan, to delegates attending the Convention. The delegates will be entertained by the Sunday school workers of Birmingham.

Croup

Begins with the symptoms of a common cold; there is chilliness, sneezing, sore throat, hot skin, quick pulse, hoarseness and impeded respiration. Give frequent small doses of Ballard's Horehound Syrup, (the child will cry for it) and at the first sign of a croupy cough apply frequently Ballard's Snow Liniment to the throat.

Mrs. A. Vliet, New Castle, Colo., writes, March 19, 1902: "I think Ballard's Horehound syrup a wonderful remedy, and so pleasant to take."

Commissioner's Sale of Land.

Under and by virtue of the mandate of a certain commission to me issued by the Probate Court of Chilton county, Alabama, I, as such Commissioner, will, on proceed to sell for distribution among Mary A. Gullahorn, Clifford A. Gullahorn et al, to the highest bidder, for cash, the following described real estate situated in Chilton county, Alabama, to wit:

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY, the 18th, 1905,

Nw 1-4 of se 1-4 and e 1-2 of sw 1-4, Section 4, Township 21, Range 14, and a ½ of sw 1-4, Section 26, Township 21, Range 15,

Said sale is to be conducted in front of the Court House door, in Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama, at public outcry.

This the first day of February, 1905.

ED SMITHERMAN, Commissioner.

Mortgage Sale.

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in the mortgage executed by S. A. Thorson and his wife Anna S. Thorson to J. W. Franzen on the 6th day of March, 1903, to secure an indebtedness of $150.00, which said mortgage was recorded in the office of the Judge of Probate of Chilton county, Alabama, in the record of Mortgages in volume 70 on page 19 on the 7th day of March, 1903, default having been made in the payment of the indebtedness secured by said mortgage, I, the said J. W. Franzen, will proceed to sell, at public outcry, to the highest bidder, for cash, within the legal hours of sale, in front of the Court House door, in Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama, on the following described real estate situated in the city of Thorsby, county of Chilton and State of Alabama, towit:

MONDAY, the 13th day of MARCH, 1905,

A parcel of land described as follows: Commencing 188 feet due west of the northwest corner of Lot number 15 in Block No. 10 of the city of Thorsby, Alabama, as per plat now on record, thence west 2.5 feet, thence south 288 feet, thence east 275 feet, thence north to starting point. Lots No. 1, 2, 15 and 16, in Block No 9 (60 feet street cancelled); Lots No 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22 and 23, in Block No. 18.

The said real estate is described and conveyed by said mortgage, and the said sale will be made for the purpose of paying said debt and interest thereon and such other items and charges as may be legitimate under said power of sale.

This, the 9th day of February, 1905.

SEVEREST BLIZZARD

Of Season is on, With Loss of Life, Property and Suspension of Traffic.

TWENTY MEN LOSE LIVES.

Zero Weather Extends to Memphis. Chicago Experiences Coldest Weather in Many Years.

Chicago, Ill.—Not during the last six years has the equal of the present cold weather been experienced in the west and in many places no such low temperatures have been recorded since the establishment of the weather bureau.

The area of the cold wave extends from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico, and from the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic. The line of zero weather is about in the latitude of Memphis, but all through the south freezing weather is reported. In the north the mercury has registered anywhere from zero to 45 degrees below, the latter mark being scored at Richland Center, Wis.

Trains everywhere in the west and northwest are from two to twelve hours late, and because of the packing fine snow in the cuts it is expected that it will be several days before the roads are able to restore the schedules, even if the weather moderates. Although details are lacking, it is estimated that about a score of people have lost their lives, the majority of the fatalities being in the southwest, where distances between houses and towns are great and shelter hard to find.

Heavy Loss of Cattle.

The loss of cattle on the range, particularly on those lying in the northern part of the southern tier of states, will be very heavy. W. E. Bolton, secretary of the Oklahoma Livestock Association, declared tonight that the livestock losses in the present cold weather will be the greatest since the blizzard of 1896. He places the number of head lost on the range in western Kansas, western Oklahoma and the Pan Handle of Texas at 50,000. Further north in Nebraska, and the Dakotas and Montana the stockmen are better prepared to shelter their stock, the cattle are better inured to cold, and it is not expected that their losses will be anything near as heavy as those on the ranges further to the south.

Officially speaking, this was the coldest day in Chicago since February 9, 1899, when the mercury registered 23 degrees below zero, which stands as the record for cold weather in the records of the local weather bureau. The official record was 19 below zero.

Ohio River is Solid Ice.

Evansville, Ind.—The coldest weather in fifteen years is prevailing throughout southern Indian, and the mercury is expected to go to 12 or 15 below zero Tuesday morning. The Ohio river is practically one solid cake of ice from Owensboro down. Several boats are reported frozen in the ice under the Louisville and Nashville bridge at Henderson, Ky. Thus far no damage has resulted here, as all local packets are in Green river.

Oldest Richmond Lawyer Dead.

Richmond, Va.—James M. Matthews, the Nestor of the Richmond bar, died here, aged eighty-three years. He was the author of several legal textbooks.

Witte Denies Peace Rumors.

Paris—The Petit Parisenne's correspondent at St. Petersburg says that in the course of an interview M. Witte, president of the committee of ministers, stated emphatically that he has not been charged with the mission of drawing up a preliminary report regarding a convention of peace.

Canoe-Foot Mail Service.

Ashville, Ala.—Ashville has been cut off from the outside world about one-third of the time for the last month, and the only way to get mail back and forth to Whitney was to go in a canoe part of the way and walk the balance of the way.

Rock Island, Ill.—A southbound double-head passenger train on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad, collided head-on with a switch engine at Moline Monday, killing Engineer William Doolin, of Chicago, and totally injuring Charles Steepleton, of Rock Island. No passengers were hurt.

Railroad Handicapped.

Mobile, Ala.—The Mobile, Jackson and Kansas City road is so badly handicapped by washouts that all passenger and freight service has been abandoned from Laurel, Miss., to Mobile. Several washouts have occurred between McLean and Beaumont, and the Pascogoula river has risen eighteen inches in the past twenty-four hours, and is still rising.

Heavy Snow in Chattanooga.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—Five inches of snow fell in this city Monday. The temperature fell to five degrees above zero this morning, and the predictions are that it will reach zero tonight. A high wind has prevailed all day. Business was practically at a standstill today, many factories closing until the weather moderates.

Cattleman Frozen to Death.

Guthrie, Okla.—Henry Ball, of Ponca City, a wealthy cattleman, was frozen to death near Ponca while driving.

Charles Williams, colored, was found today frozen stiff. Hundreds of cattle in western Oklahoma were frozen to death.

Train Stalled in Snow.

Nevada, Mo.—The Missouri Pacific sent a relief train from the Nevada headquarters Monday for Butler supplied with provisions and eatables. It goes to relieve a passenger train on the interstate line that has been blocked in eight feet of snow since Friday night between Madison and Gridley, Kans.

Coldest in Four Years.

Dallas, Tex.—The weather in Texas Monday has been the coldest in four years. The therometer at many points in north Texas registered from 7 above to 10 below zero at nightfall. The Denver road's six miles of track between Clarendon and Goodnight is under snow, and trains are unable to run.

In east Texas thousands of tomato plants have been frozen. Fruits are uninjured.

Ice Twenty-five Feet High.

Cumberland, Md.—An enormous ice gorge in the Cheat river at Rowlesburg, W. Va., a few miles west of Oakland, Md., is expected to move out any moment. For a space of three miles the ice is piled twenty-five feet high.

Fell on Ice and Broke a Hip.

Selma, Ala.—Mr. Green Butler, a well known employe of the Southern railway shops, became a victim of the sleet and ice. As he was coming out of his residence on East Water street, he slipped on the steps and in the fall broke his hip. It is feared that the injuries will cripple him for life.

Traffic Stopped in Anniston.

Anniston, Ala.—Two inches of snow fell here Monday morning and tied up traffic on electric lines until 4 p. m. The thermometer registered 8 above zero early in the morning and it is growing colder as the night advances.

Huntsville Schools Close.

Huntsville, Ala.—Street car traffic was suspended Monday because the tracks were blocked by the heaviest snow of the year. The temperature dropped to 6 degrees above. The severe weather caused the public schools to be discontinued.

Live Stock Killed by Exposure.

Dallas, Tex.—At 7 o'clock Monday morning the thermometer registered three degrees above zero, the coldest in five years. Much suffering is reported among the poorer classes, and live stock has been killed by exposure.

Flurry of Snow in Mobile.

Mobile, Ala.—The cold wave struck Mobile early Monday morning, the temperature beginning to fall about 10 o'clock. The weather bureau predicts a fall to 14 degrees by morning. There was a slight flurry of snow at noon

Prussian Strike Ends.

Batom, Prussia.—The strike here has ended. With the exception of some dock laborers, all workmen who have been idle for two weeks past, returned to work this morning.

Bessemer Giant Dead.

Birmingham, Ala.—Emmett Roberts, of Bessemer, the "giant," died at St. Vincent's hospital Monday morning at 10 o'clock, aged 21 years. The deceased had been confined to the hospital for three weeks. Roberts was seven feet six inches in height and weighed between 175 and 200 pounds.

Engineer Killed in M. and O. Wreck.

Mobile, Ala.—A Mobile and Ohio freight train ran into a washout at DeSoto Monday morning. Engineer Helm was killed and his colored fireman is reported missing. Joseph Arata, an extra fireman, was seriously injured.

Turkey is Arming.

London—The rapid progress of Turkish military preparations attracts attention here. War material is being constantly dispatched from Constantinople to Salonica and Adrianople. Fifty guns recently arrived at Monastir. Large supplies of uniforms have been ordered at reserve.

Swords of Honor to Pages.

Berlin—The princess of Meiningen, the kaiser's sister, recently gave swords of honor to her pages, inscribing each with the legend: "Thou shalt not kill."

Heavy Loss By Fire.

Oskaloosa, Ia.—Property valued at $150,000 was consumed by fire originating in the basement of a harness store here.

STATE HAPPENINGS

Of General and Local Interest as They Occur.

Two Highwaymen Arrested.

Birmingham, Ala.—Two of Birmingham's youthful highwaymen, it seems, have fallen into the clutches of the law.

Saturday the authorities in Bessemer arrested two young white men, T. J. Langford, aged 19 years, and J. Trout, aged 17 years, and last night this pair was identified by E. I. Simon, the well known liquor dealer.

One of the knives stolen from Mr. Simon was found in Langford's pocket, and Mr. Simon positively identified it.

When searched at Bessemer the authorities found a pistol on Langford and a slung shot on Trout. They had some money, three or four knives, but nothing else.

B. M. Brazeal, who was held up and robbed last week by three young men, will go to police headquarters and see if these are the same men who held him up. There is also a negro who was held up and robbed, and a young white man whose name is not known.

Spinning Mill in Receiver's Hands.

Huntsville, Ala.—The Madison spinning mill of this city has been placed in the hands of James R. Boyd, cashier of the Huntsville Bank and Trust Company, as receiver, by bankruptcy proceedings in the district court of the United States. A petition in bankruptcy was filed against the company late Friday afternoon by Cooper & Foster, attorneys for the petitioners all of whom are non-resident corporations. The bankrupt company is capitalized at $300,000, and their mill represents an investment of nearly that amount, has 16,000 spindles and employes 250 people. The receiver will probably continue to operate the plant for the benefit of the creditors.

Ore Contract Closed.

Bessemer, Ala.—The Tennessee Co. has closed a contract for the delivery of a large quantity of red ore for South Pittsburg, Tenn., the order calling for 380 cars, or about 10,000 tons, the shipments being made daily, a good train of ore going forward each day. The ore will be taken from Fossil Mines, near Bessemer. This is an addition to the demand of the company to supply its own works in this district, and is an advertisement of the growing demand for the rich ore of Red mountain. All of the company's mines on Red mountain are being run to their fullest capacity.

New Telephone System.

Albertville, Ala.—Albertville is to have a new telephone system, F. E. Ladd and Fred G. Warde, of Atlanta, representing the Southern Bell Telephone Company, have been in Albertville several days and have succeeded in securing enough subscribers to justify them in putting in a new exchange. The company will commence at once the construction of a new metallic line from Gadsden to Albertville and will later go on to Huntsville. Albertville is to have direct connection with the long distance system.

To Build New Market House.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—At a meeting of the board of mayor and aldermen the contract was awarded for building the new market house. The firm receiving the award was Thomas & Galligan, of Birmingham, who are at present engaged in remodeling the city prison, and who built the Leland Hardware Company's handsome building. The bid was $2,073. The work is to begin at once and will be pushed to a speedy conclusion.

Orchards Injured.

Valley Head, Ala.—In many places, especially on Lookout and Sand mountains, a great many orchards were entirely destroyed over large areas. In the last day or two, since the weather turned warmer and snow has melted largely and the ground has thawed and wagons have commenced running again. The roads, where unobstructed by fallen timbers are cut up into a thin mud and holes a foot or two deep.

Died from Burns.

Gadsden, Ala.—Mrs. Dan Shepherd, of Crossville, was so severely burned a few days ago that she succumbed to the wounds and died in great agony.

Loses His Arm.

Birmingham, Ala.—W. H. Wilson, a well-known machinist in the Sixteenth street yards of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, met with a horrible accident here Saturday afternoon about 4 o'clock, resulting in the loss of his arm, which was forcibly pulled from his body.

Saloon Proprietor Shot.

Birmingham, Ala.—Pat O'Hare, proprietor of a saloon on First avenue, between Eighteenth and Nineteenth streets, and a member of the city democratic executive committee, was shot in the hip and seriously wounded about 12 o'clock Monday night in a house of ill repute at Second avenue and Seventeenth street by Helen Banks, a white woman, who is the proprietress of the establishment.

May Start Canning Factory.

Florence, Ala.—Morris Cohen, representing the Memphis (Ind.) Canning Company, is in Florence with a view of starting a canning company in this locality. Mr. Cohen will organize a stock company with a capital stock of $30,000, provided the citizens of Florence will subscribe $5,000 of that amount, and he promises to pay 10 per cent. dividends in two years. The factory will can fruit, tomatoes, corn, pork and beans and every other suitable product of the county.

Railroad to Build Extension.

Demopolis, Ala.—On account of the increasing traffic here the Southern railway is arranging to put in additional switches. They will place one at Spocari 2,000 yards long, in order to properly handle the output of the cement factory. Demopolis is rejoicing over the fact and the people of Alabama have reason to be proud of it, that the cement manufactured here took first prize at the Louisiana Purchase exposition.

His Two Sons Burned to Death.

Anniston, Ala.—The fourteen-year-old son of Mr. William Broom, one of the three boys burned at Alexandria a few Sundays ago, died from the injuries sustained at that time. Of the three boys two were sons of Mr. Broom, and they were the two to sustain fatal injuries. The elder, nineteen years of age, was so badly burned that he died a short while afterward.

Fatal Wreck on M. and O.

Mobile, Ala.—A fatal freight wreck occurred at 6 o'clock Saturday morning on the Mobile and Ohio thirty miles south of Meridian, Miss. A southbound freight train ran into a washout, the engine turning over and derailing the entire train. Engineer Hein was instantly killed, a colored fireman, name unknown, fatally injured, and Joseph Arata, who was learning the road, severely scalded.

Held to Grand Jury.

Cullman, Ala.—City Marshal Wm. Schneider was given a hearing Saturday before Justice A. A. Griffith on the charge of assault with intent to murder John Mauder, and was bound over to the grand jury on a $1,000 bond, which he made. The shooting occurred last Saturday in Frank Arndt's saloon. Mauder is not fatally injured, but is suffering from pneumonia brought on by the wound.

Mines Inspected.

Birmingham, Ala.—Assistant State Mine Inspector Hillhouse has just returned from the western portion of the county, where he has for two weeks been on a tour of inspection. He reports a number of mines as hampered by water, some of them being compelled to temporarily shut down, while others were forced to work only on half time.

Two Negroes Shot.

Centerville, Ala.—Sook Woolley, who lives about seven miles from here, was called to his door Wednesday night and shot. Anderson Clark is under arrest for the shooting.

An old negro, named Cornwell, was shot Friday night by Frank Risinger. It is claimed the shooting was accidental.

Electric Lights and Waterworks.

Sylacauga, Ala.—The city council of Sylacauga has disposed of city bonds for about $20,000 and as soon as practicable the work of putting in an electric light and waterworks plant will be commenced.

Negro Found Murdered.

Decatur, Ala.—Mose Coffee, an 18-year-old negro boy, was found lying in a cotton field near Trinity, seven miles west of here, shot to death. Who his slayer was is unknown.

Iron Strong.

Birmingham, Ala.—The iron market is very strong at $14 for No. 2. One of the largest makers is quoted as saying to inquirers for large lots this week that nothing under that price would be considered.

Flood Stage is Reported.

Mobile, Ala.—The flood stage is reported on several rivers in Alabama. The Warrior at Tuscumbia is 55 feet deep and 60 feet are expected by night. People living in the lowlands are moving out. Much damage is reported at interior landings.

Child Dangerously Burned.

Guin, Ala.—Etma McCrary, the 4-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. J. McCrary, was dangerously burned at her home while playing before an open grate.

Boy Dies from Injuries.

Decatur, Ala.—Willie, 12-year-old son of W. A. Brown, who fell under a freight train Saturday, cutting off both legs, died last night.

Seriously Hurt in a Runaway.

Cottondale, Ala.—Mr. H. H. Reid, a well-known farmer who lives near here, was very seriously hurt Saturday morning in a runaway while going to Tuscaloosa. His mules became frightened and ran away and threw him out, breaking his left arm above the elbow and also bruising his left side very badly. He was carried to his home, where his injuries were attended by Dr. William Faulk.

ELECTRIC ROSE TINTS.

STRONG ARC RAYS TURN THEM TO BEAUTIFUL NEW SHADES.

Roses Produced That Are More Than Eight Inches in Diameter and Violets More Than an Inch Across—Sunlight Applied to Roots.

The following from the New York Herald is interesting and well written.

Flowers that bloom today exceed all creations of nature. Violets are doubled and tripled in size. A race of pansies has been raised up to measure two inches across their faces. Red roses have been turned into purple and black and white ones into all the colors of the rainbow. Rose bushes have been converted into trees and vines, bearing flowers in clusters, like grapes. Chrysanthemums have been made to bloom like sunflowers and lilies and tulips have been raised in darkness and light so that their original characteristics were almost totally obliterated.

In a modern plant experimental laboratory the electric light arc creates transformations that astonish the most hardened investigator. Night and day the bright light stimulates the plants in their growth, while all sunshine is cut out of the building. The delicate violet grows rapidly, maturing in flowers in a few weeks. The rose flower with most brilliant colors months ahead of its regular season. The reds are intensified in brightness, but they fade quickly. Born in a day and night, their period of usefulness is measured by the same short span of existence. When brought to the light of day they grow sickly and fade rapidly.

The electric arc has produced roses eight inches in diameter and violets more than an inch across. Tulips become giants, and chrysanthemums resemble cabbages in size. Experiments with electricity show further that the light modified by different colored globes produces varied results. Red globes intensify the growth and increase the brilliancy of colors, but they also weaken the vitality of the plants. The flowers quickly fall away and decay and the plants chills. White globes, which dissipate the rays and spread them more uniformly, make the plants grow steadily and satisfactorily. But the yellow globes so far have given the best satisfaction, while blue ones apparently neutralize the whole effect of the electric light.

Electricity is not life, but is stimulates life in plants. Its adaptation may yet revolutionize horticulture. In our homes lighted by electricity the conservatory becomes an experimental garden. We modify the lights with shades suited to the needs of the different potted plants. The sick ones are revived by a course in electric therapeutics. The pots are placed near the incandescent or arc lights according to the amount of light and stimulation they need, and under their powerful influence they revive, and their diseases are destroyed.

The disease producing insects cannot stand the fierce glare of the electric light placed within a few feet of them. They attempt to hide beneath the leaves or in the stems, but the light penetrates all, dislodging or destroying them. The powerful white rays are so destructive to insect life that a course of electric therapeutics is now used instead of poisonous sprays in laboratories to clean the plants.

In the homes where the electric light cannot be used, the employment of ordinary sunlight, magnified and modified by glass and mirrors, is made possible. The amateur flower grower will find the sunlight susceptible of considerable change and manipulation. First, the exclusion of all white rays by covering the windows with red glass or red curtains is important. The powerful rays directed on the plants stimulate and then destroy, driving away the insects.

The modified yellow and white rays are employed to increase or decrease the tendency of the flowers to bloom early. Forcing can be accomplished easily by means of the proper light, moisture, and heat. With mirrors placed in the consertvaory the sun's rays can be reflected upon the growing winter plants at all hours of the day. This is a gain which proves of inestimable value to one raising window plants under unfavorable surroundings. By means of a mirror placed outside the window the sun's rays are reflected inside, and then by means of smaller ones they are spread all over the conservatory.

Next in order is the employment of sunlight on the roots. Until recently this was not attempted. Now it is found that certain plants, such as palms and ferns, do far better when the light can penetrate the flower pots and reach the soil near the roots. Glass flower holders, therefore, have come into use for ferns and palms. The light, penetrating through the glass sides, does not exactly reach the roots, but shines upon the soil and keeps it "sweet." The effect is almost like magic. The roots come into use for ferns and palms. The insects, grubs and similar plant enemies cannot thrive in this light soil, and they rarely get a chance to injure the roots.

OUR AGRICULTURAL ANTS.

A Texas Species Operates a Communal Farm and Harvest Crops.

Entomologists recently have been making a study of certain ants, found in Texas and northern Mexico, which seem to be the most remarkable insects of their kind in existence. They have communal farms which they plant with seeds every spring, reap ing the harvest in the autumn storing it away in their subterra granaries. Apparently, they de for subsistence almost wholly this crop.

In parts of Sonora the farm these ants cover tracts that over many square miles, and p cally the only vegetation is the bearing grass planted by the Each settlement is plainly ind to the view by a circular patc bar ground from ten to thirty diameter, around which is a b strip of growing grain in sum In the center of the bare patch hole leading down to an ela system of rooms and galleries neath the surface.

Boys at Work.

Clement W. Andrews of Chic during the convention of the Am can Library Association at St. L visited a number of St. Louis fa ies.

In one of these inspections struck in the card room of a co mill, and all the card room boys up their work and disappeared by magic.

"Do all the boys," said Mr. A drews, smiling, "drop their tools instant the whistle blows?"

"Oh, no, not all of them," said card room boss. "The more or once have their tools put away that time."—Kansas City Journal.

Helps Women to Win and Hold Men's Admiration, Respect and Love

Woman's greatest gift is the power to inspire admiration, respect, and love. There is a beauty in health which is more attractive to men than mere regularity of feature.

Mrs. Chas. F. Brown

To be a successful wife, to retain the love and admiration of her husband, should be a woman's constant study. At the first indication of ill-health, painful or irregular menstruation, headache or backache, secure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begin its use.

Mrs. Chas. F. Brown, Vice-President Mothers' Club, 21 Cedar Terrace, Hot Springs, Ark., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"For nine years I dragged through a miserable existence, suffering with inflammation and falling of the womb, and worn out with pain and weariness. I one day noticed a statement by a woman suffering as I was, but who had been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I determined to try it. At the end of three months I was a different woman. Every one remarked about it, and my husband fell in love with me all over again. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound built up my entire system, cured the womb trouble, and I felt like a new woman. I am sure it will make every suffering woman strong, well and happy, as it has me."

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular menstruation, backache, bloating (or flatulence), leucorrhoea, falling, inflammation or ulceration of the uterus, ovarian troubles, that "bearing-down" feeling, dizziness, faintness, indigestion, or nervous prostration may be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. A BRILLIANT SUNDAY SERMON BY THE REV. A. C. DIXON, D. D.

Subject: The Book of Wisdom.

New York City.—The following sermon was contributed to the Union Gospel News by the Rev. A. C. Dixon, D. D. It is entitled "The Book of Wisdom," and is an appreciation of Proverbs. He took for his text, "The proverbs of Solomon, the son of David, king of Israel." Proverbs 1:1.

To preach a sermon on the whole book of Proverbs may be a difficult task, but I shall attempt it this morning in order that, if for no other reason, I may impress upon you the importance of reading the whole book at a sitting.

If we should read a part of a friend's letter and another part to-morrow, and another part the next day, we should have at the close a very confused notion of what he had written to us. The method which many have of reading the Bible by piecemeal may impart important instruction, but it does not give us the setting of the books nor a view of the Bible as a whole.

Readers of fiction think little of sitting up late at night that they may finish a thrilling story. If the lovers of God's Word would spend the same time reading it consecutively they would find it more thrilling than any book of fiction.

To a superficial observer, reading the book of Proverbs may be like reading the dictionary. The subject changes so often. And yet there is a plan in the book which a closer study shows to be an orderly arrangement.

The first nine verses are the preface, in which we have the use of proverbs. They enable us to "know wisdom and instruction, to perceive the words of understanding, to give subtlety to the simple, to the young man knowledge and discretion." If he hears and heeds then they will be an ornament of grace unto his head and chains about his neck. Each proverb is a jewel of wisdom more precious than rubies.

From the tenth to the nineteenth verses there is described the socialism of sin, and the young man is warned against it. "My son, if sinners entice thee, consent thou not." If they say, "Cast in thy lot among us, let us all have one purse," "Walk not thou in the way with them; refrain thy feet from their path; for their feet run evil, and make haste to shed blood." The social element in sin is one of its most dangerous features. The habit of social drinking has made many a drunkard. The social nature carries the young man to the saloon, the pool room, the gambling den, and entices him to destruction. Men and women go in flocks like sheep to the slaughter, and, when one tries to escape, the social nature becomes a lasso with which Satan drags his victim to the slaughter pen. It is so hard to tear away from congenial company. The social club has wrecked many a Christian for time and eternity. Watch, therefore, against the socialism of sin. When sensualists say, "Cast in thy lot among us, let us all have one purse," go the other way. Such a community of goods means a federation of death, which sooner or later will lead to destruction.

Beginning with the twentieth verse of the first chapter there is revealed to us the mission of wisdom. Many expositors believe that wisdom here refers to Christ, as He "is made wisdom for us." And He is certainly the incarnation of wisdom. But the simplest and most natural definition of wisdom, as it seems to us, is common sense. Common sense crieth without, she uttereth her voice in the street; she crieth in the chief place of concourse, in the openings of the gates. Wherever a man goes his common sense appeals to him to fear God and keep His commandments.

If he refuses he will sooner or later see his mistake, and the Common Sense that called upon him will laugh at his discomfiture: "Because I have called, and ye refused; I have stretched out my hand, and no man regarded; but ye have set at naught all my counsel, I will also laugh at your calamity, I will mock when your fear cometh."

I do not believe that God in this passage is represented as laughing at the calamity or mocking at the fear of anyone. Our Common Sense laughs at us and mocks us when distress and anguish come upon us. We saw what we ought to have done and did it not. We appreciate opportunities lost, never to return, and in such a condition we call upon our Common Sense, but get no answer, for it has no remedy to supply. We seek the resources of wisdom, but we cannot find them, for that we hated knowledge and did not choose the fear of the Lord. "Therefore they shall eat of the fruit of their own way and be filled with devices." The mission of wisdom calling to us from every quarter, is to lead us to do right, to trust God and walk in His ways, and if we fail to hear this voice and heed its counsels there will come a time when this very wisdom will be our greatest distress.

The first eighteen verses of the third chapter establish the fact that godliness pays, even though chastisements come with it. And this chapter furnishes a motto which every Christian ought to adopt as the rule of his life: "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart, and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge Him, and He shall direct thy paths. Be not wise in thine own eyes; fear the Lord and depart from evil. It shall be health to thy navel, and marrow to thy bones. Honor the Lord with thy substance, and with the first fruits of all thine increase; so shall thy barns be filled with plenty, and thy presses shall burst out with new wine."

The man whose trust is in the Lord, with entire lack of confidence in himself, God will direct, and the man who honors the Lord with the first fruits shall have an increase of wealth. This, of course, applies to the Old Testament dispensation, when wealth was the result of faithfulness. But under the reign of grace there is something better than money promised. There may come poverty and persecution, and with this true prosperity. We are not to expect pay in money for services rendered to God, but if we are faithful we can plead the promise that He will "supply all our need according to His riches in glory by Christ Jesus."

[illegible] to the use of proverbs, the socialism of sin, the mission of wisdom, and the reward of godliness, which constitute a [illegible]. It is not [illegible] will be necessary [illegible] finish the [illegible] read the book.

The application of the Proverbs of Solomon to the family life will make a perfect home. "He that spareth the rod hateth his son, but he that loveth him chasteneth him betimes." Modern sentimentalists pronounce this old-fogyish, and inveigh against its cruelty, but you will notice that the homes in which disobedience has become associated with punishment, and disobedience with reward, send forth into the world the manliest sons and most womanly daughters. To refuse to administer loving chastisement to a child is to train him in a life of disobedience that will unfit him for citizenship in the State or usefulness in the church.

Let there be no anger, for anger only provokes anger. Love can administer chastisement with regret and tears, but it must not shrink from the duty.

"Keep thy heart with all diligence, for out of it are the issues of life." This proverb expresses the teaching of Jesus Christ. The heart is the source of good or evil, and if the heart is right the life will be right. Let Jesus Christ fully occupy the heart, and you may be careless about everything else. Over the archway in the old Tombs prison in New York were the words: "The way of transgressors is hard," and every criminal who passed beneath it needed no argument to prove its truth.

On the walls of every store should be hung the words: "A false weight is abomination to the Lord, but a just weight is His delight." Our God believes in fair dealing. The man who gives good measure pleases Him, and we need to know that honesty in trade is as holy a thing as prayer.

And when you hear anyone laughing at an oath, a vulgar remark, or a wicked deal, quietly repeat the words: "Fools make a mock at sin." The man who plays with the poisonous adder is wise compared with him who sports with sin or treats it lightly.

If you are tempted to surrender your convictions in order that you may further your interests, social or financial, recall the words: "Buy the truth and sell it not." They will give stiffness to your moral backbone and stamina to your character. No man can afford to hold the truth for sale. It is the most priceless thing that he can possess, and whatever the father of lies may offer him for it, he should scorn the price with contempt.

There are so many of these that barely to mention them would take the time of a sermon. "A merry heart doeth good like a medicine." If, therefore, you would save the doctor's bill, be merry in heart, and if you have true heart merriment, let Christ the Lord of joy reign there. Link with this proverb its opposite: "He that loveth pleasure shall be a poor man." The pleasure-seeking spirit brings poverty of soul and purse. The man and woman whose sole object in life is to have a good time rarely have a merry heart. Their laughter is hollow, because their very pleasures have become a burden. "The fear of the Lord prolongeth days." If, therefore, you wish to live to a ripe old age, cultivate the fear of God, which will cast out all other fear. "He that walketh uprightly walketh surely." The position of stability is not in prostrating yourself, or crawling, or creeping after the world's fashion, but in the upright walk of a manly, conscientious life.

The man who has wandered from God needs only to hear the words: "The backslider in heart shall be filled with his own ways," to realize that they apply to him. God's way is the way of light, peace and joy. Our way without God is the way of darkness, turmoil and despair. The backslider who has turned from God's ways to his own ways is truly to be pitied. When our hearts seem unprepared and our tongues are not right for service, let us recall the fact that "The preparation of the heart and the answer of the tongue is from the Lord." We will then give the heart to the Lord that He may prepare it, and surrender the tongue to him that he may use it.

And then we will experience the truth of the other proverb, "Whoso trusteth in the Lord, happy is he." And in hours of conscious weakness we will repeat with triumph, "The name of the Lord is a strong tower, the righteous runneth into it and is safe."

All these proverbs make a mosaic of rare beauty. They form the parts of an oratorio, every note harmonizing with every other note, and filling the life with sweetest music. And yet we may be saved the trouble of committing them all to memory and remembering them in emergencies, if we will but realize that Jesus Christ, who is the truth, lives and is with us every day.

If we need wisdom, we ask Him and He gives liberally. If we are tempted, we turn to Him for succor. If we are weak, we rely upon Him for strength, and after every conflict we can say, "Thanks be to God who giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ."

Prayer a Mighty Power.

There are those who ridicule the idea that prayer can actually accomplish anything, because they cannot understand how prayer can either affect God's action or change in any way the current of events on earth. Such reasoning is extremely shallow. The wisest man cannot tell the why or the wherefore of some of the commonest facts of natural science; is it not childish then for any man to undertake to limit spiritual truth by the measure of his capacity to see the reason for it or the reasonableness of it? Facts are facts whether they agree with any system of logic or not. And the fact that prayer is a mighty power is attested by abundant and incontestable facts.

Watch For Opportunities.

Watch, lest those duties of kindly benevolence which God puts in the way of all be left unnoticed, unfulfilled, while each one doubts whether it can be his business to step forward and meet them. Watch, for we know not how soon our means of earthly usefulness, our opportunities for faithful service of God on earth, may end.—J. Edwin Odgers.

DANGERS TO BE AVOIDED IN FEBRUARY.

[illegible] Catarrh.
Sudden Changes Breed Catarrh.
WINTER SCENE IN THE SOUTH WINTER SCENE IN THE NORTH Severe Weather.
Rest.

February is a month of severe storms and intense cold.

Even in the South where the prevailing temperature is much above wintry latitudes, February brings sudden changes of temperature.

Mercury sometimes drops 20 degrees in a single night.

Therefore, the following health hints are applicable to the whole of North America:

Ventilation.

The sleeping rooms should be well ventilated, but so as to avoid direct currents of air.

Bathing.

Those in vigorous health should take a cold water towel bath every morning before breakfast. Those in feeble health should take a brisk dry-towel-rub every morning.

Diet.

The diet should be a generous one, including meat, and occasionally fresh vegetables.

Sunshine.

The nights being long and the days short, as much sunshine as possible should be let into the house during the day.

Clothing.

The head should be kept cool at all times. The feet should be kept warm and dry, day and night.

Pe-ru-na.

When unavoidably exposed to cold or wet, a few doses of Peruna will avert bad consequences.

Precaution.

When seized with a chill, or even slight chilliness, a dose of Peruna should be taken at once.

As much sleep as possible should be obtained in the forepart of the night.

Catarrh of Head.

Mr. Frank Cobb, 173 Summit Street, Deering, Me., writes:

"I was troubled with catarrh in my head. I wrote to Dr. Hartman for advice and he prescribed Peruna.

"I took it and am happy to say it helped me at once. I feel better than I have for years."

Bronchial Trouble.

Mr. J. Ed. O'Brien, Pres. American Pilot Ass'n, Pensacola, Fla., writes:

"I heartily give my endorsement to Peruna as an effective cure for catarrh and bronchial trouble."

Throat and Lungs.

Frank Battle, Jr., 111 N. Market St., Nashville, Tenn., writes:

"Peruna has cured me of chronic bronchitis.

"It is the grandest discovery of the age for the throat and lungs."

Pneumonia.

Mr. A. C. Danforth, St. Joseph, Mich., writes:

"I contracted a severe cold, which settled on my lungs. I was threatened with pneumonia.

"Peruna gave me relief within a couple of days. Three bottles saved me a large doctor bill and a great deal of suffering."

Thousands of Testimonials.

We have on file thousands of testimonials like the above. We can give our readers only a slight glimpse of the vast array of unsolicited endorsements Dr. Hartman is constantly receiving.

THE LUMBER INDUSTRY

From the Birmingham Age-Herald.

Perhaps few of the patrons of your paper who read the lengthy and interesting interview from ex Governor E E. Jackson of Maryland, published a few days since, know anything of the important part he is taking in the development of the material resources of this part of Alabama. He has been for the past twelve years at the head of the firm of E. E. Jackson & Co. lumber plant located at Riderville, one mile north of this station on the Southern railway. The first mill was located here in 1880 by the well known firm of Welch & Brother. This firm operated an up to date mill from the start, built their own logging road, and put in an artificial lake to float the logs as they were brought in daily from their logging camp, and was run regularly by them until 1893, when the plant was purchased by E. E. Jackson Lumber Company, at the head of which is ex Governor E. E. Jackson, and as general manager in charge, H. H. Rider, for whom the place is named Riderville, Ala. Recently the other owner of the property, E. E. Jackson, Jr., has moved to Riderville with his family from Baltimore, Md.

The governor only comes here now occasionally on a visit, leaving the sole management in the hands of Mr. Rider and his son, E. E. Jackson, Jr.

After running here three years the sawmill department burned, which was replaced immediately with one of the largest and most complete sawmill plants in the south. It is now a double mill, one band and the other circular. The mill capacity of 150,000 feet of per day, as they run every They only lost one-half day ear, and that was to let the tives hear Congressman speak—in the latter part of O

Wine of Cardui Cured Her.

213 South Prior Street,
ATLANTA, GA., March 21, 1903.

I suffered for four months with extreme nervousness and lassitude. I had a sinking feeling in my stomach which no medicine seemed to relieve, and losing my appetite I became weak and lost my vitality. In three weeks I lost fourteen pounds of flesh and felt that I must find speedy relief to regain my health. Having heard Wine of Cardui praised by several of my friends, I sent for a bottle and was certainly very pleased with the results. Within three days my appetite returned and my stomach troubled me no more. I could digest my food without difficulty and the nervousness gradually diminished. Nature performed her functions without difficulty and I am once more a happy and well woman.

Shoults.

We are having some bad weather now. It is raining every day.

Mr. George Woolley has returned home from school at Marion.

Last Friday evening our school had a writing contest, the one that got best gets a book, and the one that gets the best in each class gets a magazine. The scholars had to vote between 6 or 7. Miss Nora Waller got the book and Miss Rose Ellis the magazine.

Mrs. Noah near Maplesville was found dead on her bed last week.

There will be preaching at Pleasant Grove Sunday by Rev. Martin.

Miss Armour Woolley is on the sick list this week.

The advanced class will have their examination in History and Agriculture Monday and Wednesday.

There is a great deal of sickness in this community of late.

We have only one rule at school, and that is "do right," and that includes everything.

Our school motto is "do what conscience says is right, do what reason says is best, do with all your mind and might, do your duty and be blest."

We are sorry so many of our pupils are quitting school. We never have any whipping in our school.

Maurice Woolley, one of our seven year old boys, skips from the chart to second reader. He reads and spells well.

School Report. Splendid: Fay Hicks, Ed Ellis, Bessie Hall, A. C. Maness, Buford Lawrence, Walker Shoults, Wilder Shoults, Clarence Latham.

Excellent: Rosa Ellis, Gertrude Woolley, Willie Walker, Nora Wallace, Hinton Lawrence, Cleve Latham, Alfred Lawrence, I. M. Hicks, Inez Hicks, Bert Walker, Jeff Ellis, Bud Kienner, Maurice Woolley.

Vine Hill.

Mrs. Mary Purifoy of Marion is visiting this place where she was called to see her brother, Mr. Vote Harville, who is very ill. We wish him a quick recovery.

Mr. Aich Samples of Riderville was at this place recently on business

The recent entertainment given by the misses Mills was very much enjoyed by all who attended.

Mr. John Burns of Burnsville was a visitor of the Messrs. Harvilles recently.

Miss Ophelia Cook is visiting her sister near here this week.

Mr. Frank Deramus and Mrs. Rush near Plantersville, visited realitives near here recently.

Mr. Edd Moore was in Vine Hill recently on business.

Mr. Daliis McCarriell was the guest of his cousin Mrs. Mamie Stillwell recently.

Mr. Cliff Cook of Stanton payed his home folks a visent recently.

Our school vacated Friday and we were sorry to part with our teacher. Prof. Hinton.

Mr. Will Berrie and wife left last Monday for their home in South Carolina.

Rev. Davis of Plantersville was a welcome visitor of Mr. G. R. Roy and family last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dutch Roy attended services at Plantersville Sunday.

We are sorry to state Col. Rush of this place is very ill.

In the hour of our bereavement a deep silence, a calm prevades our hearts. For death has taken from us a well beloved friend, a devoted wife and an affectionate mother. We feel the need of a strong faith in that Divine Providence which doeth all things well, to realize that what to us seems an irreparable loss must be to our friend, Mrs. Eliza Ann Williams. She joined the Methodist church at Jones Switch when about forty years old and was a faithful and true member during the remainder of long life. Mrs. Williams was the mother of seven children, two of whom crossed the beautiful rive when sweet little babies and await her at the beautiful gate For many months prior to her passing away she was a constant sufferer. She was denied the privilige of the sanctuary, but her love for and interest in the church never waned. She bore her afflictions with christian fortitude, all the while waiting patiently the time of her translation to the "house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens." She was a good Samaritain to all who were sick or in distress. What a blessing she was in the neighborhood where she lived. She will be greatly missed.

Mrs. Williams was carried to her last resting place in a quite grave yard at Jones Switch, followed by a long train of sorrowing relatives and friends, where her funeral was conducted by her pastor, Rev. Davis, after which she was laid away in the silent grave to rest until the morning of the resurrection. May God bless the grief stricken husband and sorely bereaved children.

Perfect Confidence.

Where there used to be a feeling of uneasiness and worry in the household when a child showed symptom of croup, there is now perfect confidence. This is owing to the uniform success of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the treatment of that disease Mrs. M. I. Basford, of Poolsville, Md., in speaking of her experience in the use of that remedy says: "I have a world of confidence in Chamberlain's Couph Remedy for I have used it with perfect success. My child, Garland, is subject to severe attacks of croup and it always gives him prompt relief." For sale Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Adams.

I will give the Banner a few dots from here. We are having some lagrippe around here, which we think is caused by so much cold and rain. We gladly welcome spring when it comes.

Miss Cunningham's school is progressing nicely at this place.

The farmers have been hauling fertilizer from this place this week. Guess they are fixing to raise some more five cent cotton.

Mrs. Isabella Ramsey is visiting her father at Active.

D. Rawlinson and Monroe Roebuck made a business trip to Clanton this week.

Misses Belle McCary and Bessie Hayes are visiting friends at Prattville this week; hope they will have an enjoyable time.

Well, as this is my first, I had better close with best wishes to the Banner. TAR HEEL.

Thorsby.

Although our weather continues bad, we had three services last Sunday night—Rev. Eckford at public school hall, Rev. Moore at college hall, Rev. Nautaulis at Swedish church.

Mr. White is very glad to be welcomed back to Thorsby.

Dr. Nix has left hosts of friends here and he will try a warmer climate; Mrs. Nix will remain in Thorsby for a few weeks.

Messrs. J. E. Robinson and Joe Johnson and Miss Katie Aldridge of Clanton visited Miss Daisy Ray on Sunday.

Miss Freeda Turnquist has again left Thorsby friends for Birmingham.

Mr. J. O. Ray and wife left for their new home at Andalusia, Ala. Feb. 20. While Mr. Ray was highly appreciated at Thorsby, our people welcome an old and esteemed incumbent as station agent, Mr. P. C. Smith.

The sale bills of Mr. Anton Thorson's household goods cause us to realize that another change has taken place, Mr. Thorson's family will remove to the regret of their friends. CITIZEN.

Another Case of Rheumatism Cured by Chamberlain's Pain Balm.

"Well," was the Governor's reply, "you will have to get into the line already formed and take your chances."

The very great changes that have been wrought in machine-shop equipment during the past few years have hit many of the older mechanics pretty hard, says the Literary Digest. A good deal of significance is contained in the remark of one such man: "I have had to learn over my trade three times, and I'm too old to learn it again." He had been given a difficult job to do on a modern engine lathe containing the latest useful mechanisms for saving labor and procuring accurate work, and because he did not understand the tool he failed in his efforts until a younger machinist came to his assistance.

It is, however, even easier to acquire a large general knowledge than an advanced special knowledge of one narrow subject. The specialty must not be too narrow either. It is often said that the pursuit of knowledge has a nobility of its own. But what knowledge? No knowledge is worth obtaining for its own or any other sake, unless it is or will probably be useful to man.

ALABAMA STATE EVENTS.

Items of Interest Gathered as They Transpire Over the Entire State.

Young Woman Leaves Baby.

Mobile, Ala.—Thursday afternoon a well dressed young woman arrived here on the northbound Louisville and Nashville train. She went to a boarding house. She stated she was from New Orleans, and asked for and paid for a room. She placed her babe on a bed and requested that it be looked after until she could make some purchases. Late that afternoon she had failed to return. The babe began crying, and on entering the room and examining the child a paper was found pinned on its breast, the word "Martha" written thereon. A piece of wrapping paper on the bed showed the name Hattiesburg, Miss. The woman is thought to have left the city. The police department was notified and a search for the woman was made to no avail.

Colored Family's Troubles.

Girard, Ala.—A colored preacher named Delenger had a lively time with his wife and her people last night and considerable excitement was caused in that part of Girard. His wife rushed into F. C. Stagg's store and asked the people there to telephone for an officer, as her husband was killing her. The message had hardly been sent before in came the husband himself limping badly and with a stick in his hand, which he declared was for protection. He said that his wife and whole family were after him, including his mother-in-law, and that in the melee some one struck him on the leg. He, too, was looking for an officer.

Increases Stock.

Birmingham, Ala.—At a meeting of the stockholders of the American Trust and Savings Bank the proposed increase of $100,000 in the capital stock of the institution was ratified and the committee authorized to proportion the new issue of stock among those who had applied for the same. It is to be sold at $150 per share.

The capital stock of this institution now will be $200,000. In addition to its capital the American Trust has a surplus of $75,000.

Work of Incendiary.

Gadsden, Ala.—Fire destroyed the drug store of Adams-Nowlin Drug Company in Alabama City at 2 o'clock Saturday morning. The fire was of incendiary origin and originated in front of the store. The entire stock is a complete loss, also the building.

Adams-Nowlin Drug Company place their loss at $5,000; insurance, $2,250. The building belonged to the Dwight Manufacturing Company, on which the loss was $1,500, fully insured. Dr. W. H. Acton lost his library.

The large store of Frank & Hagedorn, adjoining, narrowly escaped destruction, catching fire several times.

Drugged and Robbed.

Anniston, Ala.—A white man named Rutledge reported at police headquarters that he had been drugged and robbed by two white men, whom he did not know, and had only a faint recollection as to their description.

Rutledge came to Anniston en route from his home near Boaz to Temple, Ga. He had a friend he was to meet at Aderhold's restaurant and proceeded to the depot to take the train to Temple. This friend did not show up as expected and he encountered two strangers, who invited him to have a drink. He does not remember much else than that he found himself at the depot with his pocketbook missing. He said that he had $13 in the book, all he possessed.

Bomar in Jacksonville.

Birmingham, Ala.—Word has been received here from Dr. R. J. Willingham, corresponding secretary of the Baptist foreign mission board that Dr. E. E. Bomar has been located in Jacksonville, Fla., where he is very ill. Friends have gone to his assistance.

Sixteen Cars Wrecked.

Scottsboro, Ala.—A freight wreck at Limrock, six miles west of Scottsboro at an early hour Thursday morning resulted in the derailing of sixteen cars and tearing up of the tracks of the Southern railway for a distance of 100 yards. All trains on this end of the road a re delayed from ten to twelve hours. No one killed. No. 35 westbound passenger train, used the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis tracks to Deckerd via Elora and Huntsville. No mail at this place for eighteen hours. The wreck was caused by a broken flange on one of the freight cars.

Two Killed in R eeder's Mine.

Bessemer, Ala.,—Robert W. Wright, aged 33, and Dave Wright, aged 31, both brothers, were killed by an explosion at Reeder's mines on Red mountain. The men were miners, and in drilling in room No. 4 struck a charge of dynamite that had been left in one of the holes by the men on the day shift. W. Odum, who was standing near by, was also painfully injured by the explosion.

Shot in a Fray.

Birmingham, Ala.—Helen-Bess, the ore mining camp across the mountain from Lakeview, was the scene of a lively scrap Thursday afternoon about 4 o'clock, exaggerated reports of which reached Birmingham and caused considerable excitement.

A telephone message was received at the sheriff's office to the effect that four men had been shot and severely wounded and that the negroes and white men were up in arms against each other. Four deputy sheriffs were sent to the mines at once, but they found comparatively little trouble over there.

A negro named Homer Chester was shot in the back of the neck and badly wounded by W. B. Brittain, a white man, who fired in order to prevent the negro from cutting him and his father-in-law, who were standing together.

The negro was drunk and was chasing an old white man named Bellinger around with a knife. John Renfroe, another white man, and this negro had been drinking, and it seems that they had a grudge against Bellinger. They went to his house with the avowed purpose of "doing" him. The old man rose to the emergency and knocked Renfroe down, breaking his nose, but he had no weapon with which to defend himself against the negro. Bellinger ran between Brittain and his father-in-law, and the negro cut at him as he did so. He missed Bellinger, and in his excitement commenced cutting at Mr. Brittain, who drew a pistol and shot the negro.

Jury Justifies the Deed.

Jacksonville, Ala.—Owen Loadholtz was ordered released from jail by the coroner, who conducted an inquest over the body of Miss Mary Brown. The young woman was killed and her mother seriously and probably fatally wounded by Loadholtz in a shooting affray in a justice court Monday. Loadholtz had been brought into court upon criminal charges by Miss Brown. She was accompanied by her mother, and when the court announced a postponement of the case mother and daughter began firing on Loadholtz. He returned the fire, killing the young woman and wounding her mother. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide.

Train Robbers at Work.

Montgomery, Ala.—Thieves, who concealed themselves in cars of an outgoing freight train of the Central of Georgia railroad, threw considerable freight off the train and alighted with it as the cars were passing through Highland Park about midnight.

The railroad section foreman, coming upon the thieves as they were about to carry off their booty, was fired upon.

A telephone message was sent to police headquarters, and Police Captain W. H. Taylor with a squad of mounted officers hurried to Highland Park to pursue the robbers.

Pipe Works Exempted from Taxes.

Gadsden, Ala.—At the session of the county commissioners the pipe works plant of the Coosa Pipe and Foundry Company, which is now erecting one of the largest pipe plants in the south in this city, was exempted from taxation for a period of five years. The city had already exempted them from city taxes and privilege tax for the same length of time. This plant will employ 500 men when it is completed, and Gadsden is doing all in her power to foster this industry and all others that may locate here.

Second Lieutenant Resigns.

Enterprise, Ala.—The resignation of G. W. Carlisle, second lieutenant of the Enterprise company, First Infantry, Alabama National Guard, was received by Adjutant-General W. W. Brandon. General Brandon immediately ordered an election to be held.

A Runaway Marriage.

Girard, Ala.—Miss Emma Favors, daughter of Alderman J. W. Favors, of Columbus, and Jesse McCraney, of the same city, ran away to Girard Thursday afternoon and were married in the parsonage of the Baptist church, Rev. B. S. Railey performing the ceremony.

Centerville, Ala.—The notorious negro criminal, "Sugar Foot," who has given the officers and the convict authorities of Bibb county a great deal of trouble, was arrested in Columbus, Miss., Friday night, and Sheriff Crawford will leave tomorrow for that place to bring him back to the scene of his various crimes.

Supreme Court Adjourns.

Montgomery, Ala.—The supreme court has adjourned and will not be in session again until April 3. This completes the first meeting of the new supreme court of seven justices, and they have done splendid work, as may be seen upon examining the number of cases decided. The state needed seven justices, and now the work of that court can be gotten through in a much shorter time.

Freight Wreck.

Scottsboro, Ala.—A freight wreck at Limrock, six miles west of Scottsboro, at an early hour Thursday morning resulted in the demolishing of sixteen cars and tearing up the tracks of the Southern Railway for a distance of 100 yards. All train on this end of the road were delayed from ten to twelve hours. No one will killed. No. 35, westbound passenger train, used the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis tracks to Deckerd via Elora and Huntsville. There was no mail at this place for eighteen hours. The wreck was caused by a broken flange on one of the freight cars.

Both Acquitted.

Greenville, Ala.—The case of Katie Johnson, indicted for murder in the first degree as accomplice with her father, John Henry Johnson, to the killing of George L. Bryan on June 10, 1904, was tried in the circuit court before Judge J. C. Richardson and acquitted Thursday.

Maggie Johnson, like her sister Katie, was Friday freed of the charge of the murder of George Bryan by a jury of Butler county. After deliberating for twelve hours the jury Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock brought in a verdict of not guilty, and the second of the unfortunate sisters was free to go her way.

Another Stove Explodes.

Gadsden, Ala.—The range of the Commercial Hotel, which exploded on account of the freezing up of the water pipes, came very near being a disastrous affair. Miss Gypsy, the youngest daughter of Mr. Robert Lewis, the proprietor, was standing near the range when it exploded, and her hands were severely scalded. The building caught fire, but was quickly extinguished.

A piece of the stove struck the kitchen safe and demolished it, while the hat rack was crushed. A piece of the range went out of the window and struck the ground seventy-five feet off. The damage was about $200. No one was seriously hurt, which was very fortunate. Only one guest was in the dining room at the time.

Mobile and Ohio Holds its Annual Meeting.

Mobile, Ala.—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Mobile and Ohio, held in this city, elected the following directors: W. Butler Duncan, Samuel Spencer, C. C. Cuyler, Adrian Iselin, Jr., Thomas R. Jevons, Henry Hall, W. Emlin Roosevelt, E. L. Russell, C. Sidney Shepard, A. H. Stevens, Samuel Wolverton, R. D. Landford and A. W. Mackintosh.

Strike at Dynamite Mills.

Birmingham, Ala.—The employes of the Sterling dynamite mills went on a strike Friday, declining to accept a reduction in wages. Pending the rebuilding of that portion of the plant which was demolished last week by an explosion, the company decided on a cut in wages. The men declined to accept the reduction and quit.

Highwaymen Held Without Bond.

Birmingham(Ala.—Jim and John Blackstock, cousins, and Jim Lathem were Thursday remanded to jail without bond to await trial in the criminal court on the charge of highway robbery. They were given a preliminary hearing before Judge Feagin Thursday afternoon in the police court, several people who were held up and robbed testified against them and positively identifying them.

Cold Weather Crippled Mines.

Huntsville, Ala.—The cold weather has largely crippled the coal mines operating in North Alabama and Southern Tennessee. Many of the mines are "froze up" and have been compelled to suspend operations until more favorable weather.

Few Fires in Huntsville.

Huntsville, Ala.—The fire loss in Huntsville this winter has so far been smaller than any other winter in the last fifteen or twenty years. There has not been half a dozen destructive fires during the winter and the last blaze was on January 23d, when a small residence was burned.

Long Run Around.

Birmingham, Ala.—A landslide occurred Friday on the main line of the Louisville and Nashville between Graces and Tacoa, necessitating the running of a number of through southbound Louisville and Nashville trains via Bessemer. The distance around the loop is about seventy-five miles, while the gap cut out by the slide was only ten miles.

Mrs. Leach Very Ill.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—Mrs. Elizabeth Fitts Leach, sister of J. H. Fitts, of this city, is very desperately ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. K. Kirkham, on Third street and Twenty-second avenue.

Hunting Accident.

Uniontown, Ala.—Tom Ware and Mr. D. W. Reynolds started out to hunt robins, and before they got out of town Tom Ware slipped off of a walk and his gun exploded, shooting Mr. Reynolds in the right hand and arm. The wound is not dangerous. Edward White while shooting robins rested his gun on his foot and it went off. The whole load went entirely through his foot. He is doing very well at present.

BACTERIA BULLETIN.

The Department of Agriculture Will Aid the Farmers in an Experimental Way.

NITROGEN BACTERIA FURNISHED

By Members of Congress on Application—Report of Result of Same Desired by Department.

Washington, D. C.—A letter from Dr. B. T. Galloway, Chief of the bureau of Plant Industry, which follows, explains itself.

The information by the Agricultural Department that it is prepared to furnish free this spring inoculating material to a limited extent for any of the leguminous crops, such as alfalfa, cowpeas, clover, soy beans, etc. The department is doing all in its power to encourage the preparation of bacteria by private individuals, but realizes that some time must elapse before farmers will be in a position to get reliable material at reasonable cost. Those interested in the matter should give the various suggestions set forth in this communication careful consideration. It is the purpose of the department to have the bacteria thoroughly tested, and to this end it will send the organisms with full direction to those who express a desire to undertake this co-operative work and will agree to furnish a report of the results accomplished at the end of the season.

Nature has furnished in the air itself all the nitrogen which the soil needs for its recuperation, and nature's plan for drawing the nitrogen back into the soil is through leguminous plants. Every one is familiar with the fact that cow peas are a great fertilizer and restorer to the soil. This is equally true of all other leguminous plants. This process is due to the condition of these plants which enables them to draw nitrogen from the air and restore it to the soil. Anything that hastens and increases this tendency in these plants is of course beneficial.

If the reports received from the department in reference to the use of bacteria can be relied upon, no more important discovery has been made within recent years.

We are in the midst of a great agitation for the reduction of our cotton acreage. That this will, and ought to be done, I have no doubt, for we can not produce a greater supply than the world needs without injury to the price of the total crop, and the manifest remedy, of course, is the reduction of acreage. Everybody assents to this proposition, but the practical question is, if we reduce cotton acreage 25 per cent what are we to do with the labor? Under the whip and spur of necessity, we might better afford to let one-fourth of our labor be idle than to raise cotton at a loss, but it is plainly impossible and undesirable to expect one-fourth of our labor to go permanently unemployed.

The solution of this difficulty, if we are to get any more than temporary relief from present conditions, is manifestly in the diversification of crops. The surplus labor which has been going to cotton must be turned into something else. The effort of diversification some years ago in many instances proved a failure due to the very few markets in the south. This condition apparently has been in large part overcome in recent years. The cities of the south are growing at a rapid rate and there is a demand in the south for a much larger supply of grain, hay and meat than is produced in the south. We are large importers of these commonest necessities of life. The Department of Agriculture represents that meat and hay can be grown in the south at a smaller price per pound and therefore more profitably than in any section of the United States.

The statistics of the hay crop last year showed that the southern hay raiser made more hay per acre and received a larger price per ton than the hay raisers of the north or west. This may be due and doubtless is in part to the fact that only a comparatively small quantity of hay was raised in the south. However, if this nitrogen bacteria will increase the product per acre of our hay and forage crops as much as 25 per cent and at the same time and in the same degree increase the fertilizing value of these crops, manifestly we will have made a large stride in the direction of a profitable diversification of our cropping system by the increased use thereof.

Each congressman earnestly requests every progressive farmer in his district who is willing to make the experiment on a small scale write him for this nitrogen stating the quantity desired what plant, the preparation ferent as to each. The request be made not longer than two weeks before the bacteria is It will, of course, take a fe after receipt of it to prepare cut, but it ought to be used fresh as possible, as it strength after being prepared will promptly attend to all and would be glad to hear the of the experiments.

Mine Fire Under Control.

Bessemer, Ala.—According to the reports from the Blue Creek district Saturday night the fire, which has been raging in Sumter mine for the past week, has at last been gotten under control. The flames have done a vast amount of damage and it is utterly impossible to estimate the loss. If the fire is extinguished in the next day or two, it will take at least two months to repair the interior of the mine.

The clause of his will referring to Mount Vernon is in the following words: "To my nephew, Bushrod Washington, and his heirs (partly in consideration of an intimation to his deceased father, while we were bachelors, and he had kindly undertaken to superintend my estate during my military services in the war with Great Britain and France, that if I fell therein, Mount Vernon should become his property), I give and bequeath all that part thereof which is comprehended within certain limits, and containing upward of 4,000 acres, with the mansion house and all other buildings and improvements thereon."

The mansion at Mount Vernon is of wood, painted to resemble stone. Along its front is a broad piazza twenty-five feet in height, with square pillars. The restored building is now divided among the States for preservation. Massachusetts has the library room, Georgia has Mrs Washington's sitting room. The main hall is assigned to Alabama. South Carolina has the dining room. Ohio has Miss Custis' music room. Illinois has the west parlor, and New York has the banquet hall.

The ideal man is he who gives thanks that some people are as well off as himself and others better, observes Puck.

For a new industrial college shortly to be opened in Paris a chair of automobilism is to be jointly supported by the State, the Department of the Seine and the city of Paris, says the Motor World.

The complaint that New Yorkers hurry too much fails to take into account that most of the crowds are hurrying to get out of the city, avers the Washington Evening Star.

Who can blame the Czar for refusing to establish a Russian Congress when he reflects that it probably would establish a Congressional Record and a free seeds distribution? inquires the Savannah News.

The Browning Society, of Philadelphia, has condemned "white" lies. The black variety will remain current, as heretofore, remarks the Chicago Post.

The Sultan of Turkey is trying to negotiate a loan of $15,000,000. He has probably been reading the Chadwick literature, suggests the Louisville Courier-Journal.

Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt is said to have added a million and three-quarters to his fortune in the last few months. A hard-working young man, certainly, and one who will never come to want.

An Arkansas matron who has lost track of her husband offers a reward of $20 for his return to her, "dead or alive." She must want to make a few broken remarks to him, thinks the Baltimore Sun.

Always kill a wounded bird or other animal as soon as you can, advises George T. Angell in Our Dumb Animals. All suffering of any creature, just before it dies, poisons the meat.

Thousands of women handle the cash of individuals, firms and corporations, says the Albany Times-Union. Seldom is there any delinquency. When one woman proves dishonest the thing arises to the dignity of big news.

If the Chinese Exclusion law was not in effect every laundryman in the Flowery Kingdom would go to Wall street, where, one day last month, a million dollars of washing was done, declares the New York American.

The shoemaker sees only your shoes, the clothier only your clothes; but the plumber sees the last penny in the bottom of your purse, the Lynchburg Advance declares.

A permanent watch is hereafter to be kept on the Frederick the Great statue, states the Buffalo Courier. Thus do gifts bring increased responsibilities and expenses. But better have the cranks try to blow up bronze or stone men than live ones.

There is a time when death is much easier for a man than to fulfil his duty, and if one dies just for the sake of death he cannot execute the duty that is assigned him, says Marui Gensai in his book, "A Daughter of Japan." True bravery is not in throwing away one's life, or courting death, but in doing one's duty at the hazard of one's life. You must not forget that.

The bigger the country, the louder the methods required for fame, and the smaller the chance for the individual to stand out where the whole community can see him, says Collier's Weekly. It is natural to mankind to desire limelight and a pedestal. Man is anxious not only to see, but to be seen. It is not vanity; it is not, in spite of Milton, an infirmity; it is a corollary of our social nature. The love of fame is a weakness only when it is extreme. Even the true philosopher likes it, although he smiles when more is paid for it than it is worth. Some statesmen and some artists are so concerned about their reputation that they remind the philosopher of the glories of a lady who puts her head in the lion's jaw daily, not so much for the twenty-five dollars a week that results as for the admiration of the wondering crowd. Also it reminds him, if he happens to be one familiar with the stage's ways, of the eagerness of each petty actor that his two lines shall have favorable opportunity; of his belief that only luck keeps him from making Sarah Bernhardt and Tomaso Salvini look like nothings; of his love of sauntering with tragic air and conscious facial lines among the haunts of men. We all want money, and too keen a wish makes us sordid. We should all be glad of fame, but too much eagerness about it makes us look like idiots.

Record School Attendance.

Remarkable records in attendance were disclosed at the prize distribution in the South Lincolnshire elementary schools. At Dorrington two girls each received a gold watch for attending school for seven consecutive years without being absent once. A boy at Spalding Central school had attended school six years, two boys attended five years and eight boys attended four years without a break. In the Girls' Central School in the same town one scholar had attended seven years, another six years and others five and four years without a single absence.—London Daily Express.

CURRIED PIGEON.

Cut the pigeons in halves and cook till quite tender. Have in a frying pan two ounces of butter in which have been fried a sliced onion; take out the onion, put in the pigeons to fry till brown. Moisten them with a very little stock, stirring into this salt, parprika and a tablespoonful of curry powder.

LAMB, CHOPS, POMPADOUR STYLE.

Have the chops of uniform size and thickness and fry in butter on one side for a minute or two. Take out, lay the uncooked side down in a buttered baking-pan and put on the cooked side a forcemeat of chopped tongue and chopped truffles moistened slightly with sherry. Bake for five or six minutes. This forcemeat which you spread on the chops should not be more than an eighth of an inch in thickness.

DUCHESS POTATOES.

In the beginning have just mashed potatoes, but have them very mealy and light. If there are eight potatoes, whip into them two eggs, the whites and yolks beaten separately. When the eggs are thoroughly incorporated add some rich cream and beat with the egg beater. Season with salt and white pepper, put in a dish, round the top brush lightly with beaten egg and brown in a quick oven. Of course, the dish must be hot, and if anything has chanced to cool it before getting it ready for the oven warm it through slowly before allowing it to brown.

HINTS TO THE HOUSEWIFE.

To spoil a carpet sweep it with a stiff, half-worn broom; to save a carpet dip the broom in clean hot suds once a week, then shake it out and hang it up. This also makes the broom last twice as long as it otherwise would.

Carpets should be thoroughly beaten on the wrong side first and then on the right, after which spots may be removed by the use of ox gall or ammonia and water, using a sponge or flannel.

After a good cleaning sprinkle with salt, fold and lay in a dry place, then when laid strew with slightly moistened bran before sweeping. This, with the salt, freshens the carpets in a marked degree.

Vinegar removes lime spots.

Spirits of ammona diluted with water if applied wth sponge or flannel to discolored spots, often restores the color.

If there is a deep-set door that it is desirable to permanently close, have bookshelves fitted in. Curtains can be hung at either side or not, as one pleases. If one does not wish to fill the entire space with books, the upper shelf can be set in lower down than would be wished for books, and china or pewter and brassware placed thereon or a picture hung in the space.

One ingenious woman hangs pretty china plates on the wall by the following method: Three or four large dress hooks were slipped over the edge of each plate; wrapping cord was then run across the back of the plate from hook to hook, fastened securely in the centre, with a loop to hang the plate up by. White hooks being used, they were scarcely noticeable when the plates were hung.

Luther's Hymn Sung in Five Languages.

The singing of Luther's "Battle Hymn" in five different languages at St. John Lutheran church, November 14th, at the celebration of Luther day, marked one of the most striking features ever heard inside a church. The song was rendered simultaneously in German, English, Swedish, Norwegian and Danish by the members of the various Lutheran churches of the city, who had gathered to do honor to the founder of church.

Prof. Roentgen's Modesty.

One of the least self-advertised of scientific authorities is Prof. Roentgen. He has never been interviewed, has never been banqueted and is even said to have refused immense sums of money offered him by American publishers for a book on what he himself modestly styled "a new kind of ray." Like many other investigators of his race, he carries his years gallantly, and, though 60, looks more like a man who has led a healthy outdoor life than one who has spent the whole of his manhood in investigating strange physical problems.

Number of Words in Bible.

The new Isaac Pitman "Shorthand Bible" brings out the fact that the precise number of words in the Old and New Testaments is 773,692, making 800 pages as against 1,000 pages of text in an ordinary teachers' Bible. At a fair reading pace, say 200 words a minute, one might get through it in sixty-four hours, so by reading something like ten minutes a day one could accomplish the achievement of reading the Bible through once a year.

Telephone Statistics.

Exclusive of Alaska, Hawaii and the Philippines, we had in operation at the end of 1902, 9,136 telephone systems and independent lines, having 4,900,451 miles of singl wire and 2,371,044 telephones. The value of the construction and the equipment of the telephone systems was $349,287,462. The total revenue of all telephone systems, from operation and all other sources, amounted to $86,825,536, or a yearly average of $37.50 per telephone, and of 1.7 cents per message of talk.

No Name for Smells.

Is it not a little strange that our human English speech has no names for smells? You can not describe a smell under a general term, such as "red." Sounds have their notation, and when Sir Arthur Sullivan wanted to direct Sir Alexander Mackenzie to a house of which he had forgotten the number, he said the door scraper was E flat, and Sir Alexander kicked the scrapers till he heard the note. "Pungent," "acrid," "sensuous," mean no more than "loud" or "soft." We have no notation for odors, and must take to the concrete "violet," "stale fish," "drains," "attar of roses."

The Alabama Cotton Association was organized at Montgomery, Tuesday, with W. H. Seymour, of Sumter county, as President; J. A. B. Lovett, of Blount, Vice President; Jesse Adams, of Montgomery, Secretary; Louis B. Farley, of Montgomery, Treasurer; H. Y. Brooke, of Crenshaw, State Organizer.

The Association further adopted a resolution, requiring all members to pay an assessment of five cents per month. 50 per cent of the State assessment to be paid into the State treasury within 30 days, 25 per cent in 6 months, and 25 per cent in 9 months.

An assessment was made on each county according to the number of bales of cotton raised in 1904, Chilton's share being $175, Coosa $150, Elmore $280, Autauga $225, Shelby $125.

CHILTON COUNTY COTTON ASSOCIATION.

Pursuant to the agreement of the adjourned meeting of February 1, there was a goodly gathering of Chilton farmers at the court house last Thursday to perfect the organization of the Chilton County Cotton Association. The day was very cold, and so was the court house, the heating apparatus failing at an inopportune time.

At 11 a.m. Tipton Mullins called the meeting to order, and suggested W. H. Conway for temporary chairman. Mr. Conway was unanimously elected, and took the chair, briefly stating that the object of the meeting was to perfect the organization of the Chilton County Cotton Association, Judge Reynolds nominated Frank Crichton for temporary secretary and he was unanimously elected.

On motion, the President called out the Districts, and the Secretary enrolled the names of the delegates present, it being understood that in Districts where no regular meeting was held, that any citizen from such District would be accepted as representing said District. At the conclusion of the roll it was found that 97 delegates were present, representing 37 Districts.

While the enrollment was carried on, a motion was made that the Chair appoint a committee of 5 on permanent organization. The following were appointed: Judge Reynolds, Tipton Mullins, W. I. Mullins, J. W Sorrell, and J. J. Grant, and S. K. Rasberry, and the committee adjourned for deliberation.

After the roll of delegates was completed, awaiting the report of the Committee on Permanent Organization, the Secretary read the Constitution adopted by the Southern Cotton Association at New Orleans, which was listened to with marked attention.

The committee then reported, suggesting W. H. Conway for President of the Association; F. A. Gulledge for Vice President; J. N. Dennis for Secretary and W. T. Callen for Treasurer, and that three delegates be elected to represent the county at the State Association at Montgomery, Feb. 21.

A motion was made the report be taken seriatim. W. H. Conwy was elected President by acclamation; F. A. Gulledge, Vice-President; J N. Dennis, Secretary, and W. T. Callen, Treasurer.

Nominations for delegates to the State Convention were made as follows: Tipton Mullins, F. A. Gulledge, J. M. Potts, W. I. Mullins, J. J. Grant, J. W. G Kicker, J. W. Sorrell, John D. Strech, W. C. Robinson.

A suggestion was made that the nominees retire and select 3 men as delegates. This suggestion was acted upon and subsequently the following three gentlemen were named and unanimously elected by the Association: F. A. Gulledge, W. T. Hand W. I. Mullins.

A motion was made by Mr. Driver on behalf of the District Association, as to what became of the initiation fee, and on its being ascertained that this fee was paid to the County Treasurer, one-half being retained by him for county expenses, and the other half forwarded to the State Association, which in turn, sent one-half of what they received to the Southern Association, the motion was withdrawn.

Treasurer W. T. Callen announced that he had received $126 25 from 505 members in 19 Districts.

President Conway announced that District meetings should be held on Saturday, March 4. at one o'clock p.m., for the purpose of effecting organization in such Districts as have not already acted, and for the general good of the cause in those that have perfected their District organization and that there would be another county meeting at Clanton on Thursday, March 16

A resolution was passed, authorizing Treasurer Callen to reimburse Mr. W. T. Hand for his railroad fare to New Orleans and return, when representing the county at the New Orleans meeting, the County Association recognizing the fact that Mr. Hand had generously defrayed all his expenses while attending to their business.

At 2:40 p.m. the Association adjourned to meet again at Clanton on Thursday, March 16, 1905.

Pres. Conway has appointed W. T. Callen, J. M. Potts, J. B. Downs and W. M. Wilson a committee to secure members of the Association at Clanton. They have already enrolled 40 names.

Editor Banner—I regret that I could not attend the meeting of the cotton association on the 16th inst., not that I would have added any strength to it, but because it would have been a pleasure to have associated myself with my county people in so noble a cause.

I have heard of only three dissenting voices to our undertaking, one a little one-by-three, who, when approached by the committeeman, his neighbor, as to what he was going to do regarding reduction of acreage and fertilizer for 1905, said it was none of that crowd's durned business and that he should not tell him. Another said he would do likewise, that it was nothing but a d—n political trick and he would not give out his plans nor have anything to do with it. The third, a merchant, I am told, is denouncing it as "Alliance No. 2." Now, this brings to mind my promise last week to treat further on the subject of 95 cent dollars which I am offering for sale, and in relating this I propose to show the suspicion bred, born and cultivated in the makeup of some people. They are not to be cussed or blamed but are objects of pity, for it is their nature and the average parent would do well to watch their children to see that this feature in their nature is corrected if it should appear.

A few years ago one of our county men came to my store and with him came his kinsman. The first bought a nice bill of, say forty dollars, while the latter stood around looking wistfully, but would not even price my goods. He had frequently been there for fifteen years, never trading but little, while his kinsman and neighbors were good customers. On the occasion first referred to I said to him, why can't I do some business with you? He answered, oh, I can't trade with you. I said no, you are afraid of me and I am equally afraid of you. I said, I could not not sell you silver dollars at 95 cents. Better try it, said he. Upon that I drew my hand out of my pocket with four dollars and said give me $3.80 and you shall have them. He pulled his purse, got out his money, then looked down with that usual suspicious air and said there is a trick in it, you can't catch me. Since that time I have, in dealing with the world, occasionally found a "doubting Thomas" and I always try the dollar act on him. So it is with Nos. 1 and 2 first referred to and I will charge the merchant with contrainess, as I know he has better sense.

I met another prominent farmer last week who said the general sentiment was if such men as W. I. Mullins, Pinckard, Wilson, Crumpton and their kind would do what they said they would, that the farmers would stick I told him that I could only speak for myself, that, in the language of David, "Let others do as they might, thee me and mine would serve them." And I say here and now that any man or set of men who will not uphold and ratify the actions of the New Orleans meeting would not obey a law passed by the Legislature of their State except for sake of policy. For we are up against a proposition which is sweeping in its effects; it effects men alike in every walk of life, the eyes of the whole world are upon us, and the man who ploughs the brindle bobtailed steer is as much effected as the one who runs two hundred plows. And I say again, let all speak out, let us know "where they are at" and don't wait to see the "cat jump" before taking a stand, Come out, boys, what do you say? If I am wrong condemn me. Who will say something favorable to the telephone scheme I proposed last week? What is the matter that we can't build one or more good cotton mills, or oil mills or both in Chilton county and thus give employment to our people and at same time enhance the value of all property in our county, besides give our people some notoriety abroad?

Yours for progress,
F. A. GULLEDGE.

How Carlyle Talked.

I have heard Carlyle pour forth a continuous stream of impassioned declamation for more than an hour at a time, and so keen were his characterizations, so felicitous his arrow shots of criticism, so rich his satire, so intense his patriotic sympathy with all that belonged to national life and character, that no listener could wish the wonderful utterance to cease.—"Retrospects."

Consumption

¶ There is no specific for consumption. Fresh air, exercise, nourishing food and Scott's Emulsion will come pretty near curing it, if there is anything to build on. Millions of people throughout the world are living and in good health on one lung.

¶ From time immemorial the doctors prescribed cod liver oil for consumption. Of course the patient could not take it in its old form, hence it did very little good. They can take and tolerate it for a long time. There is no oil, not excepting butter, so easily digested and absorbed by the system as cod liver oil in the form of Scott's Emulsion, and that is the reason it is so helpful in consumption where its use must be continuous.

¶ We will send you a sample free.

Editor Banner: Desiring to express our opinions and to prove we still have on our fighting clothes, we again knock for admittance into your happy circle.

First, unfinished business. Bro. farmer, the cutting of the cotton acreage, the joining of the Cotton Growers Association, and adhering strictly to their rules is what we call unfinished until we have accomplished much and lasting good to the people of the South, when we can raise our hands and cry, all, with one accord "triumph." Then let us work, pull and plead with this end in view.

New business—The 1 mill school tax. Gee whis! We will be obliged to call this new business since Bro. G. W. Edwards, of Kincheon, has had his hands on it. Needs both Bro. Edwards. You are an old teacher, are you not? Brother, we cannot indorse your article regarding the school tax. We are in favor of it, lock, stock and barrel, only wish it were 2 brother. We believe in elevating and expanding the minds of our children; that only, will enable them to reach a maximum level of citizenship. We will cross you once more regarding our County Board of Education. We are of the opinion you did yourself a great injustice, speaking as you did concerning the Board, claiming they could not afford to transfer because it would lessen their political influence. Away with such stuff! We are satisfied with the Board and indorse every rule and suggestion they make. Our minds are prompted to believe that they have their work at heart, and doing all they can to give equal rights to all and special favors to none. In meantime believe they are making every effort possible to advance the cause of education in Chilton county.

Yes, Bro. Gragg you are right. The men who do the most kicking are generally those who pay little or no tax.

Looking to the future advancement of our county, we think there is nothing that could afford us more convenience and keep us closer in touch with one another and be of a more general interest than a rural telephone system. Just think for a moment. The people of Elmore county have gone into the business. Every farmer has built a line across his land, then he has the use of the whole rural line. What would it cost to put a line across 40, 80 or 160 acres of land? One stran of wire possibly a mile long and a post for every 50 or 60 yards. When you have figured it out you will find one of the best investments you ever made. With best wishes to the Banner and its many readers, we beg to remain,

COTTON ASSOCIATION.

The next county meeting of the Southern Cotton Association will be held at Clanton, on March 16, at 11 a.m. Three delegates are authorized from each school district organization, and all districts in the county should meet on March 4th and elect these delegates and attend to such other business as may come before them.

When You Have a Cold.

The first action when you have a cold should be to relieve the lungs. This is best accomplished by the free use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This Remedy liquefies the tough mucus and causes its expulsion from the air cells of the lungs, produces a free expectoration, and opens the secretions. A complete cure soon follows. This remedy will cure a severe cold in less time than any other treatment and it leaves the system in a natural and healthy condition. It counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. For sale by Upchurch Drud co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

A Dreaded Quilt.

Queen Victoria was an expert and indefatigable knitter. During the Egyptian campaign she and the ladies of the household employed themselves in knitting quilts, which at the end of the war were sent to Netley hospital for the use of the wounded. One of these, made entirely by her majesty and bearing an elaborate V. R. in the center, was the coverlet par excellence of the institution and in universal demand for a time. In assessing the claims of the candidates for the honor of sleeping upon it the medical staff naturally gave the precedence to the most severely wounded, and as the most severely wounded was the one most likely to die very soon, alas, an evil omen attached itself to the distinction, the climax of which was reached one night when a poor soldier, feeling something touching his bedclothes, woke up with perspiration pouring down his face and cried out, "Oh, sir, do anything you like with me, but for God's sake don't give me the quilt!"

The Mechanism of the Salmon.

A salmon is marvelously adapted to the conditions amid which it lives. It can cleave through tons of water falling perpendicularly, yet its fins and its tail, which seem to hold the propelling power, are not less fragile than the wings of a bat. It can be killed without injury to its contour, and a plaster cast of it can be made, yet no mechanism can devise an instrument which will lie in the water and move as it does, and no theory of dynamics has explained either its postures in the water or its motion. Simple in its organization as it seems, its movements are as inimitable by any human contrivance as the flight of a bird has proved to be.

Alabama Sunday School Association.

The twenty second annual Convention of the Alabama Sunday School Association will be held in the city of Birmingham, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, April 25-27 next. The basis of representation is as follows: All officers of the State Association, five delegates at large from each county, all ministers of the gospel, the superintendent and two other delegates from each Sunday School.

The railroads of the State have granted a rate of one and one-third fare, on the certificate plan, to delegates attending the Convention. The delegates will be entertained by the Sunday school workers of Birmingham.

BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT

READ THIS REMARKABLE CURE

"I was much afflicted with rheumatism," writes Ed. C. Nud, Iowaville, Sedgwick Co., Kansas, "going about on crutches and suffering a great deal of pain. I was induced to try Ballard's Snow Liniment, which cured me, after using three 50c bottles. IT IS THE GREATEST LINIMENT I EVER USED; have recommended it to a number of persons, all express themselves as being benefited by it. I now walk without crutches, and am able to perform a great deal of light labor on the farm."

A VERY HEAVY FIRE.

Eight Buildings—a Million Dollars in Ruins at Indianapolis by Fire.

THE BLAZE WAS SPECTACULAR.

Repeated Explosions Send Up Burning Embers and Many Spectators Narrowly Escape from Walls.

Indianapolis, Ind.—For four hours Sunday night the wholesale district bounded by Georgia and Meridian streets, Jackson Place and the union depot sheds was menaced by a fire which started in the wholesale warerooms of the Fahnley & McCrea Millinery Company. At 9:30 o'clock three general alarms brought into action every department in the city and suburbs. When the fire was brought under control eight buildings, among which were three hotels, had been completely destroyed, causing a loss estimated at $1,000,000. One fireman was hurt by falling walls.

Fire brands as large as hen eggs fell in a perfect storm over the business portion of the city, and on every building were stationed companies of men equipped with fire-fighting apparatus. Their united efforts succeeded in preventing a general conflagration.

In the A. Keifer Drug Company's warerooms were many barrels of oils and explosives stored, and in the Delmetsch company's wholesale house, where a season's stock of fireworks was located, several serious explosions occurred.

Was Very Spectacular.

The fire, one of the most spectacular, was under full headway before an alarm was sounded. By the time the first company reached the scene the millinery house was almost completely gutted, and the fire had spread to the Kiefer Drug Company's building Simultaneously the flames broke out in Jackson Place, which bounds the Fahnley & McCrea building on the west, and almost instantly the flames were communicated to the St. Nicholas hotel and the Griffith Brothers' millinery house in Jackson place, and the Savoy hotel in Louisiana street.

The occupants of the hotels, many of whom had not retired, escaped without injury.

Repeated explosions in the burning section sent skyward a veritable storm of burning embers which, fanned by a stiff breeze from the southwest, were carried into the retail districts, still burning as they fell upon the roofs of the principal houses.

Eight Buildings Burned.

Within 45 minutes eight buildings in the threatened districts had been totally destroyed, and the attention of the firemen was centered in an effort to prevent the spread of the flames to the ware room of W. H. Thompson & Co., manufacturers of surgical instruments.

One of the firemen sustained a broken leg, and in the rush to escape from their perilous position near the falling walls, hundreds of spectators who thronged the space in front of the union station narrowly escaped death or serious injury.

Within a few minutes the east wall fell across Meridian street, completely blocking traffic, but no one was injured. The flames which spread across Louisiana street were communicated to the roof of the union station train sheds, and for several minutes the efforts of the firemen were entered in that direction.

Situation Doubtful.

For half an hour it was doubtful whether or not the firemen could cope with the flames on account of a tottering wall, which threatened to crush in the building to the north, allowing the flames to spread to the warehouse of Haven & Geddes, wholesale grocers.

The following are the principal losses:

Fahnley & McCrea, building, $125,000; loss on stock, $200,000; insurance, $250,000.

A. Kiefer Drug Company, building $70,000; stock, $225,000; insurance, $245,000.

Griffiths Bros., building, $50,000; stock, $150,000; insurance, $160,000.

E. C. Dolmetsch Company, building $50,000; stock, $40,000; insurance, $65,000.

Sherman house, building, $45,000; stock, $20,000; insurance, $35,000.

Savoy hotel, building, $20,000; stock, $10,000; insurance, $15,000.

St. Charles, building, $12,000; stock, $10,000; insurance, $11,000.

Muir Millinery company, building $5,000; stock, $10,000; insurance, $12,000.

Total loss, $1,100,000.

[illegible] Fire Under Control.

[illegible], Ala.—According to the reports from the Blue Creek district Saturday night the fire, which has been raging in Sumter mine for the past week, has at last been gotten under control. The flames have done a vast amount of damage and it is utterly impossible to estimate the loss. If the fire is extinguished in the next day or two, it will take at least two months to repair the interior of the mine.

Japan Buying Locomotives.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Mitsui and Company, New York, agents of the Japanese government, placed with a local firm an order for seventy-seven locomotives, the largest purchase ever made here for locomotives by any government. An estimated cost of the locomotives is $1,000,000. The terms of the contract requires that the locomotives shall be built as soon as possible and be delivered in lots of twelve. They will be shipped by rail to the Pacific coast, where they will be placed aboard steamships and sent direct to Korea.

To Begin at Once.

Topeka, Kan.—It is expected that the investigation of the Standard Oil affair in Kansas will begin at once. Governor Hoch was notified that six inspectors had been ordered to work on the case. They will report their findings to Commissioner of Corporations Garfield. The state officers will aid the inspectors every way possible.

The anti-discrimination bill, which will go before the house Monday, has a good chance of being passed. This with some minor measures to be adopted will give the state complete control of the oil business.

Tried to Poison Mrs. Stanford.

San Francisco, Cal.—A bulletin says that an attempt was made to murder Mrs. Janes Stanford, benefactor and wife of the founder of Leland Stanford University, in her California street mansion within the past month, by placing a poison in a bottle of mineral water. Mrs. Stanford drank three times of the mixture, but the poison had been used in such large quantity that it served as its own emetic.

Mrs. Sanford was taken violently ill. The contents of her stomach and the water left in the bottle from which she had taken three glasses, where analyzed by a chemist. Sufficient poison was found to kill a dozen persons had it been used with any judgment.

Mrs. Standford has gone to Japan and detectives are working on the case.

Hanged for Wife Murder.

Clarksville, Tex.—At 2:09 o'clock Friday afternoon John Reeves was hanged in the presence of a large crowd for the murder of his wife.

Previously he had admitted the murder, giving as his reason that he was drunk. The body of the woman was found buried in a field with the tongue protruding, the neck broken and marks of hands on the throat.

Wireless for Our Islands.

San Francisco.—A representative of a wireless telegraph company is here arranging for the installation of a plant for communication with Panama by a direct coast route and by way of the East via Denver, Kansas City, Chicago, New York, Key West, Porto Rico and Cuba. Following this direct communication, it will, it is said, be perfected between this city and the Philippines, the Orient and the Hawaiian Islands. An effort is now being made to secure the sites for the necessary stations in this city or in its vicinity.

Shooting in Saloon.

Wylam, Ala.—In what seemed to have been a general row at Wylam Saturday evening at 6 o'clock, Joe Hooper shot and probably fatally wounded Carl Bubie in front of Mentz Bros.' saloon. In a quarrel prior to the shooting Hooper had been badly beaten up in a three-cornered quarrel at Dave McCorey's saloon, in which he, James and Fleming Vance are said to have been engaged. The men had started to Mentz Bros.'s saloon and were in the act of entering the front door when Hooper ran behind the counter, secured a revolver belonging to Mr. Mentz and opened fire, the bullet entering Mr. Bubie's stomach and inflicting a bad wound.

Hooper was arrested by Chief of Police Walker, of Wylam, and brought to Ensley, where his wounds were attended to by Dr. E. T. Fields. He received two cuts on the head and a stab in the side. Bubie was carried to the St. Vincent hospital, where an operation was performed at 11 o'clock. The bullet penetrated the gall bladder and the intestines and lodged somewhere in the bowels.

Hooper was carried to Birmingham by Deputy Sheriff Clinton Eubank and lodged in the county jail.

New Corporations.

Birmingham, Ala.—The Burnwell Coal Company, with a capital stock of $50,000, filed with Secretary of State E. R. McDavid, a notice of its incorporation. The incorporators are W. J. Francis, Alfred M. Stearns, George Moesta, Harry G. Francis and Charles E. Francis.

Gen. Lew Wallace Dead.

Crawfordville, Ind.—General Lew Wallace, author of Ben Hur, died Wednesday night at 9:10 o'clock.

Scottsboro, Ala.—The Gunter stove works of Bridgeport, this county, which has been shut down for a number of weeks, has been reorganized, a stock company having been formed in the last few days, known as the Gunter Stove and Range Company, with a paid up capital of $15,000. The opening of the works, which will begin operating Monday, has been somewhat delayed by the extreme cold weather.

KILLED BY A BOMB.

Duke Sergius a Most Influential Member of the Czar's Council the Victim.

DOOMED IN DECEMBER TO DIE.

Assassins Are Arrested, and One of Them Coolly Says, "I Don't Care, I Have Done My Job."

Moscow—Within the walls of the far-famed Kremlin palace, and almost underneath the historical tower from which Ivan the Terrible watched the heads of his enemies fall beneath the ax on the famous Red Square, and within a stone's throw of the great bell of Moscow, Grand Duke Sergius, uncle and brother-in-law of Emperor Nicholas, and the chief of the reactionaries, met a terrible death shortly before 3 o'clock Friday.

The deed was committed by a single terrorist, who threw beneath the carriage of the grand duke a bomb charged with the same high power explosive which wrought Minister von Plehve's death. The missile was packed with nails and fragments of iron, and its explosion tore the imperial victim's body to ghastly fragments, which strewed the snow for yards around. Every window in the great, lofty facade of the palace of justice was shattered, and bits of iron were imbedded deeply in the walls of the arsenal, a hundred yards away.

Belongs to Noted Fighting Group.

The assassin belongs to the noted Fighting Group of the socialist revolutionary party, which has removed other prominent officials, and long since passed sentence of death upon Grand Duke Sergius. The grand duke knew that he stood in the shadow of death. He was the recipient of repeated warnings and elaborate precautions were taken to insure his safety.

It was the irony of fate that Sergius, after taking refuge in his country villa during the strike troubles of a month ago, and later feeling even more secure in the palace within the Kremlin walls, should be killed while proceeding to the governor general's palace beyond the walls which he had abandoned to enable the police to better protect him.

Grand Duchess Elizabeth, when she heard of what had befallen the grand duke, was driven in haste to the scene of the tragedy and knelt hatless and coatless on the blood-stained snow and murmured prayers for the welfare of the soul of her slain consort.

Emerged in a Carriage.

The scene of the crime was the great open triangle within the Kremlin, bounded by the arsenal, treasury and courts of justice.

There a man clad in workman's attire stepped forward from the sidewalk and threw a bomb which he had concealed beneath his coat. A terrible explosion followed and a hail of iron pelted the grim stone walls of the arsenal and courts of justice. A thick cloud of smoke, snow and debris arose. When it had cleared, a ghastly sight was presented. On the snow lay fragments of the body of Grand Duke Sergius, mingled with the wreck of the carriage. The grand duke's head had been torn from his body and reduced to a shapeless pulp, and the trunk and limbs were frightfully mangled. A finger bearing a rich seal was found lying several yards away. Only a few fragments of clothes indicated that the body had been once clothed.

Doomed to Die.

St. Petersburg—The sentence of death on Grand Duke Sergius was contained in a proclamation issued by the social revolutionists of Moscow after the demonstration of December 11th of last year at St. Petersburg was put down. It read: "If our demonstration at Moscow (December 18th and 19th) is crushed in as bloody a manner as that of our brothers of St. Petersburg then the guilt therefor is upon the head of Grand Duke Sergius and General Trepoff, and we, the committee, in that event, have ordered their death."

Causes Tremendous Sensation.

St. Petersburg—The news of the tragedy in which Grand Duke Sergius was blown up created a tremendous sensation in St. Petersburg, where the announcement by telephone from Moscow arrived during the afternoon. Owing to the intense excitement prevailing at Moscow few particulars are ascertainable. The tragedy in reality was no great surprise, as it was known that the terrorists had already condemned the grand duke to death, and ever since the affair of January and the inauguration of a bomb throwing campaign had been anticipated.

Mine Fires.

Birmingham, Ala.—Fire has been raging in the Sumter coal mines of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company, in the Blue Creek region, near Bessemer, since Sunday, and all efforts to extinguish the flames have so far been ineffectual.

The mines are among the finest in the state, and the damage will reach in the thousands of dollars.

Caught Under Wagon Bed.

Blocton, Ala.—Jack Shaw, a farmer living four miles from town, met with a serious accident Friday night. He was driving a one-horse wagon on his way home from town and accidentally ran over the end of a log. The wagon was turned upside down, his neck was caught under one edge of the wagon body and he lay in that condition for at least ten hours. He was found by Pies Reach next morning at 6 o'clock.

Mr. Shaw is in a critical condition, but it is believed that he will recover.

To Increase Steel Plant.

Ensley, Ala.—The plans and the cost sheets for the proposed improvements at the steel plant to aggregate something like $300,000 have been placed in the hands of the various foremen for the construction departments. Work, it is understood, will be commenced on improvements and additions at once.

When the plans of the company are carried out, the capacity of the plant, it is understood, will be increased one-third. The present monthly output is 21,000 tons, and when the work now under contemplation is completed, the output of the plant will exceed 30,000 tons of steel per month.

Stranger's Sad Death.

Opelika, Ala.—Last Saturday evening a stranger, giving his name as W. C. Green, went to the residence of William C. Jones and asked for lodging. He was taken suddenly ill Sunday morning and during the day had a stroke of paralysis. His speech was very incoherent, but before he became entirely delirious he told those watching him that he traveled for a New York house and was going to take a vacation. That is all he told about himself before his death Tuesday morning.

Brothers and Sisters Elope.

Scottsboro, Ala.—A romantic wedding in which four popular young people took part occurred in Marshall, just over the Jackson county line last Wednesday. The contracting parties were Blake Harris and Miss Karr and Younger Karr and Miss Harris. A brother and sister ran away with a brother and sister and had a double wedding. They were the sons and daughters of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Karr and Mr. and Mrs. George T. Harris.

Shooting at Goodwater.

Goodwater, Ala.—John Ford and Tom Tucker engaged in a difficulty Saturday night about 9 o'clock on the streets of Goodwater, and both are shot four times and seriously wounded, and Ford will very likely recover.

It is said that they were both drinking and the fuss started about nothing. Ford is prominently connected and is a good citizen, and it seems that after he was shot down by Tucker he got up and emptied his gun and then beat Tucker over the head with his pistol. Tucker has been in shooting affrays before.

Mules Run Amuck.

Greenville, Ala.—Two mules, which were hitched to a wagon, became frightened at a passing train and ran away, going up Commerce street toward the court house. At the postoffice they ran into another mule team. The tongue of the first wagon struck one of the mules in the breast, from which the mule died in a few moments.

Progress for Hattiesburg.

Hattiesburg, Miss.—The Mississippi Central Railroad Company, together with the Newman Lumber Company, has decided to build an immense car building plant and shops here, which will be one of the most complete in the South. It is expected to have the plant open for business by mid-summer.

Negro Hanged for Murder.

Owensboro, Ky.—Royal Green, a negro, met death on the scaffold Friday for the murder of James Coomes, a white man, at the fair grounds in Owensboro on July 31 last. After killing Coomes, Green drove a stake through his victim's neck, pinning him to the ground. He confessed the crime before death.

Steals a Fortune.

Boston, Mass.—The law firm of McPherson, Hyde & Damon announces the theft of notes and bonds to the value of $50,000. The names of the owners of the securities or details of the robbery were not discussed.

Blood Shed by Armenians.

Tiflis.—A district official named Gnoutoff has been assassinated at Igdyr by Armenians. The motives for the crime were political. At Vagarshapad, Trans-Caucasia, the mayor has been shot and killed near his residence. The murdered has disappeared.

Remembered War of 1812.

Stroud, Ala.—Ike Scott, a true representative of the old-time southern darkey, has just died at the age of 112 years. Even at this age he had a remarkable memory. He remembered distinctly the war of 1812, and could tell of happenings before the Mexican war as if they were recent events. He was perhaps the oldest person in Alabama.

HUNDRED ENTOMBED.

An Explosion in the Mines at Virginia City, Near Birmingham Monday

VIRGINIA CITY IN SORROW.

All Available Men Are at Work Trying to Rescue Those Who Met Death in the Ill-fated Mine.

Bessemer, Ala.—By a "dust" explosion in the Virginia mines, 17 miles southwest of Birmingham, at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon, between 110 and 135 miners, negroes and whites, are entombed 700 feet below the surface, and probably none will live to tell the story of the disaster.

At midnight every available man is being sent into the mine in relays as rescue parties, but rescuers are at least 100 feet from the imprisoned miners.

Hundreds of anxious people are gathered around the mouth of the shaft uttering silent prayers for those below, and the rescue parties are straining every effort to reach the entombed men in time to give them a breath of the life-giving air from above before it is too late.

The only hope now is that a few of the number who were in the mine when the explosion occurred may be alive and may be saved.

The mines are the property of the Alabama Steel and Wire Company, known as the Schuler property.

Monday afternoon the day shift prepared the last shot, which is at 4 o'clock, and some one below the third level made the fatal mistake of overcharging or undercharging a shot. Either of these will cause the dust accumulated about the shot to ignite and result in the explosion. From the little beginning the explosion came, dealing death and destruction.

All of the miners were below the second level, which is about 600 feet from the surface. The rescuers have succeeded in going a little below the second level, and they are rapidly going further and further down.

There has been considerable delay as the rescuers have had to rebuild the props which support the roof of the main slope. The force of the explosion tore away these props.

The rescuers are closing up the mouths of the various rooms as they reach them in order that the air may be controlled and turned down the main shaft.

Most of the miners are supposed to have just left the rooms and to have started up the shaft or to have been in the entries when the explosion occurred. All are supposed to leave the mines before this last shot.

Rescuers late Monday night had almost reached the third right entry and they expect to find some of the entombed miners when they reach this entry. It is about 250 feet to the next lowest entry and it will be several hours before they get into this entry.

The force of the explosion was so great that rocks, rafters, sticks and other missiles were hurled 350 to 400 yards from the mouth of the shaft. The tracks leading into the mines were covered with dirt and rafters which formed the props.

It is stated by witnesses that the flames from the explosion leaped more than a hundred feet into the air.

At frequent intervals members of the rescue party are brought to the mouth of the shaft overcome by the gases and fire damp at the place where the rescuers have reached.

State Mine Inspector Gray Monday night explained the probable cause of the explosion. He stated that a "windy shot" and a "dust" explosion were similar. A windy shot is when the force of the explosion blows outward and creates a great deal of dust and also raises all the dust in the room. In this dust there is more or less gas and this all explodes. The explosion spreads from room to room with awful rapidity, overtaking in a few seconds any one who might attempt to escape.

"I do not suppose there is a living man in the mine. The after damp is fearful and a man could not live in there five minutes.

"The explosion was evidently due to a 'windy shot.' This mine is one of the best ventilated mines in the district and this very fact, added to the intensity of the explosion. I do not think the bodies will be brought to the top until nearly daylight, although we may find some at any time. In my opinion there were at least 135 men in the mine at the time of the disaster, of this number at least 100 were white miners."

Injured in Runaway.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—News has been received here of a very serious accident which has befallen H. H. Reid, who resides some miles north of Tuscaloosa. While en route to to Tuscaloosa Mr. Reid's horse became frightened and before he could be gotten under control the buggy was torn into splinters. His left arm was badly broken and his body badly bruised, but it is not thought that the accident will prove fatal.

Will Spend $1,000,000.

Birmingham, Ala.—Plans, contemplating the expenditure of $1,000,000 in improving its properties in Alabama this year, have been formulated by the Tennessee company.

These improvements will be made: 1. In the coal mines. 2. In the furnaces. 3. In the steel plant.

In developing the coal mines the plans provide for the expenditure of $200,000.

In developing the furnaces, $200,000.

The balance, amounting to $600,000, will be used in enlarging and improving the steel plant.

These plans will be submitted to the Tennessee company's directors at the next meeting, when, it is confidently expected, they will be approved.

All these improvements will, it is believed, be completed before January 1, 1906.

Public Houses in Belgium.

Belgium, where public libraries are almost known, enjoys 19,000 public houses. That means one public house for thirty-six inhabitants, or one public house for twelve men above 17 years of age. During the last fifty years the population has increased 50 per cent; the number of public houses 258 per cent.

Health of American Women

A Subject Much Discussed at Women's Clubs—The Future of a Country Depends on the Health of Its Women.

Mrs. T. C. Willadsen
Miss Mattie Henry

At the New York State Assembly of Mothers, a prominent New York doctor told the 500 women present that healthy American women were so rare as to be almost extinct.

This seems to be a sweeping statement of the condition of American women. Yet how many do you know who are perfectly well and do not have some trouble arising from a derangement of the female organism which manifests itself in headaches, backaches, nervousness, that bearing-down feeling, painful or irregular menstruation, leucorrhœa, displacement of the uterus, ovarian trouble, indigestion or sleeplessness? There is a tried and true remedy for all these ailments. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored more American women to health than all other remedies in the world. It regulates, strengthens and cures diseases of the female organism as nothing else can. For thirty years it has been curing the worst forms of female complaints.

Such testimony as the following should be convincing.

Mrs. T. C. Willadsen, of Manning, Ia., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I can truly say that you have saved my life and I cannot express my gratitude to you in words. For two years I spent lots of money in doctoring without any benefit for menstrual irregularities and I had given up all hopes of ever being well again, but I was persuaded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and three bottles have restored me to perfect health. Had it not been for you I would have been in my grave to-day."

Miss Mattie Henry, Vice-President of Danville Art Club, 429 Green Street, Danville, Va., writes:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—Many years' suffering with female weakness, inflammation and a broken down system made me more anxious to die than to live, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored my health and I am so grateful for it that I want every suffering woman to know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will do for her."

When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhœa, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, bloating, (or flatulency), general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues, and hopelessness, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles. No other medicine in the world has received such unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles. Refuse to buy any other medicine, for you need the best.

A light heart, a cheerful countenance, and all the charms of grace and beauty are dependent upon proper action of the bodily organs. You cannot look well unless you feel well.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice and medicine have restored thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds Where Others Fail.

Truths that Strike Home

Your grocer is honest and—if he cares to do so—can tell you that he knows very little about the bulk coffee he sells you. How can he know, where it originally came from, how it was blended—or with what—or when roasted? If you buy your coffee loose by the pound, how can you expect purity and uniform quality?

LION COFFEE, the LEADER OF ALL PACKAGE COFFEES, is of necessity uniform in quality, strength and flavor. For OVER A QUARTER OF A CENTURY, LION COFFEE has been the standard coffee in millions of homes.

LION COFFEE is carefully packed at our factories, and until opened in your home, has no chance of being adulterated, or of coming in contact with dust, dirt, germs, or unclean hands.

In each package of LION COFFEE you get one full pound of Pure Coffee. Insist upon getting the genuine. (Lion head on every package.)

The absolute, unquestioned purity of

is another reason why you ought to use it. It is so pure—its leavening force is so great—that it takes only a heaping teaspoonful to a quart of sifted flour to produce the finest results. The lightest, whitest baking is sure to follow the use of Good Luck—lightest, because it generates most gas; whitest, because of its freedom from all adulteration. It is the least expensive, too—costs only 10 cents a pound. Send us your grocer's name if he doesn't sell Good Luck—we'll see that you get it.

A Clever Surgeon.

"I tell you," exclaimed the young medical student, "our house surgeon is a clever fellow."

"How's that?" asked his chum.

"Well, a man was brought in with a crushed leg. The surgeon said it must come off. But by some means or other he cut off the wrong leg."

"But I don't call that clever."

"Wait a bit. The surgeon said it would be terrible for the poor fellow to go about with no legs at all, so he doctored up the crushed leg instead of cutting that off, too, and now it is as good as ever. An ordinary surgeon would have left the fellow legless. Wonderfully skillful, wasn't it?"

Give Your Stomach a Rest

Your food must be properly digested and assimilated to be of any value to you. If your stomach is weak or diseased take Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It digests what you eat and gives the stomach a rest, enabling it to recuperate, take on new life and grow strong again. Kodol cures sour stomach, gas, bloating, heart palpitation and all digestive disorders. L. A. Sopher, of Little Rock, Ky., writes us: "We feel that Kodol Dyspepsia Cure deserves all the commendation that can be given it, as it saved the life of our little girl when she was three years old. She is now six and we have kept it for her constantly, but of course she only takes it now when anything disagrees with her." Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

His Idea of a Lady.

An English cabman had brought suit against a woman for not paying the legal fare, and his constant remark was, "She ain't a lady." "Do you know a lady when you see one?" asked the judge. "I do, yer honor. Last week a lady gave me a sov'rin instead of a shillin', and I called out, 'Beg pardon, madam, I've got a sov'rin instead of a shillin',' and she shouts back, 'Well, you old fool, keep the change and get drunk with it!' That's wot I calls a lady!"

MIGHT AND WILL VS
GRIP GERMS MAGNIFIED 1000 TIMES

Let us illustrate vividly the difference in meaning of the words might and will—the child might live; the child will live. Might implies doubt; will means certainty. Might live means might die; will live means will not die.

These two words aptly illustrate the difference between Johnson's Tonic and the horde of commercial remedies on the market, and that vast horde of inert professional remedies which only bear the sanction of the High Priests of medicine.

USE JOHNSON'S TONIC
in a bad case of Grip and you will live! Use inert, or commercial products, and you might live.

Johnson's Tonic quickly drives out every trace and taint of Grip. It is not simply good, it is supremely good—not good as anything, but better than everything—a genuine life-saver. Those who believe in it are safe—doubters are in danger and jeopardize their lives. Summed up, Johnson's Chill and Fever Tonic is the best Grip medicine on earth. This is the sober, serious, earnest truth.

AN UNUSUAL OFFER

by Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton, Ala., who offer their patrons an opportunity of a free trial of the wonderful healing remedy, Paracamph, First Aid to the Injured. This remedy has become popular in a remarkably short length of time by its great success in curing the aches, pains and hurts of millions of people. Clanton people should know the value and merits of Paracamph, and to enable them to do so without risk or loss of money Upchurch Drug Co. produced a plan. "Being fully convinced of the merits of Paracamph, all you have to do, says Upchurch Drug Co., is to deposit the price of a bottle at our drug store, take home a bottle of Paracamph, give it an honest trial, and if not satisfied, tell us and we will return your money."

No remedy on earth compares with Paracamph for the cure of Rheumatism, Swelling and Neuralgia, Sore Throat; Croup, Catarrh, Sore Muscles, Eczema, Sprains, Bruises, Sore Feet, Cuts, Burns and Hurts of every description. Paracamph absolutely prevents blood poison. Paracamph soothes and heals like magic. No household should be without a bottle always on hand.

If you receive a card making a special offer to you for a trial of Paracamph, bring it to our drug store without delay.

THE SECOND COMING.

Randolph, Feb. 13, 1906

Mr. Editor, as it is snowing I will write a few wordt to the Banner.

We dont get to do much on the farm, the weather is so bad, but our time is not lost if we study our Bible to learn the Lord's plans. We have some very bad cases of bad colds in this section.

Mr. Z. J. Jones has moved to Randolph and is clerking for A. P. Howison. Mrs. Belle Waldrup has had a cancer removed from her neck.

Rev. George Freeman is the pastor of Maccedonia church this year. Mr. Freeman says he thinks that the Lord's second coming and the end of time is near at hand. So we agree with him that the end of this time is closing out—when we say time we don't mean the end of all time, or that the earth burnt up, the earth will abide forever. Eccl. 1:4. It will be the abiding place for a portion of God's people when evil is removed from it. There was a time before the flood, that time or order of things was destroyed, it was called the world that was. The earth was not destroyed, we have it yet, but the times, or order of things, is different now Christ did not rule then, neither does he rule now in this world or age, satan is the god of this world, but we have a world or age to come, not another earth to come, we will have the same earth we have got now, but times will be so much better on it until it will seem new. Satan will not rule then, our Lord will rule. O, how we long for it to come to bless the poor world. Did you ever see the world in such a condition? We will mention two elements in our world, one is in power, the other one is the capitalists; the one is labor uniting against capital. We think those two elements will bring this government or man's time to an end. The laboring people are looking for something better, the capitalist probably will never give it to them. So the Lord is our hope in the end of this age. The Lord will permit the people to destroy their government, seeing they are not able in their fallen state to rule themselves. So the Lord will set up his kingdom and rule all men. His kingdom will be the desire of all nations. Look at Hag. 2:4; Heb. 12:27. Every kingdom has its earth, elements, sun, moon and stars. If the literal sun, moon and stars is a blessing to all people on this earth why not have a kingdom without partiality?

Black-Draught, renowned for the cure of the digestion troubles of persons, it has the same qualities of invigorating digestion, stirring up the torpid liver and loosening the constipated bowels for all stock and poultry. It is carefully pre pared and its action is so healthful that stock grow and thrive with an occasional dose in their food. It cures hog cholera and makes hogs grow fat. It cures chicken cholera and roup and makes hens lay. It cures constipation, distemper and colds in horses, murrain in cattle, and makes a draught animal do more work for the food consumed.
It gives animals and fowls of all kinds new life. Every farmer and Editor Banner: A question that it behooves the public to discuss at present, in the face of the very proper discussion now appearing in the public print concerning the welfare of the farmer, is a County Fair and Stock Exhibit to be held in the Fall of the year, either at Clanton, or some other designated or agreed point in the county. As a collateral or side issue this question might be profitably discussed and considered at the Farmers meeting to be held at Clanton on March 16th.

A Commercial Club or Business League of the business men and property owners of Clanton is a question that affects the present immediate local material wellfare.

Progress.

Clanton, Ala. March 7, 1905

Editor Banner: From the reports in to date, on cotton acreage and use of commercial fertilizer in growing cotton, I find that there will be a reduction in cotton acreage of nearly 26 per cent, and in the use of commercial fertilizer of about 30 per cent from last year.

The above report includes those that did not join as well as those that did join in the districts heard from.

One district reports twenty persons who refuse to become members and who planted 332 acres in cotton and used 337 sacks fertilizer in 1904, and intend to plant 214 acres in cotton and use 203 sacks fertilizer this year, which is a good reduction.

Gentlemen, why don't you come in with us and help us in this movement? Surely it is not the fee that keeps you out. Remember that in union there is strength, and that by all working together we can accomplish much good.

Success to the Southern Cotton Associatinn, the Banner, and its many readers. J. N. Dennis.

Editor Banner—Will you please give me space for a few more words. In my last letter I referred to the men that do not sweat for bread. I thought it would hit a small per cent of all the classes of men, but I guess all halloaed that were hit. Now, I wish to ask a few questions for information. 1st. How can we be benefitted by a special school tax and not get more of the tax than we pay? 2d. How can we get more than we pay and not get other men's money for nothing. 3d. How can we get other men's money for nothing against their will and not be thieves or robbers? Some one tell me how these things can be and I will not oppose the special tax any more, for I certainly believe in good schools as much as any man, and I am going to educate my children if I never do any more for them. I have no hope of ever getting one penny's worth of public money, let my tax be what it will. With best wishes, I remain as ever.

GENERAL STATE NEWS.

Current News Garnered as It Falls From the Plant of Report.

Coal Rates Decreased.

Anniston, Ala.—The cotton mills of Anniston have received a reduction of 10 cents per ton on freight on coal from the Birmingham district. These rates became effective Friday. The Southern railway announced the following reductions in rates on steam coal for manufacturing purposes, effective February 28: From groups one, two, three and five, 70 and 50 cents per ton; group four, from 85 to 54 cents per ton. This is done to encourage and foster manufacturing plants in Anniston, and includes gas and electric light plants. The rate on commercial and domestic coal will remain unchanged.

Six Killed in a Wreck.

Pittsburg, Pa.—In a rear-end collision Friday night between two special passenger trains from Cleveland on the Cleveland and Pittsburg railroad, en route to Washington, six men and one woman were killed, and 20 other passengers injured.

The accident happened at Clifton station, eight miles west of Pittsburg, and was caused by the first special stopping to repair a hot box. The second train followed so closely that the flagman had not time to get back far enough to prevent the collision.

The first train carried a battalion of the Ohio engineers. It was made up of six coaches and a baggage car. The second train with the same number of cars carried the Tippecanoe club of Cleveland, with a band and 25 or 30 women.

When the crash came the passengers in the rear of the first train were the principal sufferers, and all of the fatalities were in that car. The wreckage took fire from the locomotive and the entire first train and three cars of the second were burned.

Street Car Wreck.

Birmingham, Ala.—At 2:45 Friday afternoon an East Lake car coming toward Birmingham was struck by a caboose being shoved by an engine on the Birmingham Mineral railroad.

The car was upset and the caboose piled on top of it. Marcus Feibelman, who resides at East Lake, was pinned under the wreck and was badly injured. He was taken to his home at East Lake. His injuries may prove fatal.

The street car company contends that the railroad train was flagged.

A lady and babe in arms on the street car escaped without injury. There were fifteen passengers, but it is understood that Mr. Feibelman is the only one seriously injured.

Hayes Caught in Hospital.

Montgomery, Ala.—John R. Hayes was arrested Friday at the Missouri Pacific hospital by Detective McNeil, says the St. Louis Republic. Sheriff J. S. Moore, of Jasper, Ala., in a letter to Chief of Police Kiely states that Hayes is wanted there on an indictment charging the theft of $500.

Hayes told Detective McNeil that his home is at Pocahontas, Ala., of which Jasper is the county seat. He declared that he did not know that there was a charge against him and insists that he has not committed a crime.

Passes Senate.

Washington, D. C.—Senator Pettus called up and the senate passed the Selma-Tuscaloosa federal court bill.

There is no doubt that the president will approve the bill, as it has the unanimous endorsement of the Alabama representatives and senators as well as the approval of Judges Jones and Toulmin.

Louis Frenkel Is Dead.

Mobile, Ala.—Louis Frenkel, for forty years a prominent cotton broker and citizen, died Friday, aged 66 years. He was a native of Bavaria. He was at one time president of the district grand lodge No. 7, I. O. O. F., and for thirty-four years treasurer of the Knights of Honor.

Big Coal Deal.

Irwin, Pa.—One of the largest coal deals in the history of the bituminous region of this state was consummated Friday, when the Westmoreland Coal Company took over the Penn Gas Coal Company, the purchase price being about $3,500,000 on a basis of $400 an acre for coal lands and $1,500 for equipment.

Valuables Lost; Mail Car Burns.

Connellsville, Pa.—Mail car No. 9 on the eastbound Baltimore and Ohio express burned to the trucks between Cook's Mills and Ellerslee, on the Connellsville division. Fifteen hundred registered letters, $250,000 in currency and hundreds of pounds of mail were destroyed. Mail Clerk Frank Free and two assistants were slightly injured in jumping from the car.

Arrested for Arson.

Opelika, Ala.—Deputy Sheriff Parker, of Randolph county, arrested a white man named J. V. Tarvin, wanted in Randolph county for arson and carried him to that county Friday.

The Swiss military authorities are about to adopt khaki for soldiers' uniforms.

Factory Was Destroyed.

Girard, Ala.—The plant of the Chattahoochee Chemical and Mining Company was destroyed by fire Thursday morning between the hours of 1 and 3 o'clock. It is not known how the flames originated, and the theory of incendiarism has been advanced. When the watchman discovered the fire it was rapidly getting under good headway.

The entire plant, including buildings, officers, stables, four Central of Georgia freight cars and one thousand tons of guano was destroyed. The loss is estimated at from $25,000 to $35,000, and is partially covered by insurance.

This plant, a guano factory, was erected about two years ago, and was the largest industry in Girard.

Burned With Powder.

Gadsden, Ala.—An accident which may prove serious, occurred Friday at the ore mines of Hammond Bros., a few miles above the city, in which three boys and a girl were badly burned. The children, whose ages range from 5 to 14 years of age, were playing near an old powder magazine on the mountain and found a can of powder which they broke open and pouring out a quantity threw it on a fire they had near by. The powder flashed up and quickly communicated with the can when it exploded with a deafening report and the children were burned and bruised about their faces and body. Two of the boys are in a dangerous condition and may not survive the accident.

Killed By Train.

Gadsden, Ala.—An unknown white man was run down and ground to pieces early Wednesday morning between Caldwell and Whitney by the Alabama Great Southern northbound passenger, the news being brought to Gadsden by passengers on the train. It seems that the old man lived near one of the above named stations and was walking along the side of the track with a plow on his shoulder and as the train neared him the engineer was horrified to see the old man step into the center of the track. The engineer shrieked out a warning, applied the brakes and reversed his engine but to no avail and the man was run down. His name could not be learned.

New Bank at Decatur.

Decatur, Ala.—Official notice of the organization of the Commercial Savings Bank and Trust Savings Company, of New Decatur, was filed with the secretary of state Friday. The capital stock of the bank is $25,000, all of which is paid in.

The incorporators are L. J. Fenn, A. C. Cain, Mrs. Mary Jennings, E. C. Payne, Samuel Blackwell, M. L. Hardage, B. W. Watson, W. H. Simpson, C. E. Malone, R. H. Walcott, James A. Hill, L. W. Barton, A. A. Hardage, J. D. Jervis, Abe Jervis, G. R. Sullivan, W. R. Smith, T. H. Mattocks, John Flippen, L. B. Wyatt, William Scharfenberg, W. A. Warner, B. L. Malone, G. W. Russell, A. Z. Bailey, Putnam and Austin, A. J. Wilson, Morris Wilson, Claude Wilson and G. L. Bombs.

Home Destroyed by Fire.

Scottsboro, Ala.—Fire destroyed the home of R. Scott Parks Monday afternoon at Randall's chapel, near Sottsboro. Everything Mr. Parks had in his home was burned, as all the family were here at the time of the fire. The cause is unknown. There was no insurance.

Will Pay Dividends.

Opelika, Ala.—The depositors of the Shapard Bank, which failed in Opelika about a year ago, will be paid a dividend of 25 per cent.

There are about $80,000 due depositors and the assignees will pay out about $20,000 on the first dividend.

Santa Fe Included.

Topeka, Kan.—The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad is to be included in Attorney General Coleman's suit for conspiracy against the Standard Oil Company. Mr. Coleman said that the Santa Fe was left out of the original petition by an error of the state stenographer.

He will at once file an amended petition to include the Santa Fe. The suit is brought against all the railroads of the state. The strongest feature of the suit, according to the attorney general, is that relating to the failure of the Standard Oil Company to pay charter fees, thus having no authority to do business in the state.

Oakman to Have a Bank.

Jasper, Ala.—From reports Oakman is to have a bank some time in the near future. According to the report, Messrs. M. F. Cannon & Son, the largest merchants in Oakman, are the leaders in the movement. Fifteen thousand dollars will probably be the capital stock of the bank. The Messrs. Cannon have large stores both at Oakman and Berry. Other local capitalists will subscribe to the new bank.

New Railroad to Atlas Coal Mines.

Jasper, Ala.—Bowdry & Wilcox, the well known contractors, have begun the construction of a branch line from the main line of the Southern railway near Oakman to a point where the Atlas Coal Company proposes to open up new mines. The line will leave the main line about three miles east of Oakman, and will run in a southeasterly direction about two and one-half miles.

The Atlas Coal Company has some very rich mineral holdings in that section, and it is proposed to open the best mining plants in the county.

Wants But One Phone System.

Sheffield, Ala.—The mayor and council of Sheffield at a meeting held Thursday night declined to grand a franchise for an exchange to be operated in competition with the exchange of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company, now in Sheffield. The application for a franchise was made by John C. Monteith, representing Barber & Brailey, owners of certain independent telephone properties. The matter received careful consideration at the hands of the members of the council, and after a full discussion it was unanimously decided that a second telephone system in Sheffield would result in an increased financial burden to the community, and very considerable annoyance as well. The service of the Southern Bell Company in Sheffield was pronounced excellent and the rates reasonable, and the mayor and council were unanimously of the opinion that a second telephone system would be highly undesirable.

Boyles Property Transferred.

Birmingham, Ala.—According to papers filed in the probate office, the South and North Alabama railroad (Louisville and Nashville) is now in full possession of the property at Boyles, north of the city, where large yards have been constructed. The transfer is made by the Louisville Development Company, a corporation in which are many stockholders in the Louisville and Nashville. The consideration is $420,000.

Bit By Mad Dog.

Opelika, Ala.—A few weeks ago a supposed mad dog bit the little boy of Solicitor C. A. L. Samford and the little daughter of B. E. Hudson. They were at once carried to Atlanta, Ga., for treatment, and the body of the dog was carried there for analysis and examination. It was decided that the dog was afflicted with the rabies, but the children have taken the necessary treatment and it is now thought that they are out of danger.

Child Victim of Grate Fire.

Florence, Ala.—The 7-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Longshore, prominent citizens of Lambs Ferry, in the eastern part of the county, was burned in a frightful manner. Mrs. Longshore had stepped from the room a few minutes when it is supposed the child went too near the grate and caught fire. When found the child's clothes were burned entirely off, and after lingering in horribly agony it died six hours later. This is the fourth victim, all of them white children, which the flames have claimed in Lauderdale county in a little more than a month.

Alabama Postmasters.

Washington, D. C.—Postmasters appointed:

Bingham, Elmore county, James B. Fain; Rockwood, Franklin county, Wylmer Crittenden; Show Creek, Cleburne county, Wm. E. Holdt.

Opera House Sold at Tuscaloosa.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—H. H. Leland and M. T. Ormond have purchased the opera house property from H. F. Brady, of Mobile. The property is a quarter of a block. The price paid was $4,500.

Brought from Florida.

Birmingham, Ala.—Ed G. Roach, a white man 36 years of age, was brought to Birmingham from Jacksonville, Fla., where he was arrested on a warrant from this county, charging grand larceny. He was arrested several days ago, and Deputy Sheriff George W. Courson was sent to Florida to bring him back.

Roach is charged with taking and disposing of a barrel of whisky from the Frisco system freight house in this city some time ago. For several weeks the special agent of the railroad has been working on the case, and he finally located Roach in Jacksonville.

Selma, Ala.—J. M. Tate, the officer of the law who brought two negro prisoners to this city Friday en route to Florida and under the influence of whiskey paraded his prisoners through the principal streets, received leniency at the hands of Mayor Atkins Saturday morning. His fine was only $15 on the charge of drunk and disorderly conduct. Another warrant against him for using obscene language in the presence of females was discarded.

Jordan at Opelika.

Opelika, Ala.—An immense audience of representative farmers from Lee, Chambers, Macon, Tallapoosa and Russell counties, assembled in Opelika to hear the addresses of Hon. Harvie Jordan, president of the Southern Cotton Growers' Association, and other distinguished speakers. Hon. N. P. Renfro, president of the Lee County Association, called the meeting to order and presented Hon. Lum Duke, of Opelika, who introduced Hon. R. R. Poole, commissioner of agriculture. Hon. R. R. Poole, in an address, described the organization, composition and purpose of the Cotton Growers' Association. His speech was enthusiastically received.

Colonel Duke then introduced Hon. Harvie Jordan, who delivered a most masterly address, discussing the cotton situation in the Southern States and eloquently appealed to the farmers to decrease the cotton acreage and the use of fertilizers.

W. H. Seymour, president of the Alabama Association, and E. D. Smith, of the South Carolina Association, delivered eloquent addresses on the line of the other speeches. All the speakers were enthusiastically applauded.

New Construction Company.

Birmingham, Ala.—The Jefferson Construction Company, of Birmingham, with a capital stock of $125,000, Friday gave notice of its incorporation to Secretary of State E. R. McDavid. The incorporators are W. H. Woodward, Frank Nelson, Jr., and F. B. Nabers.

Other notices of incorporation were filed as follows:

Alabama Mining Company, with a capital stock of $100,000. The headquarters of the company are at Birmingham. The incorporators are S. J. Simpson, E. D. Stone, and R. P. Gaines.

Crockett Wall Paper Company, of Birmingham, with a capital stock of $5,000. The incorporators are J. R. Adams, Kate C. Adams and W. J. Crockett.

Great Mining Improvement.

Ensley, Ala.—The Tennessee company is doing a large amount of improvement and repairing at mine No. 5, near Wylam, of the Pratt division. New machinery is being installed, the tipple is being repaired and new tracks are being laid. The company is also building fifty new houses near the mines in which the miners and their families will live.

For the past several weeks a large force of workmen have been engaged in installing new machinery and making other improvements.

When the plans projected are carried out No. 5 will be one of the best equipped mines in the state. For the past two or three years it seems that the policy of the Tennessee company is to equip all of its mines with modern machinery. No. 3 has recently been made one of the best mines in the state, and now No. 5 will soon rank in the same class.

The company is also sinking another shaft on its properties near Booker City.

White Men Sentenced.

Montgomery, Ala.—J. H. Wise and Lawrence McDonald, white men, charged with grand larceny, entered pleas of guilty in the criminal division of the city court of Montgomery and were sentenced to two years each in the penitentiary by Judge William H. Thomas.

Wise was charged with stealing an overcoat from J. H. Dodd at the Hogan house, where both men were rooming, while McDonald took a similar article of apparel from the residence of Patrolman T. J. Swearingen. He was employed to paint the house occupied by Mr. Swearingen, and was subsequently discharged. He returned, however, and took the overcoat.

The men will be taken to the penitentiary in a few days.

Heavy Damages.

Gadsden, Ala.—A verdict for $11,500 damages was rendered against the Alabama Steel and Wire Company in the city court in the case of the administrator of a man named Cahill, who sued for $25,000 for the death of Cahill.

Cow Ordinance in Force.

Florence, Ala.—The beginning of a new era was marked in Florence Friday when the ordinance prohibiting the running at large of cows within old Florence went into effect.

It is expected that the city, which is already one of the most beautiful in the south, will be greatly improved by the planting of trees and the removal of fences. The Civic Improvement Association worked long and faithfully for the cow ordinance with the view of planting trees in the streets and encouraging the planting of flowers in the yards.

The ordinance as originally passed has been amended so as to change the boundary, including East Florence.

Iron Pipe Improvement.

Bessemer, Ala.—The United States Cast Iron Pipe and Foundry company is making preparations to shortly begin work on the proposed improvements on its plant, near this city. It is estimated that the company will expend about $250,000 on addition and improvements. When the present plans are completed the capacity of the plant will be doubled.

DULY INAUGURATED.

The President Leads in the Parade. All Sections Are Represented.

MILITARY PLAY A PART.

Cadets and Middies Attract Much Attention—Philippines and Porto Rico Get Applause.

Washington, D. C.—President Roosevelt descended the steps which were put in place in front of the inaugural stand and took his carriage without re-entering the capitol.

The inaugural parade began at 1:20 o'clock, and as the president's carriage, followed by that of Vice President Fairbanks and those of the members of the cabinet, proceeded through the capitol grounds, the vast throng hastily placed itself on either side of the line of march and cheered without ceasing. The procession moved slowly and Mr. Roosevelt, in acknowledging the salutes from either side, rose to his feet repeatedly, and with his silk hat in his hand, bowed to the right and left. The buildings facing the capitol grounds through which the procession passed, were occupied to their full capacity with cheering people, who waived flags and handkerchiefs. No incident marred in the slightest degree the inaugural address and proceeded down past the peace monument and and took its way to the white house on the broad avenue.

President Leads Parade.

The procession formed immediately behind the carriages of the presidential party and in order previously arranged marched from the capitol.

The president led the parade in quick marching time to the white house. No president in recent years has been as prompt in moving from one end of the avenue to the other. The troops marched in ideal weather, the sky being clear, the sun warm and a fair breeze blowing. The president lost no time in formalities.

The pageant moved amid the frantic applause of thousands who packed the line of march on either side to view the spectacular and public feature of the day. The platoon of mounted police who led the way put their horses ahead in a rapid gallop in order to clear the avenue of thousands who were crowding on the curbing behind the ropes. The Fifth artillery band followed the platoon of police and in stirring time led the on-coming marchers. The more military character of the return from the capitol as contrasted with the march to the capitol was due in part to the fact that the old veterans who followed the president on foot this morning, bade him farewell at the capitol and their places were taken by the mounted police on the staff of the grand marshal and their special aids. Squadron "A" of the New York National Guard in their brilliant uniform of blue, again formed the president's personal escort together with the officers of the president's old Rough Rider regiment.

Cadets Make Fine Showing.

The cadets, headed by Brig. Gen. Fred Grant, and under their old superintendent, Brigadier General Mills, acquitted themselves splendidly. The boys marched like veterans, and although many of them had friends and relatives and sweethearts along the line of march, they never turned their eyes to the right or left, but marched like clockwork.

The midshipmen surprised everybody. Sailors are not supposed to be good foot soldiers, yet beyond question the two battalions from Annapolis, 700 strong, gave the West Pointers the hardest contest they had ever had for first place in a parade. The boys, in their navy blue, tightly-fitting, tailless jackets and leggins, marched with a precision that was wonderful and were cheered at almost every step.

In their wake came the revenue marine cadets, a new feature in the inaugural parade, and one so attractive as to be sure of retention in the future.

The heart of the army, the mainstay of disciplinarians, the splendidly drilled engineers were represented by the second battalion, Major Burr commanding, and as the men marched in files of twenty double ranks in perfect alignment they received unlimited applause.

The signal corps, the provisional regiment made up of two battalions and the coast artillery, all had representatives.

Porto Rico Well Represented.

Porto Rico was well represented in the parade. Major Thomas Griffith of the regulars, commanded the talion of the Porto Rico pro regiment, which came all th from their island home to par in the president's inaugural were a sturdy lot of men, smal haps of stature than their A brothers in the service, but wel thoroughly trained in marching

About 2 o'clock the troops ca a halt, the president having the white house on schedule tim gone to his official home for a l luncheon.

Dance on Tops of Buildin

The men as they rested on arms along the avenue seemed g the opportunity the wait gave to spruce up to pass in review b their newly inaugurated pres While at parade rest the sold amused themselves watching scenes along the curbing. Incid of human interest were many. On top of a building opposite the office a young man and his danced a two-step to the rapid m of "Back to Baltimore," played one of the bands in the parade.

It was exactly five minutes b 3 o'clock when the Philippine s who were toward the last brigade, first division of the mil of the grand division, resumed march and passed the postoffice partment with as perfect a lin was to be seen in the parade.

President's Neighbors Take Pa

The president's "Neighbors" we feature of the parade. There several hundred citizens of O Bay and vicinity, and knew the p dent in his younger days.

"The big stick" had a prom place in line and provoked much thusiasm. This was the emblem the republican club of Ulster co N. Y., in which Alton B. Parker l Leading the Union Republican of Philadelphia was "William P carrying in his hand his famous t with the Indians, and accompani several members of the club, a as Indians of Pennsylvania's tim

The members of the club wore olive green overcoats. A picture feature of this section of the pa were twelve anthracite miner Wilkesebarra, Pa., wearing in t white caps the miners' lamps and rying a banner on which was wri "We honor the man who settled strike."

The rail-splitters of the Lin Club of Toledo, O., in their stri uniforms of purple, with white ings, formed an effective feat General Wheeler, who was the m shal of the second division of grand civic division, was appla frequently by the crowd and respo ed gracefully, lifting his chapeau.

Cowboys Were the Feature.

At this stage in the parade came feature which of all others per attracted the most attention. It the "cowboys of the west," headed Capt. Seth Bullock, who set on horse as if on an easy chair, with long mustache twisted by the and his left arm resting akimbo his hip. The cowboys were a sigh see, for while they all wore wild ern rig, no two of them were alike. Some wore blue shirts, spotted red, some wore huge skin caps, while others had le breeches, and still others wore gins. Lassoes hung on the pum of their saddles, and the pearl ebony handles of six-shooters out aggressively from capacious sters, suspended from their Just to show what they could do, and then they roped a small, t fied African in the circling folds a lariat, and their horses danced and fro across the avenue while t riders whipped and yelled and sal the pretty girls at every window.

Newsboy Cadets Attract Attenti

The newsboys, cadets of Toledo, was the first organization of this to figure in a president's inaug parade, and the young fellows quitted themselves well. Another the striking novelties of this marching, was the Harvard Rep can Club, fresh from the presid alma mater, with their acad student's gowns and mortar caps marching in excellent form.

The third and last division w terminated the day's demonstr was made up of colored citizens der the lead of Judson W. Lyons, istrar of the United States trea who acted as marshal. In line were a number of colored clubs w have become veterans in camp work, and they made an exce showing.

Beginning shortly after 2 o'cloc the capitol, the last of the marc passed the president's revie stand soon after 6 o'clock.

Two Residences Burned.

Sylacauga, Ala.—At an early hour Sunday morning the residences occupied by Dr. M. E. Conoway and Mr. M. H. Jackson were totally destroyed by fire. Both buildings were recently erected and were owned by Dr. M. E. Conoway, whose loss is very near $3,000 on his dwellings alone, as there was only $1,400 insurance in force on the two dwellings. Most of the household effects were saved.

Pay Day at Virginia Mines.

The first of the present administration were $92,713.44, and for the sec year $100,024.46. For the succeed twelve months they were $158, 7, and for the year ending Sep er 30, 1904, they had reached 917.63. For the five months end Tuesday, the income has been, net, 633.27. It will be seen, therefore, the earnings for the time and paid the treasury have been $761, 7, which, with $51,000 now on , gives the total of $812,151.77. net sum paid into the treasury preceding the incoming of this inistration was $102,453.82.

Cotton Movement Lively.

of the regulars, commanded th talion of the Porto Rico prov regiment, which came all the from their island home to parti in the president's inaugural. were a sturdy lot of men, smaller haps of stature than their Ame brothers in the service, but well thoroughly trained in marching.

About 2 o'clock the troops came a halt, the president having rea the white house on schedule time gone to his official home for a hur luncheon.

Dance on Tops of Building.

The men as they rested on th arms along the avenue seemed glad the opportunity the wait gave th to spruce up to pass in review bef their newly inaugurated presid While at parade rest the soldi amused themselves watching scenes along the curbing. Incide of human interest were many. On top of a building opposite the p office a young man and his danced a two-step to the rapid mel of "Back to Baltimore," played ne of the bands in the parade.

It was exactly five minutes befo 3 o'clock when the Philippine sco who were toward the last sec brigade, first division of the milit of the grand division, resumed th march and passed the postoffice partment with as perfect a line was to be seen in the parade.

President's Neighbors Take Part.

The president's "Neighbors" were feature of the parade. There w several hundred citizens of Oys Bay and vicinity, and knew the pre dent in his younger days.

"The big stick" had a promin place in line and provoked much e thusiasm. This was the emblem the republican club of Ulster coun N. Y., in which Alton B. Parker liv Leading the second brigade of t first division, was the Israel W. D ham club of Philadelphia, William Vare commanding.

Leading the Union Republican C of Philadelphia was "William Pe carrying in his hand his famous t with the Indians, and accompanie several members of the club, atti as Indians of Pennsylvania's time.

The members of the club wore l olive green overcoats. A picturesq feature of this section of the par were twelve anthracite miners Wilkesebarre, Pa., wearing in th white caps the miners' lamps and c rying a banner on which was writt "We honor the man who settled t strike."

The rail-splitters of the Linc Club of Toledo, O., in their striki uniforms of purple, with white f ings, formed an effective featu General Wheeler, who was the m shal of the second division of t grand civic division, was applaud frequently by the crowd and respo ed gracefully, lifting his chapeau.

Cowboys Were the Feature.

At this stage in the parade came t feature which of all others perha attracted the most attention. It w the "cowboys of the west," headed Capt. Seth Bullock, who set on horse as if on an easy chair, with long mustache twisted by the wi and his left arm resting akimbo his hip. The cowboys were a sight see, for while they all wore wild w ern rig, no two of them were alike. Some wore blue shirts, spotted red, some wore huge sk skin caps, while others had lea breeches, and still others wore gins. Lassoes hung on the pum of their saddles, and the pearl ebony handles of six-shooters st out aggressively from capacious h sters, suspended from their be Just to show what they could do, and then they roped a small, te fied African in the circling folds a lariat, and their horses danced and fro across the avenue while th riders whipped and yelled and salu the pretty girls at every window.

Newsboy Cadets Attract Attentio

The newsboys, cadets of Toledo, was the first organization of this ki to figure in a president's inaugu parade, and the young fellows quitted themselves well. Another the striking novelties of this da marching, was the Harvard Repu can Club, fresh from the presid alma mater, with their acade student's gowns and mortar bo caps marching in excellent form.

The third and last division wh terminated the day's demonstrat was made up of colored citizens der the lead of Judson W. Lyons, istrar of the United States treas who acted as marshal. In line were a number of colored clubs wh have become veterans in campa work, and they made an excell showing.

Beginning shortly after 2 o'clock the capitol, the last of the marche passed the president's review stand soon after 6 o'clock.

Hand to Hand Fighting.

Tokio.—The headquarters of the Japanese army on the Shakhe river, telegraphing, says:

"The enemy's batteries at Tungyiu mountain and the northern height of Tangchiatun commenced bombarding at 4 o'clock today. We did not reply.

"Monday night the enemy's field guns at Shupangtai and heavy guns at Wenchengpao concentrated their fire on our outposts in the vicinity of the railroad bridge. At 1 o'clock in the morning five companies of infantry advanced on either side of the railroad and surrounded our outposts. Finally part of the enemy charged into our entrenches and engaged in a fierce hand to hand fight. Our outposts had repulsed the enemy entirely at 3 in the morning. The enemy left sixty dead, some prisoners and spoils.

"Small bodies of the enemy at Wanchiayuantzu, Sanchiatzu and Lapatai have been repulsed."

Skeleton Unearthed.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—In removing a hill in the eastern part of the city to supply dirt for the approaches of a viaduct, workmen have unearthed twenty skeletons, supposed to be the remains of federal soldiers. Brass buttons bearing the insigma of the Union forces were found near the skeletons.

It is the general opinion that the remains are those of soldiers killed in the desperate assaults on Missionary Ridge and who were hastily buried in trenches, being forgotten during the subsequent severe battles and campaigns of this vicinity. The indications are that many more skeletons will be removed before the work is completed.

Battle House Sold.

Mobile, Ala.—The transfer of the Battle House property was made Tuesday afternoon by William Vizand to Louis and Sidney Lowenstein, two well known and wealthy citizens of this city. The deal had been on ever since a few days after the burning of that famous hostelry, but there was a hinge in the trade because of the figure. The first offer made was $150,000, but declined. Later, it is understood, the price offered was increased to $175,000, and this, too, was declined.

While not official, it is reported that the deal called for a compromise between the last named figure and two hundred thousand. The securing of the Battle House site gives to the Messrs. Lowenstein nearly, if not quite, one-third of the entire block bounded by Royal, Water, Dauphin and St. Francis streets.

Bold Assault.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—An assault of astonishing boldness occurred on the public road five miles from town Saturday night. D. Powell, a well known young man, was accompanying his sister, Miss Lucy, and another young lady, Miss Velma May, to an entertainment. They were going along the road, Mr. Powell holding a lantern. They passed a negro, and as the negro passed he suddenly threw his arms around Miss Powell's neck. She creamed and her brother suddenly felled him to the ground, and with assistance the negro's hands were tied. He was carried to town and placed in jail. A warrant was sworn out before Justice Carson charging the negro with assault with intent to rape.

Seriously Injured in Fall.

Gadsden, Ala.—Palmer Dempsey, 20 years old, fell a distance of twenty feet Tuesday morning at the steel plant and was dangerously wounded. Dempsey had charge of the electric crane and was rearranging some part about the crane when some one below started the machine, knocking Dempsey off of the bridge. He struck the iron floor, breaking his left arm in two places. He is internally injured and more serious complications may occur.

Dispatches Confirm Capture.

St. Petersburg.—Two brief dispatches from General Kuropatkin, dated February 28, confirm the capture of the head of the Shakhe river bridge. Attacks of the Japanese on Cauto Pass were repulsed February 27 and again February 28. The Russian advance guard still hold their position at Kadaza. The sharpshooters continue to harass the whole Japanese front, and it is confirmed, caused considerable alarm by the use of hand grenades at Sandiapu during the night of February 27.

Alleged Murderer Captured.

Huntsville, Ala.—Will Staples, charged with the murder of an old Confederate veteran named Winkle in Marshall county, was captured here Tuesday afternoon and held to await the arrival of the Sheriff at Guntersville. Staples has been employed in a mill here.

King Edward to President Roosevelt.

Washington, D. C.—A sealed personal letter of congratulations from King Edward VII was delivered to President Roosevelt by Sir Mortimer Durand, the British ambassador. Its contents are not made public.

During the first nine months of last year Spain imported nearly 40,000,000 francs' worth of machinery, chiefly from Germany and Great Britain.

THE COTTON OUTLOOK

The Investigations of Commissioner Stevens of Georgia, on the Situation.

PREDICTS BIG REDUCTION.

From Investigations, Says Acreage Will Be One-fourth Less and Fertilizers One-third.

Atlanta, Ga.—Hon. O. B. Stevens, commissioner of agriculture of the state of Georgia, has written a letter to Hon. G. W. Koiner, of Richmond, Va., who is president of the Association of Commissioners of Agriculture of the South, in which he paints a picture of prosperity on part of the Southern farmer and the South generally that will no doubt be read with great interest throughout the country.

The information which Mr. Stevens writes Mr. Koiner is gathered from several hundred letters he sent out to the different Southern states in February. His statement is based on the information contained in the replies to his letters.

Mr. Stevens says the farmers are better off than they ever were before; that they have, in many instances, cash enough to run their farms; that many of them have cotton and are able to hold it; that the South generally is in good shape.

Furthermore, Mr. Stevens says the reduction in cotton acreage throughout the South will be 25 per cent. and that the reduction in the use of commercial fertilizers will be 33 1-3 per cent.

Mr. Stevens' Letter.

The following is what Mr. Stevens wrote Mr. Koiner:

Since I last saw you many changes have taken place, and the condition of our planters and merchants in the Southern states has induced me to seek for information from all sources to find the condition of general trade of our country. I find to my surprise that the planters in the Southern states are in a much better condition than I had thought for. They have more grain, more forage, more meat; in fact, more home supplies than for many years. They are in a much better condition to make a crop for the year 1905 than the general public is aware of. A great number of our people have cash enough on hand to run their farms. Our merchants are in a good condition, with a few exceptions. I am sorry to say that a few of them bought cotton last fall in order to settle their accounts with their customers at from 9 to 10c. per pound, and a number of them have this cotton still on hand. A few of them went wild and speculated in futures. These, of course, lost. But, as a general rule, our business people in the Southern states are in good shape. The trade has improved very much, not only in the Southern states, but in all the states and even in the foreign countries mills are running on full time, and they have been able to sell all their product at a fair profit, most of them at least six months ahead and a few of them as far as twelve months ahead. So when we come to sum it all up, the general condition of trade is in good shape. Every article of merchandise is bringing its value except cotton, which is below the cost of production. These commodities have all got to adjust themselves. Cotton must go higher or the other commodities of merchandise will be reduced in price. In other words, they must get nearer together.

Big Reduction in Acreage.

I have been in correspondence with all the commissioners of the Southern states, and on the 17th of February I wrote each one of them to know what was the financial condition of the farmers was compared to last year; how long they would be able to hold their cotton when so inclined; what per cent. of decrease in acreage would likely be made and how much they would likely reduce their fertilizers. I have heard from the states of Tennessee, Arkansas, Texas, Oklahoma, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama and Louisiana. The reply came from all these states that the condition of the planters was never better; that at least 85 per cent. of the cotton now on hand can be held indefinitely; that since the first day of last January about 15 per cent. of the cotton then on hand had been sold, but that the planters and merchants are not inclined to sell at present prices and that they are now making arrangements to hold their cotton indefinitely; that the decrease in acreage for the cotton crop of 1905 will not be less than 20 per cent. and a few states report that it will be as high as 33 1-3 per cent.; that the fertilizers will be materially decreased. The average decrease reported up to the present writing from all the states being a fraction over 25 per cent. So if the planters hold out and stand by the resolutions which they have made, it looks now that the crop of cotton and fertilizers will be materially reduced and that more ground will be put in corn and forage of all descriptions and pasturage for their stock. So at present the outlook is at least hopeful.

As to Georgia.

Speaking of Georgia, my own state, I have mixed and mingled with the people a great deal, and while we have had a great deal to discourage us—low prices of cotton and bad weather—we have been unable up to now to do but very little farm work. In fact, there is scarcely any preparation for the coming crop. We have only been able to repair our fences, clean out our ditches, but unable to do any plowing. Therefore we have now (March 1st) got to commence to prepare our lands for the coming crop.

Our planters are in good condition and perfectly able to hold their cotton indefinitely, and in my judgment, will reduce their acreage not less than 20 per cent., and the fertilizers will be reduced accordingly. In fact, the department of agriculture of this state sold less than 25 per cent. of fertilizer tax tags during the months of January and February, 1905, as compared to the same months of 1904.

It is to be hoped that our people will stand by the plans which they have adopted for the coming crop. Should there be another large crop of cotton made in the South, we will feel the effects of it for the next ten years. If we should raise only an eight or nine million bale crop this year, then we will see cotton go back to a living price for the producer, and our south land will be the most prosperous section in the country.

Very truly yours,

O. B. STEVENS,

Commissioner of Agriculture.

Tax Commissioners.

Montgomery, Ala.—State Tax Commissioner Harvey E. Jones appointed the following tax commissioners for the counties named, the same having been approved by Acting Governor Cunningham: N. A. Hood, Ashville, St. Clair county; W. M. Willis, Opelika, Lee county; W. M. Sudduth, Kennedy, Lamar county; Bert B. Hays, Abbeville, Henry county.

Express Car Rifled by Three Robbers.

Memphis, Tenn.—Eastbound passenger train No. 203 on the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad, known as "The Arkansas Traveler," was stopped by three bandits eight miles south of Mammoth Springs, Ark., Thursday, and the express car was robbed. The safe was blown open and all of its contents were secured.

The train was signaled shortly after leaving Mammoth Springs by three men heavily armed. They entered the car of the Southern Express Company and covered Messenger Harry White with revolvers. After rifling the safe the robbers made a dash for the woods and escaped.

The train, which was due in Memphis at noon, arrived an hour late, and a report of the hold-up was immediately made to the railroad and express officials. The officers of the Southern Express Company in this city state they do not know the amount of money secured by the robbers.

Messenger White went to the company's offices and has not made a statement.

The amount of money usually carried on this train is not large.

Policeman Hurt.

Gadsden, Ala.—D. L. Garner, night policeman, happened to a serious accident last night while in the discharge of his duty. A call was sent in from a residence on Forest avenue that burglars were breaking in and Officers Garner and Singleton mounted their horses and left in a gallop for the scene. As the officers were going up the hill on Forest avenue Garner's horse stumbled and he was thrown violently to the ground, rendering him unconscious for some time. An examination by his brother officer showed that he was badly hurt and he was taken into the home of a doctor nearby, where it was ascertained that his right shoulder was out of place and his leg above the knee was split open, requiring several stitches to close it up. Mr. Garner had a narrow escape from breaking his neck, and will be laid up for some time.

Interviewed by Solicitor.

Birmingham, Ala.—Solicitor Dave Almand, of Morgan county; Fred Bloodworth, brother of Miss Belle Bloodworth, who was murdered in New Decatur a few weeks ago, with Detective Charles H. Heflin, called at the county jail here and interviewed John Collier and Harvey Smith, the two negroes arrested in New Decatur charged with the murder of Miss Bloodworth and brought here for safe keeping.

The negroes denied the crime. Collier is said to have told the New Decatur authorities that Smith confessed to him of committing the murder. No announcement is made yet as to when the negroes will be taken back to New Decatur for trial. There is considerable ill feeling against the negroes in Morgan county and fears were expressed that they would be lynched, hence their being brought to Birmingham.

Would Make Pipe Lines Common.

Austin, Tex.—The senate Friday finally passed an oil bill that will place all pipe lines in Texas under the jurisdiction of the railroad commission, fix a minimum rate for the same and provide for monthly statements of all persons using the lines as to oil they have in storage and what is anticipated for the subsequent thirty days. The bill now goes to the house, where a bitter fight is expected.

FIGHTING HEAVILY.

And Bloody Losses Reported. In Five and Half Miles of Mukden.

RUSSIANS ARE FIGHTING STILL.

Japs Making Heavy Gains—Have Captured Quantities of Spoils—Great Battle is Imminent.

Tokio—Field Marshal Oyama is continuing his great drives around both flanks of the Russian army. His front is now a huge bow, the base on the Shakhe river, the right arm reaching a point east of Fushun, and the left extending to a point west of Mukden. He is steadily tightening the great cord of men and steel. General Kuropatkin is striving desperately to check the Japanese advances, contesting the flank encroachments and hammering the Japanese center. The Japanese are making heavy gains of ground west of the railway, and have captured great quantities of stores and other spoils. There already has been bloody fighting and heavy losses, and this will be vastly increased when the masses of infantry meet. Field Marshal Oyama, reporting on March 4th, says:

"A few days ago our force in the Hsienchuang direction pressed the enemy into his position at Tita, which is fifteen miles southeast of Fushan and Manchuntan, fifteen miles south of Fushun. The engagement continues in the Shakhe direction.

Four Attacks Repulsed.

"The night of March 3 the enemy made four determined attacks against our positions at Housuntupolzu and Tangshiatun. All were entirely repulsed.

"In the district east of the railway the enemy's frequent small attacks were repulsed.

"In the district east of the railway our force is continuing fierce attacks and has occupied the districts of Wuchenyeng, five miles west of Shakhe village, and Taishonpao, three miles northwest of Wuchenyeng and Shunopao.

"The force on the right of the Hun river is dislodging the enemy northeast of Siapoehol, which is between the Hun and Liao rivers, and has advanced north. This force carried the enemy's defense line between Chuntan and Shufangtai and pursued the enemy fiercely. The fighting zone now lies between Wochiapo, fifteen miles southwest of Mukden. Taitse, thirteen miles west of Mukden, and Lamuho, four miles north of Taitse.

Casualties Heavy.

"During a previous engagement the enemy's casualties were heavy. The spoils captured were great. No time to investigate. We captured large quantities of provisions at Wanchanjao and captured a clothing depot at Tahantai."

Estimates of General Kuropatkin's forces between Shakhe and Tie Pass prepared here give a total of slightly more than 400,000, composed of 335,000 infantry, 33,000 cavalry and 35,000 artillery with 1,504 guns. This estimate does not include troops at Vladivostock and other garrisons, railway guards and other employes. The grand total east of Lake Baikal is estimated at 700,000 men.

Twenty-five Years for a Dime.

Huntsville, Ala.—John Horton has been sentenced to twenty-five years in the penitentiary for killing Albert Hereford in a crap game after disputing over a shot that involved a dime.

Two Accidents from Fire.

Gadsden, Ala.—There has been an epidemic of accidents and deaths the past two months in this section from fire. The news reached Gadsden late Friday evening of two more accidents. Out in his field near Keener, Etowah county, Mark Sheffield and his little daughter were burning grass when the clothing of the little girl caught from the burning grass and was burning rapidly when her screams attracted the attention of her father, who ran to her rescue and succeeded in putting out the flames, but was badly burned on his hands in the effort, but fortunately his little daughter was not badly hurt and will soon be out again.

Near Whiton, DeKalb county, a little daughter of James Tipton was burned to death. She was standing in front of the fireplace and with a stick was trying to knock soot from the back of the chimney when her dress became ignited and she was horribly burned before aid reached her, dying in great agony in a few hours.

How Alabama Members Voted.

Washington, D. C.—Members are talking much about the vote for mileage allowance for the last extra session, irreverently designated "Graft." No Alabama member voted for the proposition outright. The nay votes were: Burnett, Clayton, Heflin, Richardson, Underwood. Paired on the nay side, Bankhead and Wiley. Not voting, Bowie and Taylor. Representative Underwood was a leader in opposition to the measure.

Jap Prisoners Exhausted.

Mukden—Refugees are arriving here from Siamintin, north of the Hun river. At the close of Friday's battle the Japanese, who were taken prisoners, were unable to talk or remain awake from exhaustion. It is reported that the Japanese have fallen back from the position they held on March 3d.

The Japanese continue their demonstration along the front.

Assaults Repulsed.

St. Petersburg—The advance guard of the Japanese left army was within five and a half miles of Mukden station Saturday, according to a telegram from General Kuropatkin. Other Japanese had captured Suchudsia and Lanschanapa the same day, while their attacks on Putiloff Hill and thirteen fierce assaults on Kandolesan were repulsed.

Artillery Duel Raging.

Mukden—An artillery duel has been raging since morning to the westward of Mukden and the Japanese shells are exploding within three miles of the imperial tombs.

The line of the Japanese advance guards extends about seven miles parallel with the railway.

Scattered Chinese villages, which are practically the only shelters in this open plain, are receiving particular attention from the gunners.

Throughout the day the Russian batteries replied vigorously to the Japanese fire and the exchange of shrapnel has been terrific. The whole of the fire zone is occasionally obscured by dense white smoke from exploding missiles.

Carnage Great.

Mukden—The carnage at the center and both flanks has been enormous. The Japanese at many places simply threw away their lives, beating against the Russian powerful fortifications in attacks which, in the center apparently, were intended chiefly as a demonstration to cover the driving home of General Nogi's blow. It is believed now that the operation to the eastward was in part the nature of a feint, with the design to draw reinforcements thither. If this was the design, it was successful, General Kuropatkin having sent the first corps to the assistance of General Linovitch.

According to prisoners the Japanese force on the Liao river includes the First, Seventh and Ninth divisions from Port Arthur. Part of the turning force is probably made up of reserves which came from Yinkow by rail on seven trains. The Port Arthur veterans advanced to the attack shouting in Russian: "Out of the way for us; we came from Port Arthur." They offered their lives with the same fanatical bravery and were as unshaken by heavy losses as at the seige of Port Arthur.

Huntsville, Ala.—A mile race track, fair grounds and a paddock suitable for winter quarters for race horses and an electric railroad to Monte Sano will probably result from the organization of the Tennessee Valley Agricultural Fair and Racing Association.

Engine Jumps the Track.

Anniston, Ala.—The Seaboard Air Line engine No. 251 jumped the track at Jacksonville Sunday and was delayd one hour and 50 minutes while waiting for the relief engine, which was sent in from the main line at Tredegar. It seems that the cause of the derailment was a loose wheel on one of the axles under the tender. As the train was running slowly at the time of the derailment no one was hurt and the damage done to the engine was inconsiderable.

Pratt City, Ala.—Lawson Simes, Victor Griggs and Cleveland Griggs, three white youths, who were arrested Sunday afternoon near North Birmingham by Birmingham detectives, were brought to this city on the charge of having held up three men in this city and three in Thomas Saturday night between the hours of 8 and 9 o'clock. Tonight M. H. Harper and Squire Harris, a negro, who were held up, went to the city jail to see the young men, but they were unable to positively identify them. The prisoners stoutly denied that they committed the robberies. Several witnesses, however, asserted that they saw the two Griggs boys and Simes in Pratt City last night. According to the policemen the youths admitted that they were in Pratt City Saturday evening.

The young men will be held until Arthur Davenport, who was robbed near Thomas Saturday night, has an opportunity to identify them. Both Mr. Harper and Harris talked to the young men and while they thought they were near the size of the highwaymen, they would not state positively that the young men under arrest were the guilty persons.

Print History of Flags.

Washington, D. C.—Representative Bartlett, of Georgia, introduced a resolution Friday for the printing of 5,000 copies of a letter written by Secretary of War Endicott in 1888, giving a history of the Confederate battle flags in the possession of the war department, but which under a law just passed are to be returned to the governors of the various states in which the regiments were organized.

The Russo-Jap. war seems to be approaching a crisis. A great battle has been raging for the last week in which nearly a million men have been engaged. From latest reports the Japanese have surrounded the Russians, and are meeting with uniform success in all their movements. It appears probable that this will prove the decisive battle of the war, and possibly may end it.

The newly elected mayor, H. F. Chandler, and councilmen Thos. A. Curry, J. G. Dennis, J. M. Potts and Dr. N. S. Johnson, having duly taken the oath of office before Sam W. Collins, Clerk of the Circuit Court, held their first regular meeting Monday, and appointed E. Clay Jones, clerk, and Ed Smitherman, marshal. The several committees were selected as follows: Finance—J. C. Dennis, N. S. Johnson; Street—Thos. A. Curry, J. M. Potts; Public Health—N. S. Johnson, J. M. Potts; Judiciary and Ordinances—Thos. A. Curry, J. C. Dennis.

Diversification means intelligent farming on a business basis. Diversification means that farming shall be the highest, noblest and most profitable profession that man can follow. Cotton is the greatest money crop of the South, of the nation, and of the world. When diversification is applied to this great industry it means a greater yield per acre, at a less cost for production; it means less cotton acreage, but more cotton per acre; it means rotation of crops, which will improve the fertility of the soil, add to the yield and lesson the cost.

The one crop farm is like a bank; if you continually draw on your account and make no deposit your credit will soon be exhausted and the bank will refuse to honor your checks; so it is with the farm, continual cropping year after year with the same crop will exhaust the fertility of the soil, and sooner or later end in failure.

Again, seasons are like financial panics, come with more or less varying irregularity, and the one crop farmer suffers great loss, if not ruination, in an unfavorable season, as it would be with a bank which had only one resource and was dependent entirely on a one crop community when a panic or drouth comes.

Diversification does not mean for the farmer to give up cotton and go altogether to some other crop; nor would it be wise to plant all truck or onions or rice or corn or grapes, or any other one crop—Diversify.

A Curious Political Condition.

The women of Wheeling, West Virginia tried to have a clause giving municipal suffrage to women incoporated into their new city charter. The measure was defeated, and an analysis of the vote showed that the negro and the unintelligent foreigner, almost to a man, were opposed to giving this form of suffrage to women. Many Southern men think it is chivalric to keep women disfranchised. These will probably be surprised to learn what classes of voters share their high minded sentiments. Is it not a singular condition of things? Educated American women kept from the ballot box by ignorant negroes and foreignors. Sit down and think this over, you Southern men who are opposed to woman suffrage.

Lida Calvert Obenchain.

THE COTTON SITUATION.

Verbena, March 6, 1905

Editor Banner—I have always thought one should have the same right to take a thing back that he had to say it at first, and to this end I try to pen your readers one more communication concerning the cotton situation, which confronts the Southern farmer, as well as all others who live in our beautiful Southland. I want to say that there has been much said and some done and a great deal more must be done if our work is effective. This move to lay is the only reason we are not having to sell our cotton for 5 and 6 cents. It has brought already to the cotton growers of the South fifty million dollars, and would bring them still another hundred million dollars if all join the procession and act in concert. This is the day of organization, and for the first time in the history of all this Southland the farmer can strike the friendly hand of the merchant, banker, doctor and lawyer, all ready, willing and anxious to co-operate in and for one common cause, viz.: the upbuilding of the South, and yet I fear I see a goodly number of the farming class disposed to doubt and mistrust his neighbor, his banker, merchant, doctor or other who offers a helping hand.

The reason for co-operation is so plain that "he who runs may read" if he only would. Think of the crop of 1903, which brought practically six hundred million dollars, yet it was only ten million bales, and yet the crop of 1904 with thirteen million bales will bring, at present prices, fifteen million dollars less. Why does any sane man want to do anything to injure himself or his neighbor? Why don't he live up to his moral obligations to his fellowman and his country? Over two thousand representative men at heavy expense and at great sacrifice to themselves, went to New Orleans and put on foot, enacted and published a law to which all Southern people should feel bound. No grander body of men ever assembled, with purity of motives, since the county and State organizations have been formed, and yet the doubting Thomas is in our midst. Is there a man in Chilton who had rather have three hundred dollars for ten bales of cotton than the same amount for six bales of cotton? Not one, and yet this is the situation, just as it confronts us. Well, some say if I cut my crop or if the white counties cut their crop the black belt will not and they will make all the money. Not so, the man all over the county who raises his own living has the most living, most money, most credit, best live stock, and I liked to have said enjoys the greatest respect by his fellows. His credit is always at a premium.

Public opinion is and should be a controlling power, and if Chilton county farmers stand firm in reduction of acreage and marketing of the cotton now on hand, diversify their industries and economize for a few years they will stand out as a main pillar in Alabama's structure. Whereas if they allow the selfish merchant or banker or the doubting Thomas to prevail they are gone cats sure, as old Uncle Billy Vines said to Toll Mullins when he refused to come to the mourners bench way back in the 60's. With the interest of all at heart I ask will you join in this great movement? Where is the wealth and talent of all Clanton, with its two thriving banks and its twenty odd big stores and storekeepers that they can't spare a little time to speak, talk and write on the various subjects I have sprung? Better look out, boys, for the good Book says (so they say) "That he that cometh after me shall be greater than I." So if you remain in your shells as you have done you are subject to the ravages of those of a more progressive turn of mind I have seen big folks step down and out. Not one word have any of you uttered; not one cent have you or either of you expended; not one moment of your time have you given. What is the matter? Wake up, I say, and get to work, you are needed in the development of your country and why not lay hold with your mustle and brain, as well as your cash. And now, Mr. Editor, while I like you, I fear you are tardy in your duty to your county for not raising sand with your Clanton people. You well know that a well edited newspaper is the life of any section of country, and its first duty is in the directing of progress in its town, city and county, and to this end I say bear down on the bit and make them come from their hiding places. And in conclusion will ask your pardon for this lengthy communication, and if unworthy commit it to the waste basket.

Yours truly,
F. A. Gulledge.

Cooper,

Editor Banner—Please accept my kind thanks for a small space in your dear county paper to let the people hear from Coopers. I have read some news from Mr. F. A. Gulledge of Verbena and it seems as if he would like to impress something on the peoples' mind about cotton. Well, if I was Mr. F. A. I would not say anything about cotton unless it was selling for more than it is just now.

Well, it seems that we are having some trouble about cutting public roads, and we are going to sign a petition to cut roads the rest of the year or stop it, one of the two.

I have carried my school paper around and everybody has signed it and all wish me good luck in getting all the people to sign it. Mr. Jones was the first to sign it and he would like to sign it again.

We have a fine school, but sorry to say that Mr. C. J. Eiland's school has closed. Long Goody.

Every Two Minutes

Physicians tell us that all the blood in a healthy human body passes through the heart once in every two minutes. If this action becomes irregular the whole body suffers. Poor health follows poor blood; Scott's Emulsion makes the blood pure. One reason why is such a great aid is because it passes so quickly into the blood. It is partly digested before it enters the stomach; a double advantage in this. Less work for the stomach; quicker and more direct benefits. To get the greatest amount of good with the least possible effort is the desire of everyone in poor health. Scott's Emulsion does just that. A change for the better takes place even before you expect it.

We will send you a sample free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

was established in 1892. The sales have so increased to date, that to-day we are shipping Good Luck Baking Powder in carload lots to every section of the country. The cause of this enormous popularity is plain. In Good Luck, housekeepers get not only a positively pure baking powder of great leavening force, but at a price a little less than they have been accustomed to pay for some other kind that was not as satisfactory in results.

When buying Good Luck think of its purity and consider the good results obtained from its use. Remember every Good Luck coupon counts for a present. If your grocer doesn't keep Good Luck, send us his name and we will see that you are supplied.

Floating Machine Shop.

The latest addition to the American navy is a floating machine shop for repair of warships at sea. This has been constructed and equipped with the necessities of the modern war fleet, far from its regular base, in mind. In the Spanish-American war many of our warships were sent from Cuban waters to Key West to coal. Since then improvements have been made that enable battleships and smaller vessels to coal at sea, a most important matter in time of war. If the new floating machine shop comes up to expectations a battle fleet may establish a temporary base near a scene of action and change it to meet the exigencies of an engagement.

MAGIC IN ZUNI TRIBE.

Priest Apparently Lifted a Jug of Water with a Feather.

"The most startling feat I ever saw," said a guest at the Diller last night, who has made a study of Indians in various parts of the United States for his own edification, "was performed by the priests of the Zuni tribe in Arizona, or as they were called, 'The Ancients of Creation.' They seat themselves in a circle on the clay floor, around a jar of that will hold perhaps a gallon, an ancient and sacred earthen vessel, which is filled with water. The chief priest carries in his hand two ordinary eagle feathers, which are tied together at the quill ends so that they make a fork. Behind the circle of the priest are oher members of the tribe and the musicians with their drums and gourds, who join in the chants with emotion.

"The incantations continue for several hours, and when the participants and spectators are brought up to a proper pitch of excitement the priest dips the feather tips into the water, lifts the jar with them and holds it suspended for a minute or two at a height level with his face or breast. Then he lowers it slowly to the ground. This feat is repeated several times during the performance. Apparently there is nothing in the hands of the priest but the feathers, and they appear to be inserted into the mouth of the jar only two or three inches. Of course, there is some trick about it, but I was never able to discover it."—Seattle Post Intelligencer.

ALL SICK WOMEN

SHOULD READ MRS. FOX'S LETTER

In All Parts of the United States Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Effected Similar Cures.

Many wonderful cures of female ills are continually coming to light which have been brought about by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and through the advice of Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., which is given to sick women absolutely free of charge.

Mrs. Pinkham has for many years made a study of the ills of her sex; she has consulted with and advised thousands of suffering women, who to-day owe not only their health but even life to her helpful advice.

Mrs. Fannie D. Fox, of 7 Chestnut Street, Bradford, Pa., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I suffered for a long time with womb trouble, and finally was told by my physician that I had a tumor on the womb. I did not want to submit to an operation, so wrote you for advice. I received your letter and did as you told me, and to-day I am completely cured. My doctor says the tumor has disappeared, and I am once more a well woman. I believe Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best medicine in the world for women."

The testimonials which we are constantly publishing from grateful women establish beyond a doubt the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to conquer female diseases.

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. She asks nothing in return for her advice. It is absolutely free, and to thousands of women has proved to be more precious than gold.

Australia has 210 churches to every 100,000 people. England has 114 and Russia about fifty-five.

President Newhof and War Correspondent Richards Were Promptly Cured by Pe-ru-na.

Mr. C. B. Newhof, 10 Delamare street, Albany, N. Y., President Montefiore Club, writes:

"Since my advanced age I find that I have been frequently troubled with urinary ailments. The bladder seemed irritated, and my physician said that it was catarrh caused by a protracted cold which would be difficult to overcome on account of my advanced years. I took Peruna, hardly daring to believe that I would be helped, but I found to my relief that I soon began to mend. The irritation gradually subsided and the urinary difficulties passed away. I have enjoyed excellent health now for the past seven months. I enjoy my meals, sleep soundly, and am as well as I was twenty years ago. I give all praise to Peruna."—C. B. Newhof.

Suffered From Catarrh of Kidneys, Threatened With Nervous Collapse, Cured by Pe-ru-na.

Mr. F. B. Richards, 609 E Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., War Correspondent, writes: "Exactly six years ago I was ordered to Cuba as staff correspondent of the New York Sun. I was in charge of a Sun Dispatch boat through the Spanish-American War. The effect of the tropical climate and the nervous strain showed plainly on my return to the States. Lassitude, depression to the verge of melancholia, and incessant kidney trouble made me practically an invalid. This undesirable condition continued, despite the best of treatment.

"Finally a brother newspaper man, who like myself had served in the war, induced me to give a faithful trial to Peruna. I did so. In a short time the lassitude left me, my kidneys resumed a healthy condition, and a complete cure was effected. I cannot too strongly recommend Peruna to those suffering with kidney trouble. To-day I am able to work as hard as at any time in my life, and the examiner for a leading insurance company pronounced me an 'A' risk."

Mr. John Nimmo, 215 Lippincott St., Toronto, Can., a prominent merchant of that city and also a member of the Masonic order, writes:

"I have been in poor health generally for over four years. When I caught a bad cold last winter it settled in the bladder and kidneys, causing serious trouble. I took two greatly advertised kidney remedies without getting the desired results. Peruna is the only remedy which was really of any benefit to me. erring to the subject of the in e of the stock on the scion or pon the top in the case of propatrees, I may say that top graft- seedling usually hastens the of fruit bearing. In other , if you were to grow an apple seed and take a scion from that ng, say the second year, and in on the branch of a bearing tree, it is altogether likely that you would have specimens of fruit the third or fourth year afterward. But it is very unlikely that your original seedling, standing undisturbed in the soil, would bear within two or three years as soon. We might, then, save that much time by top grafting and this is a very general practice with those who improve plants by cross breeding. It is a pretty well recognized fact that top grafted trees bear earlier and sometimes more regularly and abundantly than trees of the same variety on their own stocks, that is, root grafted or budded at the collar. This kind of top grafting refers to the placing of scions upon bearing trees and not upon stocks in nursery or newly set in orchard.—Tribune Farmer.

GUINEA FOWLS.

Guinea fowls are not kept in nearly sufficient numbers by the ordinary farmer or poultry keeper. Certainly they are not expensive birds to raise, as they are thorough foragers on their own account. They do not destroy crops, as oats, barley and such like, when in a young state, as the ordinary hen does. Some object to guinea fowls by reason of the shrill noise they emit, while others say they cannot manage them by night, as they are so fond of roosting in the neighboring trees, and sundry other objections, such as not being able to breed from them satisfactorily, etc. This latter is owing to ignorance in management. Guinea fowls are like partridges—they mate in the early spring if the sexes are equal. The proper plan is to pick out the same number of male birds and females, and no difficulty need then be experienced in obtaining fertile eggs. As to the profit derived from guinea fowls, there is no difficulty at all in selling the eggs, but the demand for the birds is not always large. It is when the game season is at an end that guinea fowls find sale in market.

STUDY OTHER FARMS.

There is not a single line of farming but what can be improved from year to year, and there are so many different products which the farm will yield, that it gives great variety to the work of the farm and consequently gives great interest. A study of the conditions of the farmer's success or failure on the farms in your own neighborhood will often bring valuable hints and suggestions for the management of your own farm. In some neighborhoods milk is one of the principal products, and it will take but little inquiry to find that one man will produce from 35 to 50 per cent more milk than his neighbors do. There must be a reason for this and in finding it, if you are one whose milk production falls below the average, you ought to see how you can adapt his methods to your own advantage.—Home and Farm.

FOR THE STOCK.

Health and comfort ought to be among the first considerations for the stock. These cannot be maintained if your barns or enclosures are cold and draughty. There is such a thing as going to the other extreme, though, and if your horses, cows, sheep, hogs or poultry are kept too warm, in close or poorly ventilated houses, you are more certain to have a great many sick animals on your hands.

HOGS A DAIRY ADJUNCT.

Those who are interested in dairying should bear in mind that the production of hogs from the by-products of the dairy, along with such other foods as are necessary, makes it possible to produce pork very cheaply, and the best part of it is that pork produced in this manner is in the majority of cases of most excellent quality.

The "Yolk Cure" for the Underfed.

The "yolk cure" for the underfed is the latest idea of dietetics, and it is especially adapted to consumptives. Dr. Heinrich Stern contributes to the Medical Record an interesting article on the subject, in which he gives the following as a sample menu for a consumptive weighing 11 pounds whose normal weight ought to be 140 pounds:

Breakfast: 250 cubic centimetres of skim milk, with four yolks, 30 grains of wheaten toast.

Early Lunch: Cup of coffee, with two yolks.

Midday Dinner: One plate of soup, with four yolks; 150 grains of very lean beef and 30 grains of wheaten toast.

Four O'clock: 250 cubic centimetres of skim milk and three yolks.

Supper: 100 grains of farina or rice, porridge with one yolk and skim milk; 75 grains of apple sauce.

Bedtime: Night cap, composed of 90 cubic centimetres of hot water, one yolk and a teaspoonful of granulated sugar.

Dr. Stern says this menu must be varied from day to day, the variations depending largely upon the patient's digestive faculties, and, he adds, salt must be added to all dishes.

The inch was formerly divided into three "barleycorns," these divisions being originally the length of a well dried grain of "corn" of the barley.

Field for Explorers.

"There is a popular notion that every bit of the earth's surface has been explored except its poles," said Dr. Cranch B. Young of Boston, at the New Willard. "Nothing could be further from the truth. Why, at our very doors there are lands as much a mystery as was the interior of Patagonia half a century ago. The waters of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, the gateway to the ocean for a large part of the continent of North America, wash the southern shores of Labrador, about the interior of which almost absolutely nothing is known.

"The fishermen of the Northern Banks know every inlet and headland of its bleak sea coast, but fishermen are not explorers, and they do not penetrate to its interior. I have heard of white men who went 15 or 20 miles from the coast in search of game, and nearly every one of them told the same story; a story of oppressive wastes and barrenness that inspired a nameless dread and terror. I don't believe there has ever been a scientific exporation into the interior of Labrador. Who knows what treasures are hidden away in those bleak and rocky mountains? Isn't the prospect one to stir the blood of youth? If I were a young man I should like to undertake such a venture. There is danger and hardship enough to tempt the most strenuous, and the glamour of a new land ought to furnish sufficiency of incentive. Why should not gold fields be found in Labrador? They would be easier to reach than California was in the early days or the Klondye is today."—Washington Post.

Coming and Going.

Brother Silas Warner, a Methodist preacher of the old school, who enjoyed a joke next to a whack at the Evil One, used to tell this story on himself.

"I had just been graduated from the theological seminary and was beginning in the itinerancy when I was invited to preach the opening sermon at White Oak camp meeting. Like most philosophers of 21, I knew it all and a good deal more besides, and I stalked up the aisle that Sunday morning with my head in the air, resolved to show those old fogies on the amen benches a thing or two in the way of preaching.

"But somehow, when I came to give out my text and saw all that sea of expectant faces before me, with Susan Dillard and her father on the front bench too, my confidence began to ooze away. I repeated the text three or four times. I stuttered and stammered and blundered along helplessly for some 15 or 20 minutes, and then in sheer desperation closed the Bible and beckoned old brother Jesse Mosely to come and call up the mourners.

"After the service was over, and I was sneaking out at the back door, feeling like a sheep-stealing dog, a good old brother slipped out of the crowd, and laying his hand on my shoulder, said in a tone of gentle rebuke.

"'My young friend, if you'd a-come in like you went out, you'd a-went out like you come in.'"—Sunday Magazine.

Origin of "Yankee Doodle."

Johann Lewalter, of Berlin, has traced the tune of "Yankee Doodle" to 1776, at Wasenburg, the central depot of the Hessian troops, employed as mercenaries in the war of American independence. Lewalter is an eminent authority on folksongs.

THE TRICKS

Coffee Plays on Some.

It hardly pays to laugh before you are certain of facts, for it is sometimes humiliating to think of afterwards.

"When I was a young girl I was a lover of coffee, but was sick so much the doctor told me to quit and I did, but after my marriage my husband begged me to drink it again as he did not think it was the coffee caused the troubles.

"So I commenced it again and continued about 6 months until my stomach commenced acting bad and choking as if I had swallowed something the size of an egg. One doctor said it was neuralgia and indigestion.

"One day I took a drive with my husband three miles in the country and I drank a cup of coffee for dinner. I thought sure I would die before I got back to town to a doctor. I was drawn double in the buggy and when my husband hitched the horse to get me out into the doctor's office, misery came up in my throat and seemed to shut my breath off entirely, then left all in a flash and went to my heart. The doctor pronounced it nervous heart trouble and when I got home I was so weak I could not sit up.

"My husband brought my supper to my bedside with a nice cup of hot coffee, but I said: 'Take that back, dear, I will never drink another cup of coffee if you gave me everything you are worth, for it is just killing me.' He and the others laughed at me and said:

"'The idea of coffee killing anybody.'

"'Well,' I said, 'it is nothing else but coffee that is doing it.'

"In the grocery one day my husband was persuaded to buy a box of Postum which he brought home and I made it for dinner and we both thought how good it was but said nothing to the hired men and they thought they had drank coffee until we laughed and told them. Well, we kept on with Postum and it was not long before the color came back to my cheeks and I got stout and felt as good as I ever did in my life. I have no more stomach trouble and I know I owe it all to Postum in place of coffee.

"My husband has gained good health on Postum, as well as baby and I, and we all think nothing is too good to say about it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Floating Machine Shop.

The latest addition to the American navy is a floating machine shop for repair of warships at sea. This has been constructed and equipped with the necessities of the modern war fleet, far from its regular base, in mind. In the Spanish-American war many of our warships were sent from Cuban waters to Key West to coal. Since then improvements have been made that enable battleships and smaller vessels to coal at sea, a most important matter in time of war. If the new floating machine shop comes up to expectations a battle fleet may establish a temporary base near a scene of action and change it to meet the exigencies of an engagement.

MAGIC IN ZUNI TRIBE.

Priest Apparently Lifted a Jug of Water with a Feather.

"The most startling feat I ever saw," said a guest at the Diller last night, who has made a study of Indians in various parts of the United States for his own edification, "was performed by the priests of the Zuni tribe in Arizona, or as they were called, 'The Ancients of Creation.' They seat themselves in a circle on the clay floor, around a jar of that will hold perhaps a gallon, an ancient and sacred earthen vessel, which is filled with water. The chief priest carries in his hand two ordinary eagle feathers, which are tied together at the quill ends so that they make a fork. Behind the circle of the priest are oher members of the tribe and the musicians with their drums and gourds, who join in the chants with emotion.

"The incantations continue for several hours, and when the participants and spectators are brought up to a proper pitch of excitement the priest dips the feather tips into the water, lifts the jar with them and holds it suspended for a minute or two at a height level with his face or breast. Then he lowers it slowly to the ground. This feat is repeated several times during the performance. Apparently there is nothing in the hands of the priest but the feathers, and they appear to be inserted into the mouth of the jar only two or three inches. Of course, there is some trick about it, but I was never able to discover it."—Seattle Post Intelligencer.

In All Parts of the United States Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Effected Similar Cures.

Many wonderful cures of female ills are continually coming to light which have been brought about by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and through the advice of Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., which is given to sick women absolutely free of charge.

Mrs. Pinkham has for many years made a study of the ills of her sex; she has consulted with and advised thousands of suffering women, who to-day owe not only their health but even life to her helpful advice.

Mrs. Fannie D. Fox, of 7 Chestnut Street, Bradford, Pa., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I suffered for a long time with womb trouble, and finally was told by my physician that I had a tumor on the womb. I did not want to submit to an operation, so wrote you for advice. I received your letter and did as you told me, and to-day I am completely cured. My doctor says the tumor has disappeared, and I am once more a well woman. I believe Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best medicine in the world for women."

The testimonials which we are constantly publishing from grateful women establish beyond a doubt the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to conquer female diseases.

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. She asks nothing in return for her advice. It is absolutely free, and to thousands of women has proved to be more precious than gold.

Australia has 210 churches to every 100,000 people. England has 114 and Russia about fifty-five.

It digests what you eat and gives the stomach a rest, enabling it to recuperate, take on new life and grow strong again. Kodol cures sour stomach, gas, bloating, heart palpitation and all digestive disorders. L. A. Sopher, of Little Rock, Ky., writes us: "We feel that Kodol Dyspepsia Cure deserves all the commendation that can be given it, as it saved the life of our little girl when she was three years old. She is now six and we have kept it for her constantly, but of course she only takes it now when anything disagrees with her." Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Resolutions on the Death of W. H. Mills

Bro. Mills was born near Pletcher, Ala., Sept. 16, 1832, and died at the place of his birth, Feb. 26, 1905. He lived a quiet unpretentious life and made a friend of every acquaintance he made. He early attached himself to the Baptist church, the tenets of which he was ever loyal to. When our country was plunged into the great civil strife of 1861, Mr. Mills filled with patriotic ardor, went as a volunteer, ranked as sergeant in Hamward's Brigade, Company E. 53d Alabama Regiment. He was a brave soldier and his fealty to the Confederacy was unsurpassed. He was raised to the sublime degree of a Master Mason, June 1857, and always loved, honored and supported his order. He was a kind loving father and an amiable husband. Therefore be it Resolved 1st. That we bow in humble submission to the will of Almighty God, the Supreme Master of the Universe, in this dispensation of His will.

2d. That in the death of Bro. Mills the Lodge loses an active and efficient member, and his family sustains an irreparable loss.

3d. That a copy of these resolutions be spread on our minutes, a copy sent to his bereaved family, and a copy sent to each the Banner and Prattville Progress for publication.

Flight of the Woodcock.

Some writers have claimed that the woodcock is sure in his flight, never becoming entangled in briers or creeping vines when in swift flight through close cover. That may have been their experience, but is not mine. I have seen woodcocks when flushed in such spots become so entangled that they were forced to cease flying and drop to the ground to again make a new start in flying. I remember one old fellow that sat hidden before the stand of one of my setters until I almost stepped on him and then, rising nearly into my face, got tangled in a clump of ironweed and fell at my feet. Had I been so disposed I could have caught him in my hands, but my desire was to see if he was injured, and a moment later he proved that he was only a badly frightened woodcock, as he darted away through cover while I watched and laughed at him.—Amateur Sportsman.

VS
GRIP GERMS MAGNIFIED 1000 TIMES

Let us illustrate vividly the difference in meaning of the words might and will—the child might live; the child will live. Might implies doubt; will means certainty. Might live means might die; will live means will not die.

These two words aptly illustrate the difference between Johnson's Tonic and the horde of commercial remedies on the market, and that vast horde of inert professional remedies which only bear the sanction of the High Priests of medicine.

USE JOHNSON'S TONIC in a bad case of Grip and you will live! Use inert, or commercial products, and you might live.

Johnson's Tonic quickly drives out every trace and taint of Grip. It is not simply good, it is supremely good—not good as anything, but better than everything—a genuine life-saver. Those who believe in it are safe—doubters are in danger and jeopardize their lives. Summed up, Johnson's Chill and Fever Tonic is the best Grip medicine on earth. This is the sober, serious, earnest truth.

AN UNUSUAL OFFER

by Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton, Ala., who offer their patrons an opportunity of a free trial of the wonderful healing remedy, Paracamph, First Aid to the Injured. This remedy has become popular in a remarkably short length of time by its great success in curing the aches, pains and hurts of millions of people. Clanton people should know the value and merits of Paracamph, and to enable them to do so without risk or loss of money Upchurch Drug Co. produced a plan. "Being fully convinced of the merits of Paracamph, all you have to do, says Upchurch Drug Co., is to deposit the price of a bottle at our drug store, take home a bottle of Paracamph, give it an honest trial, and if not satisfied, tell us and we will return your money."

No remedy on earth compares with Paracamph for the cure of Rheumatism, Swelling and Neuralgia, Sore Throat, Croup, Catarrh, Sore Muscles, Eczema, Sprains, Bruises, Sore Feet, Cuts, Burns and Hurts of every description. Paracamph absolutely prevents blood poison. Paracamph soothes and heals like magic. No household should be without a bottle always on hand.

If you receive a card making a special offer to you for a trial of Paracamph, bring it to our drug store without delay.

IN MEMORIAM.

That "Death loves a shining mark" was forcibly exemplified in the person of Mrs. Nora Broadhead, wife of Mr. Louis F. Broadhead, who departed this life on the morning of the 7th inst. in the 18th year of her age. She was gifted with unusual charms of feature and form, as well as mind and heart, and of a genial sunny nature, she had drawn about her a host of fond and loving friends. She was especially endowed with a strong sweet voice that was often heard in church services in singing praises to the blessed Savior whom she loved and served. She had much to endear her to this life, and she longed to get well, and be spared to her husband, there being a mutual signal devotion. It was beautiful to see their conjugal felicity, there seeming in reality to be "Two souls with but a single thought; two hearts that beat as one." A more congenial companionship I have not known; strange indeed it seems that they should have been thus early separated after a period of wedded bliss of little more than a year. We should bow submissively and not question the will of Him who doeth all things well, and who knoweth best.

After a patient illness of four weeks of typhoid fever, she laid life's duties here aside, and took up her abode with the angelic hosts in the Paradise of God, by the beautiful "Tree of life" where death never comes, nor are pains and partings known. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Armstrong to whom all hearts go out in tenderest sympathy at their heavy affliction, having borne a like loss just two weeks before. All that loving hearts and willing hands could do availed not to keep her with us. The entire community extends deepest sympathy to the bereaved husband and relatives. J. P. E.

Ocampo, Feb. 28, 1905.

That Tickling in the Throat.

One minute after taking One Minute Cough Cure that tickling in throat is gone. It acts in the throat —not the stomach. Harmless—good for children. A. L. Spofford, postmaster at Chester, Mich., says: "Our little girl was unconscious from strangulation during a sudden and terrible attack of croup. Three doses of One Minute Cough Cure half an hour apart speedily cured her. I cannot praise One Minute Cough Cure too much for what it has done in our family." It always gives relief. The Alabama Home

FOR CONFEDERATE SOLDIERS.

Nestling among the hills in the southern part of Chilton county lies a pretty little village, unique in more than one respect, but especially from the fact that it is the abode of men only—with one pleasant exception, no woman's gentle, pitying smile illumines this garden spot, the pride of Alabama, and the glory of Chilton county. It is the State institution known as the Alabame Home for Confederate Soldiers.

When, some forty odd years ago, at the call of duty, young men and boys left their various occupations to take a soldier's part in the great struggle, no thought of the vicissitudes of the coming years deterred them, and valiantly they fought and bled for home and country. At the close of the war, returning to their desolated homes, some maimed and wounded, or weakened in constitution by the hardships of the campaign, bravely they set to work to make a living for themselves and for those dependent upon them But as the years rolled on, the gallant young soldier became an old men, worn out and helpless, with no kith or kin able to assist him in his declining years. Poor old man! In his youth, bravely he had done his part fighting the battles of his country, but in the great battle of life he had been worsted and there seemed no hope for him.

Then a gallant Confederate veteran, whose career had been more successful, and whose heart was touched by the hopeless condition of many of his old comrades, began to agitate a home for these unlucky ones where they might end their days in peace, removed from the fear of want and untended sickness. 'Tis but a very few years since Col. J. M. Falkner generously gave a parcel of land near Mountain Creek for a Soldiers Home, and went earnestly to work to interest others in the movement. Camps of Confederate Veterans took the matter up, and many private individuals, recognizing the just claims these old soldiers had upon the community, were glad to contribute, and little by little a Home was founded. Finally the Legislature was appealed to and an Act was passed by which the State of Alabama took over the property and provides for its maintenance.

A short walk of three fourths of a mile from the Mountain Creek station on the L. & N. R. R., brings one to the Home, which presents an attractive appearance from the road. Entering through the gate the first cottage on the left, bearing the inscription "The E. L. More Cottage," is the home of the genial Commandant A. J. Brooks. He was busily engaged in laying out a flower yard in front of the residence, but hastened to lay aside his work and politely gave us all the information we desired. His heart is in his work, in which he is ably seconded by his good wife, whose motherly instincts have a wide scope in looking after the welfare of her large family of old men, numbering at this time 55 souls. Commandant Brooks is a busy man, a Confederate Veteran himself he has learned to obey orders and to see orders obeyed. This is essential in the conduct of such a Home. In addition to his work as Commandant he buys all the stores, disburses all moneys, does all the clerical work, being ex officio Secretary and Treasurer of the institution. Always jolly and urbane he is loved by the inmates, and works from early morn to dewy eve in their behalf. He plans many further improvements and hopes to see the number of inmates increased to one hundred, and a larger appropriation for their support. Much has been accomplished, but more money could be well expended to make the Home all that can be wished, and the people of Alabama would never begrudge a reasonable appropriation if they could only only see for themselves what has already been done with limited means.

The next cottage is named for a former well-known citizen of Chilton, now deceased, "The Fox Maull Cottage," and we will take a look through it, as the description of one applies to all, the cottages being modeled on the same plan, while the architecture is different. Ascending the steps we find ourselves on a broad piazza, and the open door shows a wide hall through the building. Four living rooms open from the hall, each room being neatly furnished with two plain iron bedsteads, washstand dresser and chairs. The dining room (in which we had the pleasure of eating an excellent dinner with the hospitable inmates of this cottage) is neatly furnished with all that is necessary, and so is the kitchen, each cottage having its own cook. A bath room and lavatory completes the round of the house, and everything is so well kept and thoroughly clean that one almost wishes to stop and share the lot of the old soldiers.

Next in order comes "The Lizzie Cameron Cottage," named for the wife of Col. Falkner; then "The Blue and the Grey Cottage," so named to commemorate the fact that the former "Blue" opponents of the "Grey" had donated, through the Grand Army of the Republic, the sum of $1600 to build this cottage. It is a splendid memorial of "The dead past burying its dead."

Then comes "The Flowers Cottage" and a nameless one at present known as No. 6. Away off to the left is the pumping station, an excellent system of waterworks supplying the wants of the Home with pure water and an abundant pressure in case of fire, pipes being laid in all directions. The reservoir holds 85,000 gallons, and the pump has a capacity of 200 gallons per minute. Close by is the laundry.

Crossing the grounds we come to the Hospital, under the care of Dr. Ruffin Coleman, whose cheery presence and skilful treatment is highly appreciated by the suffering

CLANTON, ALA.

Hardly a day passes without some account of more or less criminality as the direct visible result of reading "dime novels," the Boston Transcript avows. There is great necessity for a more general recognition of a psychological law, that what impressionable natures think about, or mentally dwell with, they grow like, or become. Suggestion is as sure in its trend as any principle in physics. Plastic and chaotic youthful minds, with little or no moral poise, often live in an abnormal and tragic world of their own.

Some interesting experiments have been made to ascertain which wood lasts the longest. It was found, according to the Indianapolis News, that birch and aspen decayed in three years, willow and chestnut in four years, maple and red beech in five years and elm and ash in seven years. Oak, Scottish fir and Weymouth pine decayed to the depth of half an inch in seven years; larch and juniper were uninjured at the end of the seven years. In situations so free from moisture that they may be practically called dry, the durability of timber is unlimited. The roof of Westminster Hall, London, is more than 450 years old.

The number of telephones in use in 1902 was 2,315,297, or about one to thirty-four of the total population, states the New York Tribune. From that average, however, there were some wide departures. California, for instance, reported one for every fourteen, and Alabama one for every 134. The average number of messages per telephone for the year was 2100. In States that were well supplied with instruments the number of messages was smaller than this. New York reported 1464 and New Jersey 1147, while in Alabama the average number of messages per telephone was 3279 and in Tennessee 3557. In other words, the number of telephones gave a direct indication of the progressive spirit of a locality, whereas the amount of business which one instrument was required to do seems to have been in inverse ratio thereto.

New York's subway must be earning its living when there are such crushes after the Saturday matinees that the ermine stoles are ripped off their wearers' necks and muffs are swept away in the struggle to get aboard the trains, the Boston Herald comments. What in the world did they do when there was no subway?

COLLEGE NOTES.

Statistics for Teachers' College for 1905-06 show a total of 924 students.

Vassar has found it necessary to raise its charges from $400 to $500 a year.

Professor Charles Baskerville is the new head of the department of chemistry at the College of the City of New York.

A new college society is in process of formation at the New York University. It is to be devoted to the study of history.

Twelve men have reported to Professor G. R. Carpenter as candidates for the Curtis medals competition at Columbia.

The periodical room in the general library of the University of Michigan has recently been thrown open to the use of students.

The faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences of Cornell have adopted new requirements for the degree of Bachelor of Arts.

In the Columbia School of Law Mr. Thaddeus D. Kenneson has been appointed lecturer on the law of evidence for the current year.

The David A. Wells prize of $500 in gold for an essay dealing with political economy, will be awarded by Williams College at the commencement of 1906.

In a speech before the Boston alumni, Director Chittenden, of the Yale Scientific School, expressed opposition to the growth of the society dormitory system.

The George Washington University, which from 1821 until recently had been known as the Columbian University, was formally dedicated under its new name.

The Young Men's and Young Women's Christian associations of Stanford University are planning to erect buildings on the campus. Each will cost about $15,000.

PEASANTS RISE.

Estate of Baron de Meyendorf, Near Prilepi, is Looted.

London, England.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Kieff says that the peasants have risen near Prilepi, in the government of Kursk. They have looted the estate of Baron de Meyendorf, commander of the Czar's bodyguard, removing 350 tons of grain.

The plumber is the man to-day who has the uninterrupted possession of the lead pipe cinch, the Lexington Leader wisely observes.

ALABAMA NEWS.

Current Events Gathered as They Happen.

Catastrophe on Southern.

Selma, Ala.—News has reached Selma from Wagnar in Washington county, of a collision with a hand car by a Southern railway train near that town and the death of one person whose name is not given, and the injury of several workmen.

The hand car, according to the report, was crossing Bussett creek, only a short distance from Wagnar, when the train struck it. The car was knocked off the trestle and the workmen, numbering six or more, fell into the creek. One, a negro, was so badly injured that he couldn't swim to the banks and was drowned.

Several others, it is understood, are seriously hurt, but it is not believed that more deaths will result.

New Ore Mines Are Very Valuable.

Gadsden, Ala.—The Alabama Steel and Wire Company is rapidly developing one of the finest iron ore mines in the state near Porterville, in DeKalb county. The ore is the same vein as that at Crudup, in this county, but is larger. The vein is not only larger, but the ore is superior, being 4 per cent. lower in solubles and 2 per cent. lower in phosphorous. This makes it particularly well suited for steel making.

These mines near Porterville are now producing most of the ores used at the local steel mill.

New Incorporations.

Montgomery, Ala.—The following new corporations have informed the secretary of state of their incorporation: Robinson Lumber Company, of Mobile; capital stock, $10,000; incorporators, E. S. Robinson, W. A. Robinson and J. B. White. Domestic Laundry Company, Birmingham; capital stock, $10,000; incorporators, Joseph and Perry W. Brewer and Isaac Price Standard Cattle Guard Company, of Birmingham; capital stock, $50,000; incorporators, Smith Abernathy, G. W Morgan and W. T. Coggin.

Held Up By Three Negroes.

Birmingham, Ala.—George W. Hewitt, a young white man, was found in a semi-conscious condition on Avenue B and Eighteenth street Thursday night about 8 o'clock, and, according to his story, he was held up and robbed by three negroes, who hit him over the head with brass knucks.

After being picked up he said: "I had just been paid off and was going home. I was walking up Eighteenth street and saw the negroes standing on the corner of Avenue B. I never suspected anything until I was right at them, when one of them struck me with something. I had my money, which was in bills, clinched in my hand, and I held it when I fell. In this way the robbers did not succeed in getting it."

When picked up and placed in the ambulance Hewitt still had the money, about $30, clasped in his hand. He had a number of bruises about the face and head, beside the blows which bruised his eyes. Dr. Whelan thinks that the young man is telling a straight tale, and the condition in which he was found bears out his statment.

Killed by Switch Engine.

Birmingham, Ala.—Thomas Dunn, an aged white man, who has been in the service of the Alabama Great Southern railroad for about twenty-five years was Friday morning run over and killed by a switch engine in the Eighteenth street yards of the Louisville and Nashville railroad. He lived a few moments after he was hurt.

To Resume Soon at Coosa Furnace.

Gadsden, Ala.—The old Coosa furnace, the charcoal stack that ceased operations when its owner, the Southern Car and Foundry Company, went to the wall, is now being overhauled preparatory to going into commission as soon as possible. The main stack is being cleaned out, and extensive repairs are to be made on the entire shell. Workmen are also going over the machinery, and the entire plant will be placed in first-class condition. The plant should have a daily capacity of from fifty to sixty-five tons of very fine iron.

Coleman Reappointed.

Anniston, Ala.—Hon. Thomas W Coleman has received notice of his reappointment as judge of the city court of Anniston for a term of four years. The appointment was made by Acting Governor Russell M. Cunningham. Judge Coleman's present term expires on Monday, March 13, having served on this bench several years.

Killed in Collision.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—There was a head-end collision in the Mobile and Ohio railroad yards and as a result John Cunningham, the negro fireman on the switch engine, lost his life. It seems that the northbound local freight coming in from Montgomery, met the switch engine, which was without a headlight, and before the engineer could stop his train the two engines had collided.

Railroad Commission Differs.

Montgomery, Ala.—There was the first difference of the new organization in the meeting of the state railroad commission Friday when President B. B. Comer refused to vote, or rather did not vote, with Associates Tunstall and Sanders in matters that came up for adjusting fertilizer rates in the state, but the others voting to take the question up at the next regular meeting, the first Monday in April, this day was set. Mr. Comer wanted the next regular meeting to take up the question of rates on farming implements, including wagons and vehicles and also the rate on live stock, but his motion was lost for want of a second, Mr. Sanders explaining that there was already more set for the April meeting than could be attended to.

The business of the commission was to hear the complaint of J. W. Huger, president of the American Fertilizer company, against the Seaboard Air Line Railway, with regard to fertilizer rates in Alabama, a specific case being cited on the difference of the rate between Columbus, Ga., and Hurtsboro, Ala., and Montgomery and the same point. This case went over from the regular session last Monday.

Mr. Comer presented a table of rates showing that the state had not the same advantages as others on fertilizer freight and thought something should be done as the season would soon be over. He was opposed to postponing the hearing until the next regular meeting on the score that the attorneys for the railroads could not get here. The others outvoted him, however, and the hearing was carried over.

President Comer then moved that at the time of the regular monthly meeting on April 3, 1905, that this commission take up at the same time the question of the rate on farm implements, including wagons and vehicles and also the rate on live stock, for the purpose of adjusting the same. The motion had no second. Commissioner Sanders stating that the commission had before it to be heard at that meeting as much as it could well attend to.

Two Negroes Hanged.

Birmingham, Ala.—Aleck Robertson and Jud Braham, negroes, were hanged in the county jail yard Friday morning an hour apart for the murder of women.

One of the men, Robertson, was a rough laborer, and was said to be a mean man. He was without education and in life lived with a bad lot.

Braham was an educated negro, polite and affable, and respected by both white and colored. Previous to the crime for which he paid the death penalty Friday morning he never knew what trouble meant. A great deal of sympathy was manifested for Braham and a strong communication was sent to the governor asking that the death sentence be commuted to life imprisonment. The efforts to save the negro's neck were without result.

Again Examines Miller's Books.

Jasper, Ala.—State Examiner Wilkinson, of Montgomery, is in Jasper and is making a thorough examination of the books of ex-Treasurer Miller. Mr. Wilkinson is sent here at the request of the commissioners' court, and the shortage in the account of the ex-treasurer was the cause of the action of the court in making a request for a special examiner. Mr. Miller has paid into the county treasury the sum of $11,034.70, the amount of his shortage as shown by the examination made by Mr. J. L. Morris. A receipt was given for this amount, but not in full settlement of any further shortage that may develop. It is not known just how long a time will be required to make a thorough examination of the books.

Young Man Is Held Up.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—Finch Robertson, who is employed by the S. F. Alston Company, was held up Thursday night about 9 o'clock, while crossing the county bridge, by two men, one slipped up behind him catching his right hand while the other pointed a revolver in his face. Mr. Robertson with his left hand, with as much grace as a fellow could command before the point of a gun, delivered up $27 into the hands of the unknown men, when they fled with the money. It was too dark to distinguish features, but Mr. Robertson thinks that one was a white man and the other a negro.

Patents Issued to Alabamians.

Washington, D. C.—The following patents have been issued residents of Alabama: John W. Belyu, Alexander City, automatic leveling instrument; Jeff Chambliss, Jackson Gap, bicycle brake; Robt. M. Jenkins, Carney, railway guage; William M. Thomas, Greensboro, vehicle seat.

Birmingham, Ala.—The Birmingham Water Works Company has advised Mayor Drennen that it will furnish the water supply for the Rescue Home of the Salvation Army free of charge. An effort will be made to have the Birmingham Railway, Light and Power Company supply the home with electricity, for illumination free of charge inasmuch as the institution has not yet gotten itself on a strong financial basis.

CASUALTIES REPOTED

Thousands Missing from Roll Call—Kuropatkin With Second Russian Army.

PILES OF DEAD ARE FOUND.

Reports 1,190 Officers and 46,391 Men Missing From Roll Call. The Russians Are Nearing Tie Pass.

Tokio.—Field Marshal Oyama, reporting under date of Saturday night says:

"All of our forces advanced to the right of the Hun river and vigorously pursued the enemy in all directions. We reached a line thirteen miles north of the Hun river the afternoon of March 10. On March 11 we continued a vigorous pursuit. Our force advanced north from the vicinity of the Pu river, and immediately after its departure engaged with a large column of the enemy retreating north. After a hand-to-hand battle we surrounded and captured the column. In the vicinity of Mukden a remnant of the enemy continues a hopeless resistance or is surrendering.

"Clearing operations are progressing. The enemy's dead are massed everywhere, and we have been unable to inter as yet. The minute investigation of the losses inflicted as several places has not yet been finished, but the enemy's killed, wounded, prisoners and spoils are enormous. The spoils of clothing and provisions are in great piles, resembling hills. We have been unable to investigate yet."

Thousands Missing From Roll Call.

St. Petersburg.—General Kuropatkin has telegraphed to Emperor Nicholas as follows, under date of March 12, 1:40 p. m.:

"Today the enemy's attack was confined to the rear guard of the Third Siberian corps.

"The First army, deployed in front of the other armies, continues to retreat to positions indicated for all the armies.

"According to a report from the commander of the Third army, received today, his rear guard occupied a position on the Mandarin road sixteen and a half miles from Tie Pass. Only a small detachment of the Japanese, mainly cavalry, confronted this rear guard.

"Men are missing from all divisions, and from February 28 to March 11, inclusive, 1,190 officers and 46,391 men are missing from roll call."

Kuropatkin Is With Second Army.

St. Petersburg—A dispatch received here from General Kuropatkin dated Saturday says:

"The night of March 10 (Friday), passed without fighting on the front of the second army, which I am accompanying.

"The rear guard of this army, under General Guerscheiman, is holding the positions in the neighborhood of Chucital station.

"Up to 7 o'clock this morning no reports had been received from this army.

"The position of the first army was this morning twenty to thirty versts (about seventeen to twenty miles) southwest of Tie Pass."

General Oku Enters Mukden.

Fushun, March 11.—(Delayed.)—General Oku and staff entered Mukden this afternoon. The Japanese armies continue pursuing hotly the retreating Russians. Ten thousand prisoners have been captured. Of General Oku's army only 800 were wounded.

Three hundred Japanese wounded were found in Japanese hospitals. Quantities of stores and many horses and wagons have been captured. Chinese set fire to hospitals and other buildings when the Russian retreat began.

30,000 Russians Dead on Field.

Tien Tsin—Later estimates place the Russian dead left on the field at about 30,000. Over eighty guns and 60,000 rifles were captured.

40,000 Prisoners Taken.

Tokio—Field Marshal Oyama reported that 40,000 prisoners were taken, and that there were 90,000 Russian casualties in the Shakhe river direction alone.

Japanese Casualties are 41,000.

Tokio—Field Marshal Oyama estimates that the number of Russian prisoners captured will exceed 20,000. The Japanese casualties are estimated at 41,000. The Japanese captured a retreating Russian column at the Pu river yesterday (Saturday).

Kindergarten Pioneer Is Dead.

La Porte, Ind.—Mrs. Eudora E. Hailmann, of this city, who with Elizabeth E. Peabody, opened the first kindergarten training school in the United States, is dead at North Reading, Mass. She was 55 years of age.

Chickasaw, I. T.—The wholesale grocery house of Williamson-Halsel-Fraser company was destroyed by fire Friday. Loss, $100,000.

Casualties Are Enormous.

Tien Tsin—The well-informed here roughly estimate the total Russian casualties at 150,000 men, and those of the Japanese 60,000. It is reported that Tie Pass is practically defeated, and another great action is regarded as improbable. A Japanese officer said: "We must push the advantage home, and give no respite until a crushing defeat has been administered."

Sixteen Prisoners Try to Escape.

Hot Springs, Ark.—Sixteen prisoners made a desperate dash for liberty from the county at the breakfast house Sunday morning. One of them, Silas Love, was shot dead, another, Dick Martings, escaped, and others who secured temporary liberty were all captured in a short while after the outbreak.

Among the prisoners attempting to regain their freedom was Houston Hooker, sentenced to hang for the murder of Conductor Atwood, of the St Louis and Iron Mountain railroad.

Railroad Mix-Up.

Birmingham, Ala.—Henry B. Gray of this city, has filed a petition in the Montgomery courts asking that a receiver be appointed for the South and North Alabama Railroad and that the Louisville and Nashville Railroad be enjoined from voting its stock in the South and North Alabama Railroad for any purpose whatever until the courts decide whether $27.50 a share is an adequate price for the stock.

The Louisville and Nashville owns 90 per cent of the stock of the South and North Alabama, and Mr. Gray, who is a minority stockholder in the latter, alleges that it is proposed to sell the properties, rights and franchises of the South and North to the Louisville and Nashville for $27.50 for each share, of which the par value is $100.

The city court of Montgomery has granted the temporary injunction.

Must Divert Immigrants.

Huntsville, Ala.—The chamber of commerce held the largest meeting in several months Friday night and heard an address by former President Tracey W. Pratt, who has lived in New York city during the past three years. Mr. Pratt emphasized the importance of doing something to divert immigrants freshly arrived from Europe to the south and said that the Dutch, Hungarians and Italians would establish thousands of truck farms in this country if they are brought here.

Resolutions were adopted asking the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad to improve the passenger service on the Huntsville branch and to look into the importance of the construction of a bridge across the Tennessee river on the line between this city and Guntersville. The resolutions state that the river transfer is impracticable a part of the summer on account of low water and that the business relations between Huntsville and points south are seriously interrupted thereby.

President Boyd stated that the organization is now working for the location of a large twine mill to consume the waste from the cotton mills of Huntsville.

Osages Included.

Washington, D. C.—In response to an inquiry from the commissioner of Indian affairs, the secretary of agriculture has written a letter in which he announces the inclusion of the Osage Indian reservation in the Oklahoma quarantine district.

Under this decision cattle in the reservation will be protected against infection from shipments south of the Oklahoma quarantine line, but such cattle will require only one dipping in Beaumont petroleum. The commissioner is preparing to lease about 300,000 acres of the Osage grazing lands on the 15th inst. and it is expected that the ruling on the quarantine question will have a favorable effect on the leases.

President's Aid.

Independence, Kans.—The Oil Producers' Association Saturday requested President Roosevelt to come to their aid by sending him the following telegram:

"It was developed in the suit of the state of Kansas against the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway yesterday at Topeka, we think conclusively that the Santa Fe, the Missouri Pacific, the Missouri, Kansas and Texas and the Union Pacific railways are now flagrantly violating the decrees of the supreme court in the case of the United States vs. the Joint Traffic Association, 171 U. S., 505; United States vs. Trans-Missouri Freight Association, 166 U. S., 290, by reason of their membership in the trans-Missouri Freight Bureau. We would respectfully request your honest enforcement of these decrees."

In Jail for Shooting.

Birmingham, Ala.—J. J. Johnson, a young white man, is in the city jail charged with assault with intent to murder on J. H. Samuels, who runs a store at 1001 North Twenty-fourth street. Johnson shot at Mr. Samuels Thursday morning near the latter's store, but failed to hit him.

Among beats the dodgers of taxes rank high, thinks the Elmira Gazette.

FARM AND GARDEN

CONOMY OF LIBERAL FEEDING.

A cow giving a large flow of milk a hard working animal and needs be fed accordingly. It is estimat- , says Prof. D. H. Otis of the Kan- s experiment station, that about per cent. of what a cow is able to nsume goes to maintain the wear d tear on her system, and the profit milk and butter fat production mes from the feed she consumes tside of this amount needed for pport. The cow is selfish enough take her share of the feed first, d then what is left over goes to the ner for his profit. If this per cent eded for maintenance is correct, it ands to reason that a cow fed 70 r cent of what she will eat will re- rn 10 per cent profit; while the cow d 100 per cent will return 40 per nt or four times as much. Of urse it is possible to overfeed, d a man should watch his feed bin d milk scales at the same time. If e suspects that the cow is not get- ng enough then he should increase e feed, and if she responds in the rm of increased yield of milk per- aps the feed should be increased me more, but if she fails to re- pond, then withdraw the extra feed. ur experience indicates that the ows must be studied individually, nd the amount of feed given them ust vary according to the individual pacity. It took very little more ed for our best cows than it did for ur poor cows. If we had withheld he feed from the good cows, the mount realized would have been ma- erially decreased. It does not pay feed a poor cow, but it does pay feed a good cow liberally.

When feeds are high it sets the airyman to thinking how he can ombine them in the best possible orm to get the largest results from e value of the feed used. This eans that the man must size up his erd and not feed the cows more igh priced feeds than the value of e products they will turn out.

Mature dry cows and those so near ry that their milk is not paying for eir feed can be put on maintenance ations, i. e., enough feed to keep the nimal in good health and enable it maintain its present weight with- ut making gains. The following ay serve as a guide to the amount different feeds required per thou- and pounds live weight:

1. Wheat straw 18 to 20 pounds feed all cattle will eat), corn chop or ran 4 or 5 pounds.
2. Corn fodder (stover 18 to 20 ounds (feed all the cattle will eat), orn chop of bran 3 or 4 pounds. Oat traw can take the place of corn fod- er by increasing the grain allowance ne-half pound.
3. Sorghum hay 20 pounds, corn hop or bran 2½ pounds. Fodder, orn and timothy hay can be used place of sorghum hay, and the al- owance of grain increased a trifle.
4. Oat hay, millet hay and orchard ass hay will probably maintain an imal without grain. Prairie hay ay require a little grain Alfalfa d clover hay will not only main- ain an animal but will enable it to row or gain in live weight. When lfalfa forms a part of the ration with ther roughage an animal can be aintained without grain.

In the above rations, corn chop and ran have been used for the grain ecause in many localities they are he cheapest. Where ground wheat nd oats can be had at the same rice they make excellent substitutes. Kaffir corn or sorghum seed can also e used, by slightly increasing the llowance.

In an ordinary herd cows will be ound that vary considerably in their ilk yield. It stands to reason that a ow giving ten pounds of milk daily oes not need the same quality and uantity of feed as a cow giving 20 r 30 pounds daily. The rations fol- owing indicate the amount needed aily per head where different mounts of milk are produced. When ottonseed meal is used cows should e accustomed to it gradually. Al- ow one-half pound the first day, and ncrease not over one-fourth of a ound per day.

THE RIGHT COWS.

Says Professor George A. Smith of e Geneva experiment station: "The rmer should dispose of all cows not owing a good net profit at the end the year. It is only by careful alysis at different seasons of the ear that the farmer can tell which ows are the best. Twenty cows well d and cared for are worth more an 40 half kept.

"The following shows the produc- on of three cows, all about six years age, of equal size and with the me care and feed: No. 1 produced 000 pounds of 5.6 per cent. No. 2 ade 6,000 pounds of 4 per cent milk. o. 3 made 4,600 pounds of 3.8 per nt milk. The cost of keeping was little over $40 each. This means eping three cows to get the profit one.

"At the experiment station we are ying to solve this question. We ve a six-year-old cow, bred from a rsey cow and a Holstein sire, hich gave 11,000 pounds of milk; other one, four years old, gave 00 pounds of 5 per cent milk. ere is no reason why farmers can't do this, but they can not do this by using a sire from their own herd. They are building down, not up.

"The important question is to breed and feed so as to gain the most with the least waste. Remember, the fuel burned is starch, gum and fat, and a 1,000 pound cow needs from 13 to 14 pounds of food to keep her warm. It requires of another element three-quarters of a pound to repair waste, so you must feed for energy as well as milk and butter. For every 100 pounds of milk she must make 3.9 pounds of nitrogenous matter. If the cow does not have proper food to furnish the element necessary, she will not be a success."

POINTERS ON MILK.

A bulletin issued by the Storrs station in Connecticut on the food value of a pound of milk gives the following conclusions:

These experiments were made with young animals, in which the digestive fluids were not in full and active operation.

To produce one pound of gain in live weight in these young animals, more total solids were required with the milk rich in butter fat than with the milk poor in butter fat.

Later in the trials, with pigs fed on rich milk ad libitum, serious digestive disturbances were noticed.

The failure of a pound of milk solids in rich milk to make equal or better gains was not due apparently to lack of nitrogenous material, but rather to the excess of fat or to the character of the fat.

Larger fat globules were found in the richer milk, and this fact, in connection with the digestive disturbances, would seem to indicate the reasons for the larger gains from a pound of solids with the poorer milk.

Fat globules in human milk are smaller than the fat globules in cow's milk. If it is safe to reason by analogy from the brute to the human, then whole milk containing a low per cent of fat would seem to be better suited for infant feeding than whole milk high in per cent of fat.

PRACTICAL POULTRY POINTS.

When a lot of fowls become roupy and diseased, it is of far more importance to remove the cause than to doctor your stock. Damp, exposed houses, with foul, wet surroundings, are highly prejudicial.

Chickens should be reared upon fresh ground every year to insure success, and coops often shifted.

A hen that lays three or four eggs per week, at a cost of about two cents for food, is probably the most profitable stock upon your farm.

Poultry keeping involves close attention and considerable labor, and that it is far better to be understocked than overstocked.

Keep some simple debit and credit account to see how you stand at the end of the year.

Hens in windy weather and without shelter will not lay, and soon become "roupy." Chopped raw onion is a valuable and simple remedy to give to a sick and drooping fowl.

Crushed green bone is cheap and valuable food to give to both hens and chickens.

Hen manure is a valuable fertilizer and should not be wasted.

Underfed fowls lay but few eggs, and overfed ones often none at all.

The best layers are early risers and early morning layers, and of an active disposition.

THE BOAR IS IMPORTANT.

The first, and if not the most important, point in raising pigs is the selection of a boar. It is hard to end right if you have not started right. This selection of a boar must be made with the idea in view, as to whether the pigs are to be fattened and sold to the butcher as fresh pork when but a few months old, or whether you intend to keep them until they attain their full growth and then fatten them for market. Your boar must also be selected with reference as to whether you wish to raise large hogs or the smaller or finer ones that are marketed at a younger age. Don't forget to use a lot of judgment in selecting the board and then you will at least be started right.

WHAT ONE MAN CLAIMS.

According to an exchange, a gentleman, who has kept an egg record for the past four years, says that his flock of 100 hens averaged thirty-seven eggs per day during the winter months while the hens were housed. He also states that his income from two cows and 130 hens is at present $60 per month. We take it that the amount of the income is given as gross; and it would be well for our readers to so understand it.

Farming as it is carried on nowadays is as much of a science as most of what are termed the learned professions, for the crops do not depend so much upon the kind of soil on the farm as they do upon the kind of man that is running the farm, opines the New York Weekly Witness. The farmer must have brains, and plenty of them, for it is just as necessary to use brain power in working the soil as it is to use a fertilizer of some sort in the soil.

TALKS WITH OUR BOYS AND GIRLS

THE BELLS OF SLUMBERTOWN.

When I was just a little tad
Grandmother always said
That tiny tots should be quite glad
To hurry off to bed.
For it they'd press the pillows down
And listen stil and long
They'd hear the bells of Slumbertown
Go:
Ding-a-long! Ding-a-long!

Then off I'd run with nodding head
Up through the dark old house
And, creeping 'neath the snowy spread
I'd lie still as a mouse.
And, sure enough, I'd seem to hear
The beating of a gong;
And then another, sweet and clear,
Go:
Ding-a-long! Ding-a-long!

And as I listened to the chimes
I seemed to drift away
And roam in strange and misty climes
Where elf. men were at play;
Where nuts and sweets came tumbling down
And all was play and song.
While soft the bells of Slumbertown
Rang:
Ding-a-long! Ding-a-long!

I've thought in many an after year
That I could hear the chimes
Of Slumbertown ring sweet and clear
Just as in olden times.
But when I'd list the second time
I knew that I was wrong.
No more I'll hear the dreamy chime
Go:
Ding-a-long! Ding-a-long!

—Victor A. Herman in the Chicago News.

AN INSECTS'S TOILET.

It is not usually considered good form to spy upon another person's toilet, but when it comes to playing "peeping Thomas" on a creature so small that you have to use a magnifying glass or miss some of the most important details, a certain amount of impertinent curiosity may be considered permissible.

Some day when you are out for a winter walk, try and find some shoots of "sweet briar," or wild rose. On its prickly stalks you will very likely discover some big chestnut excrescences which look like dried chestnut burrs. Bring home a few of these and put them in a pasteboard box, and in March or April you will have a bath of perfectly harmless, iridescent winged flies, that when magnified are as handsome as humming birds.

To facilitate matters, as soon as you find one has emerged from the gall, lift him carefully onto a sheet of white paper and give him a drop of clear water, a commodity which he utilizes both for food and bathing purposes. After he has drank his fill he will at once proceed to clean up, and his various attitudes and contortions during this rather extensive performance are highly amusing. If only one could get an enlarged snapshot of him during the operation his photographs would make him famous as a high kicker, quite rivaling our own artists in that role. His first act in the matter of his personal appearance is to give his face, head and neck a vigorous washing, utilizing his small mouth as a wash basin, and through which he passes his forefeet, one after the other, before beginning the scrubbing process, using one hand at a time as does a cat, and standing up on his back legs like a rabbit or squirrel.

On his miniature "paws" are some wee stiff hairs that act as brushes, and by the aid of these he combs, smooths and pats his many jointed red antennae until they are thoroughly limbered up for action. To these delicate appurtenances which convey to him so many of his interesting sensations, he gives his most careful attention. With his second pair of feet he arranges and straightens out his gauzy wings until they vibrate to his entire satisfaction; then he "dusts off" his little humped up shoulders and fussily spans his already slender waist as though he were trying to compress it after the manner of young women in the days when a 16-inch waist was considered an indication of good form.

With his last pair of legs he polishes his bead like abdomen until it shines like a patent leather ball. After this job is finished he dusts off the particles of dirt that may have lodged on his feet, rubbing the opposite legs together as a person does his hands, and his toilet is accomplished. After a few preliminary flutters of his pretty wings; a few frantic waves of his antennae, he sails away in search of experience, needing only a toothpick and buttonhole bouquet to make him a veritable "masher" of insection.

RANDOLPH AMONG THE BOYS.

The celebrated John Randolph, when at the zenith of his power as a leading member of Congress, had three ward (nephews) at the school of Rev. Drury Lacy, Prince Edward county, Virginia, and used to be a frequent visitor there.

It was Lacy's custom to hear his boys recite their Latin and Greek grammar lessons before breakfast, and Randolph was known, more than once, to come from Bizarre (two miles) and enter the schoolhouse by sunup. At nine o'clock the schoolhouse was formally opened, when the boys read verses in the Bible, until the chapter or portion was finished. Randolph always seemed highly pleased with this exercise, read his verse in turn, and with Lacy sometimes would ask questions. On one occasion, while reading one of the books of the Pentateuch, he stopped a lad with the question:

"Tom Miller, can you tell me who was Moses' father?"

"Jethro, sir," was the prompt answer.

"Why, you little dog, Jethro was his father-in-law!"

Then, putting the question to four or five others by name, not one of whom could answer, he berated them soundly for their carelessness and inattention in reading, saying:

"When you were reading last week, William Cook read the verse containing the name of Moses' father, and have you forgotten it already?"

Just then a young man caught the name, and unable to repeat the verse of the Bible, repeated a part of a line from Milton: "The potent rod of Amram's son," etc.

"Ah," said Randolph, "that is the way you learn your Bible—get it out of other books, what little you know of it," and with an exceedingly solemn manner and tone added: "And so it is with us all, and a terrible proof of our deep depravity it is, that we can relish and remember anything better than The Book.'"

This utterance, simple as it was, filled everyone with awe, and made him feel guilty, while at the same time it imparted a reverence for the Bible which was never felt before, and which, from one mind at least, was never effaced. Randolph was so well pleased with the young man who quoted from his favorite author, however, that in a short time—as soon, perhaps, as he could get it from Richmond—he presented him with a beautiful copy of Milton's "Paradise Lost," with a suitable inscription in his own elegant handwriting.—New York Mail.

A PUEBLO DANCE.

The Kleeka, or arrow dance, as practiced by the Pueblo Indians in Arizona is very picturesque. One of the braves is led up in front of his friends, who are drawn up in two ranks. Here he is placed on one knee, bow and arrow in his hand, when the Malinchi, a handsomely attired young girl, commences the dance. From her right wrist hangs the skin of a silver gray fox, and bells that jangle with every motion are fastened to the end of her embroidered scarf.

At first the maiden dances along the line in front, by her movements describing the war path. Slowly, steadily, she pursues; then, suddenly her step quickens, as she comes in sight of her enemy. The brave follows her with his eye, and by the motion of his head implies that she is right. She dances faster and faster, then suddenly seizes the arrow from him and by frantic gestures makes it plain that the fight has begun in earnest. She points with the arrow, shows now it wings its course, how the scalp was taken and her tribe victorious. As she concludes her dance she returns the arrow to the brave. Firearms are discharged and the whole party wends its way to the public square to make room for the other parties, who keep up the dance until dark.

HARD AND SOFT NAMES IN CONGRESS.

California, says the Los Angeles Herald, will be distinguished by having the hardest name in Congress. Missouri has its Senator Stone, and Indiana its Representative Brick, but they do not compare in hardness with Flint. Maryland can claim the softest name in its Representative Mudd.

Of the three brides now offered to King Alfonso, the daughter of the Archduke Frederick is approved by the queen mother, Princess Maria of Mecklenburg is preferred by the Kaiser and the Princess Patricia of Connaught is favored by the Spanish Cabinet.

An airship tournament will be an attraction at the Lewis and Clark Exposition. Large prizes will be awarded to the successful contestants.

WOMAN'S WORLD

PHOTOGRAPH FRAMES.

This is the season of the year when the average home-maker finds her mantels, secretaries, chiffoniers and table overflowing with photographs, and she yearns for the old-fashioned album which some two or three years ago she turned over to moths and mice in attic recesses.

Perhaps, in a sudden spasm of tidiness, she decides to unearth the family photograph album and refill its empty spaces, or she may even think she will find something new in albums—and so she will—the most hideous combinations in celluloid, plush or burnt wood, all built over a music box which grinds out "Teasing" or "Good-bye, Little Girl, Good-bye,' as one turns the pages in search of familiar faces.

But the good old-fashioned album, bound in a desirable quality of leather is not to be found in department store nor book shop. In its place has come the box, or rather, many boxes, supplemented by pliable leather receptacles resembling glove and handkerchief cases, and for unmounted photographs, the camera book.

Boxes for use in the drawing room are covered with exquisite silk tapestries. A mauve tapestry, showing stripes of tiny pink roses, forms the cover for one of these boxes. The edges are bound with mauve braid and bullion, and a large square piece of glass in the center of the lid reveals the contents of the receptacle. These boxes are big enough to hold the large size portrait photographs, and can be ordered in silk or tapestry to match the decoration of the side walls. In this same size, but heavier and more costly; are the boxes of beaten brass and bronze. These have figures of cupids or pastoral scenes carved in bold relief on the sides and lid and stand on four low carved legs. A carved box plated with silver showed the reclining figure of Father Neptune surrounded by water nymphs.

The housekeeper with scores of family pictures to care for will appreciate a deep leather box two feet in length. A particularly handsome box of this sort has a figure of St. George on a fiery steed carved on the hinged cover and outlined in gold. Wonderfully artistic carving is also shown on boxes of weathered oak from which a rugged Indian's head, the spreading antler of a deer or the figure of a bear stand out as if molded in bronze. This is another favorite design for carved wood.

More novel is an oblong frame of olive wood an inch in width, from which is suspended a bag of green leather folded like an accordeon. When not in use this case is not more than two inches of thickness. The cover is of olive fastened with a silver clasp and lined with green suede. A loop of the suede holds a magnifying glass.

Long flexible cases contain two pockets for photographs and are tied with a silk cord and tassel. Among a bride's gifts was a gilded leather case carved in flower design and lined with champagne-colored moire silk. This was tied with a satin cord and tassel in champagne color. The corner of one side was showing a girl in an 1830 gown, with a sprightly beau in knickerbockers standing against a background of pink apple blossoms, stalks of pale lavender and white fleur-de-lis roses about their feet.

WAGE EARNING WOMEN AS WIVES.

"Does the girl who remains at home make a better wife than the girl who goes out daily to earn her living?" I asked a woman suffragist recently.

"Any wage earning woman who wills it may by her attitude of mind make her experiences yield good to her instead of evil," she answered. "She may be a refining, beautifying presence amid the rough realities of a purely practical sphere, and there is no doubt that she may benefit from the battle with the world and make her the very best wife in the world."

"Doesn't her experience tend to harden her nature?" I ventured.

"Not if she wills it otherwise. Her experiences with the various people will make her sympathetic and fit her for any emergencies which may come up," was the answer. "The voice of protest has been raised so constantly against the wage earning woman that we have somewhat come to regard her position as self-imposed. Why not take a hopeful view of the situation

"When a condition cannot be helped it should be resolutely met with a spirit that will know no evil effects. There are over 5,000,000 women in the United States today who are self supporting and the number is increasing at a rapid rate. To say that the self supporting woman is not menaced by dangers and harmful influences would be absurd. These dangers do exist. And yet to place undue stress upon them and say that a woman must eventually yield to them is absurd. It all rests with the woman herself. It is a duty that confronts her. The woman of today may determine what her experiences shall be if she takes the stand that nothing can rob her of her refinement and of that charm, womanliness. Every woman may turn insult, discourtesy and danger from her path and draw to herself the esteem and regard of men associates and employers.

"Let all wage earning women determine to stamp their surroundings with the magic of sweetness, gentleness, charity and true womanliness."—Exchange.

RESTING.

When one has something particular on hand for the evening it is advisable to "rest up" for it during the day, and here is a formula for that process suggested by an excellent English nurse:

First lie down in the afternoon with only a loose gown on, so that the body can relax properly. Next take a quick warm bath, afterward rubbing the spine well with eau de cologne.

Next the face is to be gently washed in water softened with bran, as hot as can be borne, then rinsed off with cold water to which a dash of toilet vinegar has been added. To brighten the eyes, give them a bath by means of a teacupful of slightly salted tepid water. Dress with deliberation, and if possible have someone do your hair for you, if you do not keep a maid.

It is a great aid to a successful toilet to have all your things laid out ready so that you do not have to rummage in bureau drawers or turn out boxes or fumble in closets at the last minute. Whatever you are going to need in the way of clothes, stockings, shoes, handkerchiefs, gloves, fan, etc. should be where you can lay your hand on them when you want them.

As a last touch the nurse suggests for a capital pick-me-up Mrs. Grover Cleveland's recipe—a glass of boiling hot milk with nutmeg sprinkled on top.—Chicago News.

NECKLACES BECOME POPULAR.

The most casual observer can not have failed to notice on every hand evidence of the fad for old-fashioned jewelry, especially in necklaces and chains. It would seem that every woman is prowling into mother's or grandmother's or auntie's jewel box for articles long ago discarded by their owner, scoffed at by the present generation for years, but now sought for in eagerness. The woman who was wise enough to treasure her jewelry instead of allowing her little daughters to play with it, and more often than not lose it, is the center of envy now, for she arrays herself or her daughter—both sometimes—with jewelry that calls forth words of praise and compliment—or thoughts of envy and jealousy as the case may be.

The girl lucky enough to induce her mother to part with some rare set of necklace, locket, brooch and earrings, hastens to the jeweler, who cleans and polishes, and perhaps mounts the rings on the brooch as pendants. But the old-fashioned necklace is not enough. Along with it, as likely as not, are strands of modern beads, Oriental beads, pearls or corals. Indeed, it is wonderful the amount of jewelry that the modern woman of accepted good taste wears even in the day time. Besides a necklace and strands of beads, she will wear a brooch at the throat, one or more fancy pins at the back of her collar, on the front of her bodice a brooch, maybe a small sunburst.—

A BROWN LUNCHEON.

Just to vary the monotony of life there is the "brown" luncheon. The creamed lobster is served in cups covered with brown tissue paper, the browned chops, browned fried potatoes and browned rice croquettes on plates decorated with a design of brown oak leaves and acorns. The ice cream is chocolate frozen in shape of large English walnuts, and the little squares of white cake bear the design of a leaf in tiny chocolate candies. The courses are served from large wooden trays ornamented in pyrographic work, decorated in brown leaves, and the water is poured from a little brown jug.

All the decorations are browns shading from seal to orange. The candles are yellow with autumn leaf shades. The name cards are placed inside little boxes decorated with pyrographic work and suitable for jewel boxes. The hostess wears a gown of panne velvet in the shade of brown known as "burnt onion," and the maid's apron and headdress are decorated with brown bows.

WHAT MRS. GRUNDY SAYS.

When a woman is in love, she does not have to do much talking to make the fact known.

Most men kiss their wives just to show they have not forgotten how.

Some women seem to think it necessary to pretend to know a great deal.

Women like to talk about the splendid times they had when they were being courted.

It always makes a man cross to tell him how he raved about the girl he didn't marry.

Some women have a sure knack of working in all their relatives without husband's consent.

THE battle of Mukden has been fought and won by the Japanese, who are pressing the Russians hard. It is estimated the losses on both sides amount to nearly 200,000 men.

B. B. COMER, the new president of the railroad commission, made a good start, when he attempted to get the commission to go into the question of rates on fertilizers now, when a reduction in rates would benefit the farmer. However, the other members wouldn't follow his lead, and the matter goes over for the present.

CHANCERY COURT.

Chancery Court convened on Monday, Chancellor W. W. Whiteside presiding. Several decrees were granted in divorce cases and the more important cases, including the Welch case, involving the construction of a will, and the Pattillo land cases, and the Grisselli Chemical Co. cases were all carried over. Chancellor Whiteside presides with dignity and poise, and gained the good opinion of all.

Monday night Mrs. S. A. Stewart gave a reception to the bar of Chilton county in honor of Chancellor Whiteside.

Shoults.

The wedding bells are ringing.

We have two new scholars, Miss Lilian Gore and brother.

Mrs. Matt Hayes from Tuscaloosa is visiting Mr. Charley Bailey's family.

Rev. J. D. Martin will preach at Pleasant Grove Saturday and Sunday.

Our teacher lectured on the great clock at the World's Fair, last Friday. It was very interesting.

Mr. J. C. C. Wooley has employed Mr. Joe Murphy of Troy to work on the farm.

Master Grady Gentry is on the sick list.

The intermediate class all received a nice book from their teacher Thursday evening. They worked a lot in arithmetic for it. Bessie Hall got the most perfect and Rosa Ellis the next, Lena Walker the best in every respect and Wilder Shoults the nicest.

Mr. Emmet Lawrance and Miss Janie Adams married Wednesday evening. They will soon move in their new house.

The reading contest last Frida evening was pronounced by our teacher to be one of the finest exercises ever held in our school. Thirty pupils took part in the contest. Their ages ranged from 7 to 17. The conditions were that the pieces must be new, original, and perfectly expressed. The pieces were all fine and most strikingly rendered. Only one word was mispronounced in the exercise. The pupils, by private ballot gave the prizes to Miss Lilian Gore and Mr. Eddy Ellis. The next contest will be speaking.

Honor Roll. Splendid: Fay Hicks, Lillian Gore, Ed Ellis, Lena Walker, Bessie Hall, Nora Wallace, Eva Hall, Willie Walker, I. M. Hicks, Inez Hicks, Gertrude Woolley Rosa Ellis, A. C. Maness, Wilder Shoults, Buford Lawrence.

Excellent. Armour Woolley, Jeff Ellis, Bud Kleaner, Ira Kelly, Albert Gore, Lily Lawrence, Lettie Walker, Hinton Lawrence, Alfred Lawrence, Philip Edmonson, Howard Woolley.

THE ALABAMA HOME FOR CONFEDERATE SOLDIERS.

inmates, of whom at this time there are three. A spacious verandah encircles the building, and the wards are roomy and comfortable.

Next is No. 7 cottage, facetiously named "The Cripple Creek Hotel," all the inmates being deprived of the means of locomotion. They seemed happy, however, one making music with a banjo, and singing heartily, while others were amusing themselves in divers ways. No. 8 cottage is unoccupied, awaiting inmates. Then comes "Camp Hardee Cottage" with a tastefully arranged flower garden, and at the end of the row is "The John E. Moore Memorial Cottage."

Fronting the public road, on the one side, and overlooking the Home on the other, midway between the two rows of cottages, is the Memorial Hall, or Auditorium, familiarly known as the Log House. This may be termed the show place of the Home, although it is designed for usefulness. A wide piazza goes all around the building. On the first floor is the office in which the business of the Home is transacted, a reading room and library, a room for lectures, etc., where Sunday school and divine service is held, and a room reserved for the U. D. C. Up a broad flight of stairs and we enter the Auditorium, a large hall capable of seating about 700 persons. Here is a piano, and it is hoped that many a pleasant and profitable entertainment will be given for the benefit of the gallant inmates of the Alabama Soldiers Home.

THE "BLUE" AND THE "GREY" COTTAGE.

From the report of the State Examiner, just issued, we find the value of the property is about $55,000. The grounds embrace 80 acres, about 4 or 5 acres being used for a garden in which vegetables are raised, and an orchard of peaches and apples covering 6 or 8 acres has been planted. A fish pond is being constructed, where the veteran will be able to fish to his heart's content and add a tasty dish to the table.

It is a source of gratification to all patriotic lovers of the lost cause that the heroes of the days of 1861–65 have now a place of refuge, and God grant that every old Confederate veteran, who is in need, so long as there is one left on earth, may find a home here

A hearty welcome awaits all visitors, the veterans are delighted to see you, and every Alabamian should take a pride in seeing the Alabama Home for Confederate Soldiers.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington, D. C., Mar. 18 1905

Another congress has just passed into history, and if it has not, it ought to have left a bad taste in the mouths of the people for the very good reason that it has done nothing in their interest. The last session of the Fifty-eighth congress did practically nothing except pass the great supply bills and go home. It refused absolutely to pass anything in the nature of remedial legislation in the interest of the people, though it had ample opportunity to do so. As predicted in these letters last Fall, it went squarely back on its promise to give Statehood to the Territories of Oaklahoma, Indian Territory, New Mexico and Arizona. If the people of those Territories can stand for such dillydallying as that, with their dearest rights and privileges, then the millennium must have been dragged in by the ears in the Southwest long before its time. If they do not take occasion to resent it at the very first opportunity they get, then human nature has changed a whole lot down in that section of our common country. When the Democrats get control of the congress of the United States, the people of those Territories will get statehood, and not before. The trust interests in the Senate, guarded by the paid attorneys of these trusts whom they have placed there, will forever stand as a bar to Statehood long past due to the sturdy, honest people of the great Southwest. When we get Senetorial elections by direct vote of the people we will be able to control the Senate in the interests of the people, but not before. That not only is my humble opinion from years of observation here in the national capital, but it is the opinion of nearly every observing man who has taken the pains to ascertain conditions that now exist here.

CHAS. A. EWARDS.

Stockholders' Meeting.

Office of the Chilton County Graphite Co., near Mountain Creek, Chilton County, Ala., March 13th, 1905.

Notice is hereby given that a Meeting of the Stockholders of the Chilton County Graphite Company, a corporation under the laws of Alabama, has been called by the Board of Directors of said Corporation to be held, and will be held at the Office of the said Chilton County Graphite Company, near Mountain Creek, Chilton County, Alabama, on the 17th day of April, 1905, at 12 M., for the following purposes, to-wit:

Providence, Beat 10.

Our Sabbath school is progressing nicely.

We are sorry that the death angel of the Lord visited the home of Mr. Robert Peters last Wednesday night and carried away his wife and left two children to mourn her death. Sister Peters has been a member of the Baptist church some time. We extend our greatest sympathy to her many friends and relatives, but our loss of Christia s is heaven's gain. So God doeth all things well.

"SAVED MY LIFE"

—That's what a prominent druggist said of Scott's Emulsion a short time ago. As a rule we don't use or refer to testimonials in addressing the public, but the above remark and similar expressions are made so often in connection with Scott's Emulsion that they are worthy of occasional note. From infancy to old age Scott's Emulsion offers a reliable means of remedying improper and weak development, restoring lost flesh and vitality, and repairing waste. The action of Scott's Emulsion is no more of a secret than the composition of the Emulsion itself. What it does it does through nourishment—the kind of nourishment that cannot be obtained in ordinary food. No system is too weak or delicate to retain Scott's Emulsion and gather good from it.

We will send you a sample free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

The Taking Cold Habit

The old cold goes; a new one quickly comes. It's the story of a weak throat, weak lungs, a tendency to consumption. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral breaks up the taking-cold habit. It strengthens, soothes, heals. Ask your doctor about it.

"I had a terrible cold, and nothing relieved me. I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and it promptly broke up my cold, stopped my cough, and eased every part of my body. It did wonderful work for me."—MRS. J. F. LEVY, Toledo, Ohio.

Pleasant and Harmless

Don't drug the stomach to cure a cough. One Minute Cough Cure cuts the mucous, draws the inflammation out of the throat, lungs and bronchial tubes, heals, soothes and cures. A quick cure for Croup and Whooping Cough. One Minute Cough Cure relieves a cough in one minute, because it acts first on the mucous membrane right where the cough troubles—in the throat or deep seated on the lungs. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Jericho.

Another busy year has gone, gone like the water that has passed over the dam—gone never to return' It has carried many friends along with it and left sad memories in our household, but it has been a good year to us all, and Providence has been kind. Now is the time to look back and review the past, to take an account of stock like the merchants do; a time to be thankful for what we have received, and to compare our conditions not with those who are better off, but with those who are worse off.

We must congratulate ourselves for being very happy during this beautiful weather, each farmer is very busy ploughing.

Dr. C. J. Stewart is making quite an improvement between his home and Jericho by building new fencing.

There is quite a crowd have on their best looks and broad smiles, as they are expecting beautiful pictures to be made from their lovely faces this afternoon; we hope the school group will be quite a success.

Mr. W. T. Clinton made a flying trip to Centreville Thursday last.

SUBSCRIBER.

Proper Treatment of Pneumonia.

Pneumonia is too dangerous a disease for anyone to attempt to doctor himself, although he may have the proper remedies at hand. A physician should always be called. It should be borne in mind, however, that pneumonia always results from a cold or from an attack of the grip, and that by giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the threatened attack of pneumonia may be warded off. This Remedy is also used by physicians in the treatment of pneumonia with the best results. Dr. W. J. Smith, of Sanders, Ala., who is also a druggist, says of it: "I have been selling Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and prescribing it in my practice for the past six years. I use it in cases of pneumonia and have always gotten results." Sold by Upchurch Drug co. Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Dear Editor—Please give me space in your paper to say a word or two to my friends. As I have read something about cotton acreage and fertilizer, what I want to say is this: Hold on, boys, and we will get ten cents this fall if nothing happens. We are having some bad weather now and farmers are slow about starting their crops.

There is lots of sickness around here now.

Our Sunday school is starting up again and I hope it will continue in the name of the Lord. It seems that what Big Ike said about it did it good. Best wishes to the Banner and its readers. OLD CHUM.

After a hearty meal a dose of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will prevent an attack of Indigestion. Kodol is a thorough digestant and a guaranteed cure for Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gas on the Stomach, Sour Risings, Bad Breath and all stomach troubles. N. Watkins, Losbus Ky., says: "I can testify to the efficacy of Kodol in the cure of Stomach Trouble. I was afflicted with Stomach Trouble for fifteen years and have taken six bottles of your Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, which entirely cured me. The six bottles were worth $1.000 to me." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will digest any quantity of all the wholesome food you want to eat while your stomach takes a rest—recuperates and grows strong. This wonderful preparation is justly entitled to all of its many remarkable cures. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Gadsden, Ala.—W. S. Griffith, who founded the Gadsden Evening Journal in this city four years ago, disposed of his interest in the paper to W. P. Hofferbert, his partner, and the latter will conduct the paper in the future. Mr. Griffith will go into other business.

A Little Child Killed in Play.

Troy, Ala.—Quite a sad and unusual accident happened at Banks, this county, on Saturday, resulting in the death of the little 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Bryan. The little Bryan child was engaged with two other little fellows about his own age in playing "horses," and in the enthusiasm of the sport came into violent contact with one of them, resulting in his death in a short while.

Bad Alabama Ventures.

Springfield, Ill.—A petition in bankruptcy was filed with the clerk of the United States District Court by L. A. Clark, a mining promoter of Quincy, Ill. He scheduled his liabilities at $354,000 and assets at $50.

The failure was due to mining ventures in Alabama, in which he was extensively interested and his principal creditors, with one or two exceptions, were his partners in these ventures.

Law to Muzzle Bull Dogs.

Talladega, Ala.—The city has been recently overrun with bull dogs, and last night the city council passed a stringent ordinance forbidding any person having charge of a bull dog to allow it to come on the streets without a muzzle and a collar and chain to be held in the hand, and authorizing police officers to shoot bull dogs running at large on the streets.

Injured in Accident.

Gadsden, Ala.—Joe Holland, a water carrier at the steel plant, happened to an accident Wednesday, having his foot severely mashed. While his wound is painful he is not seriously hurt.

Charge Wife and Son With Killing.

Heflin, Ala.—Richard D. Beason was shot and killed at his home, four miles from Heflin, as he lay in bed. The shooting was done with a shot gun. His wife and 16-year-old son are charged with the crime, and are in the sheriff's custody. Family difficulty was the cause assigned. The shooting occurred Wednesday morning.

Postmaster Leaves Politics.

Scottsboro, Ala.—Postmaster A. N. Holland, of Scottsboro, has tendered his resignation as chairman of the republican executive committee of Jackson county, in obedience to an order from Washington that all postmasters should give up the honor of being county chairman.

Birmingham, Ala.—The local iron market grows stronger and stronger. The pig metal is bought freely at $13.75 to $14 on a No. 2 foundry basis Some large sales have been made this week.

Hargis Loses.

Frankfort, Ky.—The Kentucky court of appeals refused the writ asked by the Hargis brothers, of Breathitt county, to restrain the Judge of Fayette circuit court from assuming jurisdiction of them for trial for complicity in the murder of Town Marshal Cockrill, of Jackson. The case thus goes to Fayette county for trial, in which court they are already under indictment.

Schistler returned to his own house and barricaded himself inside. In the meantime neighbors appeared on the scene, but quickly retreated when bullets from Schistler's rifle began falling near them.

A telephone message was sent to police headquarters and an ambulance with Police Surgeon Dulin, Captain Bohanna and three officers hurried to the scene. Upon the arrival of the officers and before they could leave the ambulance, a rain of bullets fell about them. Dulin and Bohanna fell to the floor of the ambulance wounded. The driver reined his horses when another shot from Schistler dropped one of the animals to the ground. With the assistance of spectators the wounded men were removed from the scene.

Dulin was shot three times, once in each leg and another time in the left thigh. His condition is critical. Bohanna received a bullet in the leg, but is not dangerously hurt.

Hay Wagon Used as Fort.

A call for reinforcements brought all the available men from the police headquarters and the sheriff's office, and a consultation was held to formulate a plan to capture Schistler. Firing squads were stationed in near-by houses, and a larger force was placed in a portable fort made of baled hay piled upon a hay wagon. During the preliminary arrangements Schistler kept up a continuous fire in all directions. This was returned by the officers, and hundreds of shots were exchanged. Kelly was slightly wounded. Finally Schistler ceased firing, and the hay wagon fort was moved cautiously toward the house. When the attacking force reached the front gate without a shot being fired, one of the officers stepped out into view, thinking to draw the fire of Schistler if he were still alive. None came, and with a rush the officers charged the house and battered down the door. They found Schistler lying upon a bed bleeding from several wounds. He died soon afterwards. It is not known whether he was hit by bullets from the weapons of the pursuing party or committed suicide.

Mrs. Schistler was away from home at the time, and when she learned of the affair fell prostrate. It is thought she will die from the shock.

Georgia Coffin Company Burned.

Columbus, Ga.—The plant of the Georgia Coffin Company, in this city, was destroyed by fire Sunday morning. The origin is unknown. A stock of coffins was destroyed. The loss is about $10,000. It is only partially covered by insurance.

200 Indictments Against Standard Oil.

Cynthiana, Ky.—The grand jury brought in 200 indictments against the Standard Oil company, who is charged with "retailing from a wagon without a license." The fine in each case varies from $50 to $1,000. The lowest possible penalties would reach $10,000. The indictments were made after one recently passed on by Judge O'Rear, of the court of appeals of Kentucky which held the Standard Oil Company liable for license in an Oldham, Ky.

During a stay of five months just outside of Florence foraging parties scoured the country for miles around, despoiling the inhabitants of everything they could lay their hands upon in the way of provisions and povender. Many of the claims have been pending for years, and in most instances the original petitioners have long since passed to their reward.

Revenue Men on Trial.

Montgomery, Ala.—A number of sensational cases are up for trial in the United States court. They involve five men, who were formerly employed as gaugers and storekeepers in the revenue service, who are charged with making false returns and entries in their official capacity at the distillery and rectifying house of the Kohn Distilling Company. The company, about a year ago, was charged with defrauding the government out of an enormous amount of money by these false entries and returns. The concern was, however, allowed to settle by the payment of $12,000 into the United States treasury.

To Make Turbines.

Birmingham, Ala.—A telegram from New York announces that the International Power Company, the big industrial concern which recently secured control of the Alabama Consolidated Coal and Iron Company, had, through purchase or other arrangements, secured the right to manufacture exclusively the Wilkinson turbines, patented in Birmingham. While no details are to be learned as yet, it is understood that the stockholders in the local concern will reap a large sum for their holdings. A large number of men in Birmingham held stock in the Wilkinson Turbine Company. The patent has been thoroughly investigated by expert engineers in the east and north, and the deal just completed means that it is accepted as a good thing.

Ticket Scalpers' Trust.

Chicago, Ill.—Charging that the ticket scalpers of the United States have combined into a trust for mutual protection and promotion of the sale of cut rate tickets, officers of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad Company Friday filed a bill in the United States circuit court seeking an injunction against sixty-seven ticket brokers. This bill is against the same persons and is almost identical with several bills which were filed last summer by various railroad companies and on which petitions injunctions were issued restraining the scalping of tickets to the world's fair.

Big Shipment of Coal.

Pittsburg, Pa.—The largest river coal shipment which has left Pittsburg for months has started south. The fleet contained about 2,500,000 bushels, consigned to Cincinnati and Louisville. Another shipment of 2,000,000 bushels will be made tomorrow. The gorge at Davis island dam, at 9 o'clock Sunday night, showed 11 feet and the water falling .2 of a foot an hour. The Allegheny river ice gorge just below Kittaning still holds.

CHARACTER BUILDING.

How to Make Life a Glorious Thing Instead of a Drudgery.

What is it we all have in common, no matter what our environments? Life, that glorious opportunity to be, to do, and to grow, is ours. Life, with all its possibilities, the greatness of which we have not dreamed, is actually slipping by without our cognizance, because we are so occupied with the things which we think make us unhappy, and which have grown to tremendous proportions, magnified by our vision.

What matter it if others are rich or famous, so long as we have the one great chance in life which overshadows all these things, and is the only thing which will stand the test of time?

In a few years death will claim the rich and they must depart, leaving that for which they have labored all behind. But the character goes on forever.

Happiness being a condition of the mind, yours is the power to place happiness there by creating this condition, which you can do solely by your thoughts.

Thoughts which cause unrest or worry, you must cast out. This is not easy for those who have been accustomed to allow themselves to be constantly annoyed by these things.

Remember, first, to place character above all else, for there is nothing to be compared with it. And determine that, no matter what else you have in life, this you will acquire. This determination will alter your frame of mind, and, when firmly fixed, will change the appearance of conditions and surroundings.

All thoughts which are not character builders you must banish, and you must view everything in this light. This cannot be done at once, and is only achieved after many trials.

Always see what you have to be thankful for when depressed or unhappy. This mental inventory will make lighter any load. Don't worry about anything, for it does no good, and only lessens your opportunity for helping yourself.

If you are character building there is nothing that can come to you which cannot be used as a step onward, if looked at in the right light, and anything which will place you a step forward cannot bring harm.

Always look on the bright side of everything, for there is always a bright side to everything if we will but see it.

Cast out all thoughts of anger or rage, and never allow yourself to lose your temper.

School yourself in conquering fear of all descriptions. To him who builds character there is nothing to fear. And just in proportion as you obtain this mental balance you will find happiness everywhere, and life will become a glorious thing, instead of a drudgery.—New York Weekly.

Singing Into a Gramophone.

Part of the terror inspired by gramophones—not by all gramophones whatsoever, of course—is probably due to the distress of the vocalists who sing for them. Few people have any idea of this. Mr. J. B. Oswald, who yesterday recovered fees from a manufacturing company in Glasgow, said that he sang to the accompaniment of bells on either side of him, and a piano rattling away for all the pianist was worth. He sang each song seven or eight times to produce a "master record." As the voice varied in pitch and intensity, he had to bend nearer or draw back; and he sang until the perspiration dropped from his forehead. First the diaphragm gave way—the one in the instrument—and then a wax cylinder much too hard was used. Mr. Oswald had bound himself, however, to produce twelve master records. He would seem to have done it, in the Glasgow sheriff's opinion, or at all events to have done enough, and he states that the task was quite the heaviest that he has undertaken. One can well believe it. Some of the very mysterious sounds which emerge from gramophones may now be sympathetically interpreted.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Ideals and Home Life.

A point was well made by Edward Howard Griggs, at the conclusion of a lecture on "How to Attain Our Ideals." He had paused for questions from the audience, and one man said something to this effect: "Yes, these are very fine things you have been saying to us—those of us who can see at all what you mean are eager to bring it into realization. But we are often terribly hampered. What can you say—what hope have you to offer—to a woman who, herself capable of holding these ideals, is tied to a man who is utterly incapable of any higher conception than that of bodily comfort?"

"You have touched," said Mr. Griggs, "upon a tragedy so profound that I have no words in which to answer you." A silence fell upon the great assembly. Presently he broke it: "But this I can suggest: That very often those who most quickly and intensely grasp ideals are unwilling to take the necessary steps to realize them. There are orderly means to the attainment of every ideal. It is never reached at a bound. Only by patiently establishing each step before it goes on to the next can the human spirit reach its goal."—Marion Foster Washburne, in Harper's Bazar.

A Portable Ants' Nest.

Glass hives for bees are well known, but a portable ants' nest, as supplied in London under the name of "the Lubbock Formicarium," is something of a novelty. It is expected that one of these nests will serve six years or more for study or exhibition. The nest resembles a picture frame ten inches square, and contains the small yellow ant in its various stages, with or without a queen, and with associated insects.

MISS FLORENCE KENAH.

Miss Florence E. Kenah, 434 Maria street, Ottawa, Ont., writes:

"A few months ago I caught a severe cold, which settled on my lungs and remained there so persistently that I became alarmed. I took medicine without benefit, until my digestive organs became upset and my head began to ache severely and frequently.

"I was advised to try Peruna, and although I had little faith I felt so bad that I was ready to try anything. It brought me blessed relief at once, and I felt that I had the right medicine at last. Within three weeks I was completely restored and have enjoyed perfect health since.

"I now have the greatest faith in Peruna." Florence E. Kenah.

Women Should Beware of Contracting Catarrh.

The cold wind and rain, slush and mud of winter are especially conducive to catarrhal derangements. Few women escape.

Upon the first symptoms of catching cold Peruna should be taken. It fortifies the system against colds and catarrh.

Pe-ru-na for Colds and Catarrh.

The following interesting letter gives one young woman's experience with Peruna:

Miss Rose Gerbing, a popular society woman of Crown Point, Ind., writes:

"Recently I took a long drive in the country and being too thinly clad I caught a bad cold which settled on my lungs, and which I could not seem to shake off. I had heard a great deal of Peruna for colds and catarrh and I bought a bottle to try. I am pleased that I did, for it brought speedy relief. It only took about two bottles, and I consider this money well spent.

"You have a firm friend in me, and I not only advise its use to my friends, but have purchased several bottles to give to those without the means to buy, and have noticed without exception that it has brought a speedy cure wherever it has been used." Rose Gerbing.

Pe-ru-na Contains No Narcotics.

One reason why Peruna has found permanent use in so many homes is that it contains no narcotic of any kind. Peruna is perfectly harmless. It can be used any length of time without acquiring a drug habit. Peruna does not produce temporary results. It is permanent in its effect.

It has no bad effect upon the system, and gradually eliminates catarrh by removing the cause of catarrh. There are a multitude of homes where Peruna has been used on and off for twenty years. Such a thing could not be possible if Peruna contained any drugs of a narcotic nature.

Easy to be Divorced.

Divorce procedure in Burmah is simple. If a husband and wife decide that life together is an impossibility she goes out and buys two little candles of equal size, made especially for the use of the unhappily wedded. She brings the candles home and then she and her husband sit down upon the floor, placing the candles between them. The candles are lighted at the same moment, and one represents the husband and the other the wife. The pair watch the burning tapers anxiously, for custom decrees that the owner of the one which goes out first is at once to leave the house. The second candle may have only flickered out a moment later, but its possessor remains owner of the house and all its contents, his or her late partner going away with nothing but the clothes worn at the moment.

Ships Made of Paper.

Compressing 300,000 newspapers by hydraulic machinery, an Austrian inventor has constructed a yacht of the material thus obtained, complete in every detail, and no less than sixteen feet in length. Everything about the little vessel is of paper—not only the hull, but the masts and even the sails. The Paris Auto vouches for the fact that the yacht is not a mere toy, but a real vessel capable of fulfilling all the requirements of any ship of similar size.

Scotland is becoming alarmed at the increase in the number of "Burns relics." Chairs enough are now known to have furnished a dozen Burns cottages. Six of them were at the St. Louis exposition alone; and even the well known habits of the poet will not account for the array of Burns cups and mugs that are scattered around the world.

Spin Miles Upon Miles.

"The cotton factories of Lancashire, England," says Edward Irving, "at present spin about 155,000,000 miles of thread a day, so that in six seconds they make enough to go around the earth. In one month they spin enough to reach from here to the moon. The product of eighteen days would reach from the sun to Neptune. Counting 310 working days in a year, it would take them, at this rate, 500 years to spin enough thread to reach the nearest star."

Turning Radishes to Potatoes.

"The discovery of a means of metamorphosing radishes into potatoes has been made in so solemn a place as the Academy of Sciences, Paris," says the American Inventor. "M. Molliard takes a very young radish, 'Pasteurizes' it in a certain way, and it grows up into a fine potato. More scientifically, the young radish is cultivated in a glass retort, after a process invented by Pasteur, in a concentrated solution of glucose. Starch then develops plentifully in the cells of the radish, which swells out, loses its pepperiness, and acquires practically the consistence, flavor, and especially the nutritive properties of the potato."

Treacherous Bogs.

There is an ancient and grewsome tradition connected with the story of the battle of Solway. This battle was fought on the "debatable" borderland between England and Scotland in the year 1542. A troop of horsemen heavily mounted and heavily armored was put to rout. In the panic of their flight they ran headlong into a peat bog. The bog trembled beneath the feet of their chargers and then opened and swallowed them, horses and horsemen, arms and armor. To support this tradition, more than 200 years later, at the end of the eighteenth century, a digger of peat came upon one of the troop—a man and his horse both in complete armor and preserved from total decay by the antiseptic qualities of the peat. Another story of that bog of the Solway frith is that in November, 1171, the bog, surcharged with the moisture of the heavy rains, rose, swelled and burst like a torrent, sweeping along with it trees and houses and destroying thirty small villages.

Woman's Kidney Troubles

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is Especially Successful in Curing This Fatal Disease.

Mrs. J. W. Lang and Mrs. S. Frake

Of all the diseases known, with which women are afflicted, kidney disease is the most fatal. In fact, unless early and correct treatment is applied, the weary patient seldom survives.

Being fully aware of this, Mrs. Pinkham, early in her career, gave exhaustive study to the subject, and in producing her great remedy for woman's ills—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—was careful to see that it contained the correct combination of herbs which was sure to control that fatal disease, woman's kidney troubles. The Vegetable Compound acts in harmony with the laws that govern the entire female system, and while there are many so called remedies for kidney troubles, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the only one especially prepared for women, and thousands have been cured of serious kidney derangements by it. Derangements of the feminine organs quickly affect the kidneys, and when a woman has such symptoms as pain or weight in the loins, backache, bearing down pains, urine too frequent, scanty or high colored, producing scalding or burning, or deposits like brick dust in it; unusual thirst, swelling of hands and feet, swelling under the eyes or sharp pains in the back running down the inside of her groin, she may be sure her kidneys are affected and should lose no time in combating the disease with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the woman's remedy for woman's ills.

The following letters show how marvelously successful it is.

Mrs. Samuel Frake, of Prospect Plains, N. J., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

I cannot thank you enough for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. When I first wrote to you I had suffered for years with what the doctor called kidney trouble and congestion of the womb. My back ached dreadfully all the time, and I suffered so with that bearing-down feeling I could hardly walk across the room. I did not get any better, so decided to stop doctoring with my physician and take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I am thankful to say it has entirely cured me. I do all my own work, have no more backache and all the bad symptoms have disappeared.

I cannot praise your medicine enough, and would advise all women suffering with kidney trouble to try it.

Mrs. J. W. Lang, of 636 Third Avenue, New York, writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

I have been a great sufferer with kidney trouble. My back ached all the time and I was discouraged. I heard that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would cure kidney disease, and I began to take it; and it has cured me when everything else had failed. I have recommended it to lots of people and they all praise it very highly.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation.

Women suffering from kidney trouble, or any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Out of the great volume of experience which she has to draw from, it is more than likely she has the very knowledge that will help your case. Her advice is free and always helpful.

MIGHT AND WILL VS "GRIP"

Let us illustrate vividly the difference in meaning of the words might and will—the child might live; the child will live. Might implies doubt; will means certainty. Might live means might die; will live means will not die.

These two words aptly illustrate the difference between Johnson's Tonic and the horde of commercial remedies on the market, and that vast horde of inert professional remedies which only bear the sanction of the High Priests of medicine.

USE JOHNSON'S TONIC
in a bad case of Grip and you will live! Use inert, or commercial products, and you might live.

Johnson's Tonic quickly drives out every trace and taint of Grip. It is not simply good, it is supremely good—not good as anything, but better than everything—a genuine life-saver. Those who believe in it are safe—doubters are in danger and jeopardize their lives. Summed up, Johnson's Chill and Fever Tonic is the best Grip medicine on earth. This is the sober, serious, earnest truth.

AN UNUSUAL OFFER

by Upchurch Drug Co., of Clanton and A. Horn, of Thorsby, who are allowing their patrons an opportunity of a free trial of the wonderful healing remedy, Paracamph, First Aid to the Injured. This remedy has become popular in a remarkably short length of time by its great success in curing the aches, pains and hurts of millions of people. Chilton people should know the value and merits of Paracamph, and to enable them to do so without risk or loss of money these gentlemen have duced a plan. "Being fully convinced of the merits of Paracamph, all you have to do, says Mr. Horn, is to deposit the price of a bottle at our drug store, or at Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton, take home a bottle of Paracamph, give it an honest trial, and if not satisfied, tell us and we will return your money."

No remedy on earth compares with Paracamph for the cure of Rheumatism, Swelling and Neuralgia, Sore Throat; Croup, Catarrh, Sore Muscles, Eczema, Sprains, Bruises, Sore Feet, Cuts, Burns and Hurts of every description. Paracamph absolutely prevents blood poison. Paracamph soothes and heals like magic. No household should be without a bottle always on hand.

If you receive a card making a special offer to you for a trial of Paracamph, bring it to our drug store without delay.

Indigestion Causes Catarrh of the Stomach.

For many years it has been supposed that Catarrh of the Stomach caused indigestion and dyspepsia, but the truth is exactly the opposite. Indigestion causes catarrh. Repeated attacks of Indigestion inflames the mucous membranes lining the stomach and exposes the nerves of the stomach, thus causing the glands to secrete mucin instead of the juices of natural digestion. This is called Catarrh of the Stomach.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

relieves all inflammation of the mucous membranes lining the stomach, protects the nerves, and cures bad breath, sour risings, a sense of fullness after eating, indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles.

He had about six hundr lars insurance.

THE FREAK STAMP FAD.

AZE FOR POSSESSION OF BLUNDERS MADE BY GOVERNMENT.

e Valuable Freak Stamps Were ued in 1869—The Freak Two-Cent Pan-American Series of amps Are Now Worth $55 Each.

About the only freaks of great manufactured by the Governt are misprinted postage stamps, value of one of these sometimes ing up into the thousands. re is nothing more dear to the lector than these errors in print-, and, too, there is nothing which ses a tornado of trouble quicker the Bureau of Engraving and nting. An error is generally a tly thing in this department. It ans that whoever is responsible the mistake must get out and hunt other job. The work is too import to permit of carelessness. An ror produces a freak stamp, but it o produces a vacancy, often more, the ranks of the employes of the partment; but the collector, the ilatelist, is happy; for he gets a ize of the first water.

Any and everything in the way of stamp which varies a hair's breadth om the correct design is a freak. d there is always a heated race by e stamp fiends to secure one of ese. Usually these errors, and they e not made often, are detected bere many of the stamps are put in rculation, and when only a few get t the collectors are ready to pay ncy prices for one of the prizes. me few collectors labor under the pression that "every man has his ice" and the sum of $20,000 was fered the head of the bureau a few ars ago if he would have issued half-dozen sheets of two-cent errs. Of course no consideration hatever was given to the proposin, and the get-rich-quick philatelist w his plans miscarry.

Some very valuable freak stamps ere issued in 1869, when a series of amps were issued in colors. The ries comprised denominations from cent to 90 cents. The 15, 24 30 and cents were printed in two colors, n these the central picture was inted inverted and the error was tected. Today any of these freaks ill bring from $500 to $800 each.

The freak 2-cent Pan-American ries of stamps which turned up in uffalo, N. Y., a few years ago are w rated at $55 each. Only a few of ese got in circulation before it was iscovered that the railroad train in e center of the stamp was upside own. It is likely that thousands ould have been sold had not a gentleman who had purchased ten stamps iscovered the error and forthwith rote the Bureau of Engraving and rinting, notifying the officers. He oubtless thought he was doing a od service for the Government, and oubtless he was, but the stamp colectors denounce him as a chump of e rankest type. The gentleman ve away several of the stamps he d bought. While a large number the stamps with the inverted train cars were sold before the error as detected, there are only six of ese freaks which can be accounted r, the other stamps having perhaps rved their purpose without being iscovered as belonging to the valuble freak family. It is altogether asonable to suppose that the stamps ere affixed to letters and the enelopes destroyed. If any sheet of rror stamps other than that sent to e Buffalo office was ever sent out e fact has never been known at e bureau, and it is not likely that e market will ever be glutted with is freak stamp.

During the winter of 1890 a sheet the ordinary 1-cent stamps with e word "Guam" printed across the ce, slipped through with "Guam" pside down. These stamps were rinted for the use of the island, and ollectors have searched far and near r them. Only a few have been seured by the collectors, and they ring stiff prices. The people of uam know but little about the value t on such freaks by the stamp colectors.

Back in the '70s, when the Government used its own distinctive set of tamps for the several departments, n error was made by the banknote ompany which then held the contact for making the stamps. The egular color adopted by the Navy Department was blue. A sheet of the -cent denomination was printed in reen, and the freak has now a maret value of about $45 each. The enuine, in blue, is worth twenty mes its face value.

One collector was fortunate enough o corner the market by getting posession of a sheet of 4-cent stamps f the Columbian series, which was rinted by mistake in steel blue, when s right color should have been ultraarine blue. He got it at its face alue, and when he wants to dispose f one he can readily get $35.

There are a number of other valuble freak stamps, but the errors of he Bureau of Engraving and Printng have been remarkably few, conidering the immense number of heets of stamps turned out every ear. Each sheet after being printed asses through a dozen or more hands efore it is ready for the stock vault, nd inspectors and counters are alays on the lookout for errors in rinting.—Kansas City Star.

At fashionable dinners in England oup is seldom served. At charity inners it is the main course.

SOME BIRDS FOR ARGENTINA.

In Color They Are Beautiful and in Songs Wonderful.

Among Argentina's greatest treasures are her birds, which abound there in great number and variety. One peculiarity of the birds is their gaudy plumage, brightest scarlet, orange, olive, yellow, pink and green—painted perhaps by the southern sun.

In color they are beautiful and in songs wonderful. Let us go to the woods bordering the river, and see how many we can find. Yonder bird is called the "arm of fire" on account of his bright color. He appears to take great pride in showing himself. There is the cardinal with the scarlet crest, white breast and dove colored back, also the yellow cardinal with yellow body and black crest. It is so named because its crest resembles the cardinal's hat. That beautiful pink line that you see in the distant sky is a flock of pink flamingoes. They are nearing us. Now they alight upon the sand on the margin of the river. How pretty they are! Listen to that exquisite song. That is the "Bugero," a large black bird with white beak. From the grassy marsh comes the discordant cry of the heron, and the green parrots are chattering in the trees over our heads. They think their scolding will frighten us away. See that lovely golden wren creeping up the tree, hunting spiders. He does not seem a particle afraid of us. Hear that sweet voiced robin. They are much finer singers than the robins of our country. Here we find a dove's carelessly made nest, with two white eggs lying on the ground. This dove is very small, not much larger than a canary. That modest little gray bird is the bulbul, or nightingale, which keeps his sweet song for the night.

There is a tree that appears to be covered with balls of cotton, but instead of cotton it is a flock of magpies sunning themselves. They drop their wings and fluff out the feathers of the back until they resemble balls of cotton. They are singular birds. One will catch a frog and run around before the others, apparently to tantalize them. When they bathe they jump into a pool of water, then out and roll in the dust, then into the water again. They impose on each other by several hens laying eggs in the same nest. The eggs are very pretty, green and white mingled. Hear the mournful call of the rainbird, a kind of cuckoo which calls almost incessantly the day before a storm while there is no apparent evidence of its approach, yet they are unfailing. Here comes a scissors tail, another peculiar bird, one of the flycatchers. Ah! the beautiful birds! We hear their glad songs as they flit from tree to tree seemingly without a sorrow, but they have their sorrows, too, for they will go to seek food for their young birds and come back to find them devoured by snakes or some other marauder. But perhaps their greatest enemy is women, for whose adornment hundreds of thousands are destroyed annually, especially of the white heron, an elegant bird whose female has two dainty hair-like feathers, or aigrettes, which as much used for hat trimming.—Montreal Family Herald.

The Cooking Millennium.

In almost every big department store nowadays there is an exhibit of cooking by electricity. No dirt, no ashes, no dust, no superfluous heat, no fire; nothing but as high a temperature as you want in the cooking apparatus, and that only just so long as you want it.

Partly because invention lags, chiefly because we have let short-sighted monopolists get control of electricity—and perhaps that's why invention is lagging—we can't afford to cook by electricity yet. But soon—for monopolies and monopolists do die—we shall be emancipated from the present superheated, dirty and crude system.

What a world—from the standpoint of comfort—this is bound to become after a century or so more of the sort of progress that began only about a hundred years ago. And how much of the "good time that's coming" we might anticipate if we weren't too lazy to think and too stupid to act. —Saturday Evening Post.

Heredity.

A Virginia representative in Congress says that two ladies in Richmond with whom he is well acquainted were one day discussing the relative longevity of the members of their respective families.

"I have no doubt," said one of the ladies, "that, everything considered, we Blanks are the most notable family in Virginia, when it comes to a question of longevity. Do you know, my father died at eighty-nine; while my grandfather reached the advanced age of ninety-seven."

"Is that so?" quiried the other lady. "And which grandfather was that?"

"Oh," replied the first speaker, "that was the grandfather by my first husband."—Harper's Weekly.

College boys are of the age and condition which joins the clannishness and rash judgment of boyhood with the energy and self assertion of budding manhood, says the American Cultivator. Hence some vexatious problems are often unexpectedly presented to their teachers. Not until the graduate looks back upon college ways and notions from the perspective of ten years or more experience does he fully appreciate the amusing irony of the term college "man," as applied to the youthful student to himself.

American Minister Arrives.

Tangier, Morocco—Samuel R. Gummere, the first American minister to Morocco, has arrived here.

Natchez Mills' Liberality.

Natchez, Miss.—The Natchez Cotton Mills, employing 400 operatives, have given notice that commencing Monday, March 20, the time for a day's work for all employes would be reduced from eleven to ten hours. The pay remains the same.

Englishmen Growing.

Statistics show that in fifty years the average height of British men has risen an inch. The present average height for a man of 20 is five feet, eight and one-half inches.

American Peerage Facts.

With the marriage of the Earl of Suffolk to Miss Daisy Leiter the Americans married to peers number twenty-five. As usual, there is a great deal of foolish talk about Americanizing the peerage, new blood and other fancies of a similar kind. As a matter of fact, this number includes all the Americans, with one exception, married to peers since 1860, a period of forty-four years. Nor is this all. Ten of these ladies have no children at all, and six have no sons, so that the peerage is not likely to be Americanized yet awhile.

Louisiana's Wealth in Brimstone.

Louisiana brimstone is now added to Texas petroleum, Alabama iron, Carolina cotton goods and southern cotton, rice and sugar as a commercial article in which Dixie is a price maker and important source of supply. The sulphur mines of Louisiana produce a pure brimstone in great quantity, which can be sold in competition with that of Sicily. During September, it is stated, 28,000 tons were sold, and the market is ready to take Louisiana sulphur as fast as it can be got out. The first shipments were about 10,000 tons, which were sent to New York in July last. The Sicilian interests were slow to believe that their monopoly was threatened, but they are now, it is said, fully convinced.

Drives Spirited Horses, Rides Bicycle.

Stephen Mellinger, of Denver, Pa., does things remarkable in one who moves as he does, in continual darkness. His senses of touch and hearing are very keen. He works in the field. He sows, uses the rake and spade, helps harvest the crops, milks, climbs trees, and, what is still more remarkable, drives spirited horses and rides a bicycle.

The boy is as bright and cheerful as any of his associates. He is able to harness a horse unaided and to drive several miles to the village where the household supplies are obtained. Every morning it is his duty to hitch a horse to a milk wagon and drive a mile to Denver village. In this drive he is compelled to cross railroad tracks at two points.

Spirited horses are his delight, and two belonging to his father, which are wild for the average man to handle with safety, are used by him without a thought of danger. It is unwise for other persons than he to approach these animals. The young man does not work, ride or walk in a hesitating manner, after the usual fashion of the blind. He takes a fast horse out on the road and gallops at full speed, turning out for vehicles and other horses and rounding sharp corners without pulling up. On his wheel he rides as if possessed of full sight, and can be seen alone miles from his home.

THE SIMPLE LIFE

Ways That Are Pleasant and Paths That Are Peace.

It is the simple life that gives length of days, serenity of mind and body and tranquility of soul.

Simple hopes and ambitions, bounded by the desire to do good to one's neighbors, simple pleasures, habits, food and drink.

Men die long before their time because they try to crowd too much into their experiences—they climb too high and fall too hard. A wise woman writes of the good that a simple diet has done her:

"I have been using Grape-Nuts for about six months. I began rather sparingly, until I acquired such a liking for it that for the last three months I have depended upon it almost entirely for my diet, eating nothing else whatever but Grape-Nuts for breakfast and supper, and I believe I could eat it for dinner with fruit and be satisfied without other food, and feel much better and have more strength to do my housework.

"When I began the use of Grape-Nuts I was thin and weak, my muscles were so soft that I was not able to do any work. I weighed only 108 pounds. Nothing that I ate did me any good. I was going down hill rapidly, was nervous and miserable, with no ambition for anything. My condition improved rapidly after I began to eat Grape-Nuts food. It made me feel like a new woman; my muscles got solid, my figure rounded out, my weight increased to 120 pounds in a few weeks, my nerves grew steady and my mind better and clearer. My friends tell me they haven't seen me look so well for years.

"I consider Grape-Nuts the best food on the market, and shall never go back to meats and white bread again." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason.

THE PULPIT.

A BRILLIANT SUNDAY SERMON BY DR. THEODORE L. CUYLER.

Subject: "The Soul's Anchors."

Brooklyn, N. Y.—The Rev. Dr. Theodore L. Cuyler occupied his old pulpit in Lafayette Avenue Presbyterian Church, Lafayette avenue and South Oxford street, Sunday morning. A very large congregation was present. Dr. Cuyler, who is now in his eighty-fourth year, preached with his old-time vigor on "The Anchors of the Soul." He took as his text Acts xxvii: 29: "They cast four anchors out of the stern and wished for the day," and said:

The account of Paul's voyage to Rome is one of those graphic passages of the New Testament which never loses its interest. It not merely throws a strong light upon ancient navigation, but is strong confirmation of the truthfulness of the Acts of the Apostles, for modern nautical services have established every word of the narrative. The chief interest to us to-day is its rich, practical, spiritual instruction. The story of the storm and the shipwreck you have all been familiar with from childhood. For fourteen days the ship had been in the clutch of a terrific "blizzard," as we would call it, but which is described in the narrative as a "eurocyldon." No sun or moon or stars appeared during that terrible fortnight. For safety much of the cargo was heaved overboard and they were obliged to bind around the crazy craft with hawsers in order to keep from foundering in mid sea. They imagined they were drawing nigh to the land, and heaving the lead it tells off twenty fathoms. The next cast of the lead shows fifteen fathoms. They are now close on the lee shore. Only one maneuver can save them. They cast four anchors out of the stern, and it is a striking fact that pictures on the walls of Herculaneum and Pompeii depict the galleys anchored in that manner. What a long and dreary night was that to the drenched and weary voyagers, while they listened to the terrific thundering of the breakers on the shore. But Paul, Christ's prisoner, is on board, and he is the real master of the situation. His precious life is insured from heaven, for, remember until their work is done. It was part of God's wish that the anchors should preserve the most valuable life then on the globe until Paul's mighty mission was accomplished.

Human life is a voyage, and all of you now before me are bound on it for the judgment seat and for eternity. It is not a voyage over smooth seas and before soft, south winds. Everything under God depends on the compass and the anchors. You observe that the anchors are not attached to anything afloat, but they plunge through the waves and bite into the tenacious clay. And so it is with our spiritual anchors. Make fast to God's immutable word and to the omnipotent Saviour, the Lord Jesus Christ. An anchor, too, is unseen. And so it is with the inward union with the unseen Christ that keeps many a one safe in the hour of temptation, and brings composure to those in the depths of terrible trials. When Martin Luther was struck with a heavy head sea he used to let slip the cable of the forty-sixth psalm and, throughout the voyage of life you and I have vital need of the anchors which our divine Master, the Captain of our salvation, has provided for our safety. What are the four anchors?

The first and foremost anchor is faith. That is often defined as trust in an unseen God, and we take God's word more implicitly than we take the notes issued by the Government, because they bear the stamp of the United States with its vast resources behind it. But the mightiest spiritual force for you and me is the Christ-faith. Now, that is a great deal more than a mere opinion. Faith is infinitely more than a sentiment or feeling or opinion. It is an act; it is the positive act of the soul laying hold of Jesus Christ as our Saviour, joining our weakness to His strength; our unworthiness to His merits; our weak selves to His infinite and almighty Self. We are not commanded only to believe in Christ, we are commanded to believe on Christ, if we would be saved. A friend of mine was staying at a hotel in Albany and noticed a rope in his room and had faith in it because he saw it was a well-braided rope. At midnight he was aroused by a cry of "Fire!" On opening the door the smoke and flames burst in, and he grasped the rope and let himself down in safety to the sidewalk. He believed on the rope. That is saving faith when you rest on Christ, clinging fast to Christ, trusting in Him alone to uphold you to the end and assured of His promise. "I will never leave thee nor forsake thee." Salvation of the soul is an actual experience. It is the actual testing of Christ; the actual attachment to Christ, the actual love for Him hid in the very depths of the soul. The British Government requires all its anchors to be stamped. The eleventh chapter of Hebrews is the Holy Spirit's record of the stamps on the anchor of faith. My mother's Bible was marked all through with pencilings on the margin, proving how these various promises had been tested, and the anchor never dragged.

The second anchor is loyalty to Christ and obedience to His commandments. Every day I attach less importance to a religion of mere emotion. It is very pleasant to sing and sometimes to shout on the mountain tops, but a religion of mere emotion is subject to its ebbs and flows and is not reliable in the strain and stress of temptation. Loyalty to the teachings of Christ, loyalty to the everlasting right must be imbedded in the conscience if you and I are not to drift upon the rocks. Even faith without good works would be dead. It has been this lack of loyalty of conscience to the truth, integrity and right which has strewed the beach with so many pitiable and disgraceful wrecks. The great demand in these days is conscience; the great demand in politics is conscience, and no man is safe under the temptations of commerce or of public life when his conscience is loosened from God's commandments. God never insures a man even in the church, except while his anchor is fastened to the divine principles of right with the cable of obedience to the Master. I would say to these dear young friends, beware of the first false step; keep off dangerous ground. In Switzerland I saw the Morteratsch glacier, where Tyndall had such a perilous experience. He and a companion were lashed to a guide. They began to descend on the rough rocks and the companion suggested that they should walk on the snow alongside. They did so and their weight disturbed the equilibrium of the whole body and sent them down as an avalanche. Just before they reached the precipice the guide thrust his iron shod boot against a projecting rock and shouted, "In the name of God, halt!" They were drawn up when there was but a moment between them and eternity. I would say to every one of you, dear young men, if you find yourselves being carried away by your social surroundings or influences toward the precipice of ruin, plant your feet firmly against God's truth and God's right ere you are swept away.

The third anchor is patience. That was a tedious night of peril and gloom which laid upon Paul and his shipmates, but they held out and waited for the day. Patience is that staying power in the will which Paul in his epistle calls longmindedness. It is the power to endure a continued strain without flinching; it is the staying power that wins the prize. Mark how much of the Old Testament makes of waiting patiently upon God. In the New Testament the word often is endures, and I would say to all those dear young friends, who have lately been united with this church, that the start is not sufficient, "he that endureth shall be saved."

This patient waiting is opposed to every anxiety and the worry that fritters away strength and produces no result. I will give you three simple rules to put into practice. First, take short views; never cross a bridge until you come to it; never fight the battle until the evening is in sight. Second, discharge the duty that comes next to your hands; take the step that God points out immediately before you. If in ascending a mountain you look up you may grow weary, and if you look down you may grow dizzy. One step at a time is the secret of the successful climb, and there is noone with strength enough to bear to-day's duties with the worries and interests of to-morrow piled on top of them. Third, never yield to the demon of discouragement. You parents have need of patience with your children to encourage everything that is good, to bear with perverseness until you can correct it, instead of only increasing it by irritation. "Why do you tell that boy twenty times?" said the father of John Wesley to his brother. "Because," replied the wise man, "nineteen times go for naught and I shall not gain my point without the twentieth." Wise Susanna Wesley trained the founder of Methodism. God's delays are sometimes a test of faith. Look at that Syrophoenician woman plucking the garment of Christ. She persists, and clings to Him, until He says: "Oh, woman! great is thy faith," etc. During the first charge of my ministry I grew so discouraged that I was about to give up when my Master headed me off with one of the most powerful revivals I have known. The darkest hour was just before the dawn. Here in Brooklyn to-day God's voice to the churches evidently is to do their utmost work, to pour forth the most fervent prayer, to engage in the most personal effort and trust to Him for the blessing. The best enterprises in this world have had their periods of discouragement, when patience was the vital grace that won the day. That glorious old missionary, Judson, worked for five years in Burmah without a convert. Then the cloud burst and the great and permanent Burmah mission resulted. The lesson to-day, beloved members of this church, is: stand by the pastor, assist him in every movement, echo his every exhortation and, with united pastor and people, let us move on to spiritual harvestings and victory.

The fourth anchor is that beautiful word, hope. That is not the possession of good things; it is rather the confident expectation of good things that are assuredly in store for us. "We are saved by hope." In our spiritual life hope is vitally important. I thank God that throughout my life He has enabled me to be an inveterate hoper. The word, however, in the New Testament has sometimes a peculiar meaning in describing the Christian. The apostle, in speaking of the hope of salvation, calls it "an anchor sure and steadfast holding to that within the vale." Let me ask each one of you this morning, Where is your hope? On what are you resting for this world and the next? Is your hope an anchor fastened to the Lord Jesus, or is it only a mere cable attached to sand? That great Christian, Harmon Page, who made it a rule never to be with any one ten minutes without saying something good. He went into his Sunday-school with a note book in hand and asked each one, "Have you a hope of salvation?" Most of them gave him an affirmative answer. He came to one man, a stranger, in the adult Bible class, who shook his head and said, "I have none." Sagacious Mr. Page, instead of rebuking him, in a very pathetic tone said, "Then I will put you down as having no hope." The gentleman could not sleep that night. He said, "Page has me down in his book as a hopeless man," and he laid hold of Christ and made his decision for the Master, and the next time he met the superintendent he said, "Thank God for your plain, loving talk with me, for I have a hope now like an anchor." I cite the case of that philanthropist who came to New York as a humble carpenter, and who wrought such a work that over 100 souls were converted under him. Brother believers, let the storms of earth howl as loudly as they will, if we have committed everything to Jesus all should be well, for so it came to pass that when the daylight broke the tempest-tossed mariners on the shores of Melita come safe to land.

So it will be with us, through the night's darkness, through perilous voyages we shall each have our souls fast anchored to the universalizing Saviour, whom alone we can trust for salvation.

My last, loving counsel to every one of you before me, whom I am rejoiced to address once more from this dear old pulpit, is, make fast your anchors to the Lord Jesus Christ if at last you would find peace in the desired haven.

The Reason.

Christ came into the world, not to tell us what is right, but to give to our right doing the right flavor.—Rev. Frank Crane.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR MARCH 26.

Review of the Twelve Preceding Lessons For the First Quarter—Read John xx. 30-31—Golden Text, John xx. 31—Summary.

Lesson I. Topic: The wonderful divine Saviour. Place: Ephesus. John's gospel was written between 80 and 90 A. D. John was the only apostle living at that time. He refers to Christ as the Word of God; all things were made by Him; He was the life and the light of men; reference is made to John the Baptist, the forerunner of Christ; He was "not that light, but was sent to bear witness of that light;" Jesus was the true light.

II. Topic: The believer's true attitude toward his Lord. Place: Bethabara. A crisis had arisen in John's ministry; the Sanhedrin sent a deputation from Jerusalem to ask John who he was; John said he was not the Christ, nor Elias, nor the prophet about whom Moses had written, but he was merely a voice crying from the wilderness, "Make straight the way of the Lord." John baptized with water; Christ would baptize with the Holy Spirit; John testified concerning Jesus and called Him the Lamb of God; John did not know Christ until the time of his baptism when the Holy Ghost in the form of a dove came upon him, and the Father said, "This is My beloved Son in whom I am well pleased."

III. Topic: Jesus wins His first disciples. Place: Bethabara. John pointed Jesus out to two disciples who followed Jesus; Jesus turned and said, "What seek ye?" They asked Christ where He dwelt; Jesus said, "Come and see." Andrew found his brother Simon and brought him to Jesus; it is supposed also that John found his brother James; Jesus found Philip; Philip found Nathanael; when Philip told Nathanael that they had found the Messiah, Nathanael raised an objection; Nathanael was soon convinced that Jesus was the Messiah.

IV. Topic: Christ's first miracle. Place: Cana of Galilee. A wedding feast was being held; Christ's mother had been invited, and Christ and His disciples were invited; they needed wine at the feast; Christ's mother called His attention to the fact; He instructed the servants to fill six water pots with water; they were then told to draw out and bear to the governor of the feast; the governor praised the wine; in this miracle Christ showed forth His glory; the disciples believed that He was the Messiah.

V. Topic: Gateways into the kingdom of God. Place: Jerusalem. Nicodemus came to Jesus by night; the subject of miracles was introduced; Jesus said, "Ye must be born again;" Nicodemus failed to understand; Christ brought an illustration of the wind; also referred to the serpent Moses made in the wilderness; said that the Son of Man must be lifted up that whosoever believeth in Him should have eternal life.

VI. Topic: Vital laws of spiritual work. Place: At Jacob's well in Samaria. Jesus goes through Samaria; stops at Jacob's well; meets a woman; asks a drink; she expresses surprise; Jesus speaks of the gift of God—living water; she desires it; Jesus asks her to call her husband; she says she has none; has had five; calls Jesus a prophet; asks about place of worship; true worship must be in spirit and in truth.

VII. Topic: Christ's power to restore to life. Place: Cana in Galilee. The Galileans received Christ gladly. A nobleman of Capernaum heard that Jesus had come into Galilee and hastens to Him to entreat Him to come and heal his son; Jesus told him to return and that his son was healed; the man believed Christ's words; the son began to recover at the very hour Jesus had said, "Thy son liveth."

VIII. Topic: The Lordship of Jesus Christ. Place: Jesus went to Jerusalem to attend the feast of the Passover; Jesus saw an infirm man at the pool of Bethesda, who had been sick thirty-eight years; asked him if he desired to be made whole; the man replied that he had no one to put him into the pool; Jesus told him to rise, take up his bed and walk; the man did as he was commanded.

IX. Topic: Jesus supplying human need. Place: Near Bethsaida on the northeast shore of the Sea of Galilee. Jesus and His disciples went into a desert place to be alone; great multitudes followed them; Jesus taught them and healed their sick; in the afternoon the disciples suggested that the multitude should be sent away to buy food; Jesus decided to feed them there; a lad was found with five loaves and two fishes; five thousand men were fed besides women and children.

X. Topic: Jesus proves Himself the God-Saviour. Place: Jerusalem. It was the last day of the feast of the Tabernacles; there was a great ceremony in connection with bringing water from the pool of Siloam; near the close of the ceremony Jesus cried, "If any man thirst, let him come unto Me and drink;" He spake of the gift of the Holy Spirit.

XI. Topic: Christ's teaching respecting sin. Place: Jerusalem. Jesus delivered four discourses during His stay in Jerusalem at the time of the feast of the Tabernacles; this discourse was delivered in the court of the women, and may be divided into two parts: 1. Christ is the Son of God. 2. He has supreme authority even above Abraham. Those who accept Jesus Christ will know the truth, and the truth will make them free. The world-Saviour's doctrine respecting sin. 1. Sin leads to hypocrisy, deceives men, is slavery, is contrary to God. 2. It is cured by the word of Christ, by the truth of Christ, by the blood of Christ.

XII. Topic: Jesus Christ the light of men. Place: Jerusalem. Jesus saw a blind man; the disciples asked Christ who had sinned, this man or his parents; Jesus replied that neither this man nor his parents had sinned; makes clay of spittle; anoints the blind man's eyes; commands the man to go to the pool of Siloam and wash; he obeys; comes back seeing; his neighbors are stirred; he gives an account of his healing; is taken to the Pharisees; Jesus accused of desecrating the Sabbath. The world-Saviour is the life and light of men. The lesson shows that light (1) is needed, (2) is offered, (3) is received by some, (4) is rejected by some, (5) should be clearly reflected by those who have it.

The Attorney-General has given his opinion to the effect that school trustees in the various districts are exempt from road and jury duty and are not required to pay poll tax.

A CORRESPONDENT from Texas wants to know how our farmers are getting on in Chilton. Our belief is that the farmers in Chilton are getting on fully as well as farmers in Texas. The progressive farmer in Alabama moves with the times and is quite as prosperous as his compeer anywhere. Speaking for the farmers of Chilton particularly, we believe they are cutting the acreage in cotton considerably, and are raising home supplies. Under such circumstances the progressive farmer is bound to be prosperous.

ONE of the good results of the Cotton Growers' Association is manifested in the offer of Mr. J. D. Sims, published in this issue of The Banner, and if others will do likewise there is no doubt of the ultimate success of the movement to hold cotton for a fair price. Mr. Sims shows his faith in the organization, in his brother farmer, and in himself. Read his offer.

AN important step toward a County Fair was taken at the last meeting of the Chilton County Cotton Association, and it largely rests with the committee, of which Mr. Wilson Sorrell is chairman, to carry out the idea to a successful conclusion. But the committee are entitled to, and must have, the cordial support and co-operation of all our people, then we can have such a fair that will be a credit to the county, instructive to the people, and withal a pleasureable time.

The Banner has much pleasure in announcing that we will give a prize of $25, and have so notified Chairman Sorrell. Now let us all work harmoniously together and have the best county fair ever held in Alabama.

The announcement is made by the New Orleans Progressive Union that a call will be issued for a convention of mayors of every town in Louisiana and Mississippi, to meet in New Orleans at an early date to discuss the question of turning the tide of immigration into the South through the New Orleans gateway. This is the outcome of the successful effort made to establish at New Orleans a big Southern immigration station where the great overflow of homeseekers from European countries can be received, and instead of being turned loose in New York, Boston and Philadelphia, and the over-crowded East, can be freed at once in the great agricultural sections of the country. It is the purpose to enlarge the movement so as to include Texas, Oklahoma and Indian Territory, Alabama, Arkansas, Tennessee, Georgia, Florida, South and North Carolina and even Virginia, despite its proximity to New York. The site for the immigration station has been selected at Port Calumette, just below the city and the cost of its construction will be largely defrayed by the various trunk lines of railroads centering here.

CHILTON CO. COTTON ASSO'N

Clanton, March 16, 1905

The Chilton County branch of the S. C. A. was called to order by President, W. H. Conway, who introduced Hon. J. H. Harris of Chambers county.

Mr. Harris came to Clanton at the request of President W. H. Seymour, who had been invited by County President Conway and others to lecture to the Chilton County branch of the Association.

Mr. Harris made a very instructive speech and answered several questions to the satisfaction of all concerned.

Judge Reynolds moved that the chair appoint a committee on order of business for the day. Carried. Chairman Conway appointed W. S. Cox, T. J. Jackson, J. W. Sorrell, T. L. Robinson, F. A. Gulledge, L. H. Reynolds and A. C. Smith as committee. Motion prevailed that the meeting adjourn until 1 p.m.

At a little after 1 p.m. Chairman Conway called the meeting to order after which Mr. Harris explained some points of Constitution and By-Laws of the Association.

Next the Districts were called and the names of delegates enrolled, after which the Secretary called the roll of delegates. Thirty-six disticts being represented.

The chair, being informed that the committee on the order of the day was ready to report, called on F. A. Gulledge to read report of committee, the report being as follows:

To the Cotton Association of Chilton County—Greeting:

We, your committee, beg leave to report the following as a basis of your action today.

1. That a man of capacity and in thorough accord with the movement now on foot, be employed to address each election precinct at once, making speeches at night only, after giving full notice of such address to be made, his perdiem to be fixed here to-day, by this meeting.

2. That an executive committee be appointed by Chairman of this meeting, one from each election precinct and we would suggest that one of the duties of said Executive Committee should be to arrange for a county fair to be held in Clanton during the fall of the present year.

3. We further suggest that each and every one who is attending this meeting today shall constitute himself as a committee of one to urge his neighbors and friends to hold cotton now on hand and reduce his cotton acreage as per action of the meeting held in New Orleans Jan. 24-26.

4. We further recommend that the Lecturer referred to shall organize each election precinct and report weekly to the County Chairman.

Committee—F. A. Gulledge, W. S. Cox, T. J. Jackson, J. W. Sorrell, T. L. Robinson, L. H. Reynolds, A. C. Smith.

After reading report of committee, J. J. Grant moved that the report be adopted, which was carried after discussion by Uncle Joe Harris, Judson Strock, F. A. Gulledge, W. C. Edler and others.

Question asked by W. A. Wood as to the disposition of fees. Responded to by Uncle Joe Harris.

The Executive Committee was appointed as follows:

J. W. Sorrell	Beat 1	Jemison
W. H. Killingsworth	" 2	Jemison
W. A. Wood	" 3	Maplesville
Tipton Mullins	" 4	Clanton
J. A. Mitchell	" 5	Verbena
Madison Popwell	" 6	Clanton
Young Nix	" 7	Maplesville
R. P. Kendrick	" 8	Pletcher
W. A. Mims	" 9	Clanton
J. M. Grant	" 10	Cooper
W. S. Cox	" 11	Clanton

Motion prevailed that County Lecturer be allowed $3.50 per day for time to give one lecture in each election precinct.

J. A. Mitchell was elected as County Lecturer and organizer by aclamation. Moved by J. S. Jones that F. A. Gulledge make a report of State meeting held at Montgomery Feb. 21. Carried.

Mr. Gulledge made a very full report of actions of the Montgomeey meeting.

Motion prevailed that the next County meeting be held at Clanton on the 1st Saturday of May next.

W. H. CONWAY, Chm.
J. N. DENNIS, Secretary.

So much favorable comment was made on Mr. Gulledge's exhibition of live stock at Clanton last week, that we thought a description of the animals would be interesting, and so wrote to Mr Gulledge, receiving the following reply:

Verbena, March 20, 1905

Editor Banner—In accordance with your request of 9th inst., I give below an account of the cattle I had in Clanton on the 16th, viz.:

One pure bred and registered Red Poll bull 3 years old, weight 1470 pounds. The Red Poll cattle are noted as beef, milk and butter producers, the bulls attaining a weight as high as 2500 pounds, the cows 1500 pounds, and giving as high as 6 gallons milk a day and from 2 to 3 pounds butter. This breed is best known in the following States: New York, Iowa, Ohio and Kentucky, but well known in other States. One pure bred and registered Short Horn bull 3 years old, weight 1520 pounds. Also two pure bred and registered cows and two calves. Also one pure bred cross (Short Horn and Hereford) and one ⅞ Short Horn cow. These cattle are noted also all over the world as an all-purpose cow. That is the "Bates" Short Horn, this strain being both fine for beef and heavy milkers. The "Scotch" Short Horn not being noted except for beef. All mine are "Bates" blood.

The Short Horn bulls growing to the enormous weight of 2400 to 3000 pounds; the cows from 1200 to 2000 pounds. This breed took second prize at the St. Louis World's Fair in 1904 as both milk and butter cattle, giving as high as 52 pounds or 7½ gallons a day and 2¾ pounds butter per day. They are also noted for their docility, being kind and gentle. They often kill out as high as 62 to 65 pounds net beef to the hundred gross weight. I also had two pure bred and registered Hereford cows and one calf. This breed of cattle are noted all over the world as beef cattle, being among the finest grazers, very compact and killing out well. They are also noted as rapid breeders, often dropping calves within ten months of each other, all white faces, and as to individuality surpass all other breeds except—probably the "Aberdeen Angus."

The cattle I had on exhibition cost me as follows: Two Hereford cows, $228 and $260 respectively; Red Poll bull, $88.90 at 5 months old; the Short Horn bull, $178 at 22 months old; the grade Short Horn cows $47.50 and $62.50 respectively, at 2½ years old; the Short Horn cows at $120 and $250 respectively.

I did not buy these cattle on speculation, but to introduce a good thing into our county. The calves I offered at $50 each I did not care to sell, as the price was about or less than half they would bring if in the West. Let any farmer write to the West and price pure bred and registered (choicely bred) Short Horn calves. Let them go to Auburn, Ala., on the 30th and 31st of this month and see Northern cattle sell, it will pay any man to go and see for himself, he can get cut rate on railroad by taking receipt for his money when he buys ticket.

Remember, this is no advertisement, don't care to sell any of my cattle, but is simply a response to your enquiry. F. A. GULLEDGE.

THE above picture of the man and fish is the trademark of Scott's Emulsion, and is the synonym for strength and purity. It is sold in almost all the civilized countries of the globe.

If the cod fish became extinct it would be a world-wide calamity, because the oil that comes from its liver surpasses all other fats in nourishing and life-giving properties. Thirty years ago the proprietors of Scott's Emulsion found a way of preparing cod liver oil so that everyone can take it and get the full value of the oil without the objectionable taste. Scott's Emulsion is the best thing in the world for weak, backward children, thin, delicate people, and all conditions of wasting and lost strength.

We congratulate Mr. R. T. Grant on his article in last issue of the Banner. If Chilton had more such men as Mr. Grant and Mr. Gulledge we would get along much better, But you can't do for people that won't do for themselves, for some fellow will bob up and say he is out for what there is in it for him and not for us farmers. For instance, the Cooper fellew, whose article appeared a few weeks ago, and asked Mr. Gulledge to quit talking so much unless cotton was a better price. Am sure the writer of that would be afraid to buy some of Mr. Gulledge's dollars at 95¢ each, yes, even at 75¢ he would be afraid he would lose in the deal. Persons of this disposition should hereafter withhold their communications if it be to criticise some good object that is being devised. Well, so much for that. Will give local news and then I will desist.

The temperance lecture at the M. E. church last Wednesday night by Miss Cora E. Martin of Tennessee, was enjoyed by all present. Miss Martin is well versed on her subject, and no one became wearied during her two hours speech.

Mr. W. J. Evans, a highly respected and well-to-do farmer, died at his home one mile north of here, Thursday. Had been sick for several months.

Rev. Mr. Hudson filled his regular appointment at the Baptist church Sunday.

Mr. Ralph Falkner of Montgomery visited his father here last week.

Mr. C. W. Robinson of Thorsby was here Friday.

Best wishes to the Banner. x.

Billingsley.

Spring arrived here Sunday night and brought a great shower of rain with her.

Rev. H. R. Schramm of Deatsville filled his regular appointment here Sunday.

Mrs. Williams and Miss Etta Mae Roper made a business trip to Montgomery the past week.

Miss Lillian Marlar and little neice, Mary Lodge, are visiting Selma.

Quite a crowd from here attended a concert at Vida Friday night, and report everything stolen that they carried. Guess if they had stayed until it was over their horses would have been gone. That speaks bad for someone, if that is why they go to such places it would be better for them to stay away. While all honest and good people are enjoying themselves, they are out seeing what they can get. Oh! beware of such deeds.

Miss Jessie Armstrong of Deatsville visited her sister Miss Hortence Sunday. We regret very much to have to give Miss Hortence up as our teacher, as during her short stay with us we have learned to love her so dearly. She will leave next Sunday for Troy, where she will take a review course. We truly hope this will not be her last time with us as a teacher.

We have organized a Baptist Young Peoples Union here, and it is progressing nicely, President A. Cole Felton had an excellent essay on "Serving God in our daily lives," Sunday; we hope to have more pieces like that one.

We were indeed very sorry to hear of the death of Mrs. Kate Moss (nee Owens) of Reform, last week. For the past two years she has been our music teacher here. None knew her but to love her. She was married on May 25, 1904, to Mr. W. W. Moss of Elrod. She was a sweet, pious girl, a most devoted teacher, and an affectionate wife, and our deepest sympathies go out to her bereaved husband and sweet little babe whom she left to mourn her loss. God does everything for the best, but we can't see why such a devoted couple could be parted for the best, "Not now, but in the coming years it may be in a better land, we will read the meaning of our tears and there, oh there, we will understand."

N. Watkins, Lesbus Ky., says: "I can testify to the efficacy of Kodol in the cure of Stomach Trouble. I was afflicted with Stomach Trouble for fifteen years and have taken six bottles of your Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, which entirely cured me. The six bottles were worth $1.000 to me." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will digest any quantity of all the wholesome food you want to eat while your stomach takes a rest—recuperates and grows strong. Dated at office this 25th day of February, 1905.

J. M. MORGAN,
Sheriff of Chilton County.

Proper Treatment of Pneumonia.

Pneumonia is too dangerous a disease for anyone to attempt to doctor himself, although he may have the proper remedies at hand. A physician should always be called. It should be borne in mind, however, that pneumonia always results from a cold or from an attack of the grip, and that by giving Chamberlains Cough Remedy the threatened attack of pneumonia may be warded off. This Remedy is also used by physicians in the treatment of pneumonia with the best results. Dr. W. J. Smith, of Sanders, Ala., who is also a druggist, says of it: "I have been selling Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and prescribing it in my practice for the past six years. I use it in cases of pneumonia and have always gotten results." Sold by Upchurch Drug co. Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

GENERAL STATE NEWS.

Current News Garnered as It Falls From the Plant of Report.

Seized by Tebbetts.

Mobile, Ala.—Collector of customs William F. Tebbetts, of the Mobile district, seized a million tickets for the Honduras National Lottery Company, and at the same time notified General W. L. Cabell and Messrs. W. Bollumet and James Ray, alleged officials of the company, to appear at his office. The collector refused to discuss the matter, but it is known the seizure is the result of correspondence that has been going on for some time with Washington.

The tickets were on board the steamer Hiram that reached here from Honduras, and the same vessel brought the alleged officials of the company.

The company has been operating in this city for years, and the tickets were to be had by any person who could pay the price. No secret was made of the existence of the company, and the seizure has created a big sensation.

Suicided Over Death of Daughter.

Gadsden, Ala.—Crazed with grief at the death of his little girl, Sam Mayes, a well-known farmer, committed suicide at the Commercial Hotel by swallowing about four ounces of laudanum Ever since his daughter's death he had told his friends he had dreamed of her as dressed in white and beckoning to him. He declared, "I will be with her soon."

Mr. Mayes had eaten a quantity of canned meat, and it was at first thought that this had caused his death. The discovery of the empty laudanum bottle and the further development that he had bought the poison a few days ago disproved this theory. It was shown that he had been drinking heavily. He leaves a widow and several children.

Residence is Robbed.

Birmingham, Ala.—A new suit of clothes, valued at $25, two ladies' skirts, collars, shirts, a sack of Graham flour, knives, forks and spoons are some of the articles taken by thieves from the residence of P. H. Moore at No. 722 Twenty-third street, north, Friday. The house was robbed some time between 11 a. m. and 1 p. m.

Mrs. Moore was absent from home at the time, and the robbery was discovered by a little son, when he returned from the Powell school about 1 o'clock. Mr. Moore reported the matter to the police and detectives are at work on it.

Arrested for Counterfeiting.

Montgomery, Ala.—In the arrest of John Miller, who was committed to the Montgomery county jail by United States Commissioner John A. Elmore, it is believed by H. B. Mills, a secret service agent, that a notorious counterfeiter has been brought to justice.

Miller was captured in Uniontown by Mr. Mills after he had been traced by the secret service agent from Mississippi. Mr. Mills says that he has evidence that Miller passed counterfeit silver dollars.

The prisoner appeared in the court room with handcuffs on his wrists. He was stolid and did not say a word further than to plead not guilty to the charge. His bond was fixed at $500, in default of which he was committed to the county jail.

Crawford Sheriff of Houston County.

Montgomery, Ala.—The governor has appointed N. B. Crawford sheriff of Houston county, to succeed C. E. Walker, deceased.

Big Fire at Opp.

Opp, Ala.—The stock of dry goods, groceries and hardware of Mizell & Benton, of this place, was totally destroyed by fire Wednesday night. The total loss of Mizell & Benton is estimated at about $25,000. The damage to adjoining firms will be very large also.

H., T. & D. Road.

Decatur, Ala.—After slumbering for some time new life and new interest has been awakened in the Helena, Tupelo and Decatur railroad. Recently Major E. C. Finley, one of the directors of St. Louis, and R. H. Phillips, a well-known civil engineer of St. Louis, came here and went over a portion of the survey for the purpose of making arrangements to make a final survey as soon as the weather will permit.

This is more than a paper road, as it has been surveyed several times and charters have been secured through Alabama and Mississippi, and much of the right of way has been secured.

More Fertilizer is Sold.

Thomasville, Ala.—One of the leading merchants of this place estimates that there will be 200 tons more fertilizer sold from this station than last year. We cannot say as to the acreage. If it is at other points like it is in this section will show up the farmers' agreement through the New Orleans convention as a burlesque on reduction of 25 per cent.

Wants Receiver for Railroad.

Montgomery, Ala.—A petition was filed with Judge A. D. Sayre, of the city court in equity, by Phares Coleman, attorney for Henry B. Gray, asking that a receiver be appointed for the South and North Railroad Company and asking that the petition be set for a hearing. Judge Sayre has as yet taken no action.

Mr. Gray's original bill of complaint in this court prayed for a receiver, but did not demand same. The object of the petition is to carry this prayer into effect.

A Conductor Injured.

An accident occurred on the Western railroad that may result in the death of Conductor I. B. Williamson.

The conductor was knocked out of his caboose, and was so painfully injured that his recovery is doubtful. At Louise, Ga., a station six miles this side of Hogansville, he leaned outside of his caboose trying to discover the cause of a rattling under the car in front. He leaned too far out, and was struck and knocked to the ground by a switch stand. He was in charge of fast freight No. 212, which left Montgomery for Atlanta Tuesday night. His train went on to Hogansville, where it took the sidetrack for train No. 35, which reached Montgomery at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning. It was discovered then that Conductor Williamson was missing, and the fact was reported to the crew of the passenger train.

At Louise they found the body of the conductor lying on the ground by the switch stand. He was covered with blood, his head being badly crushed and one arm and one leg broken. He was carried to La Grange where he received the services of the best surgeons, but at last accounts he was in a very critical condition.

Southern to Build to Stevenson.

Scottsboro, Ala.—In railroad circles here there seems little ground for doubt that the Southern will commence at an early date the laying of its own tracks from Chattanooga to Stevenson, a distance of thirty-eight miles, and will allow its present lease from the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railway to expire. The taking of any such step on the part of the Southern will be tantamount to a declaration that the Louisville and Nashville railroad, which controls the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis tracks, is ready to build its own bridge across the Tennessee river at Decatur.

The great difficulty of the Southern railway obtaining admission to Chattanooga from the south is the trouble in getting around Lookout mountain. Railroad experts say that a long tunnel will be necessary. Attaches of the Louisville and Nashville railroad tacitly admit that it is the intention of that road to build its own bridge at Decatur.

Received Swift Justice.

Huntsville, Ala.—Swift justice will be meted out to the negro prisoners who attempted to burn down the Madison county jail Monday night in order to effect their escape. The six men were arraigned before Justice C. N. Vaught. Cleveland Harris and Robert Otey pleaded guilty, both being sentenced to six months at hard labor. The two defendants admitted that they tore up their mattresses and bunks and started a fire on the floor of their cell, hoping to burn the jail. Four other prisoners in the cell took no part in the transaction.

Postmaster Held for Embezzlement.

Mobile, Ala.—William McDonald, postmaster at Platteau, Ala., is in jail here awaiting a hearing on the charge of embezzling postoffice money order funds. He was arested by a special agent of the postoffice department and brought to Mobile.

Got Stolen Watch.

Birmingham, Ala.—Detectives have recovered a valuable gold watch which was stolen in Montgomery three years ago. The watch was recovered in a loan shop in Birmingham, and according to the statements made by the pawn broken the time piece was placed in his establishment by a prominent citizen of Blocton, who claims that the watch was given him as a Christmas present in 1902. Numbers in the watch tally with the description given by the Montgomery police.

Dave Fleming, the owner of the watch, accompanied by C. L. Ruth, is here to identify it.

Fine Plantation is Sold.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—The Hemphill plantation, fourteen miles south of this city, was bought by Henry King, the compensation being $21,000. The land is located on the Warrior river and is considered one of the most valued plantations in this section. The property was bought from R. C. Hemphill, a prominent wholesale broker in Birmingham.

Good Prospect for Strawberries.

Cullman, Ala.—As to strawberries, Cullman has never had a better prospect for a good crop. If the nice weather now prevailing continues the early varieties will be ready for the market by April 15. These early varieties are now in bloom and are in fine shape. If there is no heavy frost in April the crop will be the largest Cullman has ever had. The increase in acreage will add considerably to the crop's volume. The general farmer in Cullman county is in good shape and is making a good start on the year's work. Since the February cold spell the farmers have had good seasons for work and have taken advantage of every good day.

First Cotton Warehouse.

Birmingham, Ala.—Birmingham is to have the first cotton warrant warehouse in the south. The Warrant Warehouse Company was organized Friday, with cotton merchants, manufacturers, bankers and capitalists among the stockholders.

The company has bought from Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Stevens and associates the old fire brick property on Thirty-fifth street between Avenue A and the Southern railway. This site is 400 by 480 feet and it is understood that the price paid was $40,000.

Construction work will begin at once and the warehouse will be finished by the fall in time for the next crop.

Three Coal Companies.

Montgomery, Ala.—The Premium Coal Company, of Birmingham, with a capital stock of $20,000, has filed with Secretary of State E. R. McDavid a notice of its incorporation. The incorporators of the company are R. W. Jackson, G. M. Bowers and L. G. Bowers.

The American Coal and Mining Co. with a capital stock of $10,000 and main office in Birmingham, also filed notice of its incorporation. The incorporators are E. C. Hartsell, James A. Ware and John H. Miller.

The Red Star Coal Company, of Walker county, gave notice of an increase of its capital stock from $20,000 to $75,000.

Bleachery Ready for Operation.

Gadsden, Ala.—The bleachery of the Adams knitting mill has been completed. R. L. Adams, owner of the mills, said that the completion of this addition was only a part of his plans, as eventually he would install yarn-making machinery so as to produce the manufactured product direct from the raw cotton. The knitting department is now employing twenty-five people, and it will be added to from time to time until the number of operatives will be at least doubled. The yarn mill when built will use about a bale of cotton per day, and it is very likely that rope-making machinery will be added.

Tragic Death of Mrs. R. L. Williams.

Jasper, Ala.—Word has been received here of the tragic death of Mrs. John R. Williams at her home ten miles north of here. The accident occurred about midnight at her own home. It seems that she got up in the night and walked to a bureau, taking from a drawer a revolver. Before her frightened husband could reach her she fired deliberately at herself, the bullet penetrating the brain. Death ensued in a few moments. She leaves a family of several children.

Ohio Man Was Killed.

Montgomery, Ala.—A special says that letters on the person of a man killed by a passenger train at Wilcox Station, Ala., show that his name is Mowry K. Wilder, of 354 West Mulberry street, Springfield Ohio. The body was buried at Evergreen, Ala., the police being unable to communicate with relatives of the deceased.

Killed at Steel Plant.

Ensley, Ala.—Will Outlaw, white, was killed accidentally in the steel plant here. He leaves a widow, parents, several sisters and brothers. He was quite popular in Ensley. He belonged to the Maccabees and other orders. He was caught accidentally in some of the heavy machinery about the plant and crushed to death.

Rebuilding Burned District.

Athens, Ala.—Work of rebuilding the burned district is now getting under way and brick is being placed on the ground preparatory to rebuilding the destroyed buildings, and they will be handsome structures and will add very much to the town's appearance. It is hoped to have them ready for occupancy in a few months.

Repairing Virginia Mines.

Bessemer, Ala.—The work of repairing the Virginia mine has been started, and inside of another two weeks it is stated everything will be in readiness for a steady operation again of the plant.

New Editor for Tradesman.

Huntsville, Ala.—Col. N. F. Thompson has just returned from New York city, where he met Adolph S. Ochs and George W. Ochs and closed a contract with them to become editor of the Chattanooga Tradesman. Colonel Thompson will take charge of the Tradesman at once, and his wide acquaintance in industrial circles will enable him to contribute to the influence of the publication.

CONTINUE TO RETREAT

Japs Pursuing the Enemy and Are in High Glee—Kuroki's Army Leads.

DO NOT STOP TO BURY DEAD.

Chinese Population Fears the Japs and Families Accompanying the Fleeing Russians.

Gunshu Pass.—(About 165 miles north of Mukden.)—The first army, which has been covering the retreat of the Russian forces from the south, is withdrawing slowly, checking comparatively light attacks by the Japanese. The Japanese are conducting a flanking operation on the right, and from the Russian column Japanese batteries are visible, keeping pace a short distance away.

The Red Cross detachments at all of the intermediate points to Harbin are working night and day, co-operating, bandaging and feeding the wounded.

The Chinese are leaving Gunshu Pass for Kirin and the labor question is, therefore, growing critical, though they receive the unprecedentedly high wages of 40 to 50 cents a day.

On Saturday, while the correspondent was proceeding almost with the rear guard, he stopped at a Chinese village, where several natives came to the commanding officer and asked for permission to accompany the column with their families, saying the women feared the Japanese, who treated them worse than they did the Chinese bandits. Practically the entire village accepted the officer's permission to accompany the rear guard.

The Japanese have ordered all Chinese in Mukden having Russian money to appear at the police station and exchange paper and silver money for Japanese notes issued specially for Manchuria.

The mistake was made before the destruction of several Russian commissariat depots of issuing the spoils to private soldiers to whom officers had given requisition slips.

Kuroki's Army Leads.

General Kuroki's Army, in the Field, via Fusan—General Kuroki's army continues to lead the Japanese forces, which have now been engaged for nine days in hard pursuit, in which they have covered a distance of more than ninety-five miles with frequent fighting.

The weather in the mountains is very cold, with frequent hard storms.

The brigade in advance occupied Tie Pass Wednesday after a brief engagement.

The Russian retreat became more disorganized daily after the storm During the first day the Russians buried their dead, but since then they have left the dead wherever they fell. Tuesday the Russians made an attempt at resistance in entrenchments north of the Hun river, but abandoned them after they had been shelled for two hours.

General Kuroki's army captured the colors of the Fifth regiment of rifles. The colors were inscribed as having been presented to the regiment by the Emperor in 1834. Most of the captured organizations succeeded in burning their standards before surrendering. A few prisoners are secured daily.

It is reported that during General Kuropatkin's resistance at Tower Hill on the first day's battle, he was slightly wounded by an 11-inch shell which fell near him.

The Chinese officials receive the Japanese generals and soldiers with banners at most of the large towns entered.

Linevitch Reports.

St. Petersburg—Commander-in-Chief Linevitch, in a telegram dated Saturday, says:

"On March 17 Japanese batteries bombarded our divisions in the valleys of Tavanpun and Yanpu. The enemy appeared near Kaotaitse (on the railroad about twenty-two miles north of Tie Pass), and their cavalry has occupied Fakaman. Our armies continue their concentration."

Bright for the Japs.

General Kuroki's Headquarters, in the Field—Everything now appears to be in favor of the Japanese. They have a magnificent army in the highest spirits, which is rapidly recuperating from the effects of the recent battle and is fully equipped with everything necessary for Manchurian campaigning, together with several lines of communication. The best season of the year is before them.

Retreat to Harbin.

General Kuroki's Headquarters in the Field, via Fusan.—The gain of the strongest natural position on the entire railroad, where much money and labor was expended in defenses under General Kuropatkin's personal direction, without a battle, was hardly expected. All indications point to a continuance of the retreat of the Russians to Harbin.

Kailynan Evacuated.

Tokio—Headquarters of the Japanese armies in the field, reporting under today's date, says:

"Our detachment, continuing its advance north, pursued the enemy to Kaiiyuan (some twenty miles north of Tie Pass). Kaiiyuan was evacuated by the enemy on Saturday, after he had retired to the railroad station."

Retreat North Continued.

With the Japanese Army, in the Field, via Fusan—The Russian army continues its northern retreat, the Japanese following. They have occupied Fakaman to the northwest of Tie Pass. Yesterday evening the Russian cavalry camped three miles south of Kaiiyuan. Large Russian columns are retreating toward this place from the southwest. The natives report that they are not stopping there, where the hills make a defense possible. If the retreat is forced it probably will be continued to Harbin. The Russians are reported as being badly disorganized.

Hammond, Ind.—Erie railroad train No. 7, known as the Pacific Express, while running at the rate of sixty miles an hour, near Winfield Station plunged down a twenty-foot embankment, injuring twelve people, two of whom may die.

The wreck was caused by the auxiliary dropping into a switch frog, which caught the front trucks of the tender. The engine remained on the track, but six cars toppled over and rolled down the embankment.

Given Commission.

Carrollton, Ga.—Edgar A. Turner, of this place, has received a commission as second lieutenant in the Chinese reform army. The commission was signed by General R. A. Falkenburg, general in command, of San Francisco.

The leaders of this movement are Gen. R. A. Falkenburg, general in command; Captain Hong Ching, of San Francisco, chief of staff, and Hon. George B. Cole, ex-representative in the United States congress from Seattle, Wash., judge advocate. This movement has been on foot for about four years, and its headquarters are in San Francisco. Mr. Turner served three years in the United States army in the Philippine islands, and came home about a year ago, his term of service having expired.

Mr. Turner has not decided as yet as to whether or not he will accept this commission.

Steamer Aground.

Block Island, R. I.—The steamer Spartan of the Boston and Philadelphia Steamship Company, ran aground on the southeastern end of Block Island during a fog Sunday, while on her way from Providence to Philadelphia. A 15-foot hole was stove in the ship's bow and soon the vessel sank so deep that her decks were awash. Sunday the vessel is rapidly breaking up. The crew of twenty-three remained aboard the ship during the day, but were taken off at night. Wreckers have been sent to lighten the cargo.

The ship Spartan is a steel ship of 1,596 gross tons.

Balloonists Hurt.

Wallace, Idaho—W. A. Middlekarf was killed and L. M. Odell seriously injured internally by falling out of a balloon while giving a double ascension here. Both men were seated in parachutes and when they had ascended 200 feet the lower part of the balloon tore away. The parachutes failed to open and both fell among the spectators with terrific force. A young boy was caught by the falling balloon and badly burned.

Middlekarf had nearly every bone in his body broken, while Odell had none broken.

Animal Trainer Killed.

Waco, Tex.—John G. Nelson, aged 25, one of the widest known animal trainers in the country, was instantly killed while taking down a tower of an exhibiting show by a guy wire crossing a light cable. The entire voltage entered his body, causing instant death. He leaves a widow and child in Iowa. Nelson made a specialty of educating ponies and dogs.

Twenty-four Killed.

Fire Creek, W. Va.—In the two explosions in the Red Ash and Rush Run mines here Saturday night at least twenty-four men were killed, ten of the dead being members of a rescue party, who were caught by the second explosion in the Rush Run mine.

Dolphin at Charleston.

Charleston, S. C.—The dispatch boat Dolphin arrived here Sunday and is waiting for Secretary of the Navy Paul Morton and party, who will embark for Guantanamo, Cuba.

Selma, Ala.—Unknown men robbed the fast freight train between here and Mobile early Saturday morning of several hundred dollars' worth of clothing. A car on the train loaded with clothes was broken into and for twenty miles along the side of the road clothing was thrown out to the value of $100. The passenger train following picked up a quantity of the clothing, which was of fine material. No clue to the thieves has yet been obtained.

Mrs. Pinkham:—

About nine months ago I was a great sufferer with womb trouble, which caused me pain, extreme nervousness and frequent headaches, from which the doctor failed to relieve me. I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and within a short time felt better, and after taking five bottles of it I was entirely cured. I therefore heartily recommend your Compound as a splendid uterine tonic. It makes the monthly periods regular and without pain; and what a blessing it is to find such a remedy after so many doctors fail to help you. I am pleased to recommend it to all suffering women."—Mrs. Sara Wilson, 31 East 3d Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

If you have suppressed or painful menstruation, weakness of the stomach, indigestion, bloating, leucorrhœa, flooding, nervous prostration, dizziness, faintness, "don't-care" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feeling, excitability, backache or the blues, these are sure indications of female weakness, some derangement of the uterus or ovarian trouble. In such cases there is one tried and true remedy—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Peruna crossed the Equator several years ago, to find in the Southern Hemisphere the same triumphant success that has marked its career in the Northern Hemisphere.

A Standard.

Peruna is a standard catarrh remedy the world over.

It cures catarrh by eradicating it from the system.

Permanent Cure.

It obviates the necessity of all local treatment and its relief is of permanent character.

Without a Peer.

No other remedy has so completely dominated the whole earth as Peruna.

In Every Tongue.

In all languages its glowing testimonials are written.

In all climes the demands for Peruna increase.

An Extensive Laboratory.

To supply this remedy to the whole world taxes to the utmost one of the best laboratories in the United States.

A Word From Australia.

Walter H. Woodward, Bomadier Royal Australian Artillery, Hobart, Tasmania, writes:

"I suffered for several years with a distressing condition of the head and throat, caused by continual colds.

"My head and nostrils were stopped up most of the time and there was a discharge, and my sense of smell was affected badly.

"After two weeks' use of Peruna I found this condition quite changed, and so I continued to use this remarkable medicine for over a month.

"I am very glad to say that at the end of that time I was cured and felt in fine health generally, and am pleased to give Peruna my honest endorsement."

From Hawaii.

Prince Jonah Kalanianaole, delegate in Congress from Hawaii, writes from Washington, D. C., as follows:

"I can cheerfully recommend your Peruna as a very effective remedy for coughs, colds and catarrhal troubles."

A Cuban Minister.

Senor Quesada, Cuban Minister to the United States, writes from Washington, D. C., as follows:

"Peruna, I can recommend as a very good medicine. It is an excellent strengthening tonic, and is also an efficacious cure for the almost universal complaint of catarrh."—Gonzalo De Quesada.

From All Quarters of the Globe.

We have on file thousands of testimonials like those given above. We can give our readers only a slight glimpse of the vast number of grateful letters Dr. Hartman is constantly receiving from all quarters of the globe in behalf of his famous catarrh remedy, Peruna.

Let Common Sense Decide

Do you honestly believe, that coffee sold loose (in bulk), exposed to dust, germs and insects, passing through many hands (some of them not over-clean), "blended," you don't know how or by whom, is fit for your use? Of course you don't. But is another story. The green berries, selected by keen judges at the plantation, are skillfully roasted at our factories, where precautions you would not dream of are taken to secure perfect cleanliness, flavor, strength and uniformity.

From the time the coffee leaves the factory no hand touches it till it is opened in your kitchen.

This has made LION COFFEE the LEADER OF ALL PACKAGE COFFEES.

Millions of American Homes welcome LION COFFEE daily. There is no stronger proof of merit than continued and increasing popularity. "Quality survives all opposition."

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

Special correspondence to The Banner.

Washington, March 20, 1905

Another of the things discussed here by the Democratic members of congress just before adjournment and since, and discussed with considerable solicitude, is the future of the Democratic party. This, of course, is interesting to all Democrats and all good citizens, for two parties in this country are essential to the health of the republic. The Democratic party is immortal and will last as long as the republic endures. Many a time it has been shot at and bedeviled and defeated, and all but wiped off the face of the earth, and the announcement has been solemnly made that the Democratic party was dead; but when they came to bury it the corpse was not forthcoming. The party defeated last Fall under the name of the Democratic party was not the real Democratic party of this country. That party is still in good health, still undismayed, still militant, and its hosts are beginning to marshal in serried ranks under the banner of leaders who are honest to the core, who are honest with the people, who believe in the real reforms the people demand, who have nothing in common with the plutocracy and who will fight it with all their might, and who will be found in the forefront of the battle in the next campaign leading on the Democratic hosts; and waving on the firing line will be the plumes of those two warriors for the people's rights, the Hon. William Jennings Bryan and the Hon. William Randolph Hearst.

This is the honest concensus of opinion here among some of the leading Democrats. It has been formed deliberately after looking at the disastrous defeat which followed an attempt on the part of the Wall Street Democracy or more properly the plutocracy, to lead the Democratic party. Many Democratic leaders here believe it would be suicide indeed to allow the same coalition to continue and attempt another campaign under the same auspices. The only thing to do then is to depose the men who at present are at the head of the party and place the conduct of the party's affairs in the hands of the real leaders of the party in this country. The people believe in the honesty of purpose of both Bryan and Hearst, and they will follow where they lead. Mr. Hearst says he is not a candidate for anything on the face of the earth and will not be again, but any one who doubts that he will be a formidable factor in the next fight for the people, would better dispel such doubt right now With his papers he is every day fighting the battles of the people and he will continue until he is in at the death of unjust discriminations and criminal trusts. The party cannot exist half plutocratic and half democratic, and the leaders here think that the only thing to do is to make it all democratic at the earliest practicable moment. They feel that the recruits from the ranks of the thousands of honest Republicans who favor reforms in the interest of the people, will far outnumber the desertions on the part of the Eastern plutocrats who will go into the Republican party where they naturally belong and where they will find congenial company.

Every man who believes in special privileges will finally get into the Republican party, and every man who does not so believe will naturally gravitate to the Democratic party and he will stay there. You cannot fool all the people all the time. I said many things similar to the above in this correspondence a year ago and before the campaign opened. I am not one of those who say "I told you so," when the party in convention assembled did not agree with me, but I do say that I said them then, because I was here on the ground and understood the situation and knew what I was talking about and knew it was the truth. Results proved that correct and that the people not stand for a sham. Many tors would not print my year ago because they believe me and thought that crazy. What was true then as true now. I am not prophet, but giving to the cratic press of the country the of my observation and my judgment from the political centre of the nation. I am presumptious, I am only The Democratic band wagon stands for real reform in the try is getting ready to move a good time to get in.

BILIOUSNESS
AND CONSTIPATION
CURED BY THEDFORDS
BLACK-DRAUGHT

Because the liver is neglected people suffer with constipation, biliousness, headaches and fevers. Colds attack the lungs and contagious diseases take hold of the system. It is safe to say that if the liver were always kept in proper working order, illness would be almost unknown.

Thedford's Black-Draught is successful in curing such sickness because it is without a rival as a liver regulator. This great family medicine is not a strong drastic drug, but a mild healthful laxative that cures constipation and may be taken by a mere child without possible harm.

The healthful action on the liver cures biliousness. It has an invigorating effect on the kidneys. Because the liver and kidneys do not work regularly, the poisonous acids along with the waste from the bowels get back into the blood and virulent contagion results.

Timely treatment with Thedford's Black-Draught removes the dangers which lurk in constipation, liver and kidney troubles, and will positively forestall the inroads of Bright's disease, for which disease in advanced stages there is no cure. Ask your dealer for a 25c. package of Thedford's Black-Draught.

MIGHT AND WILL VS
"GRIP"

Let us illustrate vividly the difference in meaning of the words might and will—the child might live; the child will live. Might implies doubt; will means certainty. Might live means might die; will live means will not die.

These two words aptly illustrate the difference between Johnson's Tonic and the horde of commercial remedies on the market, and that vast horde of inert professional remedies which only bear the sanction of the High Priests of medicine.

USE JOHNSON'S TONIC in a bad case of Grip and you will live! Use inert, or commercial products, and [illegible]

[illegible] drives out every trace [illegible] but better than [illegible] Those who believe [illegible] in danger and jeopardize [illegible] Johnson's Chill and Fever Tonic [illegible] medicine on earth. This is the sober, serious, earnest truth.

Easy Pill

Easy to take and easy to act is that famous little pill DeWitt's Little Early Risers. This is due to the fact that they tonic the liver instead of purging it. They never gripe nor sicken, not even the most delicate lady, and yet they are so certain in results that no one who uses them is disappointed. They cure torpid liver, constipation, billiousness, jaundice, headache, malaria and ward off pneumonia and fevers.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c.

Plant City, Fla., March 9, 1905

Editor Banner—Quite a number of my friends have written me and asked me to let them hear from me through the Banner, and if you think the following worth publishing you can do so.

We have had a fine rain, the first season since last November, and crops are growing, Irish potatoes knee high and beans beginning to bloom. The people have been shipping strawberries since January 1, and the enclosed will show what one man has done this season on strawberries:

"Frank Fletcher, who the Courier has referred to frequently as the king strawberry grower of the season, has so far realized $900 from his patch of less than two acres, and this, too, in the face of the drought and the frequent cold nights. Had the season been propitious, there is no telling what Mr. Fletcher would have made. However, $900 on less than two acres of ground and in one short season is better than man y up-country farmers realize from an eighty-acre farm."

I do not think that we will have many oranges in this section this year, but the trees are putting on a new coat of leaves, and we hope to come in next year. It is a good thing to hope, if the day is dark and stormy we hope that the sun will shine tomorrow, and but for this hope I fear that many of us would not survive. I have been so busy since I came to this country that I have not had time to look around, but the more I see the better pleased I am with the country. I miss the familiar faces that I have known so long, and sincerely wish that hundreds of them were in this country. we have plenty of room. But if we never meet this side, we will meet on the other shore.

Respectfully,
S. M. Adams.

Jemison, March 27, 1905

Editor Banner—Please give me space to say a few words concerning the cotton association. I think we are doing good in this part of the country. I will give eport of Vanderslice district, which is as follows: Cotton acreage in 1904, 109; guano 84 sacks; Cotton acreage in 1905, 44; guano, 42 sacks. Pretty good reduction, I think. Now, about the county fair. Having been appointed on the executive committee of the Southern Cotton Association in this county, and the arranging of a county fair being made one of their duties, I would like to hear from the people of the county on this question through the county papers as both editors have expressed a willingness to do all in their power to aid and assist in carrying out plans adopted by the committee. We know it is getting late now to start in to preoare land to compete for premiums on our main crops, however, if we can get enough funds to justify us in offering premiums I think it would be a good thing, so I will leave the matter open for discussion and abler pens than mine. The editor of the Banner has starte the subscription with $25. Hoping to hear from the people generally, and with best wishes to the Banner,

I am respectfully,
J. W. Sorrell.

"Man may not live by bread alone, etc.," but the new bakery of Mr.——fills a long-felt want in Thorsby.

Water is good also, and we are glad to see Mr. Sarber home again fixing the wells and making new ones.

Now if we had a fire company and a band!

There was a good house at the college and an interesting discourse by Rev Clark, Sunday morning.

Also Sunday evening a large audience at public school hall, good sermon by Rev. Hutchinson.

There are many new comers here whose names we are unable to give.

The base ball game Saturday afternoon between Jemison and Thorsby was forfeited to Thorsby, 9 to 0, Jemison not appearing.

"If a new state prison should be erected on the west side of the Hudson, and the present one on the east side be abandoned, would Ossining go back to the more melodious name of Sing Sing?" the Brooklyn Citizen asks.

The United States supreme court has now decided that when a river marks the boundary of a state the boundary is not changed if the river happens to change its bed. Herein the law seems to coincide with the majesty of horse sense, declares the Boston Herald.

One of the latest benefactions of wealth is a donation of $1,000,000 in New York to build a model tenement house, states the Baltimore Herald. After a while the fear of dying rich will so spread upon millionaires that they will even begin to demand to be assessed the full amount of taxes.

Every legislative body has complete control of its own organization, and may exclude members for conspicuous moral unfitness. Therefore, so long as the majority of any legislative body is opposed to including malefactors in its membership the character of such a body may be kept above par says the Hartford Times (Dem.).

The laboring man is the prime essence of American citizenship, the Hartford Herald avows. He is to our country what the mainspring is to a watch—he makes it go. He should have a generous share of the good things of life, because he deserves them. His claims always merit recognition and his labor a just reward.

While the farmer is crying out for help, and a large amount of produce is being wasted, the Associated Charities are puzzled to know what to do with the congested slums of our larger cities, says the Tribune Farmer. The railroad contractor can go into New York and hire ten thousand men who will go out with picks and shovels, but still sustain the herded life, while the farmer will not be able to secure ten.

Among the prizes offered for 1905 by the Paris Academy of Sciences is one of 100,000 francs for the discovery of a means of communicating with any celestial body other than the planet Mars, says the New York Tribune. Presumbably our communications with "the red planet Mars" are satisfactory to the giver of the prize, or perhaps he thinks we are already hearing too much from Mars by way of the far east.

Discussing the Mabel Page murder, which so excited a considerable part of Massachusetts recently, the Troy Press finds in the tragedy a reason for the more general keeping of dogs. "Supposing," it says, "a lively fox terrier, with a loud bark and sharp teeth, had been in the house when the assassin called. It would have greatly embarrassed, if not completely thwarted, his hellish work. In such circumstances, killing both a dog and a woman is much a more hazardous undertaking than to kill a woman alone. Indeed, the presumption is that the presence of a dog would have saved Miss Page's life. At such a country home a tramp is likely to call at almost any time, and finding a woman alone, to resort to crime. But every criminal intruder has a wholesome dread of a dog; it will readily risk death in defense of its mistress."

Governor Stokes of New Jersey in his inaugural address, made this extraordinary statement: "Of the entire income of the state government last year not a cent was contributed directly by the people, yet all of it was expended for their benefit." The maintenance of the state administration, the courts, the public schools and college annexes, the charity institutions, prisons, reformatories, asylums for the blind and insane and the development of the model road system—equal to one-third of the macadam turnpikes in the whole country—cost the New Jersey taxpayers nothing; every dollar came from what Governor Stokes genially terms "our fiscal policy," meaning the railroad and business corporations that are popularly supposed to own the red-sand state, and left $2,950,000 surplus in the treasury. Naturally Governor Stokes favors the continuance of this policy and strongly defends the corporations that in ten months have paid fees upon $312,569,000 capital, concludes Town Topics.

THE PULPIT.

A SCHOLARLY SUNDAY SERMON BY THE REV. ST. CLAIR HESTER.

Subject: "Church and Family."

Brooklyn, N. Y.—The Rev. St. Clair Hester, rector of the Church of the Messiah, preached the fourth sermon in the special series under the auspices of the Men's Guild Sunday. His subject was "The Church and the Family." The text was from Ephesians v:25: "Christ loved the church and gave Himself for it." Mr. Hester said:

It is evident to any one reading the accounts of the life and words of Jesus Christ while on this earth that it was His desire and purpose to found a society to represent Him, to preserve His memory, to make known and carry out His will. His mission was not intended to be meteoric in character—flash across the horizon of man's vision—astonish and puzzle by means of miracles and wonders, and then disappear, leaving the darkness as it was before He came. His coming and being in this world was intended to make and actually did make a difference, a great difference, in the views and hopes and motives and lives of those who came under His influence. And He planned that the moment He inaugurated the work He started, should not come to end when He withdrew from the world, and was no longer present in the flesh to direct and superintend its extension. Furthermore, it was in His mind that His society was not only to continue, but also to grow, to enlarge, until it should be world-wide, until all men should have opportunity to enter its ranks. Therefore it is that we find Him solemnly addressing His disciples and declaring that upon their confessed faith in Him as the Son of God, having power to plan and execute as God, He would build His church and that the gates of hell, the combined powers of evil, should not prevail against it. They have combined against it and attacked it again and again, they are still in bitter opposition to it, but there is no sign of yielding.

St. Paul says: "Christ loved the church." What is the proof, the evidence, that this assertion is true? He founded and established it—a man does not build a house unless he thinks that it will be worth something. He selected and trained and appointed officers to be His successors and as His parting instructions bade them go into all the world and preach His gospel to every creature. He instituted and ordained sacraments as pledges of His love, as continual reminders, as means by which the souls of the faithful might be fed and refreshed. Finally, as St. Paul says, He gave Himself for it; as St. Luke says, He purchased it with His own blood. This is an absolute, conclusive demonstration. Greater love hath no man than this that he lay down his life for his friends, and this is what He did for His church.

Oh, yes, He loved it; of this there are many and infallible proofs. But how about ourselves—our love, yours and mine? It suffers by comparison? Can your feeling for the church of God be described by any such words as love? Is it not the truth that there is indifference, cold, callous indifference, on the part of many and positive disbelief and opposition on the part of many others in their attitude toward the church? Any one of us could name a dozen illustrations of it. We must admit it. Thousands never enter a sacred edifice. Other thousands only occasionally as curiosity or whim moves them. There are some here to-night who, so far as any church connection is concerned, may be described as irregulars and neutrals, onlookers and outsiders.

Let me ask you in all seriousness, can you imagine that this venerable society, established at such a great cost, even the life blood of the Lord Jesus Christ, has no claim on your allegiance? The church is the institution, the organization of Jesus Christ—is it putting it too strong to say that to reject it is to reject Him? People who think or act in this way do not reflect or they do not realize the benefit and blessing Christianity is to a country, or the church to the family. No nation or society of people have ever existed on the face of the earth without some form of religion. Statesmen, sovereigns, empire builders, economists have admitted and recognized its power, its value, have promoted it by every means at their command even when, in some instances, they did not believe in it because they saw the necesity of it as a civilizing, refining and improving conservating element in human society. Now, religion could not live and do its needed work among men without an organization to keep it alive and carry on the activities. You will understand and grant the importance of honesty and honor in our business and industrial life. Dishonesty, if the general rule, would mean the wreck of our whole financial system, the failure of banks, the breach of trusts, the refusal of credit, defalcation and distress. You understand and will grant the desirableness of high character, of personal and social purity, the great benefit of goodness on the heart of citizens of any country or community. We know what it means to have desperadoes, cutthroats, adulterers and thieves the controlling element in a town or city. You understand and grant that it is vital to a people of a state to be able to get justice in the courts, to be protected in their property rights, and vital to the existence of a state that there should be patriotism, industry and fidelity on the part of those who constitute its citizenship. All these things, all these fundamental virtues we need and must have in order to live together in peace and prosperity, the church of God is designed and persistently endeavors to produce. The church is the factory if I may put it that way, whose output is virtue, honesty, purity, kindness, fidelity, principle, impressed and built into the characters of her members, producing these things as well and as abundantly as our commercial factories and mills produce steel billets, cotton cloth or tin plate. In order that these moral necessities may exist and continue to be present and to affect our social, industrial, political and family life there must be an organization to create and train and bring them out. There can be no success without organization. Every success is organized before it is won. The success of the Japanese at the Yalu River and Port Arthur was perfected in equipment, training, supplies before it was accomplished on the field of battle. Our civilization, culture, morality, high sense of honor, public spirit, refinement of taste represent and are the flowering and fruitage of seeds sown broadcast in the churches is Christ's organization. Now no organization can live or do its work without members. If you are in favor of and want to see multiplied these vital virtues and principles for which the church stands are you not duty bound to enter her fold, enlist in her ranks and lend your aid in carrying out her mission?

The church's value to civilization can be shown by a reference to history. Her triumphant march down the ages is the wonder of all history. Feeble as an infant in the land of her birth, she grew and thrived in spite of opposition and bitter persecution, driven into hiding in the catacombs and caves under the earth she emerged at length with doubled strength to take her place with kings on their thrones until to-day she is the mightiest single power on the face of the earth, mightiest because a moral and spiritual power. Though mighty as an army she is harmless as a dove seeking only to help, to improve, to save. For 1900 years she has been indentified with and given impetus if not birth to the greatest movements and most notable reforms for the welfare of the human race.

And next let me ask for what is the family under obligation to the church? She throws the arms of her protection about the divine institution of marriage, making it, and to the extent of her ability, keeping it pure, honorable, indissoluable. She frees and uplifts woman from the bondage and degredation which are accepted as the law of her being in heathen and Oriental lands, and teaches that as wife and mother she is deserving of the best advantages, of especial consideration, of highest reverence and purest affection. She preaches the divineness of childhood, that the wisest and greatest must become as a little child in order to enter into the kingdom of heaven; that the care, the education, the moral training of the rising generation is that first duty of the parent, the chief concern of the state, the vital self-preservation of society. She gives herself earnestly and unreservedly to this cause, declaring that "honor thy father and thy mother" is a divine commandment, that "children obey your parents" is sanctioned by the precept and example of the Perfect Man of the ages. She communicates a spirit and sends forth a cheer that blesses the home and pervades the domestic sphere and harmonizes the hearts of those who form the household.

These things, taken altogether, would seem to be enough to dispose all men to be favorable to this ancient and honorable and useful institution. Jesus Christ established it; had the highest possible idea of its worth; gave His life in proof of it; as an organization it is the greatest producer of goodness and all virtue on the earth; it enters into and sweetens and sanctifies every human relationship; its history prophesies that what it has done in the past it can continue to do in the future, and yet there is bitterness and resentment felt toward it. Why? Because many do not appreciate the reasons just named for thinking highly of it, for joining in with it. Does anyone here to-night share in this dislike? What is there in the church of God you object to? If there be nothing, you are without reason or excuse for being on the outside. If there be some objection, the way to reach and right it is to come in; you cannot touch it on the outside. Do not stand off and accuse and criticise. Come in and do the work for God and man toward which the spirit prompts you. As an official of Jesus Christ's society I extend you an invitation, promise you a cordial welcome from fellow Christians, offer you help to carry out anything good you desire to accomplish and a place for meeting rent free. If you are willing to do anything to improve yourself, to serve God, to help others, you could not have a fairer offer, a more cordial invitation, a better opportunity.

The church and the family—you have no family? then you need the church all the more; come in and be a member of the family of Jesus Christ, the largest, happiest family on earth. You have a family? The church is designed to be in an inseparable part of it, to do a necessary work in it and for it.

A family, but no home? This is the condition of thousands and ten thousands in our streets. Then let the church be your home. There is no home complete without it. It can supply much of the cheer, comfort, affection that belongs to the happiest homes on earth; it can fit us for a home eternal in the heavens.

Our lives are set in the midst of many great dangers, trials, temptations; many remedies, palliations, panaceas are proposed for the evils that confront us, but I believe that the only sure relief for our troubles must originate in the church of God, impelled by what the spirit of God sayeth to the churches. It is not even the gospel, but the church by means of the gospel that is to reform the world.

In view of what Jesus Christ did for His church the inquiry becoming to men is not what can I escape or shirk or find fault with, but, "Lord, what wilt Thou have me to do?"

In view of His demonstration of love, what is the proof in kind He has a right to expect of us? Is it not contained in this saying, "If ye love Me keep My commandments," and this is the fulfilling of them. Come in first yourself and then do what you can to bring others for their good, for your happiness, for the glory of God, in sign of affection for Jesus Christ.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR APRIL 2.

Subject: Jesus, the Good Shepherd, John x., 7-18—Golden Text, John x., 11—Memory Verses, 17, 18—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

I. The shepherd and the sheep (vs. 1-6). In these verses Jesus lays the foundation for the discourse which was to follow. With the external drapery of this parable the hearers of Jesus were perfectly familiar. Theirs was a sheep-growing country; flocks were their main dependence.

II. Christ the door (vs. 7-9). 7. "Then said Jesus." Jesus was talking directly to the men who had excommunicated the former blind man, and the application of His words was to them as spiritual thieves and robbers. They had reviled a poor man instead of protecting him. "Verily, verily." This emphasized the importance of what He was about to say. Jesus now proceeds to explain the illustration He had made use of in verses 1-6. "I am the door." The sheep-folds of the East are mere enclosures surrounded by a wall of loose stones with thorn-bushes upon the top, but usually an effectual barrier against the wolves. There is only one door. "The sheep." True Christians.

8. "Before Me." Those who came pretending to be pastors or guides to the people. The scribes and Pharisees claimed to be instructors of the people; claimed the right to regulate the affairs of religion; whose only aim was to promote themselves and oppress the people. "Thieves and robbers." These false teachers, who rejected Christ and who were devouring the sheep. "Did not hear." Many did hear and follow these false prophets, but "the sheep"—those with true spiritual insight—detected their hypocrisy. 9. "Enter in." Through faith in Christ we enter into the fold—the visible church. "Shall be saved." Safe from the robbers that seek to destroy; safe from false teachers; safe from the sins that would ruin; safe from the troubles, dangers and temptations of life. "Go in and out." We must "go in" to trust, to rest, to think, to pray, before we can "go out" to do effective work for the Lord. "Find pasture." Satisfaction for every need of the soul.

III. The thief and the hireling (vs. 10-13).

10. "Thief." Any opposer of the Gospel. "To steal," etc. False teachers steal the hearts and affections from Christ. Their heresies kill and destroy all spiritual life. "Life—abundantly" (R. V.) Christ is able to give His people abundant life. Many are seeking "more" life; what such need is "life"—the Christ life, the abundant life. 11. See on verses 14, 15. 12. "An hireling." The hireling is the one who labors simply for his wages, with no love or concern for the work. "The wolf." The wolf is the enemy of souls in any of his manifold disguises, such as persecution, heresy, worldly living, or a low standard of morals. 13. "Careth not." To him the welfare of the sheep is nothing; he is chiefly solicitous for his own safety, his own gain and worldly honor.

IV. Christ the good Shepherd (vs. 14-18). 14. "I am the good Shepherd." Jesus, as the good Shepherd, was foretold by God in the prophets. His character was that of a divinely appointed shepherd. His purposes, His teachings, His works, His miracles, His methods of work, all were those which must belong to a good shepherd of God's people. "Know My sheep." In the East in a flock of hundreds each sheep would have and would know its own name. So Christ knows us and loves us as individuals. "Am known of mine." There is a mutual affection between the shepherd and the sheep. There is a mutual affection between the Father and the Son; one is parallel with the other. As the Father knows the Son, so does the Shepherd know the sheep; as the Son knows the Father, so do the sheep know the Shepherd.

15. "Lay down My life." The Oriental shepherd must face storms, hardships and dangers for his sheep; he must find them when lost and must often fight with wild beasts and robbers in protecting them. Our Shepherd gives up His life for us (John 3:16; Titus 2:14; John 4:10). 16. "Other sheep have I." The Gentiles who were soon to be brought into His church. The good Shepherd sweeps the world with His thought. Here is the universal relation of Jesus to sinners of all nations and tongues. "Shall become one flock" (R. V.) One flock not in creed or name, but in what is far more essential—one in Christ. One in heart, one in purpose, one in the service of God and man.

17. "Because I lay down." Not because I have laid it down, as though the love of the Father were caused by the earthly love and sacrifice of Christ, but because I lay it down. That is, because Christ's Spirit is one of self-sacrificing love, manifested by, but not alone embodied in, the incarnation, He is loved by the Father (see Phil. 2:9; Heb. 1:9). "Take it again." His rising from the dead was as necessary as His dying, for by His resurrection He secured the fruits of His death (compare Rom. 4:25). Christ died in order to rise to a more complete life, and to raise men with Him. This purpose evoked the love of the Father (compare 12:32; Phil 2:9; Heb. 1:9). 18. "No man." His death was entirely voluntary. Men killed Him, but He had full power to escape from them had He wished. No one imposed upon Him the duty of leaving Heaven, of coming to the world, suffering and dying. He chose to do it, that He might save men. "Have I received." While He did it voluntarily, it was in accordance with His Father's expressed will. This is the divine law of salvation.

HAITI EXPELS ALL SYRIANS.

Obnoxious to Natives—Reputed to Be Merciless Creditors.

Washington, D. C.—The State Department was informed by Minister Powell in Port au Prince a proclamation has been issued that all Syrians must leave the republic by April 1.

The Syrians are extremely obnoxious to the natives, as they have managed to obtain control of most of the retail business of the country, and are reputed to be merciless creditors.

. THE SIMPLE LIFE.

'Tis not a dainty the gods would relish—
Those feasting gods of mythology—
The name would never with grace embellish
The menus of high society.
But nothing can get more proper action
On the hungry spot 'neath a feller's jeans,
Can give more comfort and satisfaction
To a yearning stomach than pork and beans.

When the inner man for feed is craving
And the system is wrapped in a flame of yearn,
When the stomach rebels and is misbehaving
And the teeth in anxiety seem to burn,
How the gay glad light of anticipation
Through a fellow's optics in joy careens,
When on the air of the feeding station
He sniffs the odor of pork and beans!

When the purse is flat from a dearth of boodle,
When but a dime is reposing there,
When a fellow feels he could eat a noodle
And try to imagine it Belgian hare
When a reg'lar dinner, with pie and puddin',
Is way up yonder beyond his means,
One feast is his and a mighty good 'un—
A man's size platter of pork and beans.

Chicago, mart of the hog, we bless you,
With wreaths of gratitude deck your name,
And Boston, in love, we'd fain caress you
For the succulent truck you've given fame.
No combination de cuilnary,
From the dainty dishes of kings and queens
Clear down to poverty's commissary,
Can hold a candle to pork and beans.

JUST FOR FUN

"Did I see you kissing my daughter, sir?" "I really don't know, sir. I was too much occupied at the time to notice."—Life.

George—They say the fish bite through the ice. May—Heavens! And I had looked forward to such fine times skating.—Washington Post.

Cholly—D'ye know, Miss Pepper, I deahly love horses! Miss Pepper—I imagined so when I saw you hugged the neck of the one you were riding yesterday.—Cleveland Leader.

One of the Girls—Why, there's Mr. Scorcher! It seems strange that he should be studying medicine. The Man—Not at all. Doctors are allowed to exceed the speed limit.—Life.

"Did you buy your way to your present position of political prominence?" "Certainly, I did," answered Senator Sorghum. "If there is anything I hate it's a dead-head."—Washington Star.

Johnny—Ma says Mr. Pedaller is a most conscientious teacher. What does she mean by that, pa? Pa—She means he is a good man to take lessons from, but a very poor man financially.

He—I don't know of a thing I would not do for you. She—Then you will have mother come and live with us! He—Thanks for reminding me. But I don't know of anything else I wouldn't do for you.

Fweddie—That creature actually told me to mind my own business, y' know! Cholly—The impertinent wretch! Fweddie—Positively insulting. As if to insinuate, don't y' know, that I was in business!—Cleveland Leader.

Bilkins—I never knew Cockshure to acknowledge that he had made a mistake. Pilkins—I did once. Bilkins—How did it happen? Pilkins—He put the lighted end of his cigar in his mouth.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"What's Gayboy cursing his luck so savagely about now?" "His wife caught him coming out of a jeweler's with a box in his hand. Now he's got to buy her some jewelry, too, for a Christmas present."—Town Topics.

Balty Moore—Oh, pshaw, old man, I wouldn't worry about Blowhard's opinion of me, if I were you. Calvert, Jr.—It isn't his opinion I'm worrying about. It's the grounds I happen to know he has for that opinion.—aBltimore American.

"Wat's all dis talk about revisin' de tariff, Weary?" "Why, de fellers dat is interested in pertectin' certain lines o' goods is goin' to cut down de pertection on de goods of de odder feller an' wicy wersy."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Bertha—Only think! Carrie has refused Fred Sweetser, and we all believed she thought the world of him. Cassie—So she did; but he proposed by letter. Naturally, you know, she couldn't have any respect for a man who could be so unwise.

Fuddy—They used to wonder how the Stiltons came to fall in love with one another. Duddy—Well, and how did they? Fuddy—Propinquity. Duddy—Yes, but how did they come to fall out after they had been married a few months? Fuddy—Propinquity.

Mr. Cityflatt (reading)—The widow of that "commuter" who was killed in the railroad wreck has been awarded sixty thousand dollars damages. Mrs. Cityflatt—There—and I've been vainly trying to induce you to move to the suburbs for years—you mean thing!—Puck.

"Are you the 'Answers to Correspondents' man?" inquired the dyspeptic-looking caller. "I am," replied the gentleman addressed. "What can I do for you?" "Firstly, what will dissolve a chunk of lead in the human stomach? Secondly, won't you please refrain from publishing recipes for plum pudding hereafter?"—Philadelphia Press.

"What did Sallie say when you proposed?" Dick—She asked me if I felt sure she was the brightest, prettiest, sweetest girl in all the world. Harry—And, of course, you said yes? Dick—On the contrary, I told her I thought she was a very ordinary creature. Harry—And of course that settled it. Dick—It did. She said it was evident we were a perfect match. She had the same opinion of me, you see.

Assaulted His Brother-in-Law.

Gadsden, Ala.—Boss Wright made a murderous assault upon his brother-in-law, H. Walter Burns, at his home four miles below Gadsden Wednesday afternoon. Burns came to town and swore out a warrant for Wright.

Wright is said to have been drinking and went to the field where Burns was plowing and drawing his gun fired but Burns knocked the gun up and they clinched, Burns whipping Wright, who then left, but that night again made an assault upon Burns at his home, and was again whipped.

Burns came to town after the warrant, and during his absence Wright knocked down the door of Burn's residence, drove his mother and sister out in the night, threatened to kill them and demolished the furniture. Wright was arrested and brought to Gadsden and jailed. He is a member of a splendid family.

Shooting at Maplesville.

Selma, Ala.—Tom Callen was brought to the city Friday from Maplesville, where he was shot Thursday by Large Long, a negro. The bullet wound is on the right side, a little above the abdomen, and he has slight chance for recovery. Callen says that Long has been trying to take his wife away from him and that he went to see him about it, and that Long shot him before he had a change to open his mouth to him.

New Building.

Montgomery, Ala.—It is understood that at the last meeeting of the state capitol commisssion a definite agreement was reached to build a separate building to the right of the main structure for the supreme court, to cost in the neighborhood of $65,000, and that the balance of the appropriation was to be expended in fixing up the old building as best it would. With the $65,000 for the land and the same amount for the supreme court structure there will be only $20,000 left for the repair work.

Peonage Charge Filed Against Pace.

Montgomery, Ala.—John W. Pace, of Tallapoosa county, has been again charged with holding negroes in peonage and was directed to appear before the United States district commissioner in Montgomery on March 30.

Pace two years ago was convicted of the charge and sentenced to five years' confinement. His appeal in this case is still pending.

District Attorney Reese filed with Judge Jones a petition for a writ of habeas corpus directing Pace to bring two negro boys into the United States court and show why they were restrained of their liberty. Judge Jones granted the writ.

Negro Hanged.

Montgomery, Ala.—George Calhoun, negro, who killed his wife Christmas night of 1903, was hanged shortly after 11 o'clock this morning, the drop being sprung by Sheriff Waller. He was dead in nine minutes. His body was taken care of by his old mother, who will bury it.

Burglary at Republic.

Birmingham, Ala.—J. D. Smith, of Republic, in the western part of the county, reported to the police that burglars entered his residence one day this week and took goods to the amount of about $50. Flags To Be Returned.

Madison, Wis.—The joint resolution for the return of the battle flags to Alabama was adopted by the senate with but one opposing vote.

War on Water Company.

Anniston, Ala.—It is probable that the validity of the ordinance forbidding the issuance of a permit to the Anniston Water Supply Company to install meters without the consent of the landlord will be tested. It was announced as the company's intention.

There were several cases against the water company at Friday morning's session of the police court. Excavating the streets without a permit was the charge. It was shown that the company had a permit to excavate on Leighton avenue, issued during the year 1904. The excavations were made during last year on Leighton avenue. This permit was issued before the ordinance claimed to have been violated went into effect. It was further shown that the company had complied with the law by depositing $50 to guarantee the replacing of the street in good condition.

The cases were dismissed, the city attorney stating that a conviction could not be had under the circumstances.

WARSAW'S CHIEF NOW

A Victim of Bomb—Six Policemen Injured—Bomb Thrower Escapes.

HE IS VERY CORDIALLY HATED.

Officer is Badly Injured, But Believed He Will Recover From Effects of the Explosion.

Warsaw—A bomb was thrown into the carriage of Baron von Nolken chief of police of Warsaw, at 8 o'clock Sunday evening. It was reported that the Baron was severely wounded.

11:30 p. m.—According to the latest information the attack on Baron von Nolken was the result of an elaborate conspiracy of the revolutionary party. Shortly before 8 o'clock Sunday night an elegantly dessed man went to the police station at Praga, a large suburb of Warsaw, on the other side of the Vistul, and threw a bomb into the court yard of the station, wounding seven persons, two of them dangerously. The man started to run away, but was caught by the captain of the station. He was found to be a Jew, but his identity has not been discovered.

Nolken Starts to Scene.

A telephone message was immediately sent to Baron von Nolken at the city hall informing him of the outrage. Baron von Nolken, accompanied by a police officer, took a carriage and started immediately for Praga. When passing the castle where the governor general resides, a man standing on the pavement threw a bomb at the carriage. Baron von Nolken, who was sitting on the side nearest the assailant, received the full charge of the bomb, while his companion escaped unhurt. The coachman was thrown from the box and the carriage was smashed.

Baron von Nolken was removed to the city hall and doctors were summoned, who found he had received injuries on the head, neck, arm and leg, which are believed to be serious.

Meanwhile the police officer accompanying Baron von Nolken saw the bomb-thrower fleeing, and pursued and caught up with him, but the criminal proved the stronger and tore himself away.

Another policeman fired twice after him without result. Half an hour later a man was found dead in Eowia street, whom the police believe to be the bomb-thrower. The police think the man shot himself to escape arrest.

Girl Wounded by Splinter.

A girl, who was passing the spot when the bomb was thrown, was wounded by splinters, and had to be taken to the hospital.

According to the theory of the police, the revolutionists calculated upon Baron von Nolken going to Praga on learning of the explosion of the bomb at the station, and knew he must pass the castle, that being the only road in which he could reach the only bridge across the Vistula. The affair occasioned great excitement. Several rumors say the revolutionists adopted this course of informing the police that they have more bombs besides those discovered in the Powanskie cemetery Saturday.

Baron von Nolken is very unpopular. He is hated by the masses of the Polish population, who hold him responsible for the sanguinary suppression of the disturbances here at the end of January. He has been here only a year, having come from St. Petersburg, where he was chief of the mounted division of the police.

Numerous Arms Discovered.

Moscow—An organized depot of arms and bombs was discovered recently on the premises of a rich merchant named Barazoff. Investigation disclosed a conspiracy to distribute the arms. There have been over 800 arrests in connection with the affair.

Curtis Jett Gets New Trial.

Frankfort, Ky.—A new trial for Curtis Jett, under sentence to hang for the assassination of J. B. Marcum, in Breathitt county, was ordered by the court of appeals. The case came up from the Harrison circuit court, and is one of the fued murders in connection with which Judge Hargis, Senator Hargis, Elbert Hargis and Sheriff Ed Callahan are now held at Lexington.

A fourth trial of Caleb Powers for the assassination of Governor Goebel will begin in a short time, the court of appeals having overruled the petition of the commonwealth for a rehearing.

Warships to Leave Cuba.

Havana—The celebration of the visit of American warships to Havana ended with a big American concert on the sea front and a carnival ball at the Cuban Anthenaeum. The torpedo boat destroyer MacDonough has arrived here in advance of Rear Admiral Barker's North Atlantic fleet. The latter will appear in front of Havana, being rejoined by the visiting squadron, will proceed to Pensacola.

Six Policemen Injured.

Warsaw—According to later information, the bomb which exploded at the Praga police station was not thrown into the courtyard, but into a room of the station where the men assembled before going on duty. Six policemen were wounded and all the furniture, as well as one wall, was destroyed. The bomb-thrower, in trying to escape, met a policeman and shot twice, wounding the officer in the stomach. The prisoner himself was wounded, and has been placed in the hospital.

The man found dead in Sowia street proves to be a plain clothes policeman, who was seen pursuing Baron von Nolken's assailant. The police believe that the latter turned on the policeman and shot him dead.

Baron von Nolken's injuries are serious, but it is thought that he will recover.

Attempt to Assassinate.

Thomasville, Ga.—Officers report an attempted assassination at Wildwood, the winter home of Charles H. Thorne, a Chicago millionaire, six miles from this city.

The alleged attempt was made on Mrs. John Parker, daughter of Capt. John Nolan, Mr. Thorne's superintendent. Mrs. Parker's home is in Chicago and she has been spending the winter with her father here.

The evidence of the attempted killing was shown in the tracks of a man who appeared to have kneeled about thirty feet from the window which Mrs. Parker was passing, where he deliberately aimed a gun at her, the bullet almost grazing her head. Two supposed clues have proved fruitless. There is no known motive for the crime.

Statements Are Premature.

San Domingo, Republic of Santo Domingo.—Statements published in the United States that diplomats here and fiscal representatives of foreign governments which are creditors of Santo Domingo have, after a conference, agreed on a temporary settlement of the financial questions involving this republic, are premature. Foreign creditors, principally Italy and Belgium, are taking advantage of the deferring of convention between the United States and Santo Domingo and the Venezuelan situation to determine the payment of their claims.

Eighty Bombs Discovered.

Warsaw—The police discovered eighty bombs today hidden in a brick grave in the Powonsa cemetery in Warsaw. M. Meximovitch, the governor general of Warsaw, received the foreign consuls, officials, clergy and civilians this morning, and in his speech promised an impartial government without prejudice to any nationality. The speech has made a most favorable impression in Polish circles.

Alabama Shipping Radishes.

Georgiana, Ala.—The radish growers of this place will begin shipping to the eastern and western markets this week, and when this crop is off they will be ready to furnish the people in the cold climate, east and west, strawberries, Irish potatoes and peas. The Louisville and Nashville railroad is building additional tracks here to enable them to handle the business at this place.

Increase in Vegetable Raising.

Georgiana, Ala.—The local merchants at this place sold last year sixty-five car loads of commercial fertilizer and from information had from the railroad agent, this year's demands will call for about eighty-five cars. The farmers have reduced their acreage in cotton and are planting strawberries, vegetables, fruits and more corn, peas and potatoes than ever before.

Dies on a Train.

Childersburg, Ala.—Miss Willie F. Harding, a passenger from Perry, Ga., to Wausaulite, in charge of her mother and father, died of tuberculosis in a sleeper on train No. 3 between Sylacauga and Childersburg.

More Coal Starts South.

Pittsburg, Pa.—More than 1,500,000 bushels of coal was started south Sunday. This amount, with what has gone before on the present rise, will total about five million. The rivers, though falling slowly, are still high, and the shippers believe there will be coal-boat stage for some days yet.

Charcoal Furnace To Blow In.

Gadsden, Ala.—The Coosa Iron Company will blow in a charcoal furnace at Gadsden shortly. The demand for both kinds of iron, coke and charcoal, is very steady and good prices obtain. The railroads announce another extension of the rate from West Virginia to this district on coke.

Heroine is Dead.

Langton, Ont.—Abigal Becker famed in song and story throughout Canada, is dead at her home at Walsingham Center.

Unaided she saved the crew of the schooner Conductor, wrecked at Long Point on Lake Erie in November, 1854.

For her bravery the government gave her a farm; Buffalo ship owners $1,000 and the New York Life Saving Association a gold medal.

Seven Women Injured.

Wheeling, W. Va.—Two women will probably die and five others are severely injured as the result of a runaway accident at Bellaire. The most seriously injured are Mrs. Shade Bell, wife of the lieutenant of police, of Benwood, and Mrs. John Morris, of Benwood.

The two worst injured were in a carriage, driven by Jacob Duke, returning from a funeral. The horses became frightened at a train, and dashed into a carriage containing the other injured, driven by Robert Brown. The wheels caught and Duke's carriage was thrown over a thirty-foot embankment, the driver escaping injury.

Mexican Minister Dead.

Washington, D. C.—Senor Don Manuel de Aspiroz, Mexico's first ambassador to the United States, died Friday afternoon at the Mexican embassy at 5:10 o'clock, surrounded by members of his family. Although a sick man since last fall, the ambassador's death was due to relapse caused by exposure on inauguration day Against the advice of his physician, Mr. Aspiroz left his sick room on March 4th last and attended the inaugural ceremonies at the capitol where he came near fainting.

Strikes Are Ended.

Warsaw.—The strike in the coal and iron districts of Sosnovice and Dembrok have ended at last, the workmen have resumed their labors. The peasant agitation continues, but only as a sporadic movement, controlled by socialistic agitators who have been unable thus far to impress the peasants with their view of the necessity of a strike.

M. Maximovitch, the new governor general, has withdrawn the patrols from the schools, being of the opinion that it is undignified to employ soldiers to watch school boys.

Buys Part of Capitol Square.

Montgomery, Ala.—The state has purchased the south half of Capitol square, the price paid being $65,000. The property owners received $63,616, and the other amount was for court costs and attorney's fees. The deeds have been filed. The capitol commission will soon meet, and it is expected improvements will be begun in a short time. The commission had $150,000 at its disposal, but spent $65,666 of it for the property. It is expected that a new building will be erected on the property just bought. It will be for the judicial officers.

Wetumpka's Building Boom.

Wetumpka, Ala.—Mr. W. E. Thomas is having a pretty home built, Humphries & Thomas are having an ice cream parlor fitted up, the market is being improved by a new veranda, the First National bank is having plans drawn and will soon remodel its building. The vacant lot on the street leading west from the court house has been purchased by the city and will be added to the street, thereby widening it and improving its appearance as well as affording greater fire protection.

Commits Suicide in Pool Room.

Memphis, Tenn.—N. Weinburg, a merchant of Osceola, Ark., committed suicide in a local billiard room by drinking carbolic acid. He was dead before the act of his swallowing the poison had been discovered. Weinberg left Osceola last Sunday presumably for St. Louis. A wife and six children survive him. A letter was found on the suicide stating that he was weary of battling with the world.

No Russian Vessels Sunk.

Washington, D. C.—Mr. Griscom, the American minister at Tokio, has reported to the State Department upon the loss of merchant vessels in the Russo-Japanese war. He says that no merchant steamer flying the Russian flag nor any merchant steamer of non-Russian nationality carrying contraband of war has been sunk by the Japanese, whereas, the Russians sent to the bottom nine Japanese steamers and four small sailing ships.

The minister states that no vessel was captured by the Russians, who resorted to sinking the enemy's craft. The Japanese sunk 17 of their own ships for the purpose of blocking Port Arthur, and captured 23 Russian merchant vessels.

Train Wrecked on Frisco.

Memphis, Tenn.—West-bound passenger train No. 204 on the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad collided with a car on the siding at Hickory Flat, near New Albany, Miss., and was wrecked. Several persons were badly bruised, but none seriously. The train was running at a high rate of speed when it dashed into the obstruction. The engine, tender and two coaches were derailed. Traffic will be delayed several hours.

23 Killed in a Big Landslide.

Ilos' Hungary—A great landslide occurred here Sunday. A squadron of soldiers who went to the rescue of a buried woman suffered severely, eight of their number being killed, and nineteen injured.

Riot in Riga.

Riga—In a riot here Saturday night one policeman was shot dead and two others wounded.

The maps will be delivered at The Banner office, Clanton, Ala. Subscribers who wish to have them sent by mail will please send seven cents extra for postage.

J. P. VanDerveer has been appointed Back Tax Commissioner.

The Census Bureau reports the cotton crop of 1904 to be 13,597,782 bales, equivalent to 13,584,457 bales of 500 pounds each. Alabama is credited with 1,458,966.

The prosperous condition of Chilton county is well demonstrated by the very satisfactory reports of the three banks in the county, which will be found on page one of this issue. The Peoples Savings Bank of Clanton fully maintains its well-earned position; the Clanton Bank, which was only organized last fall, makes a remarkably good showing for the short time it has been in existence, and the Thorsby Savings Bank speaks well for the flourishing condition of that thriving town.

The Alabama Press Association will this year have a truly rural outing. July 19 the annual meeting will be held at Sylacauga, where a "feast of reason and flow of soul" will be indulged in for a couple of days, then the merry crowd will board the train and proceed to Biloxi, Miss., and amid pastoral surroundings the editors and their families will exchange confidences and compare notes on the newspaper business generally, filling in the spare time fishing in gulf. By a thoughtful provision, due to H. M. Wilson of Opelika, no time has been set for final adjournment, and if the fish bite freely there is no telling how long the outing will last.

Chilton County Medical Society.

The Chilton County Medical Society met at Clanton, March 28, 1905, members present: C. N. Parnell, R. B. McNeill, A. B. Claughton, P. I. Hopkins, J. P. Hayes, N. S. Johnson. New members elected: J. P. Ellsberry, of Clear Creek, and T. M. Barnett, of Verbena.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, P. I. Hopkins; Vice-President, J. P. Hayes; Secretary and Treasurer, N. S. Johnson; City Health Officer, N. S. Johnson; County Health Officer, P. I. Hopkins; Censors, P. I. Hopkins, J. P. Hayes, C. N. Parnell, A. J. L. Dennis, R. B. McNeill. V. O. Campbelle was elected delegate to State Association, A. B. Claughton, alternate.

A committee of three—Drs. Hayes, Hopkins and Johnson, was appointed to draft resolutions on the death of Dr. J. B. Adams.

The Society endorsed and commends the action taken by the Mayor and Council of Clanton in regard to the eradication of smallpox by vaccination. The Society adjourned to meet again second Tuesday in April.

A musical will be given at the residence of Judge Reynolds, Tuesday evening, April 4, at 8 o'clock for the benefit of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church. A free-will offering will be taken for this purpose. Everybody cordially invited to attend.

Mr. John Rollins has returned from medical college at Chattanooga.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

Special correspondence to The Banner.

Washington, D. C., March 27, 1905.

Before this letter is read the extra session of the Senate, called by the President for the purpose of confirming his appointments to the Cabinet and other important positions, will have come to a close and the last of the "perspiring" statesman who have been in evidence here since last December will have wended their way homeward, most of them on a railroad pass. This extra session of the Senate was called for another specific purpose, and that was the ratification of the Santo Domingo treaty, every line of which was drawn by the hand of John Hay, the Secretary of State. The ambition of the President and Secretary of State to have that treaty ratified probably will be thwarted, as every indication now is adjournment without a vote on the treaty. For once in the great flood of years the Democrats have stood together on this treaty fight, and they have won. That old warhorse, Senator John T. Morgan, of Alabama, has pointed out more blowholes in the treaty than can be found in the armor plate of the Armor Plate Trust. I pointed out, in this correspondence, more than a year ago that there would be an attempt to take over Santo Domingo, or at least enter into a treaty that would give this country absolute jurisdiction over the island, for the purpose of collecting the debts of the creditors of the island and negro republic. A good many of these creditors reside in the United States, and many of them are high up in Administration circles. They bought the bonds of Santo Domingo at a very low price on the dollar, and if they can get this country to take hold of affairs down there they can collect par for them. That is the way the Republicans do business, and that is the way they pay election bets. That is the milk in the Santo Domingo cocoanut.

At its two sessions the Fifty-eighth Congress had voted to spend $1,599,631,289.99, which is more than was appropriated in gold by any previous Congress in our history, not excepting the period of the Civil War. In the short session just closed a few decent things were done. One of the leaks in our land laws was stopped by abolishing the lieu land privilege which has enabled speculators to swindle the Government by exchanging worthless tracts in forest reserves for valuable timber lands outside.

The Yosemite Valley has come again under the control of the United States having been re-ceded by the State of California—a valuable precedent for the rescue of Niagara. Provision has been made for improving the efficiency of the militia by encouraging rifle practice. The Government has been authorized to take part in the celebration of the three hundreth anniversary of the first permanent English settlement on this continent, at Jamestown, Virginia. For the first time since the contract was made, seven years ago, Congress has refused to make the annual appropriation of $130,000 to pay rent to the National City Bank for the old Custom House site in New York This was one of the scandalously bad bargains characteristic of the Government's dealings with shrewd financiers. The Government agreed to pay "rent" on its own funds, incidently cheating the city of New York out of the taxes. But since the bargain was made, the rent will ultimately have to be paid out of the people's pockets.

The average newspaper correspondent in Washington, who works at the business for a living, is a manly, truthful, honest man. He rarely sends out lies to his paper, for he knows that a lie is a boomerang, but some of the scribblers here in Washington who are employed as private secretaries to members of Congress, or clerks in some of the departments, who do not know what news is and never go out to get news, even if they did know it, are the worst liars and scandal-mongers on the face of the earth. They invariably pick out a shining mark to shoot their slime at, always some man who is persona non grata to their editors, thus currying favor at home.

Chas. A. Edwards.

A Destructive Fire.

To draw the fire out of a burn, or heal a cut without leaving a scar, use DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A specific for piles. Get the genuine. J. L. Tucker, editor of the Harmonizer, Centre, Ala., writes: "I have used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve in my family for Piles, cuts and burns. It is the best salve on the market. Every family should keep it on hand." Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

For chapped face and hands use Pansy Lotion—for sale at Upchurch's.

Jemison, March 28, 1905.

Editor Banner: In connection with several suggestions looking to the establishment of a cotton seed oil mill and fertilizer mixer combined, at some suitable location in Chilton county, and in view of several inquiries on this subject I wish to say that it is my opinion that such an industry would be found very convenient to the large number of farmers adjacent to it, not only so, but profitably to the stock holders and surrounding community. There is much to be gained by reason of the close proximity to the raw material which is at our mill doors.

The cost of such plant as would be required would probably approximate $15000. which amount should be subscribed entirely by home capital. The gin owners should be liberal holders of stock and erect at each of their ginneries suitable storage rooms for the retention of cotton seed for the mill company.

Properly handled the amount of cash necessary to complete a plant of this kind should not exceed one-forth the total capital, and if operated by a conservative and efficient manager, should in my opinion meet the deferred installments against the stock for each holder after the second year, taking as a basis a plant of 15 tons daily capacity and estimating the profit on each ton to be about $7, which figures are the result of my investigation a short time ago.

If anything is done along this line I would be glad to become a stock holder and lend my aid to the best interest of the enterprise.

Sunday School Workers Delighted.

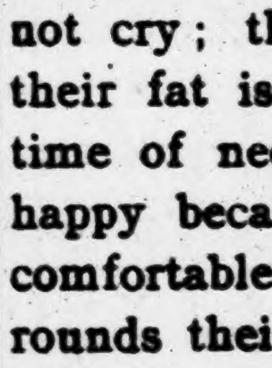
The Sunday school workers of Alabama will be delighted to know that they will have the privilege of hearing Prof. H. M. Hamill, D. D., Superintendent of the teacher training work of the Methodist Church, South, and Rev. I. J. Van Ness, D. D., editor of the Southern Baptist Sunday school literature, at the State Sunday School Convention at Birmingham, April 25-27. Some of the leading Sunday-school workers of Alabama have accepted places upon the program. The program of the Convention will be published shortly. Full information about the convention can be had by applying to Joseph Carthel, General Secretary, Montgomery, Ala., or R. F. Lewis, chairman, reception committee, Birmingham, Ala. Reduced rates have been granted on all railroads.

The members of the Clanton ball team have rented the old ball ground at West End and will organize their team later in the season, a very strong second nine will also be organized.

For Thin Babies

Fat is of great account to a baby; that is why babies are fat. If your baby is scrawny, Scott's Emulsion is what he wants. The healthy baby stores as fat what it does not need immediately for bone and muscle. Fat babies are happy; they do not cry; they are rich; their fat is laid up for time of need. They are happy because they are comfortable. The fat surrounds their little nerves and cushions them. When they are scrawny those nerves are hurt at every ungentle touch. They delight in Scott's Emulsion. It is as sweet as wholesome to them.

Send for free sample.



Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

Dear Editor—We come again kindly asking for a small space in your valued paper. Our souls are illuminated by those joyful suggestions of spring, which are making their daily appearance. The farmer by his early lights and greeting dawns; birds by their cheerful flits and merry songs; bees by their early response to morning dawns and the humming of cosy songs; flowers appearing here and there, do poland bore, to clothe and fragrant the bleak and desolate fields, which winter has laid in dispare; all welcoming and manifesting their appreciation for the coming of gentle spring. Yes, we are all glad to see the time come when we can lay aside our heavy shoes and burdensome clothes. Will say let us try to lay aside some of our last year's old sore sins, prejudice and hatred; turn a new leaf and do well.

The most successful term of school that has been taught at this place for a number of years, conducted by Miss Gatie Sims, came to a close on the night of the 11th, with a grand display of concert work. The exercises beginning at 7 o'clock and continuing about three hours, and during this time the great crowd, which soon became cheerful, feasted upon those good and tasteful elects as they fell from the lips of those sincere and generous hearted pupils, as well as the teacher. We would not fail to mention the elegant music which was made by Mr. John Grimes and son Ed. We were also delighted to have the presence as well as the assistance of Miss Etta Roper.

In concluding the service the great laughter, gleeful thoughts and merry faces were changed to the shedding of tears, sorrowful countenance and much regret, which seemed to be almost unbearable to the children, teacher, and even the patrons themselves realized what a sad thing it was for this family, which had been so firmly united, to separate. We would say to the kind teacher, pupils and all who would profit by this, to press onward and upward and continue this great work and when you shall have finished your career in this life, our prayer is may you all meet that common applause which will greet you, well done thou good and faithful servant, enter in. MEMORABILIA.

Jericho.

Last Wednesday night the charming young people gathered at the home of Mrs. Ollie Crews to attend the entertainment given in honer of her neice, Miss Ella Rinehart, each one reports swell times.

The picture of the bridge was a success, Mr. Lock is improving in the business.

The children of Jerico say they will feel gay once more right soon as the school will soon close, and we are sure Prof. Yeager will say the same.

Mrs. Fondrew, near this place, gave a dance in the presence of her many friends Friday night.

Plows are resting this week as there has been too much rain for the last few days.

Mr. Sie Harrison had a lively log pulling Tuesday last.

The string band at Jerico is doing splendid, although we miss Boss a whole lot yet.

Miss Zola Washbron spent a very pleasant night with Miss Stella Clinton last Wednesday night.

Mrs. Lou Clinton and and little daughter spent Friday in Belchers Town.

Quite a crowd got soaked in their hay ride Sunday afternoon.

Best wishes to the good Banner.

STILL WITH RUSSIANS

While the Retreat Has Temporarily Halted, the Japs Keep up With the Foe.

ATTACK MADE ON REAR GUARD.

Russian Army Blows Up All Railroad Bridges as They Go—Men Worn Out and Need Rest Badly.

Gunshu Pass.—The Russian retreat has reached the village of Sipinghai, seventy-four miles north of Tie Pass, where it has temporarily halted. The army has been practically without rest for months, and it is natural that fatigue should be evident. The Japanese are reported to be advancing on Sipinghai positions along the railroad and on both flanks.

A brisk action occurred near Kallynan at five places, the Russian rear guard beating off two heavy attacks which lasted until midnight.

After blowing up railroad bridges north of Kallynan at five places, the Russian retirement was continued March 19, 20 and 21, with only light rifle firing.

The Mukden branch of the Russo-Chinese bank removed all its moneys except $150,000.

Russians Occupy Sipinghai.

St. Petersburg.—The Russian rear guard is occupying a line of fairly strong natural positions thirty-four miles south of Gunshu Pass, the center being the railroad village of Sipinghai and the flanks covering the roads on either side, which apparently it is the intention to defend long enough to force the Japanese to show their hands.

The Russians may, however, have been outflanked, and have no intention of making a serious stand, especially as all the correspondents continue to report rumors of wide turning operations on both flanks, indicating a probable basis in fact. The correspondents believe a resumption of hostilities on a grand scale and an important battle are improbable inside of three months.

People to Take Part.

St. Petersburg—Interior Minister Bouligan's promise to the Moscow douma representatives, headed by Prince Galitzin, that representatives of the people will be allowed to participate in the deliberations of the commission which is to frame the new governmental assembly contemplated by the imperial rescript of March 3d, will be received with satisfaction by moderate liberals, and taken in connection with the announced concessions to Finland and Poland, indicates the government's intention to give heed to moderate demands. It is noticeable that M. Bouligan has left the manner of the selection of the popular representatives on the commission in the air, giving the government the opportunity to yield the point of election, instead of selection if the pressure should be too strong.

Rural Routes Established.

Washington, D. C.—Rural routes ordered established May 1: Center Grove, Morgan county, route 1, population 339, houses 97; Covin, Fayette county, route 1, population 340, houses 81; Greenville, Butler county, routes 1 and 2, population 1,329, houses 316. Hardy R. Speegle has been appointed regular, and Clay D. Speegle, substitute rural carrier, route 2, at Hartselle.

Saloonkeepers Bankrupt.

Huntsville, Ala.—S. P. Sullivan and B. F. Drake, saloonkeepers in the Decatur, filed voluntary petitions in bankruptcy in the United States court here. Neither of the petitioners has any assets and the liabilities of Drake amount to $3,034; those of Sullivan being $2,027.

Time Extended for Syrians.

Washington, D. C.—Minister Powell has cabled the state department from Port au Prince that the Haytien government by decree has extended from April 1 to May 15 the time allowed for Syrians holding forged naturalization American citizenship papers to withdraw from Hayti.

Two Men Killed in Wreck.

Jellico Junction, Tenn.—A freight train southbound on the Atlanta, Knoxville and Northern was wrecked near here. The engineer and fireman were caught beneath the engine and roasted to death.

Warships to Leave Cuba.

Havana—The celebration of the visit of American warships to Havana ended with a big American concert on the sea front and a carnival ball at the Cuban Anthenaeum. The torpedo boat destroyer MacDonough has arrived here in advance of Rear Admiral Barker's North Atlantic fleet. The latter will appear in front of Havana, being rejoined by the visiting squadron, will proceed to Pensacola.

Alabamian Fights Over a Girl.

Columbus, Ga.—With a girl standing between them begging them not to fight, Jim Harris, armed with a pistol, and Jim Tom Hudson, with a drawn brick, advanced upon each other in front of the Muscogee boarding house on Broad street. Both are young white men.

Harris had crossed the Chattahoochie river from Alabama in a batteau to see the girl, Lizzie Worthy, a factory operative, and anticipating trouble armed himself. A quarrel arose about the girl, it is said, and Harris fired at Hudson over the girl's shoulder, the bullett missing him, however. Harris then ran to the river bank, and when the police arrived had paddled back to the Alabama shore.

No Understanding Reached.

Altoona, Pa.—Without coming to an understanding on the wage scale, the joint scale committee of the coal operators and minors adjourned to meet here again Wednesday next.

Before adjourning the joint committee appointed Coal Operator James Kerr and National Secretary W. B. Wilson, of the miners' organization, to appear before the legislative committee at Harrisburg next Monday to protest against the proposed bill to tax coal mined in Pennsylvania three cents a ton.

Until the face of the pending bill is known it would be difficult, if not impossible, to agree on a wage scale for the miners. The tax proposed would mean the collection annually of $870,000 from the coal business of the state and neither operators nor miners are willing to assume that additional tax burden.

Guatemalan Revolution.

Mexico City.—A Mexican coasting vessel recently arrived at Muege, lower California, carrying several empty cases that has been filled with Mauser rifles. The captain declared that he had passed more than 100 similar cases floating on the water and that those on board had been picked up. It is believed that the rifles which the cases contained were furnished the forces that are now said to be planning an invasion of Guatemala.

It is asserted that another war in Guatemala is probable. Guatemalan rebels, in the guise of laborers, it is said, are congregating at various points along the Guatemalan frontiers. The government of Salvador is reported in readiness to aid the rebels as soon as a revolution is launched.

350 Mile Railroad.

Knoxville, Tenn.—W. J. Oliver, a Knoxville railroad contractor, has been awarded the contract to build the New Orleans Great Northern road running north from New Orleans along the Mississippi river a distance of 350 miles.

He is to begin work at once at Slidell and the road is to be completed within one year. Oliver refuses to say who is behind the enterprise or what town is to be the northern terminus. His only comment is that it is a bona fide proposition.

A trestle ten miles long will be a feature of the road. This trestle will cross Lake Ponchartrain. Mr. Oliver claims he has had the details for two months, but has not been allowed to mention it by the capitalists back of the enterprise until their plans were fully matured.

Time Was Extended.

Washington—Minister Powell has cabled the State Department from Port au Prince that the Haytien government by decree has extended from April 1 to May 15 the time allowed for Syrians holding forged naturalization American citizenship papers to withdraw from Hayti.

Twenty New Stars Found.

Santiago, Chile.—The astronomical Uexpedition sent out by D. O. Mills, of New York, is rapidly accomplishing its object. Twenty double stars have been discovered.

The Mills expedition was sent from New York observatory with the sole object of searching for new stars.

Will Use Oil.

Topeka, Kas.—The battleship Kansas will be christened by breaking a bottle of Kansas crude oil over its prow in the place of a bottle of champagne as is the usual custom. This is the idea of Governor Hoch as expressed by him.

The statement was made in a conversation with A. D. Eddy, general counsel for the Standard Oil Company.

Rural Routes for Alabama.

Washington, D. C.—Rural free delivery route No. 1 will be established May 1 at McKenzie, Butler county, serving 403 people and 96 houses.

Heroine Is Dead.

Langton, Ont.—Abigal Becker famed in song and story throughout Canada, is dead at her home at Walsingham Center.

Unaided she saved the crew of the schooner Conductor, wrecked at Long Point on Lake Erie in November, 1853.

For her bravery the government gave her a farm; Buffalo ship owners $1,000 and the New York Life Saving Association a gold medal.

OCEAN LINERS STRIKE

And the Passengers on Hugh Vessels are Thrown into a Panic.

TUGS COME TO THE RESCUE.

Albana Strikes the Parisian and Water Begins to Pour Into Both Vessels—Steer for the Pier.

Halifax, N. S.—Two great trans-Atlantic liners, the Parisian of the Allan line, and the Albano, a Hamburg-American boat, both bound in, heavily laden with passengers, collided off the harbor's entrance Saturday. Both were seriously damaged, but reached their docks, and landed their passengers safely. The Parisian's stern touched bottom as she reached her wharf, while constant pumping kept the Albano free.

Both steamers were from European ports, the Parisian from Liverpool, England, and Moville, and the Albano from Hamburg. The Parisian had on board a thousand passengers, many of whom were bound for another port, St. John, N. B. The Albano carried about 800 passengers, nearly all for Philadelphia.

Parisian Tries to Escape.

The Parisian arrived off the entrance to the harbor at dusk, and was taking a pilot on board, when the Albano was seen coming in from sea. As the Albano approached the officers of the Parisian realized that there was danger of a collision, and the engine rooms were signalled for full speed ahead. Before the Parisian could get under way, however, the Albano struck her on the starboard side, a short distance astern of the engine room, crushing in the great steel plates and opening up a hole through which the water poured into her.

The bow plates of the Albano were bent, and the stem was twisted, but the water-tight compartments were promptly closed, and her pumps set vigorously at work.

Headed in at Full Speed.

Immediately following the collision the steamers headed into the harbor at full speed, the Parisian with a heavy list to the starboard, and the Albano somewhat down at the head. The Parisian had considerable water in her stern, which was also sinking deeper as she steamed along. Both vessels whistled for help and every tug in the harbor responded, and as the Parisian appeared in greater danger, several ranged themselves alongside that vessel and assisted in the pumping.

The passengers on board both vessels begged that the tugboats take them off, but the little steamers clung tenaciously to the side of the liner and never left her until she was safe at her dock. Many of the passengers rushed excitedly about the decks, while others knelt in prayer. Within a few minutes all had been supplied with life preservers, while the life boats were ready for instant launching in case the vessels showed signs of foundering.

Suspense Was Intense.

The suspense of those on board the Parisian was intense. Great volumes of water were pouring into the vessel, the engines quivered with the exertion of running the vessel at top speed. Half way up the harbor her stern had settled many feet, and the list to starboard had become most pronounced, but the steamer kept on with the fleet of tugs alongside working to keep her afloat.

As the vessel came alongside her wharf lines were thrown out, gangplanks lowered, and a thousand passengers rushed to land as the stern of the vessel touched the bottom.

The Albano had a somewhat similar experience, although her pumps were able to keep her bow compartments fairly free, so that the alarm on board was not so great. The Albano, reached her dock a short time after the Parisian, and the passengers hurried ashore.

According to Captain Johnson, of the Parisian, the Albano was approaching from sea, signalled that she would pass astern of the Allan liner, but a moment later headed for the Parisian. Captain Johnson said that he rang orders to the engine room to go ahead full speed, and his vessel had just attained headway when the Albano struck the Parisian. The bow of the Albano smashed a hole twelve feet wide and extending from the rail to below the water's edge. After the collision, the Albano drew off and hastily securing a pilot followed the Parisian into port.

Fire at Anheuser-Busch Plant.

St. Louis, Mo.—The freight depot of the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association located in the center of its immense freight yards in the southern part of the city was totally destroyed by fire Sunday night, together with 17 refrigerator cars, the property of the St. Louis Refrigerating Car Company, of which Adolphus Busch is the president. The total loss is estimated at $125,000.

Had Just Attained Headway.

Meantime, the passengers of the Parisian became panic stricken. The deck was well filled with passengers, many of whom were immigrants, bound to the Canadian northwest. These rushed about the deck, women fainted, and there was a mad scramble for life preservers.

The Parisian is one of the finest steamers in the Allan fleet and carried on this trip 400 sacks of mail and 1,100 tons general cargo. An examination of her tonight showed the entire aft hold to be filled with water as far forward as the engine room compartment. She rests on mud bottom. On the opposite side of the same pier is berthed the Albano, with her twisted stern and damaged bow plates. It is believed that she can be temporarily repaired, so as to proceed on her voyage to Philadelphia.

Terribly Beaten.

Gadsden, Ala.—Odell Hately, 13 years old, was terribly beaten up Saturday by Jeff Hinds, aged 18, in the work room at the cotton mill of the Dwight Manufacturing Company in Alabama City. Hately was found unconscious at his work and taken home, it being supposed that he had been caught in the machinery, although his clothing did not show this.

Hately's head and face were terribly beaten and bruised and his skull fractured, a piece of skull one inch wide and four inches long being removed. Hately rallied after several hours and stated that he had been assaulted by Jeff Hinds, who beat him with a heavy piece of steel.

Murderer Captured.

Scottsboro, Ala.—T. J. Harrison, who shot and instantly killed Thomas Lynnville last December at Section on Sand Mountain, was captured on Wednesday morning on Sand Mountain near the DeKalb county line by Messrs. J. W. Grisenhall and Jim and John Reed, his near neighbors, who had been watching Harrison's house for several nights, having gotten word that he had returned to his old haunts. There was an outstanding reward of $250 for his arrest.

Inter-Country Electric Line.

Selma, Ala.—The next inter-country enterprise that will spring into existence in this part of Alabama and one which will probably pave the way for other similar ones, will be an electric car line from Selma to Marion.

A subscription list headed by the wealthiest and most prosperous business men of both Selma and Marion will be started probably next week, and it is believed that it will not be long before work on the talked-of road will begin. A crude estimate on the cost of the electric car line is $200,000.

Making Charcoal Iron.

Shelby, Ala.—The Shelby Iron Co. has blown in their No. 2 furnace at Shelby, manufacturing charcoal iron again after a shut down of five months. There is an increased demand for charcoal iron, car wheel works and others using this class of iron needing raw material.

Wreck on the L. and N. Road.

Selma, Ala.—The Friday night Louisville and Nashville train from Flomaton, due in this city at 6:35 p. m., didn't arrive until nearly 6 o'clock, having been delayed by a wreck near Repton.

Six cars of freight were derailed near Repton, and it required several hours for the wrecking train at Pensacola, Fla., to get to the scene and clear the track.

Kills His Bride.

Atlanta, Ga.—A special from Jasper, Ga., says a young man named Glazier killed his bride Saturday evening, and that a posse is in pursuit of him to avenge the deed.
